The infantrymen called in artillery and napalm air strikes only to 50-100 yards ahead of them as they advanced into the hamlet of Ap Long Mue about 30 miles northwest of Saigon near the district town of Trang Bang.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces have reported killing 396 Viet Cong in the Trans Bang area since Sunday. Southern allied casualties were described as light.

Flanked by a picture symbolizing the principle behind "crossroads" Miss Dawn Marshall and John Bradshaw chat about the success of their project to sell tulip bulbs to enable young people to go to Africa for three months. Miss Marshall is holding an article she obtained during her stay there.

'Crossroads' Role Outlined

About 200 persons attended a public meeting in Bridge Street United Church Sunday School Auditorium last night to hear John Bradshaw, columnist, radio personality and horticulturalist speak and introduce two other speakers who have been involved in North America to Africa series of good-will tours.

Miss Dawn Marshall and Dr. Lawrence Nkemdirim, ones a part of "Operation Crossroads" were at the meeting to explain the project and its results.

"Operation Crossroads" is the title applied to three-month trips to Africa taken by students or career people usually between the ages of 20 and 25. Their purpose is one of friendship and understanding applied practically to assisting Africans in their projects on their own continent.

An Interdenominational project, Canada sends about 40 such people to Africa every year. To raise money for the project Canadian AUTS Men's Clubs are selling a tulip bulb at the rate of five for $1. The bulbs are now on sale and will be sold by the clubs through April. The target is to sell about 100,000 bulbs.

Miss Marshall mentioned the relationship between Africans and Canadians when she spoke before the audience in the meeting.

"Many Canadians go back to underdeveloped countries permanently afterwards. We have a fair influence upon the youth of Africa."

"We conveyed that we weren't what North Americans are supposed to be," she said. "It's the friendship and understanding that's important."

Dr. Lawrence Nkemdirim, an African participant in the "crossroads" project, mentioned the building of a market place for the people.

He explained that he was asked to be a crossroader the first time but the second time he didn't have to be asked. "I just went".

According to Dr. Nkemdirim there were endless fights between the Africans and Americans about what to eat. "It usually ended in compromise. We were going to understand the difficulties."

The "crossroaders" are paid no salary while in Africa and they supply 50% of their own money in addition to the $1,100 that is given them when they go.

James' Inquest

Bell, Whistle Sounded: CN Crew

BRIGHTON — A jury inquiring into the Sept. 1 death of a 15-year-old Trenton area girl has recommended that all driveways leading to private railway crossings be cleared of any obstruction hampering a clear view of the tracks.

The jury ruled that 15-year-old Rhonda James died from head injuries received the previous day when her father's car was struck by a CNR work train in front of their R.R.4 Trenton home. (A brother, 21-year-old Reginald James, also died in hospital following the car-train mishap).

The early - morning accident occurred on a private crossing over a driveway, running from the James home to highway 33.

The jury heard contradictory police and railway witness testimony. Sgt.-F. C. McKendry of the Brighton Provincial Police detachment, the first inquest witness, said lack of co-operation from the crew and the five-car train was a hindrance in the investigation of the crash.

"I endeavored to interview six members of the train crew and questions met with stubborn refusal."

"I was informed the CNR handbook forbade divulging any information except in the presence of the employer," Sgt. McKendry told the five-member jury panel.

Five train crew members testified they were only asked "routine" questions, and volunteered their names and addresses.

The engineer, James Robert Gray of Belleville, admitted under questioning by Crown Attorney Kenneth Stubington that he did refuse to answer some police questions at the crash scene.

"Yes I did. We're instructed by the company to give only factual information. And we were all emotionally upset after being in a collision like that."

Engineer Gray testified he wasn't sure how many people were in the locomotive cab — "About four or five" — and said no one noticed the James' car crossing the tracks until "we were about 60 feet away from it."

The train's bell had been ringing since the Wellington-bound unit left Trenton, the engineer testified, and the whistle was sounded about a "quarter of a mile" from the crash in ward a car using another of the series of private roadways along that stretch of tracks.

"Is there any rule about how many people there should be in the cab, a juror asked?

"Not to my knowledge," said Mr. Gray, "As long as they're employed."

Assistant Roadmaster, Gerald Rosborough of Belleville, was standing directly behind the engineer that morning.

"One of the lads said 'there's a car' and the emergency brake was immediately thrown on."

Mr. Rosborough and other crew members agreed the train's bell had been ringing continuously since leaving Trenton and that the whistle had been sounded for another car just prior to the accident.

"We always blow for public road crossings but we're not supposed to at private crossings." Mr. Rosborough estimated there were "12 or 14" private driveways along the mile stretch of track near the James residence.

Focal point of the jury's recommendation is a tree row running parallel to the tracks that blocks the view in front of several residences in the area. Mr. Everett James who was driving his wife, Della, Rhonda, Reginald and nephew Paul Hare to the CNE in Toronto that day said the tree row and a wire fence obstructed the view of the tracks.

But it was only "once in a blue moon" that the daily work train would not pass in the ten-thirty to noon period. Mr. and Mrs. James have lived in the R.R. 4 Trenton home for 14 years.

"Normally you can hear the train coming all the way down the track, but none of us heard anything. Just as we reached the tracks my nephew yelled 'There's the train.'

"I thought I could miss it, but that was it. I didn't hear any whistle."

All five occupants of the James car were taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital where Rhonda and Reginald died the following morning.

In his summation to the jury and coroner Dr. W. G. Elliott, Crown Attorney Stubington, said he was concerned about police testimony that the train crew was "loath" to give information concerning the accident at the scene.

"The driver of a car involved in an accident is compelled to give such information to police, but the Highway Traffic Act doesn't apply to railways."

It is expected Brig.-Gen. Morrison will take up a NORAD posting at Richards Gebaur Air Force Base in Kansas City, U.S.A.

The airforce spokesman said arrangements are being made for a handover ceremony and parade.

Break In Strike Imminent

TWEED — Conjecture that a break might be imminent in the nine-day-old strike at Sawyer Stoll Lumber Company was raised today as workers and management were reported meeting.

However, no details on the discussion — scheduled for 2 p.m. — were available from either members of the striking International Woodworkers of America local 2336 or Sawyer Stoll management.

The meeting was confirmed by local president Gerard Latadire.

About 30 workers at the lumber plant struck March 18 after negotiations for higher pay and other benefits broke down.

After the walkout sales manager Steve Leti wanted the company — worth about $2,000,000 annually to this village in salaries and services — could not survive more than a two-week shutdown.

IN MEMORIAM

BAKER — In memory of a dear husband and father, Albert Hugh Baker, who passed away March 27th, 1965.
For the quarter of a century that was ours
—Mrs. A. H. Baker and family.

CHAMPAGNE — In fond and loving memory of Joseph Alfred Champagne who passed away March 27, 1965.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears of memory fall in vain,
For memory keeps you ever near us,
Though you have gone again.
—Lovingly remembered by the family.

GRIFFIN — In loving memory of our dear son, Michael Griffin, who passed away March 27th, 1962.
Oh happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness,
For which there is no cure.
—Sadly remembered by her husband P. A. Griffin.

MARACLE — In loving memory of our dear father, Jacob Maracle, who passed away March 27th, 1950.
Sweet memories are all we have left behind.
—Never forgotten by son Don, daughter-in-law Helen and grandchildren.

MARACLE — In loving memory of our dear father, Jacob Maracle, who passed away March 27, 1950.
We, the ones he left behind,
We were all together,
Yet we were apart,
Thinking of you forever and forever.
A loving father tender and kind,
Memories of you we have left behind.
—Never forgotten by son Don, daughter-in-law Helen and grandchildren.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Gladys Bonisteel wish to thank Monsignor Sullivan, Father Carey, Father Cunningham, Sister of St. Joseph, St. Michael's Convent for their acts of kindness during the illness and recent loss of our mother. We also thank the nurses, nursing assistants, doctors, ward aids and nurses, nursing assistants, doctors, ward aids and orderlies for their care and attention. Many thanks to O'Brien Funeral Home, our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness and sympathy, flowers and cards.

Once again thank you
The Rich family.

Cheesemakers Advised to Advertise

To thrive in today's complex business world they must promote—then promote some more.

The message was aimed at local makers of cheese—once the biggest Quinte industry — from contrasting sources: a veteran civil servant and a young dairy princess.

The message was aired at the annual Spring conference of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association at the Sun Valley Motor Inn.

The dairy industry should promote its products to "the very limit," emphasized J. L. Baker, Ontario Commissioner.

"Advertising is the key," added Gail Thompson, Hastings County dairy princess.

Mr. Baker added the tag at the end of a lengthy resume of synthetic imitation products now appearing on the market.

"It behooves the dairy industry to come out with one of the biggest promotion campaigns to sell; and to sell milk products to the very limit," he stressed.

Miss Thompson noted that advertising was a key factor in other industries and the example should be followed in the cheese business.

The consumer must be made aware of its market presence, its nutritional value and the real meaning of price differences.

"We must make them realize that inferior prices often mean inferior products," said the dairy princess.

Radio and television commercials are the best form of advertising, believed Miss Thompson.

"A well-timed commercial will help the industry far more than people can say," she said.

"Advertising is the key of any industry's future — even more so with dairy products."

Mr. Baker told the cheesemakers the provincial government would keep an "open mind" while watching the increase of dairy synthetics on the market.

"Well watch carefully, keeping in mind the economy of the dairy industry and the whole agricultural picture and if it's necessary to change legislation we'll do it," he said.

However, no synthetics so far had broken government marketing legislation.

The growing array of imitation dairy - products included dips, coffee whiteners, desserts and ice creams.

He also cited the classic dairy synthetic — margarine — as an example of imitation failing to bear out the industry's worst fare.

Today margarine still is not served in most restaurants — "even on the greasy spoon level, if you'll pardon that expression."

A similar pattern evolved for one manufacturer of imitation coffee-cream in Ontario said Mr. Baker.

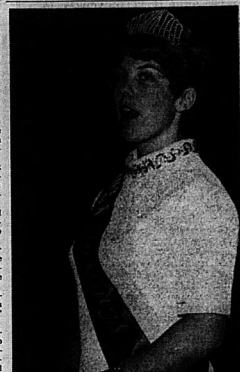
Despite the fact, the maker was not "ashamed" of the product and labelled it accordingly, there is currently little restaurant demand.

"They're finding that restaurants in a good many cases are reticent about using this," he added.

During the afternoon session the cheesemakers also viewed samples of cheese artificially colored at Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology.

Purpose of the tests was to discover means of heightening the color of winter cheese, generally paler than the summer variety, said O. R. Irvine, head of the college's dairy division.

A key element in the coloring tests was turmeric.



"The feeling is there would be a better demand for winter cheese if we could test it just a little bit to imitate summer cheese," the meeting was told.

Synthetics Sell

Synthetics are entering the food market in an increasing abundance, Central Ontario Cheesemakers were told in Belleville yesterday. Ontario government dairy commissioner J. L. Baker discussed current trends challenging dairy industry.

Advertise!

Advertising is one key to future success. The message was stressed yesterday to Central Ontario Cheesemakers' conference by Hastings County dairy princess Gail Thompson.

Days of Mammoth Plants Over Says Northern Electric Head

No big boost in employment is projected in the near future by Belleville's biggest employer — Northern Electric.

In fact, official thinking — as far as Northern is involved — is against huge plant complexes.

These were the indications last night from Northern national president V. O. Marquer as he visited Belleville to speak to the Industrial Management Club at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Mr. Marquez intimated that Northern does not foresee any wholesale increase in its Belleville branch operations.

However, ventures in satellite communications may sophisticate production and research techniques at the Belleville outlet.

As for expansion generally, the days of the mammoth plant are over.

Northern originally located in Montreal. Today that initial venture has grown to an operation of close to 6,000.

"We never have a plant like that today," said Mr. Marquez in an interview. "What you have to have ideally is a situation large enough to have an impact on the community, but small enough so it does not dominate the community.

"More and more we're living in a society where people don't want to feel they're pawns in a chess game.

Education also is more than the key to personal progress. It also is a community ace in attracting local industrial assessment, said Mr. Marquez.

"We came to Belleville 20 years ago and now I'd come to a city like this for a variety of reasons.

"We look for the availability of competent people. And we look for an educational background that will produce people who can be fitted into our system."

Change was a keynote of Mr. Marquez' formal address, during which he specifically emphasized the emergence of modern youth.

"For years we've been saying that we want our young people to think for themselves," he said. "Now they have begun exactly that and we don't know how to cope with the result. We find that when they think for themselves they don't always think like us."

The change has reacted on parents, industrial and labor management.

"The problem we face in communicating with youth is an important one," he stressed. "But, it is still only one example of the many difficulties we face in perceiving change and responding to it."

There are lessons for the ladies at the Electric Showtime exhibit which opened in Belleville last night. Jen Dutton, Ontario Hydro home economist dispenses helpful cooking hints.

Quinte Electric Clubs Sponsor Fine Exhibit

A hit movie and home-cooking have one thing in common in Belleville this week: The All-Electric Showtime exhibit.

The display, aimed at promoting the electric industry and informing the public opened a three-night stand at the Tiki Club last night.

About 20 exhibitors are included in the show, oriented toward the householder and sponsored by the Quinte Electric Clubs.

Contractors, business firms and utilities organizations are among the participants.

When interest in electricity has been exhausted or all the answers have been obtained from the experts, there's still more to see.

High on the entertainment list is the movie Ontario, the film commissioned by the provincial government for its Expo pavilion which took the world fair by storm.

For the ladies there are tips in home-cooking, with Ontario Hydro home economist Jen Dutton on stage.

Child Struck by Car, Dies

TRENTON — A Campbell St. boy, believed to be four years old, died instantly this morning after he apparently ran into the path of a car.

Police said, Donald Drake, 61 Campbell St., was struck by a car driven by Robert Kenny, 30, of 346 Dufferin Ave. in front of Brown's Radio and T.V. service on Byron St.

Dr. Brock Dingent pronounced the child dead at the scene.

Mountain of Junk Vehicles Heading for Blast Furnaces

TRENTON — The spectacular mountain of junk cars that catches the eye of drivers along North Sidney St., is heading for the blast furnaces in about two weeks.

The total accumulation over a period of time in this particular pile amounts to nearly 4,000 models of all makes and designs.

The prodigious task facing the Gregory brothers operators of the Sidney Auto Wreckers and includes setting fire to the chassis to remove all non-metallic materials from them, pressing the burned out hulks flat seven at a time and finally loading the processed bodies packaged in bundles on trucks for shipping.

The steel reclaimed from the wrecks returns to the market in the form of new cars and a number of other items including war equipment and materials some of which eventually reach the battlefield in Vietnam.

Corby Contract Approved

Distillery Manager, George C. MacDonald and Local 96, President, Arthur Austin announced last week that negotiations between H. Corby Distillery Limited and Local 96, of the Distillery, Rectifying, Wine and Allied Workers International Union of America have been completed.

Under the new agreement all hourly paid employees will receive a fifty-one (.51) cent an hour increase over the next three years, plus additional hourly increase through classification changes and a cost of living bonus.

Vacations have been improved to give three (3) weeks after 8 years, four (4) weeks after 18 years and five (5) weeks after 25 years.

Other changes include increased daily shift premiums and Saturday work bonuses, increased Sunday overtime rates and a reduction in the length of the trial period before employees are placed on seniority.

The agreement is retroactive to October 1st, 1967.

A Question of Rights

In an era when obscenity in much of what is offered in contemporary reading matter is commonplace, definition of obscenity nonetheless can become a source of debate.

Hence the big palaver some years ago over the novel Lady Chatterly's Lover, a tiresome work by D. H. Lawrence that assumed a literary value far in excess of its real worth. Ultimately the book came up for judicial investigation on the issue of whether it was fit reading for the general public. That alone of course was enough to guarantee its popularity.

What is significant in this context however is the role of the judiciary in questions of morals. In the report of the royal commission on civil rights there is a passage regarding admission into self-governing professions and occupations.

Morals, it would appear from a reading of this passage, have little to do with either family or religious training. As in the following: "The requirement of good moral character is to the ethical aspect of a profession what the educational standards are to competence. To state the requirement is one thing, but to apply it is another.

"Moral weaknesses are seldom apparent and they often only become manifest when the individual is exposed to the problems arising in the profession or occupation involved. It is extremely difficult, if not impossible, to detect future moral risks.

"Notwithstanding the difficulties of application, it is nevertheless necessary to have standards of good moral character where bodies are given the power of self-government. The determination of moral instability, like the determination of other standards, is essentially a judicial decision and an applicant should only be refused admission on this ground after being afforded a hearing."

In the volume in which this weighty passage appears, incidentally, is one of three detailed works published by the commission. They are among the thousands of publications put out by the government at the taxpayers' expense. And yet it is likely the long-suffering taxpayer, often unaware of his rights in any number of situations, who probably benefits least from such tortuous releases.

Over-reliance on Firepower

North Vietnamese Exploit Weakness in U.S. Strategy

An AP News Analysis
By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP)-Gen. William C. Westmoreland will be remembered for one tactic above all others in Vietnam—his use of massive firepower. Some Americans here are highly critical of it.

"This is the first war in history that its infantryman has been used to support the artillery and the air strikes, and not the other way around," a U.S. battalion commander said early in 1967.

In the strategy of the U.S. commander, who will leave here in July to become U.S. Army chief of staff in Washington, American units pull back whenever contact with the enemy is made, then aircraft and artillery are called in to do the job that infantry did in other wars.

This strategy has served its basic purpose of saving the lives of American and South Vietnamese troops at each battle scene.

But more and more observers are beginning to question the wisdom of the relentless use of firepower that has scarred the countryside, obliterated hamlets, and lately contributed to the destruction of as much as 50 per cent of some major Vietnamese cities.

"All that heavy stuff on our side tends to give a U.S. infantry commander a comfy feeling," said an infantry staff officer. "He will use it against a sniper, if necessary.

"It builds a defensive stance in us, permitting the enemy the offensive."

Another officer with two years experience in Vietnam said:

"Every effort is made to keep losses down. But without the infantry follow-through, a jungle battle will never result in victory for us."

A senior civilian with military experience assailed what he felt were the overly defensive tactics of U.S. field commanders.

"They tell you that Vietnam is not really worth an American life. But look at the casualties, how they double and triple each year. American boys are dying, and we either go it all the way with winning tactics or pull out."

During the post-lunar new year military activities, five enemy regiments were deployed in the Cu Chi, Saigon, Bien Hoa zone during all of February, yet only six American battalions and six South Vietnamese battalions were deployed against them.

"Our units were in contact each day, all day," one American said. "but instead of helicoptering in all our other battalions, we used air and artillery.

"The countryside was black with smoke. When it cleared the (enemy) regiments had departed back to their jungle war zones, bloodied but not destroyed. They are weak now but they'll be back."

Asked why he thought more troops were not committed, the American said:

"I suppose it was the casualty thing. To destroy those enemy regiments would have taken a lot of American lives. Personally, I think politics came into that decision like it comes into all the decisions over here. Too many casualties add up to a bad image with the public—at least that is what is thought at the highest level."

Reliance on firepower is seen as the flaw in American tactics that the North Vietnamese defence minister, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, counted on in planning the lunar new year offensive.

"He sat and watched for 2½ years, sizing us up, losing thousands of men in frontal assaults on our fire bases, in the mountains and on the plains," one of those experienced observers said.

"He waited. Then he found what he was looking for. Our Achilles heel. He saw that each night American units either secreted themselves deep in their base camps or huddled in fire bases.

"No real night operations are run by American units. So the Communists figured they could send their troops at night right around the Americans, and also the Vietnamese troops who have squatted in outposts for years.

"The Communist high command figured that in this manner it could move large units right to the gates of the major cities. And they were right. They also figured they could remain in these highly populated areas by digging in deep and braving the American air and artillery strikes. They took a lot of casualties this way, but not enough to annihilate them. Only infantry could have done that."

"This concept of using firepower to save American boys is deeply ingrained in those running the Vietnam war," one said.

President Johnson, in announcing Friday night the new assignment in Washington for the 54-year-old Westmoreland, did not say who will succeed him in Vietnam.

Malaya and Vietnam

When the communist guerrilla menace was at its height in Malaya some 20 years ago, the British sent General Gerald Templer to command the British and Commonwealth troops fighting the guerrillas.

By rigorous disciplining of the Allied side and putting it on a proper war footing, Templer defeated the guerrillas at their own game and finally rid Malaya of this threat to its security.

What are the general's views on Vietnam? "If the Americans pull out of Vietnam the communists will take over the whole of Southeast Asia. Burma, India, right up to the Caspian Sea would go."

Templer — now Field Marshal Sir Gerald Templer — went further. "An American withdrawal," he said, "would have absolutely disastrous effects, not only in the Far East but further afield."

But how to win that perplexing war? That is another thing. He attributed Britain's success to the fact it had had a presence in Malaya since the 1870s and had built up a local civil service with an increasing number of Asians.

"You cannot win these sort of wars with bullets. You can only win the people over, by capturing their hearts and minds."

From this we can only conclude that, unless there is some spectacular change in the fortunes of the Americans in Vietnam, it is going to take a long time. For one thing, as a result of the recent communist offensive the so-called "pacification" program in the Vietnamese countryside has been virtually abandoned.

Youth to the Fore

Congratulations to the Belleville youngsters of the Minnor Hockey Association who are showing the flag in Peewee and Bantam competition.

There was an Arnold Palmer touch in Belleville Smith Fuel's journey to the finals at the weekend. They came from behind to beat Barrie and enter the final for the second year running. Now they meet Wallaceburg for the Ontario championship they won last year against Sarnia.

Carrying the bantams torch is the Belleville Kinsmen team which incidentally features some of last year's peewee stalwarts. They now meet the winners of the Wallaceburg - Owen Sound semi-finals for the all-Ontario bantam title.

What's A Million?

The Awesome Cost of Bilingualism

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It's costing something more than $1,000,000 to make 30 senior federal civil servants bilingual.

That's the cost figure quoted by the new and special "Language Division" of the Public Service Commission.

It's less than one quarter of the total cost of Ottawa's bilingual and bicultural "school" program for the federal civil service.

For it's taking a staff of 239 and $4,723,600 this year—as says the Finance Department's Estimates — to teach French and English to Civil Servants.

It's quite a staff, too, comprising at the top, one senior officer drawing between $20,000 and $25,730: two others in the $18,500 to $21,250 bracket; five in the $18,000 to $19,000 class; 27 in the $14,000 to $16,000 level; 187 in the $12,000 to $14,000 group and 33 in the $10,000 to $12,000 category.

That's 272 above the $10,000 level.

The total $4,723,400 lab for the schools — one each in Toronto, Quebec City and Sal. Maurice Ritte in the Laurentians and six in Ottawa — is only part of the price of civil service bilingualism.

To get the full financial picture, the cost of the seven percent salary bonus paid bilingual clerks, secretaries and stenographers is required — and so far there's nothing official on this, not even a rough estimate.

The "school" program, rather than the "bonus" is the interesting aspect of civil service bilingualism.

The six language schools in Ottawa are for part - time on-the-job instruction.

Quite different is the live-the-language program provided for senior civil service hands in Toronto and Quebec City.

These 30 "Mandarins," as bureaucrats of deputy, assistant and associate deputy rank are known — the 10 in Toronto and 20 in Quebec City — are living with their families at government expense.

They closed their Ottawa homes, renting them or leaving them vacant and guarded by government - paid security forces, and moved to new houses and apartments, provided for them, at public expense, in Quebec City and Toronto.

In Quebec City the government bought 17 houses outright for them and pays the rent for three apartments.

In Toronto nine houses were purchased and one apartment provided.

At Toronto the French-speaking Mandarins attend York University and in Quebec City the English - speaking bureaucrats attend Laval while their families enter into the cultural life of the city.

Everything is paid by the government, their salaries, their college language courses, schooling for the children, living expenses, even the cost of recreation and entertainment.

The idea is that the French-speaking Mandarins and their families "live English" for a year in Toronto and their opposite English numbers "live French" in Quebec City.

And "living the language" means speaking it at all times, at classes of course, in the home, at the supermarket, the theatre, the club — everywhere always.

Even more interesting is another language "program" as the bilingual is called, being conducted in holiday resort luxury and comfort of L'Esterelle, a ski lodge at Ste. Marguerite nort. of Montreal in the Laurentians.

The place is posh. Heated outdoor pool for after - ski plunges, gourmet menus, dancing every night, two bars — the whole wonderful live-it-up works.

Senior Civil Servants — the class just under the top - most Mandarin level — go there for "total language immersion" courses that run five fun weeks.

They take the plunge 20 in a class, and have been getting their language instruction on the snowy slopes, in the pool. bar, dining room and on the dance floor since January of last year.

It started out as a winter thing, but has been such a rollicking success it's going on as 17 months schedule, with golf trail ridging, water skiing and other fun-in-the-sun stuff substituting in summer for winter time ski-dooling, skiing and other joys-of-the-snows.

And in figuring the cost of the French-English bill — and it does work two ways — don't just count the seven per cent language bonus and the $4,723,600 for the nine schools.

Better ad in the tab for the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism, a creation of Prime Minister Pearson, which still going strong after five years approaches the $8,000,000 line.

It Does Not Pay to

Windsor Star

When man interferes with the cycles of nature, the cure is often worse than the disease.

Starlings, now a growing pest, were introduced to North America as ornamental and song birds. Rabbits brought to Australia multiplied so swiftly, because of a lack of natural enemies, that they became terrible nuisances. And there are many other instances of man stupidly interfering with nature and bringing totally unforeseen results.

Now a new type of interference has developed, and again the cure is worse than the disease.

When the huge tanker Torrey Canyon broke up off southwest England, its cargo of oil wreaked heavy damage to beaches, shore installations, and bird and marine life. One of the remedies tried was the dumping of several million gallons of detergent to dissolve the oil. It succeeded partly, although the oil damage was high. But now the harm done by the detergent itself is being found to be as great as the oil damage.

Fish, lobsters, and other sea creatures were particularly hard hit by the detergent. Even the birds which feed on sea-life forms of marine life suffered. It is estimated that it will take at least five years before sea life in the affected areas returns to normal.

Detergents, incidentally, are the chemicals which are poured on land by the ton annually to clean clothes, dishes and other household articles, causing clouds of foam at rapids and other swift-running areas but generally undetected otherwise. If they can cause such havoc in the wide spaces of the ocean, what must their effect be in confined inland waters?

U.S. Avoids Trade With Reds

Victoria Daily Times

Canadians naturally object to any interference by interests outside the country with trade in products originating in Canada. Mr. Theodore C. Sorensen, former chief adviser to President Kennedy, shows the other side of the coin. By rejecting business with Communist countries of Eastern Europe, he points out, the United States foregoes a growing market into which many of her friends are chancelling goods. In 1967 United States trade with Eastern Europe amounted to $372 million, which was 2.7 per cent of the country's total world-wide trade.

Yet last year, Eastern Europe's trade with Western countries amounted to 16 billions, 20 per cent more than in the preceding year, which, in turn, was 20 per cent more than the year before. In hard, economic terms, that means that the United States is sacrificing its own commercial interests to the benefit of Western Europeans and Canadians.

Lazy Life More Harm Than Good

Peterborough Examiner

Watch out for sudden rests, say the scientists. If you are not used to sitting around doing nothing for long periods of time a lazy holiday could kill you.

This is the warning of Dr. Beatrix Tuckwether who works with the famous Dr. Hans Selye on stress experiments at the University of Montreal's institute of medicine and experimental surgery. In a speech in Toronto, she pointed out that for those who are accustomed to going all-out, inactivity can be fatal. Stress, she says, can protect you from disease. Its sudden removal can leave you unprotected.

The obvious implication is that, just as skiers prepare themselves for winter with stiff exercises, those contemplating an extended Florida vacation should get into shape with a program of stiff morning exercises. Anyway it's a thought.

Education Motivation Environment

Washington Post

When Stokely Carmichael asked Roosevelt High School students whether white or Negro students got the better education a student answered: "You get the education you want to get."

It is an answer that does credit to the youngster who made it and one that correctly states the situation for the highly motivated student in even a bad school and for the normal student in a good school. But when motivation has been impaired by an environment of hardship and poverty, even the good school may not succeed and the bad one is almost certain to fail.

Growth Problems Facing Toronto Are Matched in Belleville

Is Belleville leading the pack of larger cities in finding solutions to urban blight and traffic congestion?

Yesterday, Metro Toronto was "urged to turn its downtown into a walker's world," by resident cars, adding more rapid transit and expressways and constructing mid - block walkways.

"We had the idea first," claims architect Paul Wiegand. "But they'll probably beat us in putting the plan into effect."

Mr. Wiegand drew up the Magic Circle plan for Belleville's urban renewal two years ago. The plan calls for a one - way traffic artery encircling the downtown area by means of Pinnacle St. and the proposed riverside drive on the Moira River's east bank. From St. would be closed to traffic and turned into a pedestrian mall. On completion of the Dundas St. project, the street will become an east-west expressway routing traffic away from the downtown area.

"Toronto suffers from lack of sufficient planning in the past," says Fred Deacon, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce urban development committee which is promoting the Magic Circle plan.

"Now, it has decided to follow our example and plan for orderly development. At the same time, we can learn from Toronto's growth patterns and plan to avoid its mistakes."

Essential differences in the Magic Circle and Metro plans were dictated by the size of the two populations. Toronto wants to move parking away from the downtown area and replace cars with subways. It envisions the downtown area becoming the city's wealthiest and most exclusive residential area.

"We can't stop downtown employees from driving to work, or keep cars entirely out of the valley of the river," says Mr. Deacon. "We have pencilled in parking at the rear of stores and around the perimeter of the circle."

"Success of the urban renewal scheme hinges on improved public transportation," claims Mr. Wiegand. "As the city grows, its people will have to overcome to some extent their habit of going downtown in cars."

Neither man could see high-rise luxury apartments along the river front in the near future. Both agreed the downtown area is a good location for middle-class housing, especially for the retired.

"You can see the trend already," Mr. Deacon says. "We have two large apartment buildings on Victoria Ave. at George St. and at John St. and the senior citizens' housing on Turnbull St. Perhaps someday we will see a high-rise apartment on Front St. with a shopping arcade at street level like the Colonade in Toronto."

"The theme of our Magic Circle scheme is the same as Metro Toronto's plan — to get the automobile out of the city's front room," Mr. Deacon continues. "City council exhibited great foresight in undertaking the Dundas St. expressway to funnel traffic away from Front St. and solve downtown traffic congestion."

"Our job now is to sell our plan to Proctor-Redfern, the urban renewal consultants hired by the city. They will study the financial aspects and come up with more concrete proposals and suggestions for phasing the work."

Mr. Deacon, who has spoken to about 25 city organizations on the Magic Circle, says he has found widespread general acceptance of the need for the plan.

"Expo has influenced the public to see the need for better planning of our streets," Mr. Wiegand thinks. "Its influence will be felt more and more as cities embark on schemes such as Belleville and Toronto plan."

Urban renewal is more than just a dream in the city. Council has earmarked $100,000 this year to begin work. Senior government grants will increase the total to $400,000.

Money is the factor that will determine how soon downtown Belleville will be given back to the people.

Quinte Member Favors Lake Ontario Water

Urging Belleville utilities officials to decide on Lake Ontario water supplies, he said the matter should be pursued closely with the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Dr. Potter remarks follow reports that no decision will be taken for at least a month on measures to offset feared future water shortages.

The city's public utilities commission must decide whether to go the Bay of Quinte or fall in with an OWRC proposal for a Lake Ontario pipeline.

"I think it should be pointed out that the Bay of Quinte is, and always will be a poor source of water," commented Dr. Potter.

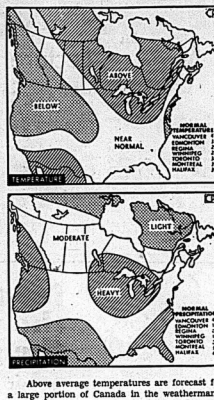
Given if Belleville's filtration system is enlarged it would not change the quality of Bay water, he said.

Such a project would be a financial waste, the MPP believed.

They'd find that five years or so later they'd have to go to Lake Ontario anyway, cautioned Dr. Potter. "I think we should pursue the OWRC proposals much farther and make sure we don't make any mistake on this."

Lighting Is Blamed For Death

After nearly seven hours of testimony and deliberation a five - man coroner's jury last night attributed the December death of Carolyn Campbell to poor lighting on College St.



Miss Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Campbell of 62 Lennox St., was struck by a car driven by Eugene V. Cameron, 53, as she was walking on College St. near Quinte Secondary School.

The jury heard testimony from 18 witnesses and finally reached a decision at 2.30 this morning blaming the child's death on the lighting.

The jury said that although they couldn't prove Cameron was intoxicated it seemed he had been drinking and was off the road.

A chemist from the Centre of Forensic Sciences earlier testified that Cameron had consumed the equivalent of 16 pints of beer.

A recommendation to have the white dividing line on College St. painted was also made by the jury which took two hours to reach their decision.

Above average temperatures are forecast for a large portion of Canada in the weatherman's 30-day temperature and precipitation outlook. Ontario's higher temperatures are expected to be accompanied by heavy precipitation. (CP Newsmap)

MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA ANNOUNCEMENT

D. F. Ferguson, C.L.U.

P. C. McGuire, C.L.U.

The Mutual Life of Canada has announced the appointment of Donald F. Ferguson, Fort William, as Manager of its Belleville branch succeeding Percy C. McGuire, who is retiring on March 31st. Mr. McGuire will, however, continue to represent the Company and serve his personal clientelle. Mr. McGuire has had a very distinguished career as a personal life underwriter and branch manager with The Mutual Life in the past 41 years. He joined the Company's sales force at Stirling in 1927, became Agency Supervisor in January 1935, and was appointed Branch Manager in April, 1948.

Mr. Ferguson, who is a Chartered Life Underwriter, joined The Mutual Life sales branch at Brantford in 1950. Following a very successful career as a personal producer, he was appointed Manager of a newly established branch at Galt. In December, 1962, he was appointed Manager at Fort William where he has directed the Company's affairs for the past six years.

Mr Ferguson has been very active in community work at Fort William, where he is a director of the Fort William Rotary Club, Chairman of the Board of Managers of First Baptist Church, Director of the Life Underwriters' Association and Chairman of the Ethics and Practice Committee.

His appointment takes effect on April 1st.

Successful Living

One Feels Silly in Asking Help

Dear Doris: I feel like a fool writing to you. Here is a grown woman not able to figure out her own problems and writing to you like a silly child.

But I have a problem and need advice. So I turn to you this problem . . . Betrayed.

Dear Betrayed: I'm glad you did. The paragraphs which followed described a man-woman situation which would baffle anyone — especially a person caught in the middle.

But your reaction is common. There is some ingrained pride in most of us which makes us claim to know all the answers to our human problems. We feel subnormal if we have to get help.

This is wrong. Actually it is a good sign if we have the courage and common sense to consult a source of hope and help. Would we cringe from seeing a doctor if we had a high fever?

Even just pouring it all out is good therapy. Then being helped to think it through is the ideal way to arrive at the right answer. Social workers, psychiatrists and other counsellors daily have a hand in bringing about this miracle.

* * *

Dear Doris: At two parties this young gentleman comes along and kisses me and I enjoyed it. But to my disappointment I find out he is married.

In the nighttime I go just about crazy thinking about him. Please advise me what to do about this. — Lovesick.

Dear Lovesick: You mean you were just dancing around minding your own business and suddenly you felt a kiss being planted on your startled lips?

Better get hold of yourself. That devil, Sex, has got you. Next time, require any designing males to apply for permission before kissing you. If the applicant is married, the answer is NO.

* * *

Dear Doris: How can I find some work to do this summer? I am very good with children, but I think my usual baby-sitting jobs are going to be away for July and August. I am — Just Fifteen

Dear Just Fifteen: Your inquiry comes to me from so many ambitious teen- agers that I wrote a special article about it. It is called "What to Do When Schools Out!" Send me a large five-centstamped envelope and 10 cents, and it's yours.

Confidential to Scared Still: A reckless driver is immature, inconsiderate, self - indulgent and a menace to society.

If he insists that he loves you, he doesn't show it. Love means protecting, giving pleasure, relieving anxiety. If you go by me, you don't accept his kind of pleuing for a lifelong trip.

Has Doris helped you with a problem? Write and tell her so!

Points for Parents

Mother: "Denny, stop running around in the store. You're annoying the other people. Denny, do you hear me? Why can't you behave? I knew I should have left you at home after the way you acted last week."

Tell the small child how you expect him to behave and don't let him act up in public just because it's inconvenient to enforce your commands.

Mother: "If you can't walk around quietly and look at things without touching them, we'll have to go right home, and I can't take you to the store again until you're big enough to behave."

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The first meeting of the month of the Women of the Moose was held in Moose Hall with Neil Shandraw presiding.

Plans were made for the spring trip to Syracuse April 5. The bazaar will be held in April. The next meeting will be open to members of the Loyal Order of the Moose, with a pot-luck supper at 7 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by Francis Shandraw and his band.

Lecture Given on Menopause

MEXICO CITY AP — An American professor told Canadian physicians Monday that doctors must forget the idea that menopause is just a temporary stage in a woman's life.

"This is just not so," said Dr. R. W. Kistner, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Harvard Medical School, Cambridge, Mass.

"She is permanently left short of certain hormones," he said in a lecture at the four-day scientific assembly of the College of Family Physicians of Canada attended by some 400 doctors.

"Don't forget that woman is the only mammal who can't give birth for as long as she lives. All other mammals are capable of bearing until they die. By poor design, women can't."

The hormonal shortage following menopause leads to such effects as hot flushes, flashes and sweats, "it is up to us to re-establish a normal hormone balance," he said.

Dr. Kistner said that in women in the pre-menopause age group — roughly between 40 and 50 — he controls these effects with sequential oral contraceptives which compensate for some of the waning bodily production of estrogen.

Light Dessert Made in Advance

By MARY MOORE

When the dessert has been made for a guest dinner your work seems half over.

Today's Orange Bavarian Cream has several virtues: it must be made in advance. It would be ideal for a First - Week - Of - Spring Luncheon or Bridge. It is the revered "light" dessert after a hearty meal. Last and most important of all the flavor is wonderful.

ORANGE BAVARIAN CREAM (serves 8 to 10)

1 egg
one-third cup sugar
one 6-oz. can fresh frozen orange juice concentrate ½ cup milk
2 envelopes plain gelatine
2¼ cups milk
½ pint (1¼ cups) whipping cream (32 percent)
one-third cup sifted icing sugar
½ teaspoon almond extract
one or two 10-oz. cans Mandarin orange sections (see below)

In a large saucepan mix together well the egg, sugar, orange juice, ½ cup milk and gelatine. Stir over low heat until gelatine is dissolved. Remove from heat and stir in well the 1½ cups milk and chill until partially set — about the consistency of liquid honey. Whip cream until it will form soft peaks, sprinkle icing sugar over, add almond extract and whip until barely stiff. Do not overbeat. Fold into partially set gelatine mixture. Pour into 5-or-6-cup mould which has been rinsed with cold water. Do not use ring mould. Chill until firm in refrigerator. Unmould on attractive serving plate and if desired decorate edge with whipped cream and drained canned Mandarin slices. (You will need two 10-oz. cans if you decide to decorate and make the sauce.)

MANDARIN SAUCE

Mix together in a heavy saucepan one-third cup sugar, 1 tablespoon corn starch. Drain the juice from one 10-oz. can Mandarin oranges and measure it. You need 1¼ cups. If you do not have that much make it up with fresh orange juice. Stir into sugar-corn starch mixture and cook, stirring, until thick and clear. Stir in the drained orange sections. If desired add 1 teaspoon fresh grated orange rind to sauce.

Widow's Investment Pays Off

LAUSON, Que. CP — When Mrs. Violeur Dulac's husband died in 1948 leaving her with three teen - age sons and not much capital, the future appeared bleak.

But sheer determination and lots of imagination saw the spry Quebec mother latch onto an idea which today has catapulted her into a multi-million-dollar business enterprise.

It began when some nieces of Mrs. Dulac visited her in the tiny community of Ste. Marie de Beauce, about 30 miles south of Quebec City.

"They complained that the potato chips they had bought didn't taste as good as those enjoyed back home in the U.S.," said Mrs. Dulac.

With $5,000 capital Mrs. Dulac set out to produce potato chips second-to-none.

The first chips were prepared and packed by hand. But as success followed success, the little company began to grow until today it has become a fully - automated plant with 300 employees.

Located in Lauson, across the St. Lawrence River from Quebec City, the Dulac enterprise operates a score of warehouses, a fleet of 125 trucks and has a sales territory which extends from Quebec to Newfoundland.

"I never dreamed when I began my business that it would ever reach this size," said the founder and president.

Where once she bought potatoes by the 10-pound bag for her family, today her plant gobbles up more than 500,000 75-pound bags annually.

Mrs. Dulac's three sons now act as general, sales and production managers.

Compassion Needed For Alcoholic Father

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I say a word to the girl with the alcoholic father? She signed her letter "Can't Call Him Daddy." That letter could have been written by me, 10 years ago.

ANN LANDERS

How vividly I recall the day I found my rabbit dead in her cage. I ran to tell my father the terrible news, hoping for a word of comfort. Instead, my mother closed the bedroom door and said, "Don't bother your Dad tonight. He's sick."

There seemed to be numerous occasions when Dad was "sick" but it wasn't until years later that I realized he was an alcoholic. There were times when I hated him for embarrassing me and then I'd feel guilty for my horrible thoughts. But through the years my thinking has changed. Dad still drinks but the hate is gone and I feel sad that I cannot help him.

So try something, "Can't Call Him Daddy" — say a little prayer and ask for help in overcoming your feeling of hate. Ask that the hate be replaced with compassion and understanding. Then one day you will be able to put your arms around him and say, "I may despise some of the things you do, Daddy, but I love you." — HIS DAUGHTER.

DEAR DAUGHTER: The ability to replace hatred with compassion and understanding does even more for the hater than for the hated. Thank you for writing.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's sister never married. Bonnie "went with" a man who had a cloudy reputation. When he died last year she came into a great deal of money.

We are not millionaires but I have a good income and we have everything we need. The problem is that Aunt Bonnie buys ridiculously extravagant gifts for her favorite niece — our 11-year-old daughter, Mary. (A cashmere coat with mink collar and cuffs and a matching mink hood for Christmas.) Whatever Mary sees she can get her Aunt Bonnie to buy.

Yesterday I told Mary she could not have a second pair of white boots so she telephoned her Aunt Bonnie and they are going shopping tomorrow. What can I do? — DEFEATED.

DEAR DEFEATED: If you allow a stupid aunt to mess up your daughter's life it is your fault, not hers. Tell Aunt Bonnie, in Mary's presence, that she is not to buy one single thing for the girl unless you approve in advance. If she sends something unauthorized, send it back.

What Aunt Bonnie thinks is generosity is ruination. Lavishing gifts on a child is a poor way to demonstrate interest.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I give a word of advice to the woman who threw out her dinner night after night because her husband wouldn't telephone and let her know he had a business meeting and would be a few hours late?

I had the same problem, only my husband wasn't held up by anything so high class as a business meeting. He used to stop off at a bar and get stoned. When he finally decided to come home, his dinner was either grease soaked or burned and I had to throw it out and start all over.

After a few years I got smart and told him I wasn't going to start dinner until I saw the whites of his eyes — unless, of course, he telephoned to say he was on his way. After coming home and finding no dinner six or seven times he decided he'd better call. This is how I solved the problem. — BINGHAMPTON, N.Y.

DEAR BING: Three cheers for a smart lady in Binghampton! This approach will not work in every case, but it's bound to work in some. Thanks for the suggestion.

Dean Rusk Says No Reason to Change Order to Deny Hal Banks' Extradition

WASHINGTON (CP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk has turned down a Canadian government request that he reconsider his March 14 refusal to order the extradition of American citizen Hal C. Banks to Canada, where the former union boss faces a perjury charge.

Canada, in an immediate request following Rusk's original decision, had asked that, if the secretary would not change his ruling, the decision be submitted to international arbitration.

A state department official said Tuesday that Rusk does "not believe there is a basis for changing the earlier decision" and that he doubted the wisdom of seeking international arbitration.

The official said Rusk's latest conclusion had been expressed in a note given to Canadian Ambassador A. E. Ritchie Monday.

In Ottawa, Rusk's refusal to allow extradition started suggestions in the Commons Tuesday that the case should be taken to the U.S. Supreme Court or to an international tribunal.

Prime Minister Pearson said Rusk's refusal conveyed in a note he had received only a few hours earlier, would have to be studied before further steps could be taken.

The texts of the notes of the Canadian embassy in Washington and to Pearson were not made public.

The extradition of Banks, 59-year-old former head of the Canadian Seafarers' International Union, was sought by the province of Ontario. It wants him to face a charge of perjury arising from his 1963 testimony to the Norris royal commission which investigated Great Lakes labor violence.

Last October, U.S. Commissioner S. T. Alexuse, following a lengthy Brooklyn hearing, reported to the state department that there were no legal obstacles to Ontario's extradition request.

However, Rusk, who is required to review all extradition requests, concluded the perjury charge arose from a Banks statement protesting his innocence in a non-extraditable offence, namely conspiring to commit assault.

Another department spokesman, Robert McCloskey, press officer, said the U.S. note "recalled that the earlier decision followed an extensive review of all the issues by counsel for Banks and for Canada before the extradition commission, and that written briefs were submitted by both sides prior to and after an informal hearing before the secretary."

McCloskey quoted Rusk as telling Canada that "the extradition treaty between the United States and Canada had served well the ends of criminal justice in both countries," and he therefore saw no reason for broad international consideration.

In Ottawa, former prime minister John Diefenbaker asked Pearson in the Commons whether the Canadian government plans to pursue the issue "and place it firmly before the United States" the effect on international relations. He also inquired whether an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court was planned.

Then Pearson replied that the Rusk note would have to be studied.

Pearson also was asked by Ed Schreyer (NDP—Springfield) whether the Rusk reply precluded an appeal to an international tribunal.

No, said Pearson. But, he added, if Canada sought to take the matter to the World Court, the U.S. might invoke a reservation that the case was an internal affair.

Banks fled to New York while free on $25,000 bail pending his appeal of a Montreal court sentence of five years for conspiracy in the beating of another waterfront union figure.

Strictly Personal

Republicans Are Like LBJ

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

During a recent TV guest appearance, Senator Robert Kennedy was asked pointblank whether the American electorate would have "any real choice" in November's presidential election; in terms of policy on the Vietnam war.

He wriggled and writhed, grinned and grimaced, and sighed in deep relief when an impending commercial relieved him of the dreadful necessity of making a candid reply. And he never did get around to it.

It seems clear now that no matter who opposes Mr. Johnson in November, the war in Vietnam will continue to be prosecuted. None of the probable Republican candidates seems any less hawkish than Mr. Johnson, and a few of them, like Reagan, are alarmingly bellicose.

Yet the Republican Party, like the Democratic, contains many voices of opposition to the war. One of the loudest and clearest is that of Sen. Thruston Morton of Kentucky, who is no less than a former Republican national chairman.

At a meeting not long ago, Senator Morton said, "I see no chance of military victory in Vietnam. Even if it were possible, I don't believe it would solve the internal problems in the South. Our own actions in supporting an unpopular, corrupt regime in Saigon, coupled with our massively destructive military operations, have gone a long way toward alienating a once friendly peasantry."

These, mark you well, are not the words of a professional peacenik, an agitated wild-eyed radical, but the former Republican national chairman. After pointing out the lies and half-truths the public is being fed from Washington — especially about our "pacification program" — he concluded with these words:

"It would be a service to the nation of the highest order if we were to devise a way to cut our losses, protect what can be protected, and demonstrate a dramatic initiative to disengage at the earliest possible, feasible date."

Indeed, he warned, "if we continue on the present course the day may come when a unilateral withdrawal, in hindsight, will look like the best of a bad deal."

This is the way, in my opinion that a responsible opposition must stand and talk. And, from a practical viewpoint, it is the only way the Republican Party can win the 1968 election — by offering a real choice, by appealing not only to Republicans (a minority group) but to dissident Democrats and independents as well.

For if both parties offer substantially the same myopic policy in Vietnam, there is little doubt that the American voters will stay with Mr. Johnson as the man who has had the most experience in the bloody matter. Stay with him from resignation, not from enthusiasm.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Stop complaining—you knew I couldn't parallel-park when you married me!"

House Is Edgy

Lee Grills Says Greene Promoting Fatty Bacon

OTTAWA (CP) — Amid cries of nonsense, pleas for compromise and schoing "woo's," the Commons Tuesday night reached an informal and nebulous agreement to wrap up its work today and recess until April 23.

However, Wednesday, is a short sitting day in the House and the agreement could be short-circuited at the least brush of frayed nerves and tempers.

After rushing past most of the remaining items of the list of supplementary departmental spending estimates for 1967-68, the edgy Commons left two over for today with the informal agreement that they be cleaned up by 4 p.m.

The House then would deal with an interim supply motion, granting the government money to pay its day-to-day bills from April and May.

The Senate, which is to sit at 2:30 p.m. EST, the same time as the Commons, would then be expected to deal with the estimates—now in their 12th day of Commons debate—and the supply bill virtually in minutes.

Once royal assent is given, the House can begin the recess the government hoped to have last week to allow Liberal leadership candidates in the cabinet to campaign before the April 6-6 convention here.

Hopes of cleaning up business Tuesday night evaporated as opposition MPs lashed out at government policy on agriculture and Indian affairs.

Warner Jorgenson (PC—Provencher) said the policies of Agriculture Minister Greene, one of the eight leadership candidates in the cabinet, are "as barren as an Air Canada breakfast."

He said that "no amount of smoking and smirelling" could skirt the fact that the government had allowed the International Wheat Agreement to lapse, hurting western sales this year.

Other Conservatives tore into an austerity campaign last fall that sliced price supports for cheese and pork.

Lee Grills (PC—Hastings South) said Mr. Greene was promoting fatty bacon by cutting support prices for lean high-grade bacon.

Also criticizing the cut on support for premium cheese, he said the savings amounted to "peanuts" in the over-all federal budget.

On another front, Health Minister MacEachen, also a leadership candidate, assured MPs that there will be "no deterioration" in health services for Indians and Eskimos.

More money would be spent on such services in the year beginning April 1. The department had taken steps to clear up misunderstandings that might have arisen from directives earlier this year.

Walter Dinsdale (PC—Brandon-Souris) said the assurances were welcome but should have come earlier.

NDP Leader T. C. Douglas questioned the clarity of the promise to spend more, saying this was not enough with the native population rising and costs going up as well.

He wanted guarantees that hospital wards in Inuvik and Frobisher Bay, N.W.T., would not be closed as reported, and that the nursing station in Fort Laird, N.W.T., would remain open.

As David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North), Jack Bigg (PC—Athabasca) and Ed Schreyer (NDP—Springfield) continued to criticize health policy, referring often to federal directives of recent weeks, Mr. MacEachen said spending will be up $400,000 from the $23,800,000 of the present 1967-68 fiscal year.

More funds would be available if needed.

Replying to Mr. Dinsdale, he said a new directive will be issued but added that the government feels it is sound policy to ask Indians to pay for their own services where possible.

The debate on agriculture estimates was equally biting and continued past the normal adjournment hour of 10 p.m. before Conservative House Leader Michael Starr proposed sitting until midnight to clean up all the estimates and the supply bill.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) vetoed this and Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg South Centre) then suggested sitting until 11 p.m. and cleaning up the agriculture and post office estimates.

Mr. Starr rejected this idea but David Lewis (NDP—York South) replied that it did not make sense to sit until midnight when MPs had to come back today anyway while the Senate dealt with the business.

Mr. Starr objected that if some items were held over until today, the Senate would be given minutes to do a job the Commons had spent 12 days on. It wasn't fair to the upper chamber.

With Solicitor-General Pennell pleading for a compromise, the "woo's" continued and Mr. Peters kept calling "10 o'clock" while Deputy Chairman Paul Tardif studiously ignored the call to rise and go home.

A single MP can bring business to a halt by simply noting that an adjournment hour has been reached.

However, the parties struggled over Mr. Peters' call to the point where agreement was reached to deal with the agriculture estimates at least.

Henri Latulippe (Creditiste—Compton-Frontenac) made a short speech and the agriculture, post office, Privy Council, Governor-General's and legislation estimates were voted through in seconds.

The NDP halted an attempt to continue.

Then MPs present agreed to Mr. Pennell's suggestion that the remaining ones be dealt with by 4 p.m. today, the supply bill handled and the recess called.

QUESTION: What date is the Cherry Blossom Festival being held in Washington, D. C., this spring? Can you also give other places of interest I could visit.

ANSWER: This year the Cherry Blossom Festival will be held from April 1 to April 7. This festival week hinges on the blooming of the Japanese cherry trees around the tidal basin. Parades, dances, various ceremonies and much publicity display the festival royally.

Long recognized as one of the most beautiful cities in the world, Washington is one of the leading attractions in the United States. The site of the nation's capital was chosen by George Washington in 1790 and is the nation's third largest city with a population of over two million.

There are many conducted tours of the city which range in price from $5.50 for three hours to $21.50 for two days. The eight-hour tour at $11 will cover most points of interest. It is advisable to buy a good detailed guidebook to the points of interest before you start out on your own, along with a Washington map with streets and places of interest on it. These are obtained at our office free of charge to members.

Some of the main places to see are as follows:

United States Capitol: The country's most familiar landmark is on Capitol Hill in a beautiful 131 acre park, open to the public 9 - 4.30 daily. Guided tours through the buildings lasting 40 minutes are available, adults 25 cents children under 10 free.

Supreme Court Building: A magnificent white marble building where the country's highest judicial body holds its sessions. Open Monday through Friday 9.00 to 4.30 and Saturday until noon.

The National Gallery of Art is one of the finest museums in the world. It has many masterpieces from the most famous painters in Europe. Open Monday through Saturday 10.00 to 5.00, Sunday 2.00 to 10.00. Free admission.

The Air and Space Building contains famous "firsts" in aviation craft and space flight. Free admission. Open 9.00 to 4.30.

Museum of Natural History contains exhibits of birds, animals, gems, minerals, primitive people of Africa, Asian and the Pacific.

Museum of History and Technology has exhibits of cars, inventions, coins and the famous collection of First Ladies' gowns. Open 9.00 to 4.30, free admission.

Federal Bureau of Investigation is in the Department of Justice Building open 9.15 to 4.15 Monday through Friday, admission free.

House in which Lincoln died open daily 9.00 to 5.00 admission 25 cents.

White House has been the home of every U.S. president except George Washington. Chose for the presidential mansion in 1792. Tours are available Tuesday through Saturday 10.00 to noon. Admission free.

Washington Monument: A marble shaft that rises 555 feet from the ground. You can take an elevator to the top where you get a lovely view of the city. Open daily 8.00 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Thomas Jefferson Memorial: One of the city's most beautiful buildings. Open daily 8.00 a.m. to midnight. Admission free.

Potomac Park: The drive along the river is especially beautiful in April when the 1,200 Japanese Cherry trees are in bloom.

Lincoln Memorial: Near Arlington Bridge, open daily 8 a.m. to midnight.

U.S. Botanic Gardens: A million - dollar conservatory containing many rare plants with outstanding display of orchids and subtropical plants. Open daily 9.00 to 4.00 free admission.

Explorers' Hall, National Geographic Society: Contains exhibits from expeditions. All exhibits are accompanied by recorded narrations and films. Open Monday through Friday 9.00 to 7.00, Saturday 9.00 to 5.00.

National Zoological Park on Connecticut Avenue: The 175-acre tract is a natural background for nearly 3,000 animals, reptiles and birds.

Reservations will be at a premium for all April and part of May in Washington. Many of the hotels are booked heavily through this period, and top rates will apply. It would be wise to make advance reservations.

Vast Overhaul of Veterans' Pensions Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — A massive, detailed report, calling for a comprehensive overhaul of veterans' pensions legislation, was tabled in the Commons Tuesday.

The special study, 2½ years in the making, set out 148 specific recommendations in its 1,500 pages.

It called for higher pensions in a number of categories; lifting of the shroud of secrecy it says has surrounded veterans pensions administration; new appeal procedures for the veteran who feels he hasn't got a square deal, and abolition of some hoary administrative procedures that have remained in force since the First World War.

The report was written by Mr. Justice Mervyn Woods of the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal, Judge W. J. Lindal of Winnipeg and Col. Gerard Nantel, Canadian Forces Base, St. Hubert, Que.

They were appointed to carry out the special study late in 1965 and heard representations for about two years. They took several months after that to compile the three-volume report.

Veterans Minister Teillet said in a statement issued outside the House that a study group would be set up immediately to examine the report's ramifications.

The investigators covered virtually every clause of veterans pension legislation and made recommendations on each one. They summed up by saying they hoped the suggestions would result in "a legislative base and an administration for pensions for disability and death due to military service which is equitable, efficient and consistent with the requirements.

The special committee recommended higher pensions for veterans now in the "total disablement" category and already drawing the maximum disability payment. The category includes paraplegics, many persons with multiple amputations and those who are totally blind.

The investigators said the disability pension of 100 per cent should go as high as 350 per cent in consideration of such other factors as pain and discomfort, loss of enjoyment of life, disfigurement or any expected shortening of the life span.

They recommended retention of the basis for the 100-per-cent disability pension rate—paying an amount that would be earned annually by an unskilled employee in the federal public service.

They said this basis is the best operative one because wages in this category of the federal service will keep pace with various economic conditions and will not "vary significantly in different geographical locations."

The committee also recommended special provisions for veterans of the ill-fated Hong Kong force, sent to that eastern bastion shortly before it was captured by the Japanese in 1941. The men who survived captivity were freed late in 1945.

The report noted men in the Hong Kong force were subjected to "severe treatment" in prison camps and recommended a general application of a 50-per-cent disability pension for every veteran of the force.

It also said non-pensioned widows of Hong Kong veterans should be considered for pensions.

"It is suggested that pensions be approved on a presumption that the death was attributable to service, unless such presumption can be rebutted," the report said.

The investigators said the policy of the Canadian pension commission, the board that rules on pension matters, should be one of "full disclosure" instead of the present one of providing only limited information to the public.

On discretionary pension benefits, available in compassionate circumstances or where a veteran otherwise might not qualify for a pension because of misconduct, the committee suggested definite guidelines be laid down for the CPC.

It also warned that the CPC is on dangerous ground in making its own decisions on where responsibility rests for support of a pensioner's dependants in cases of unusual domestic relations.

Such a determination should be left to a law court and the CPC should abide by any court ruling in applying pension regulations.

The study recommended a complete revision of appeal procedures. Mr. Justice Woods and Col. Nantel recommended establishment of a full-fledged appeal board.

Judge Lindal recommended appointment of an ombudsman, who would review complaints about CPC decisions could refer them back to the CPC for reconsideration and make a public report to the government if he disagreed with the CPC decision after this reconsideration.

Maritime Union to Be Studied

FREDERICTON (CP) — Maritime Union, one of Premier Louis Robichaud's pet projects, forged ahead Tuesday when he announced it would go under official study on a cost-sharing basis between New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

He told the New Brunswick legislature that Fred R. Drummie, the government's economic adviser, would become the study's executive director and would be assisted by Dr. J. J. Deutsch, principal-designate of Queen's University and former chairman of the Economic Council of Canada.

Announcement of the study was made simultaneously in the legislatures of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, the premier said.

The two-year study would start next week at a cost of $100,000 to be paid on a per capita bases by the Maritime provinces.

"Each of the governments is committed to direct participation and co-operation in the project," he said, and it is expected that the involvement of interested organization and bodies will be sought."

Mr. Drummie, a 34-year-old native of Saint John, N.B., said in an interview he would have to decide the study's terms of reference in a meeting with Dr. Deutsch.

Wage Assignments Ban to Be Speeded

TORONTO (CP) — Wage assignments will be outlawed in Ontario a little earlier than the government originally planned.

Attorney-General Arthur Wishart first resisted, and then accepted, a proposal by Pat Lawlor (NDP—Toronto Lakeshore) that an act outlawing the assignments come into force as soon as it receives royal assent, rather than on July 1 as provided in the government bill.

Mr. Lawlor proposed the amendment after the house voted 81 to 17 against his earlier proposal that the legislation be made retroactive to outlaw all existing assignments.

Mr. Wishart said he opposed retroactivity on the grounds it would disturb assignments honestly contracted in good faith between the debtor and creditor. He said the July 1 date of implementation had been set to give the affected parties sufficient notice.

A wage assignment is a voluntary statement by a debtor that his wages may be assigned in the event he fails to keep up payments or a purchase.

During clause-by-clause study of the bill, Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) opposed the idea of retroactivity and the Liberals joined with the government in defeating the first amendment. But Mr. Sopha supported the second amendment and suggested that in the more informal atmosphere of a committee meeting Mr. Wishart would have seen fit to accept it.

At one point, Premier Robarts was seen to nod to the attorney-general. Moments later, Mr. Wishart got up and said he had changed his mind, that the second amendment would be accepted.

Separatism in Belgium Getting Little Support

BRUSSELS (CP) — A lonely-looking ex-prime minister, a brash challenger outwardly confident of power and a blunt-talking champion of Flemish rights dominate the Belgian political scene in the last campaigning days before Sunday's election.

In the country's French-speaking section, some voices press for renewed assertion of the area's language rights in the face of growing influence of the vigorous people of Dutch-speaking Flanders.

Radical spokesmen in both language regions urge replacement of the present, one-government Belgian constitution with a federation.

Little support is immediately evident for a desperation way out, or present problem — merger of the French-speaking south with France and of the Flemish-speaking north with Holland.

Paul Vanden Boeynants, dumped from power by intergroup flare-ups at the University of Louvain this year, insists that federalism is not the answer for Belgians.

Leader of the middle-of-the-road Social Christians, Boeynants says that federalism would be economic catastrophe.

He argues a Belgian prime minister now has insufficient power to tackle such challenges as expanding an economy suffering from the loss of huge resources in The Congo and from industrial decline in the French-speaking south. Federalism would reduce that power even further.

His party, with 77 seats in the last 212-member lower house, is afflicted by the same language split that helped undermine the coalition government he led.

The more conservative Party for Liberty and Progress, the Social Christians' partner in the coalition government, has significant power bases in the south and among the French-speaking residents of Brussels. It had 48 seats in the last parliament.

It is free of language divisions, boasts PLP leader Omer Vanaudenhove.

But the PLP heaps abuse also on the Volksunie, a 12-seat party apparently gaining support in Flanders through advocacy of federalism and more rights for Dutch culture in Belgium.

Volksunie chief Frans Van der Elst says his party has been accused of separatism but in fact stands for a Belgian constitution assuring justice for the two main communities which, to him, means federalism.

First Leadership Convention Was Held in 1919

OTTAWA (CP) — Choosing a party's leader at an open national convention is a relatively new art among Canadian politicians.

The Liberal leadership convention here April 4-6 will be the 14th event of its kind since the Liberal party introduced the technique on a hot August day in 1919.

Since then the Liberals have held two other leadership contests, the Conservatives six, the CCF three and its successor, the New Democratic Party, one.

Until 1919 the election of a party leader was done behind closed doors by the parliamentary caucus. Usually the MPs and senators merely met to add a formal seal of approval to the outgoing leader's selection.

This wasn't always the case, though. Some bitter struggles were waged before a winner emerged from the wheeling and dealing.

The last example of this old-style method occurred in 1920 when Arthur Meighen took over as Conservative prime minister from Sir Robert Borden. Although the caucus was clearly for Meighen, most of his cabinet colleagues were opposed to him and it took several weeks to resolve the conflict.

Had the Liberals relied on MPs and senators to select their leader in 1919 it is doubtful whether William Lyon Mackenzie King ever would have become prime minister.

King had been defeated in the general elections of 1911 and 1917 after sitting for a term as MP for Waterloo North and serving as labor minister under Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

W. S. Fielding, the veteran finance minister under Laurier, was the favorite. Eight provincial premiers had thrown their support behind him.

But when the smoke cleared, King had won on the fourth ballot, 476 votes to 438. Then, as now, election required a simple majority of the votes cast by secret ballot.

In comparison with that first one, the Liberal leadership conventions of 1948 and 1958 were foregone conclusions. Louis St. Laurent, King's obvious choice for a successor, swept to a first-ballot victory over two opponents in 1948 and Lester B. Pearson repeated that performance in 1958.

The Conservatives adopted the convention approach in 1927 at Winnipeg when R. B. Bennett of Calgary overpowered five opponents on the second ballot.

Dr. R. J. Manion of Fort William succeeded Bennett in 1938, winning an Ottawa convention on the second ballot over four other contenders.

The Conservative convention returned to Winnipeg in 1942 when Manitoba Premier John Bracken triumphed in a five-man race. Again, it took two ballots.

Mr. Diefenbaker came back in 1956 after Mr. Drew's resignation to sweep the first ballot at an Ottawa convention. Mr. Fleming and Davie Fulton were left well behind.

Last September Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia led all the way to a fifth and final ballot on which he defeated Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba, 1,150 to 969. The voting began with a field of 11, including Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Fulton and Mr. Fleming.

The CCF, founded in 1932, elected as its first leader J. S. Woodsworth. He was succeeded in 1942 by M. J. Coldwell, deputy leader and long-time heir apparent.

In 1960, after Mr. Coldwell's resignation, a dispute broke out in CCF ranks over the propriety of holding a leadership convention. Plans already were in motion to wed the CCF and the labor movement elementary caucus instead on a convention and Hazen Argue, MP for Assiniboia, was chosen.

The following year, Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan won the NDP leadership easily over Mr. Argue who later bolted the party and joined the Liberals. He now is a senator.

Home and School Association News

Amelia Township Home and School Association held their regular meeting in Keene Public School on Monday evening.

During the short business meeting it was announced that an art show will be held the last of May and the first two days of June. Members were reminded of Belleville Council of Home and School annual banquet to be held in Tabernacle church on April 30.

Following the brief business meeting a panel moderated by Douglas Trumble, program chairman, discussed the integration of educational administration at a county level.

Taking part in the round table discussion were Morris Pulver, Ameliasburg Township School Area trustee; Harmon Mootgomery, Ameliasburg representative on the Bay of Quinte District High School board; George Cunningham, reeve of Ameliasburg township, and Malcolm Dulmage, chairman of Prince Edward County Interim School board.

The panel members were unanimously opposed to the proposed integration.

Mr. Cunningham emphatically voiced his opposition to the proposal, stating that integration at a county level was not viable.

Mr. Montgomery felt most people in Ameliasburg are happy with existing conditions and with the secondary education available from the Bay of Quinte District High School board.

Mr. Pulver, opposed to integration with Prince Edward County, stated that most people in Ameliasburg would prefer integrating with Hastings.

Mr. Dulmage stated that he too is opposed to the integration proposal. He said the move is too vague, and is moving too rapidly with no directions and no guideposts. He said parents, trustees, ratepayers and everyone who is affected by the move must share the responsibility for the proposal since the general apathy and lack of interest in civic affairs has resulted in Governments assuming more and more responsibility in such matters as education.

The panel was asked what advantages integration could provide for Amelisburg students and if the two main areas were felt to be kindergarten facilities and provision of audio-visual aids.

A letter from Norris Whitney, MLA, was read, which explained in part the Government's proposal.

Mr. Trumble thanked the panelists and president Mrs. Mary Marshall adjourned the meeting.

Heated discussion followed during the social hour after the meeting, and the majority of those attending voiced strong opposition to the integration proposal.

2ND THURLOW — Mrs. Cecil Keene convened the Neighbors' Aid euchre Friday night at the hall. Winners were: Mrs. Harry Grills, Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, Mrs. Walter Chumbley, Lyle La Brash, Charles Turner, Mrs. M. Doyle, and Mrs. J. Chumbley.

Mrs. Ronald Atkins, Brian, Terry and Colleen, spent a few days last week with the former's mother, Mrs. Grace Simmons, Peterborough.

About 11 girls of the 4-H homemaking club met at the home of their leader, Mrs. Cecil Keene. Mrs. Harry Thomson is assistant leader for the accent on accessories course.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomson were in Toronto last week where Mr. Thomson attended a railroad clinic.

Mrs. Douglas Atkins spent a few days with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. Atkins, Brighton.

Harry Thomson has returned to work with the CNR after six weeks' absence because of illness.

Jim Thomson attended a youth conference at Shelome last week.

EGG PRODUCERS

Speaking of COSTS, do you realize the cost of supporting the egg board in this BUREAUCRATIC PLAN — we are told ONE-HALF CENT, but this, like any other government scheme will be 2-3-4 TIMES original estimates and, once started, MUST be completed. Look at hospitalization . . . 1963, $4.40 — $1968, $11.00. Will the eggs imported from other provinces allow this cost to be added to the consumer?

Also look at the costs of BUYING a QUOTA—estimated this will capitalize at $2.00 per hen — it is now FREE if you have a good market and genuine need to increase — you need ask no one BUT your banker. If Ontario is overproduced about 10% as stated, you can expect to be cut to 85 to 90% of your present efficiency next fall when prices are good. Let the people who put up the extra production in anticipation of controls take the cut-back — let us hope we can catch all the greedy Quota Seakers now buying hens for their EMPTY OLD HENHOUSES.

Daily Mirror Terms Seal Hunt Canada's Macabre Death Ritual

LONDON (CP) — Hundreds of Britons have called for action to stop the killing of baby seals in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, The Daily Mirror says.

The mass-circulation tabloid launched a five-page display in words and pictures on the "macabre death ritual" Tuesday and follows it up with a front-page story telling of reaction in this animal-loving country.

Under the headline Pearson Calls For Seal Harvest Probe, it also says Prime Minister Pearson in the Canadian Commons Tuesday "demanded an inquiry into The Daily Mirror's seal slaughter revelations."

A Mirror reporter and photographer visited the Gulf hunt last week, Brian Davies of Fredericton, executive secretary of the New Brunswick Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said here Tuesday night he arranged the trip.

Davies also said he plans to spend 10 days in Europe "to generate as much opposition as possible against this bloody, barbaric business."

The Mirror says hundreds of persons telephoned or telegraphed the newspaper Tuesday asking what they could do to stop the killing of baby seals for their pelts.

Davies said he wrote Hugh Codlipp, chairman of The Daily Mirror and vice-chairman of Cecil King's International Publishing Corp., and asked "if he would help us put a stop to this cruelty."

Reporter Alan Gordon and Ken Gavin joined a party of 119 assembled by Davies on the Magdalen Islands. They were ferried to sealing floes by airplane and helicopter. The party included other reporters and two West German veterinarians.

"This is as far as our co-operation went," Davies said. "They were left to observe the situation without interference from us and draw their own conclusions."

On four inside pages, the tabloid Mirror describes the seal harvest as brutal, but Gordon writes: "I saw no cruelty."

Davies commented that it was not surprising the reporter saw no cruelty because "you wouldn't expect the clubbers to be too rough while a reporter is standing watching them."

He said veterinarians examined 694 skinned carcasses and 34 found no sign of injury from clubbing—"an indication that possibly they were skinned alive."

"If you extend that percentage to the full kill, maybe 2,450 seal pups died in agony being skinned," Davies said.

The Mirror report says "there is one more thing you need besides the licence, the club, the knife and the rope" for the seal harvest.

"You have to have, too, the stomach for the job."

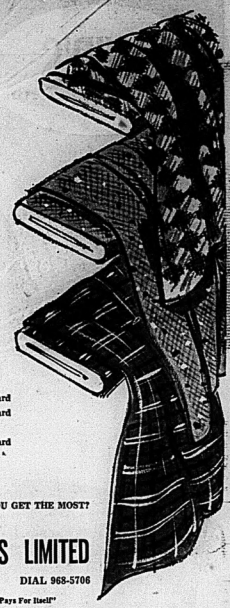
"Canada's great seal slaughter is over for another year," Gordon writes.

"It is all quite official and the civil servants have a phrase for it. They call it the seal harvest.

"Now the harvest is gathered in. And off these islands mother seals slither across the silent floes, nosing round the shapeless carcasses looking for their young.

"But their babies all look the same now that the hunters have taken their soft, white coats ."

The article quotes Bruno Schiefer, Munich University veterinary professor, telling how he saw "a mother seal weeping over her butchered pup."



Describing the kill, Gordon says a hunter clubbed a pup five times on the skull, flipped it over writhing and clubbed it again on the jaw as "blood spurted over the ice."

On another floe, about 30 pups were clubbed in three minutes, some slipping into the water, "blood pumping from their noses."

"One seal jerked as the hunter skinned it and he clubbed it again, saying: "It's nerves."

SPORT SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The delightful production versatility of those responsible for the annual colorful extravaganzas of the Quinte Figure Skating Club has again come to the fore.

They've run the gamut of themes. I can remember "away back when" they staged "Scotch on Ice," a colorful kilty production and down through the years with Showboat, Peter Pan, the Four Seasons, Television on Ice and many others.

Colorful in costuming, outstanding in individual and collective presentations and climactic in effort of coaches, professionals, cast and officials, this year's presentation promises to rank equal with any of the event's long sequence.

The 1968 show which will be iced Friday and Saturday of this week is a show for those from under nine to over ninety. It should prove nostalgic for many of the oldsters for it is dubbed "Schooldays" and the 120-minute presentation will cover the Three R's from away back when to the modern era.

The club professionals Gordon Crossland and Mrs. Bonnie Boundy are to be commended on an excellent effort. They have done a fine job individually and collectively, bringing the show through strenuous rehearsal to a high status of perfection.

Careful selection of cast was made. Principals were selected through ability and versatility. Ensembles have been chosen with an eye to precision and balance.

Adding a brilliant touch of artistry are the show's guest stars Kenny Polk and Nadine Turner. A number of Quinte Skating Club artists will be featured in individual roles.

At eight o'clock Friday evening and 1.30 Saturday afternoon schoolmarm Holly Machum will ring the bell calling the students to the schoolhouse on ice. They will recreate, the program says, the dear old school days and the dear old golden rule days."

The show moves through a colorful musical sequence from the early days of the little red schoolhouse to the gymnasium and closing with the beautiful graduation ball.

"Schooldays" gives the younger members of the club the opportunity to show their histrionic and skating versatility. Nor do the senior members suffer by comparison. Those in the major roles, most of them veterans with experience in presentations round out the cast of 100 plus that maintain the high status of entertainment for which "Quinte" has become famous.

Then comes the primary years with its "arithmetic" now called the new math. Spelling gets its fling with the "class" putting together the letters on ice.

"Story Time" brings guest star Nadine Turner into the spotlight in the role of Celeste followed by the "Music Club Six." These are individual stars of the show seen in delightful skating action.

Then there's "recess" and Michael Fitzgibbon, the novice skating champion of western Canada as the school monitor.

Then there's languages, Latin Authors, problems, questions and answers and gym numbers. Evaline Palisca is the Posture Queen with guest star Kenny Polk the gym winner.

Nadine Turner does the "valedictory" and the club ensemble marks "school is out" for the evening.

Thanks to the generosity of city well-wishers including business, industry and the professions some 1,300 children will see "Schooldays" Saturday afternoon.

These include some 250 from the OSD, crippled and mentally retarded children, welfare youngsters and members of the novice and tyke hockey teams of the city.

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—Carlos Duran, Argentine-born Italian, retained his European middleweight boxing title Tuesday night when Britain's Wally Swift was disqualified in the 10th round of a scheduled 15-round bout. Swift, after being warned four times, was disqualified by referee Georges Condre of France when he butted his opponent again.

MONTREAL (CP)—Peter Paquette, a Canadian who will graduate from the University of Iowa this spring, Tuesday signed with Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League. Paquette, a native of Iroquois Falls, Ont., played regularly at Iowa as a defensive end. He is 23, stands six-feet, one inch and weighs 195 pounds.

MONTREAL (CP)—The homeless Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League's West Division will play their two remaining home games at Quebec City against St. Louis Blues Thursday and Pittsburgh Penguins Saturday. Philadelphia's Spectrum, the club's home rink, is under repair as a result of high winds which ripped holes in the roof last month.

Prolong Hopes — Loss Hurt LA

Penguins Hang On, Shade Kings 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pittsburgh Penguins just aren't supposed to be in the National Hockey League playoffs, but apparently no one has told them yet.

But then, for that matter, neither are Los Angeles Kings and they are tied with Philadelphia Flyers for the Western Division lead.

It all started last summer when the NHL expanded to 12 teams from six. The Penguins and the Kings were picked to wind up out of the playoffs while Oakland Seals were considered a shoo-in along with Minnesota North Stars and the Flyers.

Of course, as in most sporting endeavours, nothing ever quite works out as the pundits and arm-chair experts predict so there were the Penguins beating the Kings 2-1 Tuesday to prolong their remote playoff hopes while the Seals are not only out of the playoffs, but almost out of Oakland.

Scrambling along in fifth place in the west three points behind St. Louis Blues with three games remaining, the Penguins just won't give up and got goals Tuesday from Ab McDonald and Earl Ingarfield while Lowell MacDonald scored for the Kings.

The loss didn't help the Kings much either as it held them in the first-place tie when a victory or even a tie would have given them an important edge on the Flyers.

The North Stars are four points behind the leaders with the Blues another three points off the pace.

The Penguins are in a fair way to pick up a couple more important points tonight when they play the Seals in Oakland while the Blues have to tangle with the Flyers in St. Louis and the North Stars are in Los Angeles.

Montreal Canadiens are in Toronto in the Eastern Division, which Montreal leads by a growing eight points.

The game can have no bearing on any standings, since the Canadiens sewed up the eastern title Saturday while the Leafs have been out of the playoffs for several days.

The Penguins shouldn't have won the game Tuesday, except for the exceptional netminding of Les Binkley.

The Owen Sound, Ont., native handled 42 shots, 12 of them in the first period and 16 in the third while Terry Sawchuk had only 17 chances in all.

But Pittsburgh problems almost pale in comparison with those of the Flyers, who still don't have any real idea of where their playoff games will be scheduled.

Ousted from their home Spectrum for most of the month, the Flyers have scheduled their remaining home games in Quebec City Coliseum, home of their American League affiliate Quebec Aces.

But since the Aces also are in the playoffs in their league, the Flyers can't plan on using the Coliseum at the same time and are hoping to move into either Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens or the Detroit Olympia, if suitable financial arrangements can be negotiated.

Suggest Change In Skates

QUEBEC (CP) — Scotty Morrison, chief referee of the National Hockey League, suggested Tuesday that skate blades be closed at the back as well as the front to prevent hooking and cut down on injuries.

Speaking in an interview, Morrison said that if skate blades were made with a bar joining the back end of the blade to the skate as is the case with the front, many injuries would be spared.

He referred to the recent case of injury to linesman Brent Casselman who suffered a wrist fracture from a fall which occurred after his skate became entangled with that of John McKenzie of the Bruins during an NHL game in Boston.

Earlier in the season, referee Vern Buffey had missed 11 games after a similar tangle with Johnny Bucyk of Boston.

Morrison said he intends to discuss with manufacturers the possibility of making this change in the blades.

Goaltenders' skates are already furnished with blades closed at both ends.

Clippers Clobber Kings 5-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Baltimore may be in the basement in the eastern division of the American Hockey League, but Tuesday night the Clippers looked far room at the top with a 5-1 win over Springfield Kings.

The win moved Baltimore to within two points of third-place Springfield and a playoff position. The first three teams in each division qualify for the playoffs and both clubs have three games left to play.

In the only other game, Cleveland Barons scored a 3-2 win over Quebec Aces in the last game of the regular season for the two teams.

Seniors Curling; Western Rinks Unbeaten At Midway Mark

EDMONTON (CP) — Don Wilson's Saskatoon rink and Harold Jordan's Kimberley, B.C., foursome were the rinks to beat today at the midway point in the Canadian seniors curling championships.

Wilson and Jordan entered the fifth round at 2 p.m. as the only undefeated rinks of 11 entered.

Wilson scored a three in the final end in Tuesday's fourth round to edge Ron Wright's Hudson, Que., rink 9-8. Jordan survived a close game 6-5 over Calgary's Bev Snyder, then pulled up from a 5-2 count in the third end to slip by Lawrence Carter of Amherst, N.S., 8-7.

Behind the leaders and in a tie for third place were the Jim Duncan rink from Virden, Man., and skip Andy Grant's Unionville, Ont., rink. Both have 3-1 records.

They are followed by New Brunswick's Harold Mabey of Moncton, with 2-1; Dr. Wendell MacDonald's Charlottetown, P.E.I., rink and Wright, each with 2-2 counts. Alberta has a 1-2 record, Northern Ontario's Don MacLean of Sudbury 1-3 and both Nova Scotia and Newfoundland's Norman Rockwell of St. John's are winless in four attempts.

In the fifth round, Wilson is drawn against Prince Edward Island and Jordan drew Northern Ontario. In other encounters it is Duncan against Newfoundland, Grant against New Brunswick and Alberta against Lawrence Carter. Quebec drew the bye.

"We didn't deserve to win this one," said Wright after his 9-8 fourth-round loss to Saskatchewan.

Wilson traded two with Quebec in the sixth and seventh ends, then scored three more in the eighth and ninth, leaving Wright two up coming home. Wilson's three-enter was the minimum for the win.

Jordan blamed heavy ice for his 5-3 deficit after three ends. But he was two up by the final end, with Nova Scotia laying one, when skip Carter's tying last rock went through the house.

"I'm sure happy about that one," skip Mabey said of the tense fourth-round match he won 8-7 over P.E.I.

P.E.I. was one up when skip MacDonald's last shot drew three inches too far, leaving Mabey in count two for the victory.

In the other fourth-round encounters, Rockwell suffered a lop-sided 12-4 defeat by Grant and Manitoba edged MacLean 7-6. All but the Newfoundland-Ontario encounter were wide-open until the late ends.

In the third round, earlier Tuesday, Wright had taken his first defeat after two victories in a 10-5 upset by Mabey, giving the New Brunswick rink its first victory in two starts.

Jordan had emerged from the third with his first-place tie after going to the last rock in the regulation 10 ends for a 6-5 decision over Snyder. The Alberta B.C. match was the only one of the third round to go the full 10 ends. The others were conceded after nine or when the losers ran out of rocks in the 10th.

Snyder's last rock had been aimed at a double-takeout, with both the B.C. rocks counting, in an attempt to break a 5-5 tie. Snyder managed one and his own rolled out, leaving Jordan to count the single.

In other third-round events, Carter suffered his third defeat in a 10-5 trouncing by Duncan; Rockwell also lost his third by 13-3 to P.E.I. and Grant dropped MacLean 8-4.

REALLY BIG SHOE

PARIS (AP) — Police say they applied the "Denver shoe" to 236 cars parked illegally on the sidewalk during the first week of its use. The device is a lock put on a wheel of the parked car, immobilizing it. French police obtained the shoes after learning of their use in Denver, Colo. where they are known as a boot.

Open Tennis

Maybe Manana; Santana

NEW YORK (AP) — Manuel Santana of Spain, rated by many as the world's top amateur player, added a poignant dissent today to the question of open tennis.

"Open tennis will be tough on the kids," he said. "For that reason, I hate to see it come.

"Open tennis will be beautiful to watch. People will see the best players. I have no worries. I welcome the challenge to play against the pros.

"But the kids—they will be left out in the cold."

The 29-year-old Santana, a 10-year Davis Cup veteran plays America's Arthur Ashe tonight in the feature quarter-final match of the Garden Challenge Cup International Tennis Tournament.

Billie Jean King of Berkeley, Calif., queen of women's tennis, plays Winnie Shaw of Scotland Thursday. Mrs. King, who will sign a fat pro contract next week, needed only 37 minutes to dispose of Elena Subirats of Mexico 6-0, 6-2.

Roy Emerson of Australia, No. 1 with a $100,000 pro contract in the offing, dropped the first set to Jim Osborne of Australia but fought back for a 3-6, 9-7, 6-2 victory. Santana pulled out a 6-4, 5-7, 6-4 triumph over Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill.

Senior 'A'

Hornets Oust Aces!

GALT (CP) — Galt Hornets advanced to the Ontario Hockey Association Senior finals Tuesday, defeating Kingston Aces 4-1 for a 4-1 victory in their best-of-seven semi-final series.

The Hornets now meet Toronto Marlboros in the series final, but no dates have been announced.

Victory Tuesday night was the Hornet's eighth win in nine playoff games. They downed Oakville Oaks in four straight games in the quarter-finals.

Pete Brennan, Billy Hway and Don Snider got the other Galt goals and Syl Apps scored for the Aces who had a 32-28 edge in shooting.

Badminton

Upsets Unseat Stars

VICTORIA (CP) — All but two of the top seeds have advanced to today's play in the Canadian closed badminton championships.

Fourth-seeded Judy Rollick and Allison Dayamith of Vancouver were defeated in women's doubles and sixth seed John Holehouse of Toronto in men's singles in surprise early-round upsets Tuesday.

They were shunted to consolation play along with other early losers.

Winners of today's matches automatically are eligible to enter the Canadian open championships which begin Friday. The open features international competition from Thailand, Japan and the United States.

The closed championship winds up Thursday night.

Barbara O'Brien of Toronto and Joyce Paton of Niagara Falls, Ont., were the unseeded twosome who knocked out Rollick and Dayamith.

The Ontario pair lost the first game 11-15 then took the next two 15-11 and 15-3.

In the men's singles it was the same story. Unseeded Charles Marriot of Edmonton went the three games to knock out Holehouse, winning the first 15-9, losing the second 9-15 and taking the third 15-5.

Top seed Wayne Macdonnell of Vancouver, defending men's champion, had little trouble advancing by defeating Murray Beighton of Winnipeg 15-4, 15-0. But Macdonnell, a six-time winner, has been losing this season and has been complaining of a shoulder injury.

LODGE COMPLAINTS

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP) — Residents of Chilliwack municipality have lodged formal complaints with council about activities of trigger-happy hunters. In a letter to council, Katherine Tye said: "The fact that my 60 acres is a wildlife sanctuary does not stop them shooting deer or anything else that moves. It is not safe for the children to walk in our own woods."

With The Trotters

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Kappa Kay closed with a rush to capture the $1,200 conditioned pace that featured the Batavia Downs program Tuesday night. The time was 2:10 1-5.

It was the second Batavia win in four starts for the 7-year-old brown mare, owned by Donald S. Gould of Albany, N.Y., and Don Corneau of Batavia. Corneau was in the saiky as Kappa Kay beat Hally's Harry by two lengths with Anita Dillon third.

MARKET DOWN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Sheep and lamb marktings on the Winnipeg livestock market, decreased to 16,171 in 1967 from 18,027 in 1966.

White Sox Sell Rocky Colavito To LA Dodgers

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Spring training will be a little late this year for Jim Kaat, but Bob Shaw and Jim O'Toole are wondering whether it will come at all for them.

Shaw and O'Toole, once two of baseball's top pitchers, were looking for employment today after the Chicago White Sox dropped them Tuesday. At the same time, the Sox gave veteran slugger Rocky Colavito a new chance by selling him to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Kaat, Minnesota's ace lefthander who pitched the Twins to the 1966 pennant, started his spring training Monday by hurling 15 minutes of batting practice, and that was as far as he got.

The sore elbow that plagued him last year was back again, Kaat's next appearance is not expected until after the season begins April 8.

The new Pirate, acquired from Philadelphia last winter, hurled a two-hitter for eight innings as Pittsburgh downed Boston 2-1 on Manny Mota's two-run homer in the first.

In other games, Cincinnati belted Los Angeles 7-2, the New York Mets blanked St. Louis 1-0, Atlanta edged Baltimore 2-1, Detroit clobbered Washington 8-0, San Francisco nipped the Chicago Cubs 3-2, California bounced Cleveland 6-2, Minnesota topped the New York Yankees 4-3 and the White Sox shut-out Oakland 4-0.

The 29-year-old Kaat, who won 25 games in 1966, fell to 18-13 last season. A snapped ligament in his left elbow suffered last Sept. 30 failed to heal completely during the winter.

The elbow still twinges when he throws breaking pitches and Minnesota trainer George Lentz said Kaat will do no more pitching in regular spring training. Twins' President Calvin Griffith said there is a strong possibility Kaat will be on the 15-day disabled list at the start of the season.

Shaw, 34, a 10-year veteran who pitched the White Sox to the 1959 pennant and later starred for Milwaukee and San Francisco, planned to talk to Boston and Pittsburgh for a trial.

O'Toole, 31, whose 19 victories helped Cincinnati to the 1961 pennant, had a sore shoulder most of 1967 after the Sox acquired him from the Reds. He and Shaw each started this season as free agents.

A former World Series hero, pitcher Larry Sherry, was cut by the Houston Astros, who also named outfielder Jackie Brandt, a player-coach with Dallas-Fort Worth in the Texas League.

Lead Series 3-2

Picton Whips Whitby

The OHA intermediate "B" playoff series between Picton Merchants and Whitby started off strictly like a goal-scorer's dream.

But in the last two games Picton goalie Tom O'Halloran has been giving the Whitby snipers nightmares

O'Halloran racked up the first shutout of the series by a 5-0 score in Picton last night, giving the Merchants a 3-2 series lead, after tying the set with a 5-1 win Sunday.

Picton can wrap up the 4-of-7 series in Whitby Friday night but if a deciding game is necessary it will be played in Picton Sunday.

O'Halloran kicked out 28 Whitby shots in registering his shutout and his mates spread their scoring over three periods. They led 2-0 after one heat, added a loner in the middle frame and two in the third. Whitby goalie Bill Braiden stopped 25 of 40 shots.

Picton's five goals were divided among as many scorers but Larry "Pocket" Pero led the point-getters with one goal and two assists.

Carl Stacey and Syd Faulkner had a goal and assist each, George Jacklin and Fred James the other goals. Doug Dafoe, Roland Berry and Jim Guernsey drew assists.

Faulkner at 7.14 and Pero in the final minute constructed the 2-0 first-frame lead and Jacklin upped it mid-way through the second period. James scored at 9.18 and Stacey at 18.00 of the third.

Only four minor penalties were assessed in the contest, two a side, and all came in the second period.

Minor Hockey

In the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's novice playoffs last night, Bruins ousted the Wings 4-3, Toronto blanked the Amerks 7-0 and D.C.A. Transfer eliminated the Aces 6-2.

Pope scored the winning goal on a play with Masterson in overtime to produce the Bruin's narrow victory Giddings, Masterson and Kirby scored the other Bruin goals, Brain Westerfelt, Pope and Loveless also adding assists. Siddall, Hamilton and Forbes were the Wings' marksmen, Armstrong and Malory hating helpers.

Armstrong collected the Hornets' shutout while Masterson, Murray and Ferris had two goals each and Mathews one. Thompson drew four assists, Dafoe, Murray and Masterson loners.

Maloney paced the D.C.A. victory with two goals while Sudard, R. Hanley, Calnan and Green split up the other goals and assists. For Aces, Munkitrick and Weeks scored and Mulvihill helped on one.

Open Here Sunday
Fuels, Kinsmen Finals!

Wallaceburg peewees and bantams will commence the Ontario Minor Hockey Association "AA" finals with a doubleheader here Sunday afternoon.

Belleville's Smith Fuel peewees open defence of their title in a 2.15 fixture at Memorial Arena against their Wallaceburg counterparts.

Immediately following this game, Belleville Kinsmen and Wallaceburg bantams pair off in their series opener.

Both series are two-of-three affairs and this Sunday's games are key ones since remaining games in both sets will be played in Wallaceburg. Second games are slated for Saturday, April 6, with third and deciding tilts, if they are necessary, also in Wallaceburg, Sunday, Apr. 7.

A packed house is expected here for this Sunday's two games.

Smith Fuel peewees, winners of Belleville's first OMHA crown in a tough series against Sarnia last spring are coached by Murray "Moe" Hunter. The Fuelmen ousted Barrie two games to one in the semi-finals played last week.

Kinsmen bantams, with several of last year's peewee champions in the lineup, will be shooting for their initial provincial title after eliminating Brampton in consecutive games in the semi-final.

Morrisburg Starts Quest For Elusive Allan Cup

MORRISBURG, Ont. (CP) — Morrisburg Combines are a senior team without a home and a league, but they are in the hunt for the Allan Cup, emblematic of the senior hockey championship of Canada.

The Combines open a best-of-five series against Corner Brook Royals in the Newfoundland city Friday where all the series games will be played.

The Combines were forced to play exhibition games this year when the St. Lawrence Valley League changed to Intermediate from Senior.

Then a junior team moved into the Combines' home rink in this community 47 miles south of Ottawa and got a franchise in the Ontario Central Junior league.

The junior team folded in December but the Combines had signed a contract to play their exhibition games in Brockville, 30 miles west of this community of 2,000 and had to play there for the rest of the year.

The series against the Royals in the first step on the long road to the Allan Cup with power Ontario and Quebec teams still in the running.

The Combines have been in operation for five seasons under coach Ralph Hurley and manager Murray Ball. Two years ago, the Combines were eliminated in four straight games by Sherbrooke Beavers in the eastern semi-final.

Last year, the Combines won the St. Lawrence Valley senior title only to be beaten four games to one by Kingston Aces, 1966-67 Ontario Hockey Association Senior A champions.

The team's scoring power is concentrated in centre Mel Tomalty, captain Doug Casseiman and right winger Roy Pyke. The Combines are allowed to pick up three additional players plus a goaltepder for the Eastern series.

Ball has already added goaltender Garry Doyle to the roster. Doyle played for Ottawa 67s, OHA Junior A team, and will act as back-up netminder to rookie Bob Carkner.

Ball said Tuesday he may also pick up Bob Fawcett from the 67s. Fawcett had four goals and five assists with the Ottawa team in its first year in the 10-team junior series.

Ball said Fawcett scored a goal and added an assist in two exhibition games with the Combines against a Syracuse, N.Y., all-star team last weekend.

Junior "A" Playoffs

Rangers, Habs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Junior Canadiens came back Tuesday night—and 7,350 fans are glad they did.

The Canadiens trailed 3-1 at the end of the opening period in the first game of their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-final with Niagara Falls Flyers, but Marc Tardif and Paul Lessard scored in the second period to tie the game.

Then Jean-Pierre Bordeleau and Gilbert Perrault scored two goals 51 seconds apart in the final 20 minutes to give the Canadiens a 5-3 victory and a 1-0 edge in the best-of-seven series. Second game is scheduled Friday night in Niagara Falls.

Meanwhile in the other section of the finals, Kitchener Rangers held off a determined third-period assault by Hamilton to hand the Red Wings a 2-1 defeat in the first game of their semi-final.

Second game for the Rangers will be Thursday night in Hamilton with the third back in Kitchener Friday.

Vancouver Will Probe "Freeze Out"

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Tom Campbell Tuesday ordered the city's lawyer to investigate whether Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League come under Combines Act jurisdiction.

The action was taken following a city council discussion in which Aldermen Hugh Bird said the two teams are trying to freeze Vancouver out of the NHL.

Six-Foot-10 Boxer One-Man Package

VANCOUVER (CP)—Six-foot-10 boxers are unusual in themselves, but Tom Barrie also is a world traveller, unpaid social worker with hippies and his own manager.

Barrie, a talkative Liverpool, England, native almost frail at 220 pounds, claims a 21-2 record with 15 knockouts since turning pro three years ago after roaming around North America.

"I've a knockout punch and I come to fight," said the talkative 23-year-old who won five times in Houston and then moved to Las Vegas, Nev., for the rest of his bouts.

"At first, everybody in Vegas booed and jeered," he said. "Then they really got to love me, and I brought the house down. It take a lot of unnecessary punishment."

Barrie, who moved to Vancouver to live with his sister and brother-in-law, said he left the United States because his refusal to sign a contract with a manager made him unpopular with promoters.

"I'm perfectly capable of handling myself," he said. "I get enough publicity when I want it, and promoters have to take me."

Barrie contends U.S. newspapers concentrated on his size and his hitchhiking through Canada and the United States instead of capturing "the real me."

"Nobody's ever mentioned my good works," he said. "I'm coaching the new boxing team at Simon Fraser University for nothing and I've got my own social service for hippies."

He said he spent part of each weekday in hippie haunts in Vancouver, warning about the dangers of drugs. Some day he hopes to build a hostel for hippies.

He also plans to enrol next fall at SFU and study psychology.

But don't think the big heavyweight, who hopes to fight Jim Beattie of Minneapolis, another 6-10 boxer, is not worried about the lack of success of big men in boxing history.

"That's just because the percentage of by men in boxing is small," he said.

Stars Twinkle in First Win

The Stars shaded Stinson Construction in a 2-1 thriller for their initial victory of the 4-of-7 series.

Stinson's lead the set two games to one with the next contest scheduled for Tuesday, April 2, at 8 p.m.

All the scoring came in the second half last night.

The losers collected five of the game's seven minor penalties.

Coal Industry Collapsing

McBean Colliery Shutdown Another Crisis for Nova Scotia

HALIFAX (CP) — The once-prosperous coal industry in Nova Scotia's Pictou County has taken a step closer to extinction, adding another burden to a pressed by economic ailments and hounded by opposition cries of "government by crisis."

The Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. announced Sunday it would shut down its McBean colliery at Thorburn March 31, throwing 400 men out of work and leaving only one mine operating in Pictou County.

The announcement was not surprising, since the Nova Scotia coal industry has for some years been slowly strangling on rising costs and a lack of markets. On Cape Breton Island, for example, the Cape Breton Development Corp. (DEVCO) now is working toward replacement of a mining economy with new secondary industry.

However, the swift blow of a threatened closure only days away caught the Progrssive Conservative government soon after the same company, Dosco, pulled out of steel operations at Sydney.

The province took over the steel mill Jan. 1 and eventual purchase of the plant and its assets may touch government coffers for as much as $25,000,000.

Premier G. I. Smith has been prodding Ottawa for substantial aid in the steel crisis and now claims the federal government holds the biggest responsibility in finding a solution to the imminent McBean shutdown.

He told the legislature Monday the federal government had been paying subventions to the mine for so long that it could not be said it was anythi g other than a federal responsibility.

Federal Mines Minister Pepin told him the McBean mine would be closed, he said, but the provincial government had not yet received notice from the company.

He said the provincial Mines Act requires a company to give 30 days notice before "abandoning" a mine, which means "that for 30 days the company must maintain the mine in such a condition that it can quickly be restored to operation either by the present owners or new owner."

Premier Smith told the legislature that when DEVCO was established, McBean appeared to have a life until December, 1968.

The premier was replying to charges by Liberal Leader Gerald Regan, who accused the provincial administration of "government by crisis" since it had become apparent a long time ago that the McBean mine was an orphan."

True or not, McBean's closure will leave the Drummond Coal Co. mine at Westville as the sole survivor of Pictou County's mine family.

The Drummond mine, once part of three Drummond collieries, now employs 115 men. At the peak of the industry in the county, Acadia Coal Co. in 1944 operated seven mines and employed more than 2,000.

McBean was opened in 1946. Its best production year was 1961 when it mined 239,000 tons of coal with a work force of about 400.

A BOOKSHELF OF THIS AND THAT

Six Franks Abroad, by Charles E. Frank.

When Dr. Frank was offered a sabatical year, he saw it as an opportunity to give his family a year of European living. This amusing book recounts the pleasures and problems of life and travel in Britain and on the continent.

Footprints In a Darkened Forest, by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen.

In his newest book, Bishop Sheen covers an assortment of topics ranging from loneliness to the lives of modern saints. He delves into psychology, literature and religion to offer advice and comments on the values and beliefs of our society.

Letters From An Actor, by William Redfield.

This is an almost day-to-day description of the rehearsals and tryouts of the 1964 Gielgud-Burton production of Hamlet. It is written by William Redfield who played Guildenstein in the play and gives a fascinating insight into the workings of the theatre. Beyond the production itself, the author's observations and analysis are entertaining and enlightening.

A Sign for Cain, by Frederic Wertham.

Dr. Wertham, a prominent psychiatrist and author, is convinced that violence is becoming more and more entrenched in American society. He examines the effect of constant exposure to violence on TV, the mass murders in Nazi Germany, the increase in juvenile deliquency, and related aspects of the subject.

The River Nile, prepared by the National Geographic Society.

Author Bruce Brander, a staff member of the National Geographic Society, has explored the Nile by launch, truck, and camel. In a skillful blend of geography, archaeology, anthropology, and history, and to the accompaniment of 223 illustrations, he gives a lively account of the million-mile area drained by this great river.

The Elephant People, by Dennis Holman.

The Lisangola tribe of Kenya was almost unknown until 1948 when their area was declared a national park. The author, who is a journalist interested in the African wildlife situation, has written the tragic story of these people, of the efforts to wean them away from elephant-killing and the sad results.

Singapore, The Battle That Changed The World, by James Leasor.

The fall of Singapore was a turning point in history, proving to the eastern nations that the west was not infallible. Mr. Leasor traces the history of the city from its founding as a British base in the early 19th century, shows how its fall came about, and what it has meant in modern history.

The Jealous Mistress, by Robert Traver.

Robert Traver, author of the best-seller Anatomy of a Murder in his latest book presents a number of actual legal cases which raise some intriguing points of law.

The Art Of Ecstasy, by William Marshall and Gilbert - Taylor.

This is an overall view of the psychedelic revolution which is so much in the news today. The authors quote arguments both pro and con over the taking of LSD. Included are notes on the leaders in the psychedelic community, the description of a "trip," and a section of photographs.

Dominion's Guarantee of 100% SATISFACTION is Unconditional

All merchandise sold at Dominion is unconditionally guaranteed to give you 100% satisfaction. No product is excluded. There are no "ifs, ands or buts." You are the sole judge of whether or not you are satisfied. Your word is accepted. On meats, for example, Dominion guarantees not only tenderness... but also flavour... goodness... downright eating enjoyment... everything that adds up to 100% satisfaction!

The meat that you buy at DOMINION is tender for two very good reasons. First, because Dominion's own skilled meat buyers tour the packinghouses every day, carefully selecting the prime young sides that Nature has blessed with an extra measure of quality.

But even the very best quality meat is not tender until it is properly hung. So Dominion waits patiently until time and Nature bring out the full rich, satisfying flavour and goodness.

The result is natural tenderness . . . tenderness that owes everything to Nature . . . and to Nature alone!

No wonder true, meat-lovers say: "There is no substitute for the natural tenderness you get at DOMINION!"

First Phase Opens

New College Ready By Fall

The biggest temporary project in the Quinte area is definitely underway.

Man and machinery have been moved onto a land parcel west of Belleville for a project which, in appearance, is out of proportion to its significance.

The land - clearance of a mere four acres on Wallbridge Road in Sidney township, is the first physical proof that Loyalist College is here to stay.

And the current operation is the first phase in a complex project, completion of which is projected well into the future.

Immediately after the ground is scrubbed free of brush and undergrowth, contractors will begin erection of a $705,000 building which will house Loyalist operations next September.

The structure is a temporary building. How long it remains the centre of Quinte community college activities is not yet known But it's only a holding operation.

It gives a breathing space to educators from immediate college problems, time in which to assess the ultimate phases which will produce a permanent campus on the city's western outskirts.

There are many other routine decisions to be made.

Even the date of a sod-turning ceremony for the temporary building has yet to be decided.

Loyalist board of governors chairman, Rev. H. J. Maloney of Bancroft, said today the date may be decided shortly — probably at the next general board meeting in Madoc, April 1.

Arrangements also have to be worked out with Centennial Secondary School, where Loyalist launched its first-year operations in leased quarters.

The temporary building, in which Loyalist hopes to house a total registration of 500 next September, has no frills.

Already, however, student activities are booming in the first year, and Loyalist may require gymnasium and auditorium space.

Father Maloney says the governors are hopeful they can reach some agreement with Bay of Quinte District high school board for use of Centennial facilities.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Mr. and Mrs. Wells Irwin have moved to their new home in Campbellford. They have lived in Rylstone since their marriage over 30 years.

A games night was sponsored by Rylstone Women's Institute Saturday night at the community hall. Euchre and crokbinole were played. A second games night will be held March 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Petherick entertained Mr. and Mrs. Roland Jackson and family, Wellman's Corners, on the occasion of the birthday of their granddaughter, Dawn Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer entertained Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson, Beth, Scott, and Jeffrey, Sunday evening on the occasion of Philip Spencer's eighth birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKeown spent the weekend with his brother Bill, Mrs. McKeown, Mark and Dean, Oakville.

Mrs. Thomas McKeown is spending some time with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McKeown, Oakville.

Man Falls From Train At 80 mph

BRIGHTON — A Port Hope man was in fair condition in Trenton Memorial Hospital after being hurled from a fast moving CN train early Tuesday.

Provincial police said Perry Gilbert, 20, was found one half mile west of the local train depot after he either fell or leaped from the train moving at 80 mile an hour.

Gilbert suffered multiple head cuts and leg injuries. A police spokesman said it was miraculous the man was alive. Notification of the accident came from the engineer who radioed word to the train dispatcher.

No special plumbing is required . . . Do a 6-lb dry weight load using 8¾ gals. of water — water can be saved for a second wash. Maximum washing time is 4 minutes — spin dry in one minute. Separate motors for washing and spinning allows you to wash and spin dry at the same time. This semi-automatic washer has a 12-foot cord and rolls easily on casters — makes it very portable and easy to store! All you require is a tap and sink or even a bathtub for draining and a two-pronged electric outlet.

Liberals Busy Counting

Even Meticulous Tally Won't Reveal Winner

OTTAWA (CP) — While the other major candidates for the Liberal leadership scour the country for delegate support, organizers at their campaign headquarters carefully count up the likely score.

Their often-conflicting claims indicate no candidate has a "safe" area.

It will take a simple majority of the possible 2,475 delegate votes to win the election on the final day of the April 4-6 leadership convention in the new Ottawa Civic Centre. Nobody is yet claiming to have the verdict sewed up on an early ballot.

Manpower Minister Marchand, campaign organizer for Justice Minister Trudeau, claims 80 per cent of Quebec's 577 eligible delegates will support Mr. Trudeau on the first ballot.

An experienced aide for another minister-candidate who is not particularly strong in Quebec, and admits it, sums up the situation this way: "Trudeau and Martin are doing well there, Sharp and Hellyer are doing better than most people think, and the rest are pretty well out of it."

But a spokesman for Eric Kierans, the only major candidate outside the federal cabinet, says the former Quebec revenue minister has the backing of backing of 200 to 250 of the province's delegates.

Five Quebec newspapers have taken stands on the issue of Mr. Trudeau's candidacy, three in support of him and two opposed.

THE PICK OF Punch

"We like the suit very much."

Turner Backs Quebec

International Treaties By Provinces Supported

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Consumer Affairs Minister John Turner has proposed changes in federal-provincial relations during his campaign for the Liberal leadership, saying provincial governments should gradually assume responsibility for social-security programs.

Mr. Turner told Hamilton area delegates Tuesday that provinces should also be able to negotiate international agreements on matters under their own jurisdiction, with final approval coming from the federal government.

Justice Minister Pierre Trudeau told members of a French-Canadian nationalist society in Quebec City Tuesday that if he became prime minister he would establish a long-range program for the development of slow-growth areas.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, speaking at Rouyn, Que., called for a massive co-operative effort by the federal and provincial governments and private enterprise "to unlock the riches that lie under northern land and seas."

In Moncton, N.B., Finance Minister Sharp said the Kennedy Round on tariff talks would prove beneficial to the Atlantic area if the countries in the trading pact eliminated tariffs.

Prices of Groceries Will Increase This Year

TORONTO (CP) — Grocery prices will rise in 1968, families will be smaller in the year 2000 and the federal government would concentrate on particular areas of poverty, the annual meeting of the Grocery Products Manufacturers of Canada was told Tuesday.

G. C. Clarke, chairman of the 83-member association and president of Standard Brands Ltd., Montreal, said results of a poll of the industry's chief executives show prices will rise three to four per cent in 1968, while sales will be eight per cent higher than in 1967.

Sales of members of the association total more than $2,000,000,000 annually.

Dr. Albert Rose, professor of social science at the University of Toronto, predicted the Canadian family in the year 2000 will consist of a high school-educated wife, a husband who is her equal rather than her boss and probably only one child.

The family will probably live in an apartment building 40 to 50 storeys high, with all the facilities of a small town.

In another speech, Duff Roblin, former premier of Manitoba, said Ottawa should abandon any future national welfare schemes and concentrate instead on particular areas of poverty in the various provinces.

"Maybe it would be better to attack problems closer to their root."

Mr. Clarke said increased costs of raw materials, labor and freight will bring the price increases.

He noted that rising costs affect every segment of the food industry, but food showed the smallest of all the increases in the consumer price index in the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1967.

Mr. Roblin said specific federal programs for different parts of the country are needed to promote economic development in Canada's five regions.

He said until now Ottawa has tried to equalize regional opportunities through unconditional grants and national welfare schemes.

Economic Nationalism Boosted and Booted

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian economic nationalism got a boost and a boot Tuesday from speakers at a seminar on investment trends.

The policy's chief apostole, former finance minister Walter Gordon, said U.S. influence on the Canadian economy may keep precarious for many years Canada's balance of payments.

J. R. Kimber, president of the Toronto Stock Exchange, called restrictions on foreign capital "a dangerous game."

They spoke before 75 Canadian executives at a meeting organized by the Canadian Management Centre.

Mr. Gordon, former president of the Privy Council, said he supports a report recently made public of a study group headed by Prof. Melville Watkins of the University of Toronto which recommends new machinery to govern Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms.

He approved of Canadian subsidiaries issuing shares representing a minority interest in Canada because it meant these companies would have to consider Canadian wishes when reaching decisions.

Mr. Kimber described this as a "naive suggestion," saying:

"Canadians holding a 25-per-cent interest in the Canadian subsidiary of, say, General Motors are not likely to have much influence on the policies of the subsidiary and even less on the parent where basic policies are made."

Mr. Gordon referred to a recommendation of the Watkins report that a Canada Development Corporation be created to promote expansion of Canadian industry.

Mr. Kimber felt such a corporation would not attract the right type of risk capital or management skills. It was likely to develop into another investment institution "similar to those which already serve our securities market efficiently."

Another drawback was that it would not be subject to the "test of the market."

"Insulated from the judgment of the marketplace, decisions to place capital in a particular venture, such as will happen with the Canada Development Corporation, will not necessarily be sound economic decisions."

He felt many of Canada's investment problems could be solved by the development of entrepreneurial capital, not by the creation of another government agency "but by the more direct approach of encouraging the public to take risks and entrepreneurs to form the necessary vehicles."

Legion Holds Third Round In Contest

The third round in the Royal Canadian Legion public speaking contest at district level was held at Peterborough Royal Canadian Legion on Sunday afternoon. Five speakers in four categories from five zones, representing winners from five zone competitions which represent 58 branches from District "F" of the Legion took part in the speak-off.

The following are the winners: Elementary Grades 7 to 8 - Lisa Vincent, Brighton Branch and her subject was "My Trip To Expo" and Carol Clements of Norwood Legion and her subject was "Being the Youngest of the Family." Elementary Grades 7 and 8 - Joanne Galnor of Dunbarton and her subject was the "History of Petroleum," and Beverley Watson of Havelock Branch, and her subject was "What Expo Did For Canada". Junior High School Grades 9 and 10 - Janet Cunliffe, Brighton Branch and her subject was "The Ed Sullivan Show" and Bonnie McLuskie, Bellevilla Branch and her subject was "The Canadian Indian". Senior High School Grade 11 to 13 - Patti McMullen, Peterborough Branch and her subject was "Humor" and Dale Carl, Trenton Branch and his subject was "Air Pollution".

Comrade Jack Rashotte District Chairman for Ontario Command of the Legion was chairman for the afternoon and Comrade Harold Vaughan of Bellevilla Branch was timekeeper for the speak-off.

The following Peterborough citizens were judges: Professor Elizabeth Orsler, Professor of English at Trent University, Mr. Robert Nielson, English teacher at Sir Sandford Fleming College and Mr. Howard Warren of the Peterborough Toastmasters Club. Professor Elizabeth Orsler was chairman of the judges and gave the contestants a few timely hints on public speaking.

The Ladies Auxiliary for the Peterborough Legion served refreshments to all the contestants and guests at the conclusion of the afternoon.

Next level will be the Area finals, representing the whole of Eastern Ontario from the city limits of Toronto to the Quebec border and north to Deep River and Haliburton. This 4th round will be held at the Legion Hall 222 Pinnacle Street, Belleville on Sunday April 7th, 1968. Comrade Jack Rashotte, district chairman will be the chairman for the afternoon for this contest, which will reduce the winners by elimination from a total of 113 branches. The first place winners from this contest advance to the Provincial Finals, which will be held at Niagara Falls, Ontario, on April 27th. The public who are interested in public speaking are invited to attend this contest.

Dead Child's Mother Says Doctor Protected

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto woman whose child died of a deep infection and subsequent coma in January cross-examined the chief of staff of the Hospital for Sick Children during an inquest Tuesday and accused him of "bending over backwards" to protect the doctor who attended the child.

Mrs. Rodney Smart, 23, said that Dr. Usha Sahay, her family physician, should have sent 15-month-old Timothy to hospital when he developed severe diarrhea and throat and ear infections.

"When would you put a baby into hospital with those symptoms?" Mrs. Smart asked Dr. Harry W. McBain, the hospital's chief of staff.

"It seems to me you're bending over backwards to say no doctor would."

Dr. Bain had testified that the Ilah teacher at Taft high school, testified that Howard had testified to break her neck unless she gave him a C in English. She said Howard had told her he needed the grade to stay in school so he could graduate and escape the draft.

treatment prescribed by Dr. Sahay was "good medical treatment" that any doctor would have prescribed.

Dr. Sahay testified that four days before the child died, she told Mrs. Smart to use a combination of penicillin and sulfonamides for an accute infection of the baby's tonsils and ears. She also prescribed aspirin baths with a mixture of alcohol and water to reduce a temperature of 102.2.

"I did not think the temperature was high enough for the child to be taken to hospital," Dr. Sahay said. "Had it been higher I would have suggested taking him to hospital."

The jury found that "better telephone communications on the part of the parents to the doctor . . . could have resulted in a more accurate understanding of the child's actual condition."

WHEN THE SUPERSONIC passenger aircraft Concorde goes into service between London and Montreal in the early 1970s, total flight time is expected to average about four hours 18 minutes. About one hour 45 minutes of that time would involve the final stage of the flight from Newfoundland to Montreal. Map shows the suggested flight profile based on the assumption the Canadian government would require the huge aircraft to fly at subsonic speeds over Canadian territory. After takeoff, the plane would climb at subsonic speed to 30,000 feet over the Bristol Channel. It would then accelerate to supersonic speed, climb about 51,000 feet and cruise at about 1,320 miles an hour. At Newfoundland it would descend to 30,000 feet for the final subsonic stage over Canada. The descent from 30,000 feet would take place in the last 100 miles. (CP Newsmap)

TV Fare Shows Great Depth

NEW YORK (AP)—Two extraordinary programs, vastly different in mood and approach, both dealing with the generation gap, sets Tuesday night. One showed the miracle of life and the other the tragedy of age.

They were ABC's thoughtful and tender story of How Life Begins, and CBS's Death of the Candles, a perceptive and dismaying reflection on the loneliness and frustration of advancing years.

The story of the beginning of life came in the early gestation period when the whole family could view it together. The program began at the beginning with the sea, and then described the way in which the many forms of life developed. With Eddie Albert narrating, a deceptively simple script, the audience was led to a point where it seemed quite natural to see a bitch giving birth to a litter of puppies, a calf being born, and then, a smiling young woman giving birth to her baby. It was done quietly, without dramatic flourishes. The result was tremendously effective.

The Jules Power production had unusual illustrations of the creation of life—the fetus of a kangaroo emerging from the womb and struggling to find its mother's pouch; the birth of a stream of tiny sea horses emerging fully developed from the body of their father. Even showing the development of a human through all the stages from conception to birth.

It was a truly fine program and should be repeated often.

At the other end of the evening there was a sometimes shattering study of the emptiness of old age and a merciless reflection of the accompanying feeling of uselessness.

Lord Snowdon, and Bragg from, start to finish an impressive piece of work. A still photographer by profession, Lord Scowdon was fascinated by the small, significant detail—the wrinkles, the warts, the veined hands of his subjects.

Some of the sequences were painful to watch. There was Noel Coward and Cecil Beaton, both keeping stiff upper lips about advancing years and talking of loneliness. There was a retired admiral and his wife, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, grumbling about their aches and pains and deafness.

There was real tragedy in a his eyes, said nothing, just took sequence showing an arthritic man being taken to an old age home while on the sound track, his children were explaining, almost too much, why they could no longer keep him with them. The old man, tears showing in

It was not a happy hour, but it was a moving one for those who could bear to sit through it.

Hunting Seasons Listed

TORONTO (CP) — The deer season in popular hunting areas of Ontario remains unchanged this year from last, but hunters in the far north and northwestern sections of the province will have longer seasons.

In the bulk of northeastern and central Ontario including Algoma, Sudbury, Manitoulin, Nipissing, Parry Sound, Muskoka, Renfrew, Haliburton, Hastings, Peterborough, Lanark and Ontario, the season is Nov. 4-18, or 13 days as in other years.

Asphodel, North Monaghan and Otonabee townships in Peterborough County have been added to areas where hunting is by shotgun only.

Archery seasons are for periods similar to last year: In Kenora, Sept. 16-21; in parts of Manitoulin district, Oct. 21-Nov. 2; in Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac counties south of Highway 401, Nov. 4-9.

Deseronto Studies Blueprint

Regional Government Proposal Of Ontario Counties Approved

DESERONTO — At the meeting last week, members of the Deseronto Town Council unanimously endorsed the blue print for a local government re-organization proposed by the regional government committee of the Association of Ontario Counties adopted by them at Niagara Falls in October, 1967.

Hisey and Partington, the local town engineers had submitted nine copies of their report on the water survey last year. It was decided that council members should have an opportunity to study the report before it should be considered at a meeting. No discussion took place, and the report will be taken up at the first meeting in April. The present tank, which has been leaking badly, is beyond repair and must be replaced.

The Deseronto Cemetery Board was granted $500 for assistance in maintenance of the cemetery.

Because of the activity in the Police Department, Councillor Clayton Brooks stated that the committee in charge was having difficulty in setting up its budget for 1968, and asked that the Police and Fire Committee be authorized immediately an expenditure of $500 for the Fire Department and $600 for the Police Department.

Deseronto recently set up a three-man police force, and equipped its department with a radio communication system. Certain equipment is needed, also by the Fire Department. Council authorized payment of $1,287.95 to McMullen Radio and TV Service for setting up the radio communication system.

Police Chief Moody had turned back $150 given him for moving expenses, and Council agreed to give this to the Police Department to be divided equally between the two constables to defray the cost of moving to Deseronto.

The Roach block, owned by the Town of Deseronto, is in such a bad state of repair that Council agreed that it should be demolished. The job has been placed in the hands of Mr. O'Toole who will receive $300 for his work if the rubble is properly removed and the lot filled and levelled.

Building lots owned by Deseronto will no longer be sold at a uniform price. The cost to the buyer will be a minimum of $400 and a maximum of $1,000, the price varying with the desirability of the location.

Deseronto will have Daylight saving time once more. Chairman of the bylaws committee, Mrs. Dorothy McCollough presented a bylaw to this effect, which was given three readings and passed.

Meltzer on Real Estate

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

A construction mortgage logically is supposed to provide the funds necessary to build the property. In many cases, if not most cases, this truism is incorrect because lenders pay out on a partial basis at each construction stage.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I can't pay the bills on my new house. I don't know why! The house was supposed to cost $24,000 to build. The bank allowed me a $20,000 construction mortgage and I deposited $4,000 with them. The builder's pay all bills were now in the bank's hands.

The first cheque was supposed to cover all work up to the first floor level. Three contractors were left unpaid because there was not enough money to go around. The same thing happened when I received the second and third cheques.

There are now six unpaid contractors. They keep calling me constantly demanding payment. In turn, I keep calling the bank, but it has now reached the stage where they refuse to talk to me. Please explain how I got into this mess and how I can get out. — Mr. D. P.

ANSWER: A construction mortgage represents a much higher degree of risk than a permanent mortgage on a finished house. Therefore, to protect themselves against this greater risk and also against unforeseen contingencies lenders often make only partial payments. These holdbacks vary among lenders, but generally, the holdback amounts to about 20 per cent in the early stages of construction and drops to about 10 per cent as the house approaches the finished stage.

For example, suppose there was $5,000 worth of work in place at the first payment stage, you would then only receive $4,000 ($5,000 minus 20 per cent). This is why you do not have enough money to pay all your bills.

You will get out of the mess when the house is complete, by that time the bank will have advanced a total of $21,000 necessary to build the house.

You got into the mess because no one explained to you that the lender was of a type that only made partial payments. You could have avoided the mess by picking a lender who paid out on a 100 per cent basis as the completed work was vouchered and certified.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have a very simple question. I want to find out the lights controlled by each fuse. How do I do it? — Mr. C.

ANSWER: I have a simple solution to your simple question. First, turn on all the lights in the house. Then remove one fuse. You now know which lights are controlled by that fuse. In turn do the same for each fuse.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: When I was a boy there used to be a tremendous brick chimney just outside town. It was about 500 feet tall. One day I climbed it and looked into the next county over 20 miles away.

I have since travelled widely but never have I seen anything nearly as tall. Is my boyhood recollection a record or is there something taller? — Mr. R.

ANSWER: The tallest brick chimney I know of is about 800 feet high and has a diameter of 64 feet at the bottom. Incidentally, this chimney cost over one million dollars.

Anniversary Marked

DESERONTO — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rendell celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage on Sunday. As Mr. Rendell had returned only the previous day from five weeks of treatment in the Kingston General Hospital, the day was spent quietly, of necessity. Three of their four children live in Deseronto, however, and during the day they and members of their families called briefly. Their one son, Wilfred and his family live in Red Deer, Alta., but Morley, Marjorie (Mrs. William Wood), and Jeannette (Mrs. William Higgins), are Deseronto residents.

Until last fall Mr. and Mrs. Rendell kept up their own home, but growing frailty made it necessary for some other arrangement. Now they are in an apartment in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Higgins on Green St.

Born in North Fredericksburgh, Mr. Rendell came to the Deseronto area when young. Mrs. Rendell, formerly Lulu Archer is a native of Deseronto.

Mr. Rendell had a dairy for years, and then went into the grocery business, retiring before World War II. During the war he worked in Ajax making war supplies, returning again to Deseronto.

Both have been practically lifelong members of the United Church and were active in church affairs as long as health permitted. Mr. Rendell is an honorary elder. He was active in civic affairs, also, as a member of the town council.

Coughing Sprays Germs All Over

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you please, please write about people who don't cover their mouths when they cough?

We have a dear friend who has cancer and coughs over food, friends and even children with never a thought of the germs she is spreading. When she has a cold, everyone in her family gets it.

I have tried hints and talking of the dangers of spreading germs, but it doesn't sink in. I know she reads your column, so an article might help.

The cancer aspect is of minor importance, since cancer isn't spread by germs. It isn't contagious.

But nobody knows how much other disease is spread by careless coughing — certainly a great deal.

For example, one thing that a patient learns in any well-run tuberculosis hospital is to cover a cough. Such patients learn to keep disposable tissues handy. When a cough starts to tickle, up comes a tissue to muffle it and catch the invisible droplets of moisture.

That is aimed primarily at preventing the spread of TB, but there are plenty of other harmful germs that shouldn't be spread to other people's faces or food.

Cold germs are the ones we think of mainly — colds and flu. But there can be various throat infections, minor or major, and infection means germs. A cough can spray those germs. The germs, by and large, are carried on the tiny water droplets, which can fly a considerable distance — several feet — from a cough.

I remember an anecdote I read many years ago. Can't remember where, and whether it was fact or fiction, but it was about a young doctor coughing in an operating room. The crusty surgeon fixed him with a cold eye and said, "Dr. Blank, wouldn't you like to come over here and spit in this patient's abdomen?"

Of course, these days, no free - coughing doctor would get through his training without changing his ways, and no unmasked person is permitted in an operating room. The masks aren't designed to stifle an occasional cough. They are to prevent even the breath from nose or mouth carrying germs into the atmosphere near the patient.

Disposable tissues are best for shielding a cough, but next best is your pocket handkerchief. If you don't e r y a handkerchief, at least cover mouth and nose with your hand, and turn your head away from other people or from their dinner plates.

Healthwise, there isn't much difference between coughing in a person's f ce or spitting in his face. In fact, the cough, which sprays t h e germs, may be more dangerous.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter is six years old, 48 inches tall and weighs 64½ pounds, and most of her weight is in her stomach and seat. A doctor gave her a clean bill of health and said not to worry about her weight, but children have been teasing her at school lately. Should we consider her overweight?—If so we would like to see this changed before it becomes more serious. — Mrs. C. F.

One reliable weight chart shows her to be 12 pounds overweight for her height and age. Cutting down on sweets and excessive fats in her diet may help get her on the right track. It is also important that she get adequate exercise. Many overweight children, especially girls, have been found to be inactive physically.

Dear Dr. Molner: I grind my teeth when I'm asleep, is there some way I can prevent it? — E. V.

Likeliest cause is some chronic tension or irritation — one frequent cause is pinworm infection. Worth investigating.

Davis Hints at New Program To Train High School Teachers

TORONTO (CP)—Education Minister William Davis gave a hint in the legislature Tuesday of how his department plans to meet the problem of a growing shortage of teachers in Ontario.

Replying to a question from W. G. Pitman (NDP—Peterborough), Mr. Davis said a meeting will be held soon to determine how secondary school teachers will be trained for the 1969-70 school season.

Mr. Pitman's question was prompted by the cancellation this year of summer teacher-training courses.

No official announcement for training will be made until school officials have been consulted with respect to the new plan, Mr. Davis said.

Other steps taken to ease the teacher shortage include plans to accept well-prepared secondary teachers from anywhere in the world providing they meet academic, linguistic and citizenship requirements.

The minister said summer courses will also be available for "mature university graduates" who have worked for a specific time in business and industry, and for teachers applying for vocational and occupational jobs.

Regulations have been changed to permit an elementary school teacher with an approved university degree and a permanent teaching certificate to be awarded a high school assistant's certificate on being appointed to a secondary school position.

In other legislature business Tuesday:

—Highways Minister George Gomme said his department will spend $460,904,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1969 an increase of $46,800,000 from last year.

—Two judges of the Ontario Supreme Court, Mr. Justices F. G. MacKay and Arthur Kelly, recommended against passage of a bill implementing the merger of two Protestant denominations on grounds the proposed legislation would infringe on rights of "non-concurring" congregations.

The proposed private bill, dealt with by the judges in their role as commissioners of estates bills, would have the effect of vesting in the United Church of Canada all properties of the Evangelical United Brethren Church and its congregations.

—The legislature's private bills committee approved a bill which will allow Ewart College of Toronto, a school for Presbyterian deaconesses, to grant university-level degrees.

Students Ask Prexy To Remain

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — About 400 Trent University students demonstrated Tuesday, asking President T. H. B. Symons to ignore "pressure" to enter federal politics and stay at the university.

Student leaders said it was possible the first time in Ontario that students had marched up and down in favor of an administration.

One student said it was largely due to the effects of Mr. Symons that Trent has a system of tutorials and seminars that produces favorably small student-faculty ratio.

Mr. Symons issued a statement earlier saying he had no thought of leaving Trent at the present time. He has been president since Trent opened in 1963.

Students say rumors persist he is being "pressured" into resigning to enter federal politics.

Piloting Liberals Tough Test for Navy Vets

OTTAWA (CP) — Steering next week's Liberal Party leadership convention through the rocks and shoals of party rules, floor demonstrations, and voting procedure may be a real test of navigational skill.

But the two men who will have to do it—Senators John Nichol of Vancouver and Leopold Langlois of Quebec—have the experience, both politically and as seamen. Both are naval veterans of the Second World War.

Senator Nichol, 44, will retire as president of the National Liberal Federation at the end of the convention after his second two-year term.

Senator Langlois, is one of that select group that stepped out of the armed forces at the end of the war and into the House of Commons in the general election of 1945.

Senator Nichol has headed the Liberal party machinery during most of Prime Minister Pearson's tenure of office. He has had the chief burden of organizing next week's leadership convention.

Senator Langlois is a quiet, reserved man, who rarely speaks in the Senate, But when he does, it is bilingually, and with passion, from piles of notes littering his desk.

The two senators are co-chairmen of the leadership convention. For 21 hours or more they will have to keep order at plenary sessions attended by 2,475 voting delegates, 792 alternates, and 4,000 or more guests. More than 9,000 are expected to jam Ottawa's new civic centre at Lansdowne Park for three days.

If this convention is anything like those held by the Liberals or any other party in the recent past, there will be demands from the floor for rulings on points of order, noisy demonstrations on behalf of leadership candidates running longer than the TV schedules permit, and breakdowns in the administrative machinery of the convention behind the scenes.

"Who would we like as leader, dear?"

There's No Rest For Ambitious

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The House of Commons released Wednesday, but there was no period of relaxation for Liberal leadership hopefuls.

Most were already on the campaign trail when the Commons doors closed for the Easter recess and, more important, the federal Liberal leadership convention in Ottawa April 4-6.

In Quebec City, Health Minister MacEachen told a news conference national unity rates second to economic stability on Canada's list of priorities.

External Affairs Minister Martin told a Toronto audience that his first priority would be national unity—if he is elected party leader.

Finance Minister Sharp, speaking in Halifax, said he would consider the Atlantic provinces as a whole in efforts to bring the region up to the national economic average.

In Trois-Rivieres, Que., Consumer Affairs Minister Turner advocated creation of a specific service corporation to handle urban development.

Agriculture Minister Greene said in Regina, Sask., that only a clear majority in Parliament would make it possible for any prime minister or cabinet minister to devote time to travelling across the country.

Trade Minister Winters, meanwhile, told a Sydney, N.S., audience that he believes it is the role of the governments to create the kind of economic climate in which, private enterprise can operate profitably.

Justice Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau, in Saint John, N.B., said Canada "must look at regional difficulties as economic and not social problems."

Yuri Gagarin Mourned

First Cosmonaut Killed

Test Flight Fatal

MOSCOW (CP)—Handsome Soviet cosmonaut Yuri A. Gagarin, who flew the world's first manned space mission in April, 1961, died in a training-flight crash Wednesday.

The crash also killed Col. Vladimir S. Seryogin, commander of an air unit and a member of the space backup team. The ashes of both Gagarin and Seryogin will be placed in the most honorable spot in the Soviet Union—the Kremlin Wall facing Red Square.

No details were given about the crash.

Gagarin's death was the second tragedy known to have hit the Soviet space program within a year. Col. Vladimir M. Komarov was killed last April 24 when his Soyuz spacecraft crashed to earth.

Six U.S. astronauts have died in the line of duty.

Gagarin opened the book on manned space flight on April 12, 1961, when he shot skyward in his Vostok space capsule and orbited the earth once. The trip lasted 108 minutes and Gagarin landed apart from the capsule by parachuting to earth near the village of Smelovki.

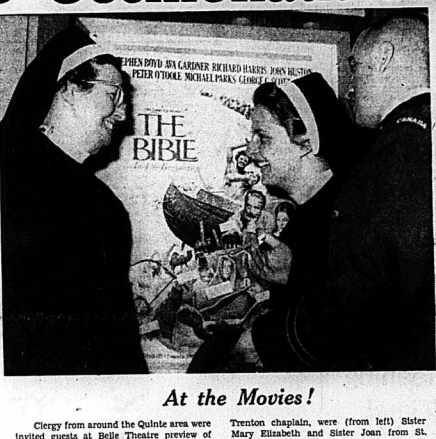
A small handsome man with a friendly manner who became somewhat portly in the years following his flight, Gagarin was a full colonel of the air force at the time of his death.

The boyish-looking cosmonaut with a disarming smile and twinkling eyes made many goodwill visits to foreign countries.

Gagarin never made a second flight, although he played a major role in preparing and training other cosmonauts.

Toronto Firemen Injured



TORONTO (CP) — A series of explosions ripped through the Canadian Liquid Air Ltd. plant Wednesday, injuring four firemen and causing about $155,000 in damage.

Workmen fled seconds before cylinders of acetylene exploded, sending balls of flame more than 100 feet into the air and blowing out windows in nearby houses.

The three-alarm fire began when a valve blew near an oil pump and escaping oxygen ignited. The men fled when flames spread to the large cylinders of acetylene, located in a loading area.

District Fire Chief Thomas Stewart, who was racing along the 100-yard long street warning homeowners to leave their houses, was taken to hospital with back injuries when an exploding cylinder hurled him several yards.

Another fireman suffered back injuries when he fell about 20 feet through a collapsed portion of the roof and two firemen suffered from smoke inhalation.

At the Movies!

Quebec Taxpayers Hard Hit by Budget

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec taxpayers — especially smokers, drinkers and car owners — will have to dig deeper into their pockets to cover $158,800,008 in new taxes in the fiscal year starting April 1.

Finance Minister Paul Dozois disclosed in his 1968-69 budget speech in the Quebec legislature Wednesday night that the Union Nationale government is imposing a six-per-cent surtax on provincial personal income tax as well as new levies on tobacco, liquor and gasoline.

He announced a $270,854,100 increase in government spending, bringing the total to a record $2,752,583,200, and told Quebecers it is time for "austerity, thrift, moderation and co-operation."

Most of the 11-per-cent increase in spending was devoted to education, health and welfare.

BC Abolishes Fines for Minor Traffic Offences

VICTORIA (CP) — Fines for minor traffic offences soon will be a thing of the past in British Columbia.

Under new legislation, given final approval by the provincial legislature, fines for such offences as speeding and running a red light will be replaced by violation reports filed with the superintendent of motor vehicles.

Stanfield Says His Criticism Mild So as to Spare Nation

TORONTO (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Robert L. Stanfield said Wednesday night the Opposition in Parliament has been restrained in its criticism of the liberal government because to do otherwise might have damaged confidence in Canada at home and abroad.

"It is our patriotic duty and constitutional responsibility to defeat this government," he said. "But we are not willing to bring the country down with it."

Politically, economically, socially, there is great work of reconciliation to be done in Canada, Mr. Stanfield told about 1,500 Progressive Conservatives of Metropolitan Toronto.

He said:

"We are not winning any war on poverty because we are jolted back and forth between unemployment and inflation. We have yet to implement a national housing policy. . . . We do not have welfare programs that overcome inequality. We do not have regional development programs that work effectively. We do not have a rate of economic growth that enables government to do anything new without imposing new taxation."

Mr. Stanfield gave what he said was the answer to the gulf between government and people:

"Create understanding and a constructive accord between different generations of Canadians, where tension and conflict now exist; develop the sense of shared citizenship between the two linguistic communities where misunderstanding and confusion now exist; build a sense of community between the regions where there is now too much defensiveness and suspicion. . . ."

The Opposition leader came to Toronto for a party dinner from a speaking tour of Alberta and Saskatchewan where, he said, "memories of the depression of over 30 years ago have lingered longer than anywhere else in Canada." The Depression had left on the Prairies "an impression, that will never be fully erased."

Woman, 91, Evicted from Home, Sees Crowd Loot Her Goods

Miss Cozier, 91, was evicted Tuesday from the apartment where she had lived 40 years for non-payment of rent.

Court bailiffs, who evicted Miss Cozier, moved out all her belongings. There was an old doll with a leg missing, furniture and elegant sherry glasses.

She sat a while among her belongings. Then she was invited to a neighbor's apartment for a cup of milk.

But out on the street people were picking Miss Cozier's life apart. A truck stopped, men dashed out and rode off with a chest. One man took a load of dishes, then came back with a shopping cart for more.

Miss Cozier watched helplessly. Workers from the Montrose Urban Progress Centre tried to guard her things "but the people kept picking through them," said one of the workers.

Workers from the centre persuaded her to sell what was left. The items were sold for $47.

Miss Cozier said she had not paid her rent for several months, but she had reasons, she said. She complained that the locks on her door were broken and said she had been robbed.

Wednesday she was staying in a hotel room provided by the Montrose centre. But all her belongings except what she wore — were gone.

Large-scale Hoarding Blamed for Shortage of Silver Coins

OTTAWA (CP) — A continuing shortage of silver coinage across Canada is regarded by officials here as a result of large-scale hoarding, illegal export, or both.

A spokesman for the Royal Canadian Mint said Wednesday that coin production is up 75 per cent this year and still running behind orders. He declined to say what the extent of the backlog is.

Another source said chartered banks across the country have faced shortages for several months. The situation is most acute in Toronto, where at least one bank is making sales of coin rolls only to such legitimate users as retailers.

The world is not producing enough silver to satisfy demands for coinage and industrial use, Canada will make more silver available for industry by converting to nickel composition in dimes, quarters and 50-cent pieces once technical problems have been overcome.

The world shortage has driven up the market price for silver. It was quoted by one major Canadian buyer Tuesday at $2.44 an ounce in Canadian funds. Ten months ago on the London market the price was $1.30 U.S., shortly after the U.S. had been forced to restrict sales from its silver stockpile.

The mint would have made its switch to nickel by now except for difficulties in converting apparatus of the multi-million dollar vending industry.

An announcement is expected shortly—on the mint's program, but an official said Wednesday that progress has been slow in finding an economic way to develop machines that will accept both old and new coins.

No one can be certain how much hoarding takes place. It may be the result of many Canadians holding a few coins each, or a relatively few speculators stocking up in the hope that their silver-bearing coins will increase greatly in value at some future time.

"I think it's a hangover from the Centennial Year coinage," commented one official of a Toronto bank Wednesday.

Mitchell Sharp Visits City

Candidate for the leadership of the Liberal Party, Minister of Finance Mitchell Sharp will be in Belleville for lunch this afternoon.

Scheduled to arrive at the Hotel Quinte at 12:45 Mr. Sharp will attend a luncheon before he moves on to his next stop along the cameoign route.

Belleville lawyer, John O'Flynn who helped make some of the arrangements for the meeting, said this morning that the luncheon will be attended by all area delegates and perhaps even a few from neighboring ridings.

The finance minister's sojourn in Belleville, though it will be brief, marks the second appearance made by a leadership candidate in the area.

Minister of External and Foreign Affairs Paul Martin was the first candidate to speak to area delegates a few weeks ago; Minister of Agriculture J. J. Greene was scheduled to appear in Belleville but was not able to attend due to business in the House of Commons.

Also passing near Belleville today will be the Prime Minister himself who is presently en route from Ottawa to Peterborough via motorcade.

Swath Cut Across Zwick's Island

It finally came to rest across a curb in Zwick's Island after travelling over 300 ft, while out of control. The accident occurred shortly after midnight today when the car driven by William D. Potter of Stirling was heading north across the Bay Bridge road went out of control. A hydro pole was cut in half and the fence surrounding Zwick's Island torn out — however — there were no injuries to any occupants of the vehicle.

IN MEMORIAM

GOODFELLOW — In loving memory of a dear wife, Laura Goodfellow, who passed away March 28, 1966.

Dear dear Laura, gone forever,
Now I must pass smiling face,
Hide the tears and heartaches,
No one can take your place.

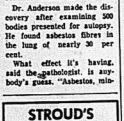
A happy home I once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by husband George.

GOODFELLOW — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Laura M. Goodfellow, who passed away March 28, 1966. And on this the 28th day of March,
Her memory we shall always keep,
—Sadly missed by Georgina, Gord and grandchildren.



GOODFELLOW — In loving memory of a dear wife and grandmother, Laura M. Goodfellow, who passed away March 28, 1966.
The dearest mother, the kindest friend,
One of the best that God could send,
God took her home; it was His will,
But, in our hearts, she liveth still.
—Sadly missed. Always remembered: Helen, Doug and family.

Two Belleville Rotarians, Wilbur Fox and Kenneth Wormald, hold the ladder as their fellow club members Jack Parrott and James Marker, president of the club, finish putting up the Science Fair and Hobby Show banner.

Science Fair Biggest Ever

Sounds of hammering and sawing, and what looks like bedlam at first glance, is what could be seen and heard in the Belleville Armouries this morning.

A second glance, however, exposed the organized work of the Belleville Rotary Club to ready the armouries for the Science Fair and Hobby Show this week, was in full swing.

According to Club spokesman, this year's exhibition, the eighth in the Belleville area, could be the best one yet.

This year's chairman of the annual show, W.R. McKay, explained this morning, above the racket of men at work, that the number of science exhibits has more than doubled over last year's 27 entrants. There will be 64.

The increase is due to initiation of a class for elementary school projects, more output by the secondary schools (East Northumberland Secondary School in Brighton has sent six exhibits) and more science-in-industry exhibits. The city police and the OPP have reserved some space for the fair as well.

For lack of space the hobby areas were restricted this year as there will be about 125 different projects and displays.

Four winners from the Belleville fair will have an all-expense paid trip to Vancouver for the seventh Canada-wide exhibition. The winners there, one boy and one girl, will spend two weeks in Britain.

The displays will be judged in three categories, and in two sub-categories. Elementary school projects will be judged on the basis of first and seconds for physics and for biology. The same method will choose the winners for grades nine and ten; and for grades 11, 12 and 13.

According to Mr. McKay, some of the highlights for the fair will be an exhibit on how man can create and live in an air bubble under the sea, an illustration of growing and producing penicillan mould, and a demonstration of sequence of nickel electro-plating.

The growing of crystals by super-cooling or evaporation is another example of the type of display that will be seen this year at the fair

The judging of the exhibits will take place this Friday at noon until 4:00. Then the doors will open to the public until 10:00 p.m. Friday night. The displays will also be on exhibit Saturday from 1:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m.

Admission is 50 cents for adults and for students (with their student cards) admission is free on Friday and 25 cents on Saturday.

Careless Driving Charged

A car heading north across the Bay Bridge Road last night went out of control and finally came to rest in the middle of Zwick's Island park after travelling 334 feet.

William D. Potter, 19, of John St., Stirling has been charged with careless driving due to the accident said Belleville Police Chief C. D. Crosby this morning.

The car, which police said "must have been going quite fer quickly" first hit a hydro pole on the east side of the road.

After carrying the lower portion of the pole for 131 feet the car then struck off diagonally across the highway at which time the hood flew off — it careened through the wire fence surrounding Zwick's Island and continued for another 100 feet or so, going over one concrete curb and finally coming to rest over another curb.

Chief Crosby stated that the driver of the car and the two passengers with him were quite fortunate not to have been injured. The car, hydro pole and fence were all extensively damaged.

Mayor Scott Will Preside At Meeting

Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott will return actively to civic government next week.

The mayor said last night he will preside at next Monday's city council meeting.

In early January he went to Florida for a rest period preparatory to abdominal surgery. The operation took place Feb. 20 in Toronto and the mayor has been recuperating since then.

His convalescence has been spent quietly at the cottage of a friend in the Brighton area. A retreat close enough for him to maintain contact with municipal affairs.

Central Hastings

School Board Plans Big Program

The public school board in Central Hastings is planning a $1,200,000 buying and building program which will eliminate 24 one- and two-room schools.

The board plans seven-room additions in both Marmora and Madoc schools, the purchase of secondary schools in Marmora and Stirling and the use of nine portable classrooms in Tweed.

Hastings County School Area number two public school board also plans to build libraries and general purpose classrooms at Madoc, Marmora, Stirling, Tweed and Madoc Township public schools.

The seven-room addition to the Earl Prentice School at Marmora will meet the needs of the pupils from the northern portion of Rawdon, Marmora and Lake townships, Deloro and Cordova Mines.

The other seven-room addition at Madoc public school will accommodate students from Huntington and Madoc townships and the village of Madoc.

The board recently anounced agreement with the Bay of Quinte High School Board to purchase high schools in Marmora and Stirling. These will be used as senior public schools.

High school students from these areas will be attending classes at Centenial Secondary School in Belleville and Central Hastings High School in Madoc next year.

The acquisition of Stirling High School will allow pupils from the southern portion of Rawdon township and those from West Huntingdon to attend the larger school.

The board will also use nine portable classrooms at the S. H. Connor School in Tweed. These are designed to serve the children of Hungerford township.

"The use of the portables allows for the future consideration of the purchase of Tweed High School if it becomes available for elementary use in the next few years," a press release states.

The portables will also be available for county use over peak periods of enrolment.

The board also plans libraries and general purpose rooms at Madoc township public school, the Earl Prentice public school in Marmora, Stirling public school, the S. H. Connor public school in Tweed and Madoc public school.

Health and guidance rooms are also planned with each addition.

Considering the consolidation within central schools the board is also arranging for an extension to its special education program.

At the present time opportunity classes are operated only in Madoc and Marmora. Next fall rehabilitation and enrichment groups will be in operation in all of the central schools in Stirling, Marmora, Tweed, Madoc and Madoc township.

Try it once and you'll use it forever.

New Techniques in Building Schools Will Be Incorporated

The Hastings Area number two public school board will incorporate new techniques in building additions to schools at Madoc and Marmora.

The seven classroom additions will compliment the continuous progress and nongraded systems that are coming into effect in today's education.

Working with architects Jackson and Ypes a flexible grouping of classrooms has been designed, so that students may be in a regular classroom situation at one time, in a multi-group large room for the next period, or in small seminars for specialized instruction.

By the use of easily moved partitions which fold into the wall, the teaching area can be made into three regular classrooms, or one regular and one large classroom, or into one large teaching area.

The moveable walls will be acoustically shaped and the floor will be carpeted to reduce the noise factor.

The board contends the use of such flexible facilities will promote the concept of "continuous progress" where the child learns at his or her own rate and can move easily from group to group as his ability and achievement directs.

For example, if a child is nominally in grade two, but is capable of grade three mathematics, he can easily move to that part of the teaching area where his level of achievement is being taught.

With the additional facilities and the consolidation of all students in central schools the board claims it will provide an educational set up that meets the needs and requirements of as many children in the area as possible.

Tweed Strike

No Agreement After Talks

TWEED — Strikers continued picketing Sawyer Stoll Lumber here today after no agreement was reached in talks with management yesterday.

The strike is now approaching its third week with possibilities of settlement an unknown factor after yesterday's conference breakdown.

Gerard Latendre, president of the striking local 2336, International Woodworkers of America, said yesterday's discussion resulted in no bargaining.

"No progress is about the answer," confirmed Sawyer Stoll general manager Mel Ostman.

The meeting, which lasted more than two hours, was arranged through this village's municipal council, asic Mr. Latendre. The union delegation was headed by IWA district representative Nick Redisi, of Toronto.

"They wanted us to come back under the same conditions," charged Mr. Latendre.

The company employs about 50 workers. More than 30 struck March 18, seeking higher pay and other benefits from the U.S.-owned company.

Sawyer Stoll which located here in 1957 to manufacture wood pallets, also owns lumber operations in the northern end of the Quinte district.

Workers Authorize A 'Strike Call'

PICTON (Staff) — Dissatisfied with the delay between meetings and the lack of progress in negotiations, workers of Proctor-Silex held a special meeting in the Royal Hotel last night and voted by secret ballot to authorize the union negotiating committee to call a strike when and if the committee felt such action was necessary to effect a satisfactory agreement.

The vote to strike the Picton plant of Proctor-Silex was passed by an overwhelming majority of 96 per cent, according to a statement issued today by W. J. Miller, Field Representative of I.U.E.

The negotiating committee of local 585, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, AFL-CIO-CLC, representing the Proctor workers, was also instructed to apply immediately for conciliation services, in an endeavor to speed up the local negotiations.

New Movie

Clergy Views 'The Bible'

The Bible, fittingly drew as "ecumenical audience together yesterday as local clergy sat down to watch a movie together.

The show? The Bible, John Houston's screen masterpiece which has finally arrived in Belleville.

For Quinte district audiences it opens tonight at the Belle Theatre and will run for the next two weeks.

Yesterday's clerical viewers were at the Belle by invitation of the management for an afternoon preview of the movie.

The Bible has inspired as many movie producers as it has human communities, not often with as happy results.

Hitherto, when the inspiration was committed to film the production emphasis usually has been on the spectacularly sensational.

John Houston's approach is more cerebral, more personally dramatic, involved with the human drama of the Bible's personalities.

Fittingly too, the story line is confined to the beginning phases of the work, carefully selected chapters of Genesis between the creation and Abraham's sacrifice.

Spectacle is there when spectacle is called for and the photography is breathtaking.

There is also a spectacular line-up of cast, which includes Peter O'Toole, George C. Scott and Ava Gardner.

A Welcome Hand ?

How efficient are the reception facilities at ports of entry in Canada? What kind of welcome is extended to new arrivals, whether visitors or immigrants? Is it friendly — or officious?

The questions are prompted by a letter to The Montreal Gazette reprinted on this page, and by reports of people arriving by sea and air. Stories from visitors of their treatment at the hands of customs and immigration representatives of course are legion. It would be as difficult to pin down any evidence of uniformity in this regard as it would be to offer an explanation for the yards of red tape that still surround many of the regulations governing people's entry into Canada.

The letter to The Gazette however does illustrate one aspect of the problem as it affects the handling of baggage and the need to facilitate the movement of passengers.

And if Montreal has its problems, consider the situation in say Vancouver. Ship passengers arriving there from Australia and New Zealand can count on a wait of two hours or more before being able to disembark.

Granted disembarkation can be a lengthy enough process at the best of times, but this is no reason why facilities cannot be improved. The wharf and terminal building at Vancouver were not built with the comfort or general welfare of either passenger or public in mind.

People awaiting ship arrivals in Vancouver can see the vessel dock only from a rail outside the terminal building. When passengers disembark they face a fairly long walk from the dockside along a corridor to the main concourse of the building, often carrying their own baggage.

Here the public is separated from the customs inspection area by a rough wooden fence down the middle of the room. The two groups can see each other across the barrier but must wait for the arrivals to go through customs before being reunited outside.

Vancouver could do with a new terminal building designed more with the needs of ship arrivals and general public in mind. For a city of such visual splendor the existing facilities are neither utilitarian nor aesthetic.

As for the experiences of new arrivals with customs and immigration in Canada they're mixed, naturally vary. Some say officials are helpful, others complain of cavalier treatment. It is the same the world over. Lucky though are the visitors or immigrants for whom everything goes smoothly and pleasantly.

New arrivals are entitled to courteous and efficient treatment at the hands of the authorities. By the same token it is fair to suggest that reception facilities, as in Montreal and Vancouver, are not all they might be.

Pollution

The question of who has jurisdiction over the emptying of waste into the Bay of Quinte and over industrial pollution has caused something of a flurry at the municipal level in recent days.

It appears there has been a misunderstanding. However, the upshot is that the Ontario Water Resources Commission still will prosecute any industry emptying polluted waste into the Bay of Quinte. At the same time municipalities remain responsible for policing their own disposal systems against industrial pollution.

The misunderstanding stemmed from observations made at the annual meeting in Toronto of the Ontario Municipal Water Association and reported in this newspaper Tuesday.

The situation then is as it was before, with no change in areas of responsibility.

What should concern us more than any quarrel over jurisdiction is the fact of pollution itself. This is a growing blight on society, a growing threat to the health of this and future generations.

This is no time for argument over who is responsible for curbing this man-made monster. It is up to everyone, from the government and its agents like the Ontario Water Resources Commission down to individual citizens to play a part in ensuring that pollution is tracked down and disposed of.

Better still, with industries taking steps to reduce waste material in the air and water and the avoidance by individuals of any action that contributes to pollution, the problem could be greatly lessened at source.

Pearson and Hees Put Strain on Good Neighborliness

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Just for a moment forget the Liberal leadership race, the financial crisis, high and ever-higher taxes and the great-falling of this wonderful weary accident-prone government.

Let's just talk folks.

Like folks in the House of Commons.

For often in between crunches on urgent national issues, this political echo — chamber sounds like one big happy family.

Even to little personal spats and squabbles.

The government tonight be fighting for its very life (again), the dollar may be dicey, the bond market in deep shock, and the cabinet running off in eight different directions as eight of its members 'race for the Liberal leadership and still the man killing job of being prime minister.

All these things and more may be happening, with enough action for an old-time eight-ring circus, but the Commons can still take time out to get down to the nitty gritty of personal trivia.

There they were slam-banging away at each other in the no-holds-barred best of the daily question period trading karate chops over such things as Vietnam, the quaky economy, the shaky government credit, rising taxes, falling farm prices and such basic bread and butter things — when up pipes happy-go-lucky millionaire politician George Hees.

Only this time he is not so happy-go-lucky.

He is playing his old role of financier — he learned the part during his years as president of the Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchange, — and in all seriousness he wants to know what Prime Minister Pearson and his "million dollar cabinet" are doing about inflation.

(It is known as the "million dollar cabinet" because it costs a shade more than $1,000,000 to meet the payroll for all 27 of its members.)

And for some reason — perhaps not so oddly, since he has been very sensitive about such things as rising prices and taxes spiralling into inflation — the prime minister suddenly loses his usual cool.

He tells George Hees that unless he holds his tongue about such unhappy things as inflation, he will discover it will be costing him money.

"If he keeps on asking this kind of question," snaps the prime minister as the House sits open - mouthed with astonishment, "I will have to raise his rent."

Breaking the sudden silence, another Conservative MP shouts: "More inflation!"

"This is restraint!" sings out yet another Tory MP.

George Hees is probably as surprised as anyone else by the prime minister's threat as a landlord to raise his rent as a tenant.

And almost as surprisingly, he takes high ground and very loftily suggests that the prime minister answer his question about inflation "and cease and desist from reflecting on my personal lodging situation."

Until he adds, in chilly tones, "Let me bring the prime minister up to date — his wife already has raised my rent."

(Mrs. Pearson is the owner of a three bedroom two-bath-sunken living room duplex in Ottawa's old-fashioned if still very fashionable Sandy Hill district, something of a diplomatic enclave, with George and Mabel Hees occupying one of the two apartments.)

"And I must regretfully inform the prime minister that as a result of his wife's action, he is losing a very good tenant."

By now, cast in the role of the heartless landlord, the prime minister's hackles are really up and he snaps back, waspishly:

"We did it, knowing it would be unacceptable and therefore there would be no increase in inflationary spending."

"Well," snorted George Hees moments later, when he came steaming out of the House and into the lobby, "how do you like them apples?"

What was it all about? Well, Maryon Pearson had raised George Hees' rent from $300 to $350 monthly.

So now what are they going to do?

They are going to be neighbors, both the Pearsons and the Hees having bought plush, $90,000-or-better pads out in ritzy Rockcliffe Village, a luxury suburb populated by the expense-account, tax free diplomatic set, insurance company presidents, proprietors of the banks and companies which print Canada's currency and postage, retired millionaires, corporation chairmen and assorted wheeler-dealers.

A Critical View of Marriage

Hamilton Spectator

Marriage should have a renewable contract clause, advises University of Toronto psychiatrist John Rich. The suggestion holds vast implications.

Instead of a best man and bridesmaid, the happy couple would approach the altar with their legal counsel, to utter the all - important words, "... in sickness and in health, until 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the third day of April, 1973."

Society pages would announce: Renewed Contracts. Greeting cards would announce, "Congratulations on Your Renewal" and husbands would send a knee once every five years to ask, tenderly, "Beloved, will you and your lawyer renew our contract and agree to a subsidiary clause to cover the kids?"

Russia's Allies Seek More Freedom

By CY FOX

Canadian Press Staff Writer

An urge towards greater freedom is sizzling across parts of Eastern Europe.

But the Soviet Union, which acted decisively 12 years ago against rebellion in Hungary, seems highly cautious about using military force this time.

The Russians show they are anxious to restore Moscow-controlled discipline over world communism. At the recent Budapest conference, they successfully pressed for a world gathering of party leaders aimed primarily at curbing China.

The Budapest victory symbolized Russia's current reliance on political instead of military means for making Moscow's will prevail.

But it came at the cost of a contemptuous walkout by Romanian delegates, who differ from other East Europeans in their almost-kindly attitude towards West Germany but share widespread resurgence of independent nationalism.

Now come more indications of impatience among Russia's allies with any iron rule, whether imposed from Moscow or local capitals.

Officials are denounced in Poland, too. But there the verbal attacks on old-line Communists lack official sanction.

The Warsaw government seems determined to put down the rebellious outbursts but the demonstrations continue.

The street violence in Poland betrays a degree of desperation among the rebels not immediately evident among the enemies of Czech President Antonin Novotny.

Novotny lost the powerful post of first party secretary to pro-liberal Alexander Dubcek months ago and allies of the president are experiencing public disgrace at a rapid rate.

Montreal Port Facilities

Montreal Gazette

The port of Montreal is a national port and one of the most important in the world. What happens there is the concern of people in the whole nation. We all know that this port is sick and has been getting worse for quite some time. Now another inquiry has been ordered by the government. May I contribute to it the following?

When the Polish liner Batory arrived in the second half of September, 1967, the passengers were ready to disembark at 8 a.m. About 20 taxis were waiting. The customs officers were ready. On deck of the steamer was a heap o. perhaps 200 suitcases, most of them weighing less than 30 pounds. The distance from these suitcases to the customs room was not more than 40 yards and there was a conveyor belt. Most passengers could have taken their suitcases and walked with them to a line in a railway station, but in the port of Montreal passengers depend on the unskilled or low longshoremen. About a dozen men were on duty when the only one still were actually doing something. None of the workers took more than one suitcase at one time, the young worker actually kept one hand in his pocket all the time. And it took till 11.30 to unload the baggage. To transport one suitcase this distance of 40 yards with the help of a conveyor must have cost around two dollars.

As a Canadian I was deeply ashamed that such a spectacle of deliberate bad will should greet the visitors from a Communist country.

Unification Scars Haunt Paul Hellyer in Leadership Bid

OTTAWA (CP) — "Paul Hellyer, as transport minister and government builder, has aimed much of his Liberal leadership campaign toward plans for new and better cities.

But on April 6 the tall, grey-haired Torontonian probably will stand or fall on his reputation as the man who unified the armed forces.

Mr. Hellyer concedes that the unification war has left political scars, but his campaign literature does not back away from the issue.

Says a profile:

"In dealing not only the armed forces he (Mr. Hellyer) carried through a reform that has been advocated by many experts all over the world, but no one—until Paul Hellyer came along—had had the courage to actually do it."

Mr. Hellyer has been running longer and harder than most of his fellow candidates. He entered the Commons at the age of 25, became a cabinet minister at 33 and hopes to be prime minister before his 45th birthday.

He has called for creation of new cities with populations of up to 4,000,000 designed around mass rapid transit systems.

The "uncontrolled fury of megalopolis" would be controlled by drawing definite limits around existing cities to permit their orderly redevelopment.

As a youth he trained as an aeronautical engineer in California, then worked in an aircraft plant in Fort Erie, Ont. from 1942 to 1945. He joined the air force in 1945 and switched to the artillery because the air force no longer needed pilots.

In the post-war years, Mr. Hellyer opened a Toronto dress shop with his wife's help, took his BA degree and made his first move into politics with a 1953 victory in the Conservative stronghold of Toronto Davenport.

He was named associate defence minister in 1957, just six weeks before the Liberal government fell, and he himself was defeated in both 1957 and 1958.

But he came back with a byelection victory in Toronto Trinity late in 1958, a win which his campaign literature says started the Liberal "resurgence."

Montreal Economist Says Time Ripe for Free Trade Area

MONTREAL (CP) — The time has arrived for political discussion of a North Atlantic free trade area, Montreal economist Nicholas Takacsy said Wednesday.

Speaking during the last day of a three-day seminar on the Canadian economy and investment trends, organized by the Canadian Management Centre, he suggested an area including Canada, the United States and member-countries of the European Free Trade Association.

At a later date entry might be granted to other groups such as the European Economic Community.

Arguing for a general liberalization of world trade, he warned that "a piecemeal approach" such as "successive multilateral attacks on industrial tariffs" probably was not best suited to Canada's economic interests.

Resolution of the present world monetary crisis would be helped by a recommendation of the Group of Ten in Stockholm this week to defer months of a plan to introduce a new monetary device called Special Drawing Rights, or SDRs.

The Group of Ten consists of the 10 major trading nations in the 107-member International Monetary Fund, which already has agreed in principle to the introduction of SDRs.

The 10 are Belgium, Britain, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands, Sweden and the United States.

Although a form of paper money, they would be redeemable against normal currency when necessary.

Mr. Takacsy thought the system could not work without the agreement of France, known to have reservations.

Among several things that could happen if agreement was not reached on early introduction of SDRs the "worst" was "for a split of the Free World into a dollar, or North American, bloc and a gold, or European, bloc."

"Second-worst" but "not disastrous" would be an increase in the price of gold.

In earlier speeches a Winnipeg investment expert said mutual funds have changed Canadian investment trends and a Montreal financial expert said institutional investors have improved company management by "hard questions and objective scrutiny."

Robert Jones, vice - president in charge of the securities investment division of The Investors Group of Winnipeg, said mutual funds in recent years have become aggressive in outlook.

They had led a major Canadian trend to invest in U.S. companies, especially those involved in modern technological developments, and also had taken their money out of Canadian blue chip companies and put much of it into small Canadian companies developing offshoot products of the technology race.

George Wallace, vice-president, finance, of the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada, said institutional investors concentrate heavily on management ability when judging a company's potential and this keeps managements on their toes.

He was disturbed, however, at the trend of some funds to engage in "performance" races, which led to large buying and selling of company stocks for short-term profit. This causing wild price swings in basically stable stocks.

Wellington Approved For Loans

PICTON (Staff) — The Village of Wellington is now the fifth municipality in Prince Edward County to be approved under the Ontario Government's Equalized Industrial Opportunities Program.

Reeve Robert Boyce said the council applied for the program about two weeks ago.

Under the program, special loans are available from the Ontario Development Corporation for new or existing industrial investment.

Reeve Boyce said at least two present industries in the village have expressed an interest in the program so far.

One major industry in the county, Quinte Milk Products, located just outside Wellington, has already benefitted through Hallowell Township's request having been approved.

Other communities already designated are Picton, Bloomfield and Sophiasburgh Township.

Youth Groups Enjoy Time Of Fellowship

READ — For the second time in a few weeks, St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church members have extended the right hand of fellowship to the Melrose United Church.

Sunday evening the Hi-C members of Melrose were invited to meet with the Catholic Youth Organization members of Read to hear a prominent speaker. The meeting took place in the Separate School.

Bruce Robertson, an official from ALCAN in Kingston, gave an informative talk on management-labor relations, and aroused the interest and enthusiasm of his young listeners. An active discussion period followed. He impressed them with the fact that in all phases of life they must not be merely by-standers. They must participate.

A few games were played at the close of the address, and refreshments were served.

Ford Expected to Settle Without Strike

TORONTO (CP) — United Auto Workers negotiators looked forward today to an early settlement with Ford of Canada Ltd. after they won wage parity with U.S. workers Wednesday in a contract with General Motors of Canada.

The parity issue was won without the workers having to give up their present system of stopping production for coffee breaks. Chrysler Canada Ltd. workers last November also won wage parity with their U.S. counterparts and retained the Canadian system of rest breaks.

George Burt, UAW Canadian director, said Wednesday the GM agreement should lead to early settlement with Ford "without a strike." He said negotiations on behalf of Ford's 12,000 Canadian workers would be intensified and a strike deadline might be set today.

The new GM contract provides for wage parity to be achieved in five stages, the last coming in June, 1970. It means that by the end of the contract, assembly-line workers will earn $3.65 an hour and skilled tradesmen $5.04 an hour.

The new 2½-year agreement came on the 47th day of a strike by UAW members at GM and subsidiary plants in Toronto, Oshawa, St. Catharines, London, Ont.; Windsor, Ont., and Ste. Therese, Que.

The company said about 23,000 workers were involved in the strike. The union set the figure at 25,000.

Union spokesmen said the agreement will be presented for ratification today.

The first increase is an immediate 20 cents an hour for all workers retroactive to Nov. 6, 1967. An additional 30 cents an hour for skilled tradesmen only is also retroactive to Nov. 6.

Hourly rates under the previous agreement were $2.99 for production workers and from $3.27 to $3.69 for skilled tradesmen. The rates included a cost-of-living allowance.

The wage-parity clause, however, makes no provision for the difference of about eight cents between the value of the U.S. and Canadian dollars.

Strike Not Trial for GM Workers

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — "I guess most of us still can't believe it," said parts worker John Mazurkievich, commenting on the strike settlement with General Motors of Canada Ltd., which gave Canadian GM workers wage parity with those in the United States.

Workers here have accepted with a matter-of-fact attitude the settlement Wednesday of the strike which began 47 days ago. The strike also affected workers in six other GM plants in Canada.

When the settlement, reached by negotiators in Toronto, was announced at the United Auto Workers union hall here, there were no shouts of joy or celebration.

However, the underlying reasons for the attitude may be reflected in the overriding impression that emerges from the strike in this city of 65,000—that little real suffering was experienced by the 12,300 workers during the long weeks of living on meagre strike benefits.

The contract, which expires Sept. 14, 1970, calls for an immediate wage increase of 20 cents an hour for all employees retroactive to Nov. 6, 1967. It also provides for an additional 30 cents an hour for skilled employees, retroactive to Nov. 6, 1967.

Union and civic officials list three chief reasons for this.

These are the union strike fund, which paid for such essentials as groceries, the willingness of many business concerns to overlook delays in monthly payments for basic services such as hydro, telephone and rent, and pre-strike preparations by many workers who put aside money in anticipation of strikes.

"There have been no foreclosures or evictions, although many strikers are far behind in paying rents. Mary Tilk, 30, who took over the upbringing of her two children after she and her husband separated two years ago, is two months behind in her rent, but she did not even receive a notice of overdue payment.

Marion Manlove, of Anderson, Ind., international UAW representative who came here to administer the strike program, said Wednesday more than $2,000,000 has been paid out so far in assistance to Oshawa workers.

About $1,500,000 was paid in cash directly to workers—$30 a week for a married man with a family, $25 to a married man with no family, and $20 to single men.

The winning of retroactive pay and wage parity with United States workers under the new contract caused the most talk among Oshawa workers.

They regarded the extra money they will receive as a means of debts incurred during the strike.

Civitas Group Aids Mentally Retarded

NAPANEE — At its March meeting, the Lennox and Addington Association for the Mentally Retarded learned that an organization exists whose chief object is to aid the mentally retarded.

Constable John Buchanan who joined the Napanee Police Department not long ago, said that when in Perth, he had belonged to Civitas International. It is a service club similar to the Rotary Club or the Lions Club, but, whereas most service clubs assist worthy causes of many kinds, concentrating on the one in the club area most in need of assistance, Civitas concentrates everywhere on aiding the retarded, when minor assistance given to other causes. For example, the Civitas Club in Perth of which he was a member paid $400 last year for a lot on which the Association will some day build its school.

The organization came into being in Birmingham 48 years ago, and that city is still the headquarters, at first they concentrated on TB which was then prevalent, but since medical science has learned to control this disease, Civitas has turned its attention to the retarded, since retardation is so much more in need of help. The public is only now becoming aware of how wide spread this affliction is, and how badly help is needed.

Constable Buchanan has hope that Civitas Club can be set up in Napanee, but admits that in the short time he has been here, he had made much progress. There are clubs in Perth, Brockville, Cornwall, Kingston, Toronto and Quebec, several in the Montreal area. One existed for a short time in Kingston.

Constable Buchanan was introduced by Mrs. John Hinch and thanked by Harold Todd.

The question of sending a delegate to the annual meeting of the Association in Sault Ste. Marie was dircussed, but no member felt able to attend. It was decided that the Lennox and Addington Association would not send a delegate.

An education committee was set up, consisting of Gordon Kimmett, Gerald Benn, Harold Todd and Charles Brooks.

The meeting was heartened by the report of the chairman and the membership committee, Mrs. Harold Todd, who stated that renewals for 1968 were coming in earlier than is usually the case. There is great need of wider membership. The fee for one person is $2, and $3 for a family. One dollar of this fee goes to pay for the literature which is sent from headquarters to each member describing to him the work done by the organization, and the surprising amount of improvement which comes to the retarded with training.

TORONTO STOCKS

Total advances outnumbered declines 150 to 82 as industrials and oils posted moderate gains. Base metals were mixed and golds drooped.

Jockey Club jumped 20 cents to a 1968 high of 3.25 after the Ontario government introduced legislation Wednesday permitting horse racing on Sundays. The stock rose 20 cents Wednesday.

Canadian Industrial Gas and Consumers' Gas gained ½ each to 11 and 18¼ and Canadian Hydrocarbons, which reported sharply increased annual earnings, ¾ to 10¼.

In the oils section, Canadian Export Gas continued its surge with an advance of 25 cents to 6.80 on sales of 17,000 shares. The stock soared 95 cents Wednesday.

Gold mines continued to sag as many smaller issues joined the latest decline that began Wednesday. Dome fell 1¼ to 62½, Campbell Red Lake ¾ to 32¼, Kerr Addison ¼ to 16, Camflo 20 cents to 5.50, Dickenson 15 cents to 4.45 and Aunor 10 cents to 3.50.

On index, industrials were up .37 to 146.25 and oils 1.60 to 172.19. Golds declined 3.96 to 212.39 and base metals .19 to 97.54.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,174,000 shares compared with 822,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Wednesday the market launched a strong rally after six days of sluggish trading and slipping prices.

School Board May Buy Club

The Belleville public school board is showing an interest in the purchase of a motel, swimming pool and 100 acres of land in Central Hastings.

An item concerning the issue was placed on the agenda of Monday night's board meeting which was cancelled when only three trustees were able to attend the meeting.

Boards with a pupil enrolment of 10,000 or more may enter into such a program under the school act. This would mean the public school board could only recommend the purchase to the new county school board which will be set up next January.

The public school board has 5,000 children enrolled at the present time. The county board will have a total enrolment of 27,000 students.

The property, according to the agenda, is located in Elzevir Township about 15 miles north of Madoc.

It is reported to be worth an estimated $100,000 but might be available for less than $15,000.

The 100-acre site was formerly known as the Hastings County Rod and Gun Club. It is located on the Black River near Cooper and has been seized for taxes by Elzevir Township.

The buildings are reported to be in good condition and would provide cooking, dining and lecture facilities as well as sleeping accommodation for 48 people. The swimming pool would also be included in the purchase.

"The problem at the present time would be to determine whether it is of real interest and if so how that interest could be conveyed to both the township and the interim committee" the agenda states.

"This subject would appear to be of prime interest to the curriculum committee."

Spirit of Blitz Grips Britain

LONDON (AP) — The old spirit of the blitz—"Live today and forget tomorrow"—has gripped the British again. This time the siege is economic not military, but the mood encompasses wild liberality to educated despair, as it did in the Second World War.

"Two years of hard sacrifice," the Labor government says will save the country from bankruptcy.

There's little sign of sacrifice in Britain today. Stores report a buying spree for cars, refrigerators, clothes, carpets—everything. Crowds at soccer matches are the biggest and rowdiest in 20 years. Betting shops and bingo halls have more callers than room for them.

"I've given up saving money," said Barry Gray, a young London businessman. "I was saving to buy a house but prices are so impossibly high that I've dropped the idea and I'm enjoying a stupendous spending spree."

In a roistering pub in fashionable St. John's Wood, landlord David Thomas roared with laughter: "Sacrifice? Times have never been better. They're all drinking themselves to death, just to forget."

The devil-may-care mood, particularly among Britain's swinging teen-agers and marching students, has alarmed some observers. Quintin Hogg, former chairman of the Conservative party, says a new contempt for authority shows "the marks of a sick society on the verge of a dictatorship."

The call for sacrifice was made by the chancellor of the exchequer, Roy Jenkins, in introducing a special budget billed as the most stringent since the 1930s.

One London newspaper headlined: "You Name It, He's Taxed It!"

Maurice Littlehampton, creation of cartoonist Osbert Lancaster, observed jolly in The Daily Express: "We're a nonsmoking teetotaler with a brand new car, mad on collecting savings certificates and living in an under-developed country. I'd say Mr. Jenkins has done a splendid job."

The sobering-up process may be on the way. The Grocer, a trade magazine, predicts retail price increases up to 10 per cent by Christmas.

Authority Meeting Planned

TRENTON — The drive to establish a lower Trent Valley Conservation authority has come to the final stage.

Organizers announced Wednesday the founding meeting has been scheduled for April 30 in Brighton's agricultural center.

Under provincial legislation the meeting must be attended by two-thirds of the municipalities in the proposed watershed area and a two-thirds majority of those present is required to give the go-ahead for establishing an authority.

Several of the 17 municipal councils in the proposed authority area have already submitted the required petition to the department of Energy and Resources Management.

A lower Trent authority would serve the greater part of Northumberland county and West Hastings, one of the few areas in southern Ontario not as yet lying in the jurisdiction of a conservation body.

Organizers have convened several information meetings throughout the area to raise support for project. A similar drive in 1961 met with the rejection of the majority of municipalities concerned.

The Play's the Thing

Drama Groups Play Vital Roles in City's High Schools

As in many of the high schools throughout the city, drama is one of the "in" groups at Moira Secondary School. Here three students look over sketches for a display night which will be held early in May.

By STEVE BISHOP

Theatre is by no means the exclusive property of the white-tie-and-tails set. And professional theatre groups are not the only ones who present it to the public.

High school students approach drama with enthusiasm all across Belleville. With the aid of staff members willing to donate time to the atrical enterprise, the students have achieved some notable successes, and had a lot of fun in the process.

The Moira Drama Club, under the auspices of Christopher Marshall, scored a considerable achievement by placing second at the South Kawartha District Drama Festival in Coboorg earlier this month with the play The Lottery.

Since coming to Moira in 1966, Mr. Marshall and his wife have built a solid drama group, with an enthusiastic and steadily growing membership. The club is currently working on a series of sketches by English playwright Paul Ableman for Moira's Display Night early in May.

Mr. Marshall has found Moira students keen on drama, and they direct well as a group.

Sister Mary Fleurette has produced a number of excellent productions in her seven years at Nicholson. Perhaps the most outstanding was The Queen and the Rebels, put on by the Nicholson group three years ago. It was only the second time the play had been done in Canada (after the CBC) and enjoyed no small success.

Succeeding years have brought such well-known plays as The Miracle Worker, The Little Moon of Alban, and this year's presentation of Pygmalion, which played to packed houses for each of its two nights, and brought in two busloads of students from Kingston, who were studying the play in school.

At Christmas, the group put on the play Sorry-Wrong Number, plus a Christmas tableau, and it is currently working on a Holy Week drama.

Sister Mary Fleurette stated: "I have a very enthusiastic group. They are very dedicated to the pursuit of drama."

Centennial has come up with an enthusiastic group in its first year, according to Leo Holland, who is in charge of the school's theatrical endeavors.

"We don't have a drama club as such," Mr. Holland stated. "I call for volunteers, and the response is very good. We could have a strong drama club any time we wanted it."

The group has already put on two productions, including A Christmas Carol. But the biggest presentation is yet to come. This will be a Night of Entertainment in which George Bernard Shaw's one-act play Poison, Passion and Petrifaction will be put on in addition to performances by the school band, and the school's folk-singing group. The date is April 25.

BCI and Quinte have both experienced difficulties with their drama groups this year, and have been unable to present their annual plays, although BCI's Kampus Kapers and Quinte's Variety Night went on as usual.

The difficulties at BCI this year should be cleared up by next year, according to Miss Kathleen Morrison, the staff member in charge of the dramatic group, who expects the group's annual "January presentation to return to the BCI stage next year.

Meanwhile the students remain enthusiastic. "The students both onstage and backstage get a real sense of achievement," Miss Morrison said "although the audiences are not always as good as we would like."

W. P. Buckley, who is in charge of Quinte dramatics along with Miss Maribeth Anderson, said that there was lots of interest and talent at the school, but too many students interested in drama were involved in other activities.

"Production must be started early," Mr. Buckley explained, "but we were unable to do so this year."

But Quinte's Drama Club should be back in business next year. Proof of student interest is the fact that two plays were brought in from out-of-town. The Picton Drama Club put on Antigone and a group from Newcastle did A Man for All Seasons.

The school is not the only place where student interest in drama manifests itself. The Forum, a group open to all those interested in drama, draws at least half of its membership from city high school students. Many teachers are also involved with the group.

The Forum, which is centred in St. Thomas Parish Hall, has achieved a great deal of success in the first year of operation. It has presented eight plays, a revue, and two folk-singing programs, and always to a house at least three-quarters full. Each time, the group has made a profit.

The first weekend in May, the Forum will present three plays, Dock Brief, Middleton, and Welfare 98. This last was written by one of the group's members, George Brickwood, principal of the public school at the Armed Forces Base at Trenton. Students will be involved in the presentation of all three.

The Forum's next play, Christopher Fry's A Phoenix Too Frequent, features three city high school students, Jeff Hume and Sue Brickwood from Moira, and Pam Taylor from Quinte.

Both within school and without, young people who want to pursue drama as a career, and those who want a challenging and satisfying hobby, are finding lots of expression for their enthusiasm and talent in Belleville.

'Bitter Sweet' Entertain

NCC Event Successful

By DONNA WHALEN

With the advent of the final term, the end of the academic year is not so distant as it once seemed in September. Students visualize lazy summer days, perhaps a part time job, and some of the unfortunate forese summer school as an inevitable consequence. In spite of the latter possibility, there was a general expression of optimism as the doors of Nicholson swung open once more and students tread back, somewhat reluctantly, but with a rmile, new books and a freshly pressed uniform; and willing, if not eager to finish off the term with a commendable standing.

True to their Irish ancestry, many NCC students made merry on St. Patrick's day by attending a social event at the school. Games and a hoodenanny highlighted the entertainment along with a dance with the music provided by The Bitter Sweet, a great local band.

Green made the scene at this event. Green and white, Nicholson's school colors, have been popularized lately because the boys decided they wanted school jackets. So if you see a green and white jacket, you'll know that the person wearing it is from Nicholson and, also, if he's lucky, he may be Irish.

The Project for the Poor campaign is now over and the final tally shows a grand total of $282. Gratitude is extended to all those who helped in this worthwhile project — either by attending the dances or by giving a personal donation.

BCI Key Club News

B.C.I.V.S. Key Clubbers yesterday elected Brad Brummel, 17-year-old grade 12 student, as their president. Brummel will understudy incumbent Dave Cass for the next six weeks and will assume office in mid - May for a one-year term.

The Key Club is a high school service club affiliated with Kiwanis International, but operating under its own International organization. Randall Berry, B.C.I. shop teacher, is the school advisor to the Key Club.

In the same election, Peter "Rabbitt" Loyu was elected vice - president. Fifteen - year - old Jim Bateman becomes secretary, and 16-year-old Paul Haggs, treasurer.

Earlier in the week, incumbent vice-president 16-year-old Tom Gill, grade 12 honor student, was elected Lieutenant Governor of Division 9. Ten Key Clubs in six cities from Cornwall to Trenton comprise this division.

The B.C.I. Key Club placed top in the Division in recent competitions for quality in performance. Its 22 members meet weekly on Wednesday noon. Recent projects include the cleaning and interior decorating of the County Museum, assistance to both Kiwanis clubs in fund - raising projects, and assistance at Kiwanis travelogues.

Change in Milk Container Welcomed by BCI Students

By SUE BOARDMAN

Well the exams are all over now and so are the holidays, unfortunately. The next taste that we will get of both will be in June.

Over the holidays the school janitors worked very hard scrubbing floors and washing windows to make the school bright and fair for us when we returned to school on Monday.

There hasn't been any violent reaction to the rise in the price of milk here at Quinte, but Monday morning it was announced that eight ounce cartons of milk will now be sold for ten cents, which is a welcome change.

One of our students, Peter Wellstein, has become quite well known for his skiing abilities. He has competed in many contests and has placed very well in all of the. Peter is one of the two amateur skiers who have been invited to enter in the Du Maurier Cup this weekend in British Columbia. He has spent two weeks practising for this big event in Vermont.

But practising in Vermont and going to BC is going to cost Peter and the Belawa Ski Club (of which he is a member) a lot of money, say $500, for the trip to British Columbia

Because we are all so proud of Peter and of his accomplishments we at Quinte are going to hold a bake sale in order to collect some money to help him out. Our aim is $300 which works out to about 25 cents a person if you're worried about it). I am sure Peter will place very well and this may lead to him being a member of our national team, and that could lead to the Olympics, which is what we are all hoping for. So come on Quinte and support a fellow student.

Are you people interested in having a formal at Quinte this year or would you like one that would be a split effort like we had last year? It has not been decided as of yet what exactly is going to be done, but outlined plans have been made to have one at Quinte.

Plans are beginning to take form for Quinte's formal. It is to be held during the last week of April. The theme is "mod" and in keeping with this, there will be a more up tempo band. Dress for the girls however is still to be long cocktail length — boys be conservative. The crowning of Quinte's royal family will take place then. More information will be available next week.

More next week, same time same channel.

Exciting Assembly Expected at Moira

By STEPHEN HUNTER

Well it's back to the grind again and with only 10 weeks of school left the grinding is getting really tough. This is the glorious time of the year.

The time when your essay assigned in January is due and you haven't even started it; the time when you wished you had studied in December so you wouldn't be worrying so much; the time when your parents tell you to look for a summer job because you're going to have to pay board at home.

Yes, isn't spring grand.

Speaking of grand things the students of Moira are about to be surrounded by the excitement, beauty and grandeur of this year's grade 13 assembly. The assembly is slated for Wednesday April 10 and it is going to be the most stupendous event since Zelda Skewartz swam the bay of Quinte and lived; (for more than 5 hours, before dying of exotic pollutionis).

I am not allowed to release any more information on the assembly at the risk of my life, so I'll just warn you to be ready to enjoy yourselves on April 10.

Congratulations are in order for Wayne Morris who took 4th place in the Dominion wrestling finals at Edmonton. In true Moira Trojan spirit, Wayne proved that Moira is the best school in this or any other province. Congratulations, Morris, Moira is proud of your achievement.

ROBBING PETER TO PAY PAUL?

Are you robbing the household account to pay the rent? Balancing the budget isn't easy but you may be overlooking a source of ready cash. Gather together all the things in the house that are no-longer used but still useful. Then dial 962-9171 to place an Intelligencer Want Ad. You'll be amazed at the number of people who want to buy those things . . . and happy with the cash! Call us right now!

This little fellows' legs are streng thened by special braces purchased with Easter Seal Campaign funds. He like 16,000 other crippled children, has been helped by Easter Seal service clubs and the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. This year's campaign runs to April 14th and the objective is $1,400,000.

Today, more than ever before, camping is a way of life to countless thousands of people — including 16,000 crippled children.

Unfortunately though, few of these children could take full advantage of Ontario's magnificent provincial parks or other similar facilities. However, this does not mean they are deprived of a camp holiday with outdoor barbecue, sleeping bags, plain ordinary roughing out pleasures, swimming or fishing.

The Ontario Society for Crippled Children owns and operates five ultra modern summer camps such as Northwood, near Kirkland Lake; Blue Mountain, just outside of Collingwood, Lakewood, beside Port Colborne; Merrywood, between Perth and Smith's Falls and Woodeden on the outskirts of London. All camps provide the ultimate in facilities, home cooked meals, special counsellors and that all important camp atmosphere.

A donation to the 1968 Easter Seal Campaign will ensure that every needy crippled child will enjoy a health-giving vacation this summer at one of these camp sites. Return the convenient pink envelope to your local Easter Seal service club today and remember it be generous.

Women's Liberal Assoc. Hears Convention Report

During the business meeting president Marylea Burtt reported on the Ontario Women's Liberal Association meeting in Toronto. It was mentioned that one of the resolutions passed at the meeting was "The Ontario Women's Liberal Association go on record as promising to do all it can to uplift the general image of Canadian politicians of all parties; to refrain from demeaning politicians, and to criticize only when politically aware of the facts, and when the criticism is to the good of Canada as a whole, and that members urge all politicians of all parties to refrain from vengefulness in debate, from mud - slinging in Parliament and to put the interest of the nation above the interest of the party."

Clare Jury was appointed chairman of the annual telephone bridge and euchre to be held on Wednesday, May 22nd.

The nominating committee consisting of past president Clare Jury, Peggy Hammel and Irene Kennedy will bring in a slate of officers at the annual meeting in May.

Marg Kvarda, vice-president of the Hastings Riding Association, reported that the new riding constitution will be presented to the association in May.

A bus has been chartered to take any member wishing to go to the National Leadership Convention on Saturday, April 6th.

The Belleville Women's Liberal Association has taken a poll since January on the candidates for the leadership race and the results will be sent to the delegates. At the recent poll taken Pierre Trudeau was the favorite with Paul Martin and Paul Hellyer close behind.

Guest speaker for the evening was Zdenek Kvarda of the Belleville Jaycees who presented plans for the new Civic Centre. He outlined the plans for the citizens' meeting to be held in April, stating that the people of Belleville will have a chance to speak for or against the community project.

Delegates to the leadership convention were present and during refreshments heard the members' views on the candidates.

MR. AND MRS. WILLOUGHBY FOX

Couple Wed for 66 Years

In Ameliasburg township on March 26, 1902 the snow had completely disappeared from the scene, there was no ice in the Bay of Quinte and dust was flying on the gravel roads that led into Belleville.

Yesterday Willoughby Fox visiting his wife at the General Hospital in the city on the occasion of their 66th wedding anniversary recalled the spring was much earlier the year they were married in the Methodist church parsonage at Rednersville.

After the ceremony the newlyweds went by horse and buggy to Belleville where they stopped the first night. The next day they boarded a train for Toronto spending the remainder of their honeymoon with relatives before returning to the Gore Road in Ameliasburg township to commence a long career of farm life together.

The nurses and staff on the third floor, south at the hospital put forth an extra effort playing host for the locally known couple and their visitors remembering the special event on Tuesday.

WEDDING

COOPER — PARKS

St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, was the scene of a double ring ceremony March 16, 1968, at 3 p.m., when Nancy Carol, daughter of Mrs. Viola Parks, Marmora, was married to Donald Ivan Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Cooper, Springbrook.

Rev. David Saunders officiated and Mrs. Harry Neal was organist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Kenneth Parks, the bride wore a full - length white satin gown with rounded neckline and long lily point sleeves Appliques covered the front of the skirt and a train fell from the waistline at the back. A crown of tear - drop pearls held her three - tiered shoulder-length veil and she carried a cross shaped bouquet of white mums and red roses.

The attendants were Mrs. Kathleen Brawley, Peterborough, sister of the bride, as matron of honor; Mrs. Rose Runnals, Trenton, also sister of the bride and Miss Marlene Parks, Quensboro, niece of the bride, as bridesmaids; and another niece, Miss Teresa Courneya, Tweed, as flower girl. All were dressed similarly in floor length red velvet gowns with white accessories and red velvet bow headdresses. They carried bouquets of red roses encircled with white mums.

Leonard Cooper was his brother's attendant and the ushers were Ross Runnals and Paul Leonard. The bride's nephew, Randy Foster, Bannockburn, was ring - bearer.

At the reception in St. Paul's Parish Hall the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a green lace suit, black accessories and a yellow carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

On their return the couple will live in Frankford.

Interior Decor Topic At Arts and Craft Meet

There's no price tag on taste, an interior designer and teacher told members of the Arts and Craft club at their last meeting.

Glen Wardell, Belleville, made the observation as he talked about creating a first home. His advice was aimed at the bachelor, bachelor - girl and just - married, faced with picking colors and furniture styles on a tight budget.

"Accept your first rented home as a neutral shell and buy investment pieces to take care of the essential needs: eating, sleeping, seating and storage," Mr. Wardell said.

"Buy good bedding, a sofa, a basic chest of drawers that can be used anywhere, and eight good matching chairs. You can use the chairs wherever they're needed now, and later move them into their permanent places in the dining room."

Color and move color is the way to add style without expense, the speaker claimed.

Among his suggestions were a painted floor instead of rugs or carpeting; strong color contrasts, such as white walls with great splashes of blue in the furnishings or black against white, a plywood disk mounted on a base and skirted with inexpensive fabric for use as a dining table.

"I feel the unbleached muslin draperies with smart cotton trim, when done well, are much better-looking than skimpy draperies of a good fabric. Make full draperies with enormous hems, so they can be let out and used later in another house or apartment," Mr. Wardell advised.

"Lighting is the most important factor in decorating," he declared in place of a chair you can't afford, put a big pole work a towering branch or weed. Put a small spotlight behind the pot to cast shadows and conceal the ceiling cracks with light patterns. Or string a great weed, mobile fashion, with fishline, and accent it with an obvious spot. Here's how sights behind an old sofa to put it in shadow and make it look clean. Replace the wooden shelves in an old secretary with glass ones; light at the bottom to give the effect of a costly collector's corner."

"For example, if you like English furniture, but see Spanish on sale, don't buy it; it's no bargain even if you have to live with something you don't really like."

UCW Meetings

FRANKFORD UCW

FRANKFORD — Unit 3 of Frankford United Church Women held their March meeting Thursday evening in Rose Lowery Hall, with the leader, Mrs. George McKay in charge.

Mrs. Elmer McCaw will be convener of the birthday box. It was decided to take a bus trip to Pioneer Village June 11.

Mrs. Maurice Bird conducted the worship service. Mrs. Lyle Mater and Mrs. Gordon Savage read poems and Mrs. Gerald Harrington gave the mission study on Japan. She described the life of a typical Japanese family and related the life story of a Japanese Christian.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Look at the way you left the playroom. Don't you care if the house looks like a mess? I'm tired of cleaning up after you."

Mother: "We always put our crayons and books away when we finish coloring. It's selfish to expect someone else to pick up after us."

Kindergartners soon learn to put their supplies away at school because from the first day, that's what they're expected to do. The same good habits can be instilled at a tender age at home.

Successful Living

Thoughts Given on How to Choose A Mate 1869 Style

Dear Readers: A century ago a medical man in New York wrote down some profound thoughts for the guidance of the married and those who contemplate marriage. The following samples will give you the idea:

On women a man should not marry: "An outward indication of an abounding unhealthy and unphysiological life is a small waist." "Avoid them (small waists) as you would the plagues of Egypt, for they encompass sickness, premature decay and death."

"It is best to avoid marrying widows . . .They are likely to possess qualities inherent in them, that in their exercise use up the husband's stock of vitality, rapidly weakening the system and causing premature death."

On men a woman should not marry: "Smokers . . .Freedom from tobacco or no husbands." "A man who uses tobacco will generally be found an intensely lustful man, and for this reason especially to be avoided by all right-thinking women."

These are quoted from a book called "The Science of a New Life", (1869), by John Cowan, M.D, and excerpted from a new, letter of the Scientific Introduction Centre, Toronto, with added comment: "The book makes us wonder how many of the conclusions we have reached on our available stock of information will still hold true a hundred years from now."

* * *

Dear Doris: I met this boy about two years ago at a dance. He started writing to me. We sort of liked each other at the time but now I think he just writes me to be polite. I don't want to write to him any more but I don't know whether to tell him or just quit writing.

I want to do it in a nice way and not give him the brush-off. — Cooled Off

Dear Cooled: Full marks to you for wanting to sign off nicely. We can outgrow friendships, and this goes for pen pals as well.

Try this — in your own words: "So much is going on these days that I find it harder and harder to find the time for letter writing. I've enjoyed our correspondence, but it is hard to keep writing to someone you never see. Would you mind very much if we stopped writing to each other? Please tell me how you feel about this."

You never can tell. He might be greatly relieved.

* * *

To Lucky Me: Some drunks are social drinkers, but social drinkers don't need to be drunks. Most of them aren't. While too much booze too often can produce an alcoholic many people do indulge in moderation without ill effects.

Since you didn't get caught on the stuff, try to develop a little tolerance and understanding for those who did.

Waldorf Salad Always Popular

By MARY MOORE

A caterer friend of mine made a point of reminding me of the popularity of jellied salads with her clients. She said that Jellied Waldorf Salad always made a hit and looked attractive on her buffet tables.

So heeding her advice I made Jellied Waldorf Salads for six people and added a delicious new Orange Cream Dressing. I moulded mine in individual moulds and sure enough our guests demolished them to the last morsel.

½ cup chopped walnuts

In a bowl dissolve jelly powder in boiling water. Add lemon rind and juice and chill until it begins to congeal. Add diced unpeeled apple, chopped celery and nuts, and stir to prevent floating fruit, but pour into 3-cup mould before it sets or pour into six or eight individual moulds. (I used eight demi - tasses because they shaped the jelly narrow and tall.)

Chill until set. To remove from 3 - cup mould loosen edges with pointed knife then dip mould into large container holding hot water and count to ten. Invert fancy serving plate over mould and carefully turn over and out. Use same method for individual moulds but turn them out on lettuce - lined small salad plates or wooden bowls.

Serve on delicate cupped lettuce leaves with —

ORANGE CREAM DRESSING: Mix together one-third cup genuine mayonnaise, one-third cup fresh dairy sour cream, and ¼ cup fresh orange juice, until smooth.

Ann Landers

Father and Son Greeting Annoys Wife

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a married woman with an infant son. My husband (age 30) has a habit that turns my stomach. Every time he sees his father (which is about once a week) they kiss each other hello.

Don't you feel a handshake or a slap on the back makes more sense? To be kissing one's father at age 30 seems peculiar to me.

ANN LANDERS

My husband knows I am writing this letter, in fact he will read it before it goes into the envelope. We both want your opinion. — NAUSEATED NANCY.

* * *

DEAR NAUSEATED: Kissing parents is strictly a matter of family training. T'hey nothing peculiar about a grown man greeting his father in this manner. Instead of being nauseated, Nancy, be thankful that your husband and his dad enjoy a warm relationship — it will help your husband have a better relationship with his own son. Today the generation gap is a good many families makes the Grand Canyon look like a small ditch.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week my boyfriend put a cigar band around my finger and said, "We're engaged." It seemed romantic at the time but now I fear that romantic gesture may be a symbol of what our life together will be — never enough money for the real thing. Always substitutes.

Rickey is warm-hearted, attractive, fun to be with, but moody. He's a loner and a drifter. He drinks more than he should and I'm sure this is the main reason he can't hold a job. Rickey's parents have been divorced for 10 years. His mother collects alimony but has a part-time job. She can always get money from her. Frequently she'll stay home from work so she can nurse his hangover and fix him a big breakfast.

Last night when I heard Rick ask his mother for $3 to buy gas I got a little sick to my stomach. He says if I will marry him he won't have to drink, that he'll be able to stay on a job and make a go of things. Yes or no? — JESSICA.

* * *

DEAR JESS: Don't expect a little ceremony to transform an immature, irresponsible kid into a solid, productive adult. Rickey's mother has kept her sonny boy weak and dependent because she needed to be needed. Methinks he sees in you a girl just like the girl who married dear old dad.

Say no unless you want to carry this emotional cripple on your back for the rest of your days.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I say a word to the groom who was mad at his wife because she was too dumb to follow the instructions on a box of macaroni?

A building in Chicago now rests on a corner stone made out of my grandmother's first fruitcake. A workman saw the cake on the back steps, thought it was a brick and in it went. Grandma saw him pick it up but she was too ashamed to speak.

Every good cook has a story or two to tell about an early flop. What's your, Ann? — R.D. 2.

DEAR R.D.: When I was a bride I didn't know rice swelled. I ended up with enough rice to feed everybody in Hong Kong.

GEM AND MINERAL CLUB

The Quinte Gem and Mineral Club held its March meeting last Wednesday at the Entomological Building, Dundas Street.

President Charlie Jeffs opened the meeting and welcomed the members and those included a number of new members. The secretary Lou Andrews read the minutes of the last meeting; also a letter dealing with a gem safari in Australia and New Zealand which sounded most interesting.

The remainder of the evening was spent in displaying various rock specimens and the swapping of same which in turn led to a lively discussion.

Last Sunday at the Recreation Centre, Pinnacle Street, Mr. Paul Rasmussen of Toronto gave a demonstration on silver and gold castings of jewelry settings. Mr. W. Tassie also assisted with the display which presented a great deal of interest to everyone present.

Nova Scotia Last Province Still Undecided About Medicare

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia is the last province in Canada still to make up its governmental mind about whether to join the national medical care insurance scheme next July 1.

Only Saskatchewan and British Columbia are definitely in the "yes" column. Seven others have turned it down, at least for this year.

The question: Nova Scotia faces is not whether to participate, but when. The Conservative government of Premier G. I. Smith has handed this hot potato over to the legislature health and welfare committee. An answer is expected before mid-April.

The 10-man committee headed by G. H. (Paddy) Fitzgerald PC — Halifax Cobequid, includes three Liberal Opposition members. The six Liberals in the 46-seat house want to start on the target date.

The 40 Conservatives are divided.

Mr. Fitzgerald, in calling for submissions from the public, said the committee was not interested in hearing if citizens do or do not want medicare. The committee simply wanted opinions on when the plan should be implemented and how it should be financed.

The health committee will make its recommendation after completing study of a weighty report by the Nova Scotia medical-care insurance advisory commission and holding public and private hearings that deal mostly with financing.

The committee has heard dire warnings from the provincial finance and health departments about the high costs. It has also heard submissions from labor union and citizens' groups that cost estimates are exaggerated and the province cannot afford not to join the plan.

Arguments in favor of starting July 1 are that the federal government will be paying about half of the province's medical expenses and the fact that the province has already made an arrangement with Maritime Medical Care Inc., a doctor-operated service, to administer the plan.

If the province does not join this year, the preparations already made by MMC would be partly wasted.

All five medical doctors in the house favor it. They are the Labor Minister Tom McKeough, Conservatives Jim MacLean, Michael Laffin and J. A. Langille and Liberal Duncan MacMillan.

The medical care commission says the present five-per-cent sales tax used to finance hospital insurance would have to be raised above seven per cent and applied to items now exempt to help meet the cost of a medical care program.

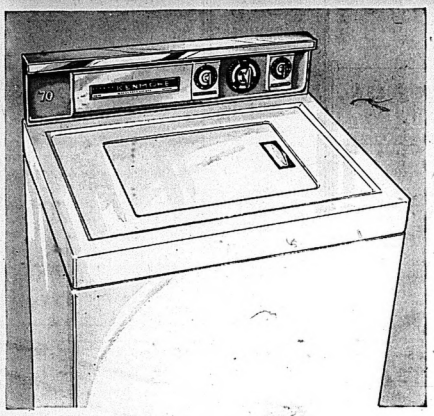
The Nova Scotia Federation of Labor and the big labor unions in the province are pushing for the plan, as are a number of well-organized citizens' groups, strongly supported by the clergy and university professors.

However one big uncertainty is the attitude of the general public.

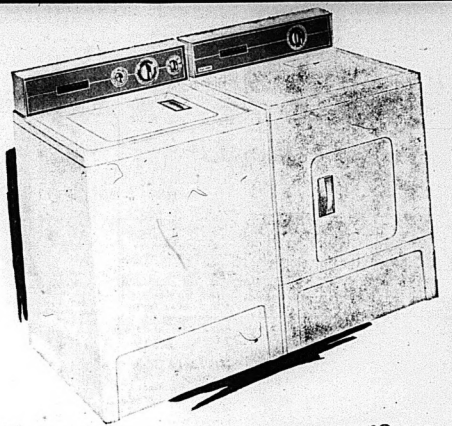
Cruelty and Indecency Charged

HALIFAX (CP) — Cases of cruelty and indecency at the Halifax County hospital at Cole Harbor, near Dartmouth, involved three non-professional weekend members of the hospital staff and charges may be filed against them, hospital officials said Wednesday night.

E. J. Davies, the hospital administrator, and Dr. J. W. Barteaux, the chief medical officer, said in a statement the alleged acts occurred over a three-month period.



"It is emphasized that the acts of cruelty and indecency involved only a few members of the non-professional staff at our hospital on weekend shift and the board of management has authorized that the attorney-general's department be urged to proceed with appropriate charges against the alleged offenders," the statement said.



An RCMP investigation disclosed that three of the 200 staff members were involved.

Dr. Barteaux said the acts of cruelty and homosexuality were limited to one ward, housing about 15 severely retarded patients who were unable to disclose the acts.

Sixteen Persons Remanded On Meat Fraud Charges

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sixteen persons charged with conspiracy to defraud and attempted fraud were remanded in Toronto, Kitchener and Ottawa courts Wednesday following simultaneous raids Tuesday on seven Ontario discount meat stores.

Five of the stores, which advertised sides of beef for as low as 35 cents a pound, are controlled by United States firms, and 11 of the 16 persons arrested are Americans with permits to work in Canada. Regular retail prices for a side of beef ranged from 57 to 62 cents a pound, depending on quality.

Another man, arrested in Bridgeport, Ont., was charged with possession of an unregistered firearm and was remanded to April 3 and freed on $750 bail.

Superintendent James Erskine of the provincial police said the seven stores were raided after several months of coordinated investigation by federal and provincial authorities into customer complaints.

Beef Prices Expected to Fall

OTTAWA (CP) — Pork prices are expected to remain steady in April but beef prices may fall, the economics branch of the federal agriculture department said Wednesday.

Pork supplies in the immediate future are expected to continue above year-ago levels but beef supplies are relatively heavier.

The outlook for other basic foods:

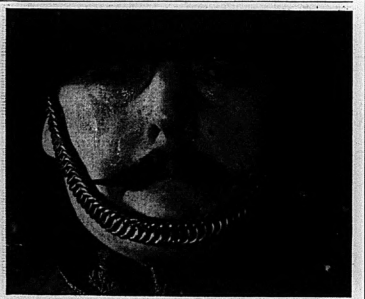
Poultry: Supplies will be down moderately from year-ago levels.

Turkey: Broiler and medium-weight turkey prices will be higher also to sharply-reduced supplies. Stocks of heavy-weight turkeys are plentiful and prices may continue low.



Chicken: Broiler chicken prices will be firm to higher because of reduced production.

Apples: Prices will likely continue steady in the East but may rise in the West.

SPORTSLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

This is the time of the year when a strange breed begins to show signs of restlessness.

You'll find them in every walk of life, anywhere and everywhere sportsmen and sportswomen gather. And where they do not.

Mention "spring" and the more avid of the breed will look at you with eyes aflash and nostrils aflare. This type is the earliest victims of the golf bug.

Right now they're blistering fingers counting of the days until the gal in the vernal green pops out from behind that corner.

And speaking of golf here's a good word for golfers from the expert class down to the dumbest duffer of them all.

Know George Knudson? At least you've heard of him. He's the laddie who shook the golf tourists this year with brilliant victories in two of the top tournaments.

George has turned to the typewriter and will syndicate a special series "Knudson's World of Golf." It will be carried in this newspaper every weekend.

George started swinging a club when he was an 11-year-old caddy at Winnipeg's St. Charles Country Club.

When Al Balding won the Sanford Open in 1955, George realized it wasn't impossible for a Canadian to make a career of golf.

He caddied on the tour for Balding and Vancouver's Stan Leonard and began to learn of the pressures and pleasures of tournament life. By 1957 he'd saved enough money from working at St. Charles to equip his way as an amateur in a couple of United States tournaments.

The 27-year-old Knudson won his first P.G.A. title in 1961 with a win at the Coral Gables Open.

Like all pro golfers, he's had his ups and downs. The 1967 Masters' was a disaster for George. He just didn't have it in the tournament which means more to him — and most other golfers — than any other in the world.

Because of his bad 1967 showing George has worried all winter he wouldn't be invited to Augusta in April 1968. However, in Toronto for a few days following his back-to-back triumphs at Tucson and Phoenix, he found the magic envelope with the Augusta National invitation waiting for him.

George and his wife Shirley have two young sons, Kevin and Paul. He met Shirley at the Oakdale Club in Toronto where she was working one summer while visiting from England. She knows very little about golf, but has travelled with George during the winter tour. Now that Kevin is of school age she'll be staying in Toronto to pack him off each morning and to cope with Paul, age four.

The Knudson's could live regally on his income, but George knows tournament golf won't last forever. Instead, they live comfortably in a rented town house. "I'm putting all my earnings into her name. I don't know how to explain it, but I have given myself to this woman — completely. I want her to have everything I can provide. My lawyers are handling my affairs so Shirley and the kids will be protected if anything happens to me."

For a young man who left Winnipeg with no regard for a dollar bill, Knudson has forced himself into practicality, George says. "My accountant can't believe how much money I can get away with if I have it in my pocket."

For the first two months of 1968 George's winnings came to over $50,000. There are expenses to come from this, of course, but he's not suffering.

Log Jam Tightens In Western Race

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Somebody misplaced the National Hockey League script Wednesday night.

Among the more unexpected results was a 6-0 shutout of Montreal Canadiens by Toronto Maple Leafs while St. Louis Blues cleaned Philadelphia Flyers 3-0 and Los Angeles Kings lost 5-3 to Minnesota North Stars.

The only predictable result was Pittsburgh Penguins 7-4 victory over Oakland Seals, although even there it took six straight Pittsburgh goals to overcome the suddenly fired-up Seals.

Although the Eastern Division result did nothing to the standings, with Montreal already division champions and Toronto out of the playoff picture, the Western results simply created a greater traffic jam at the top than already existed.

The Flyers and the Kings went into Wednesday games tied with 71 points as co-leaders of the Western Division although Philadelphia has two games in hand. But the Minnesota victory boosted them to within two points of the leaders with two games remaining in the 74-game schedule.

And Pittsburgh retained a thin chance of catching St. Louis for the fourth and final playoff berth in the West, although a victory by St. Louis tonight against Philadelphia in Quebec City could eliminate the Penguins despite their game try in the closing league games.

St. Louis has one more game remaining than Pittsburgh.

Other games tonight have New York Rangers at Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks are in Detroit against the Red Wings.

These games are probably the most important of the year, at least for New York, Boston and Chicago. Detroit is on the sidelines with Toronto in the East, Oakland is eliminated in the West.

A Boston victory would move them into a second-place Eastern tie with New York while a Chicago victory and Boston loss would leave the Black Hawks just one point behind the Bruins in the battle to let someone else go against the Canadiens in the first round of the divisional playoffs.

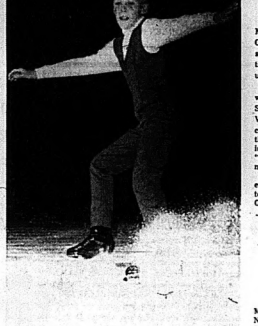
Wednesday the Leafs looked like a team warming up for the playoffs, or a team playing for next year's contract, while the Canadiens gave the impression they just weren't going to take any chances on getting hurt.

After the game, Montreal coach Toe Blake, while observing that his charges will "have to play better than that if we want to stay in the Stanley Cup playoffs" also said:

"I'd never forgive myself if I told them to go out there and push themselves and someone was injured."

There wasn't much chance of anyone hurting himself as the Canadiens took only 26 shots at John Bower in the Toronto goal. The 45-year-old veteran recorded his third shutout of the season and 34th in the NHL.

At the same time Montreal goalie Rogatien Vachon was tested 39 times, 19 times in the first period. Toronto goals went to Murray Oliver, with two, Bob Pulford, Mike Byers, Ron Ellis and Mike Walton.



At St. Louis, Glenn Hall picked up his fifth shutout of the year and 78th in the NHL, as the Blues blasted 33 shots at Philadelphia goalie Doug Favell. Hall had only 17 chances to handle.

St. Louis got goals from Don McKenney, Bill McCreary and Bob Plager.

The Seals had a 3-1 lead as the first period was ending when Ab McDonald and Leo Boivin got their first of two goals each. Wayne Hicks, Gene Ubriaco, and Earl Ingarfield also scored for the Penguins. John Brenneman, with two, Larry Cahan and Billy Harris were the Oakland scorers.

Wayne Connelly scored twice with others going to Parker MacDonald, Bob McCord and Ray Cullen as Minnesota drove to challenge the division leaders.

Montreal's Molson

Would Support Vancouver, If...

TORONTO (CP) — David Molson, president of Montreal Canadiens, Wednesday gave his support to Vancouver as a National Hockey League city, but under certain conditions.

Molson appearing on the CTV weekly program Sports Hot Seat, agreed with the panel that Vancouver was the best hockey city outside the NHL and that the Oakland Seals franchise was in desperate trouble because of "incompetent ownership and management."

But he steadfastly refused to endorse a reported application to purchase and transfer the Oakland franchise to Vancouver by Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd.

Part of the Labatt's offer is underwriting a reported $700,000 debt owed by the 53 Oakland shareholders to the NHL and Molson said that if this is not repaid by the May 15 deadline established by League president Clarence Campbell, the franchise would revert to the league.

He said there were at least two bona-fide offers already to take over the franchise and keep it in the San Francisco-Oakland area.

Molson added that Jack Kent Cooke undertood the Los Angeles Kings franchise only on the understanding that there would be an NHL rival in the San Francisco Bay area, which Molson described as half of the greatest interleity rivalry in North America.

Pinned down on Vacouver, he said "I am in favor of a National Hockey League franchise in Vancouver" but added only on the basis that it met all requirements set forth by the NHL governors.

Artistry In Motion!

He won't be 14 years of age until December this year but the pundits and experts predict a brilliant figure-skating future for him.

He's Kenneth Polk of the Lakeshore Skating Club whose artistry on skates will feature "Schooldays," the Quinte Skating Club's 1968 spectacular which opens here Friday night with a Saturday matinee.

He is entering his fifth year of instruction with Louis Stong, well-known skating professional of Lakeshore.

Kenneth got his seventh-figure in May and his American seventh at Troy, N.Y., this year. He is working on his gold figure.

He already has an imposing array of trophies and awards.

He won the novice competitions in 1966: the junior sectionals, novice Canadians and senior sectionals in 1967 and repeated for the Junior Canadians this year.

Kenneth won his first novice award in 1964 at Summer Free Skating Competitions, took the junior in 1965 and junior and senior men's last year at the Niagara Invitationals held in Buffalo.

Saskatchewan Leads Pack In Senior Curling

EDMONTON (CP) — The west held a clear lead in the Canadian seniors curling championships heading into today's crucial three rounds.

Saskatchewan's Don Wilson of Saskatoon was undefeated in six games and Manitoba's Jim Duncan from Virden, had a 5-1 record.

Wilson was an easy 9-3 winner in the fifth round from the Prince Edward Island rink, skipped by Dr. Wendell MacDonald of Charlottetown, then dropped Quebec's Andy Grant of Unionville 13-4 in the sixth.

Duncan defeated Norman Rockwell of St. John's, Nfld., 9-3 in the fifth and routed Harold Mabey of Moncton, N.B., 13-7 in the sixth to run his winning streak to five after an opening-round loss.

In third place with a 4-1 record is Harold Jordan of Kimberley, B.C., who recovered from a 6-3 loss in the fifth to Northern Ontario's Don MacLean of Sudbury, then edged Rockwell 8-6 in the sixth.

Grant's 4-2 held sole possession of fourth. Don Wright of Hudson, Que., and Bev Snyder's Alberta foursome from Calgary shared fifth with 3-2. New Brunswick was in seventh place with 2-3 in the 11-rink competition. P.E.I. and MacLean have 2-4 records, Lawrence Carter's Amherst, N.S., crew has a 0-5 and Rockwell is winless in six tries.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba met in this morning's seventh round, while Ontario paired with Quebec, New Brunswick with British Columbia, Alberta and Newfoundland and Northern Ontario with Nova Scotia P.E.I. got the bye.

The eighth round, at 3 p.m. MST, had Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, Quebec and Manitoba, Ontario with P.E.I., and Alberta with New Brunswick. Northern Ontario got the bye.

Grant said his loss to Saskatchewan was the worst game he'd curled all winter, but Wilson's rink had "curled exceptionally well."

"When you get trimmed like that (13-4), you've been beaten good," Grant said. Wilson blamed a few "bad" rocks for Grant's loss.

In other games Wednesday, Grant beat Maybe 8-3, Snyder edged Carter 7-6 and went to an extra end for a close 6-5 victory over MacLean and Wright nipped MacDonald 7-6.

Jordan's fall from a fourth-round tie for first went to the final end in the fifth. MacLean had shot rock and Jordan was laying one beside the four-foot circle. The tying rock, Jordan's last, caught one of two Northern Ontario guards. They both went out, leaving MacLean to count one and the game.

Minor Hockey Results

In midgets, Canadiens whipped Bruins 9-3 and Wings dumped Rangers 6-2.

Paul Hall fired three goals; Dave Irwin, Bob Clark, John Tracey, Vaire and McKenna the others for Canadiens. Jeff Morton, Wayne Farrell and Greg Bellis scored for Bruins.

Wings were paced by Kim Hunter's two-goal effort. J. Blatchford, A. Prudden, T. Denver and G. Salmon also scored. Ranger marksmen were M. Geegan and J. Wallace.

Penguins won 4-1 over the Flyers with a three-goal performance by Doug Shaw. Andy Plane had the other tally and Terry Foster scored for the losers.

Canadiens nosed out the Hawks 3-2. Dave Jones scored two and Peter McCormick one for the winners and Jianopolous had both Hawk goals.

No BMHA action is scheduled for the remainder of this week due to the skating carnival.

A general meeting of the BMHA will be held tomorrow (Friday) for the purpose of electing officers, at the E.M.O. Building, Dundas Street, East, at eight o'clock.

Sport Miniatures

ARCADIA, Calif. (CP-AP) — He's A Smoothie, owned by Bill Beasley of Toronto, will probably run in the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap April 6 at Santa Anita. Invitations were extended to 12 internationally known grass-course running horses Wednesday to compete in the race.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Quebec Aces have officially protested Tuesday night's 3-2 loss to Cleveland Barons, the American Hockey League said Wednesday. The Aces said Cleveland used an ineligible player, defenceman Bryan Watson. A hearing will be conducted Friday.

Bobcaygeon Stops Tweed In Opener

TWEED — The visiting Bobcaygeon club outscored Tweed 9-6 in the opening game of their Ontario Minor Hockey Association Midget "D" series, in Tweed, last night.

Second game of the series will be played in Bobcaygeon Saturday at 8.30 p.m.

A Tweed report claims that the series, thought to be the Ontario semi - finals, has been lengthened from a 2-of-3 to a 3-of-5.

Names of goal scorers for last night's game were not available.

Atlanta Braves Tested

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Atlanta slugger Rico Carty, confined to the Southeast Florida Tuberculosis Hospital near here, starts a series of extensive physical examinations today to determine if he has tuberculosis.

The 27-year-old Braves' left fielder entered the hospital Wednesday night after physicians here examined him and the club announced it was likely he had the disease.

A spokesman for the hospital said the full staff of seven doctors, four surgeons and various consultants will consider Carty's case. He said there was no indication how long the tests might take.

Meanwhile, other Atlanta players and team officials were being tested to determine if they have the disease. However, trainer Harvey Stone said it was a precautionary measure and that Carty's illness may be pneumonia.

Novices Meet Madoc Tonight

Food City novices go into the OMHA Zone Four Championships tonight meeting Madoc in the opener starting at 7 p.m. in the village arena.

The second game of the series is slated for Memorial Arena, Thursday, April 4, at 6:45 p.m.

Scotty Bowman May Give Up Coaching Job

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Coach Scotty Bowman of St. Louis Blues said Wednesday this—his rookie year as a National Hockey League coach—might also be his last year as coach of the Blues.

Bowman, at 33 the youngest coach in the NHL, said in a news interview: "I'm not sure I will come back. At the end of the season I plan to take a vacation and see what I want to do. I want to analyse my feelings and then decide on my future."

Bowman took over the coaching chores from Lynn Patrick early in the season. Patrick decided to devote himself entirely to his general manager's role.

60-Year-Old Will Defend Snooker Title

TORONTO (CP) — A 60-year-old champion who suffered a stroke two years ago and a 35-year-old car salesman who rarely practises will meet April 8-13 for the North American snooker championship.

Champion George Chenier, a native of Hull, Que., now living in Toronto, will put his title on the line against Bob Trodd, also of Toronto, in a 40-game set.

"It's just about two years ago in Los Angeles and I was getting ready to play in the world championship, I took the stroke in my room before the first match. I was paralyzed down my left side and I couldn't even eat for two weeks. I lost 30 pounds."

KC Blues Oilers Win Final Tilts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tulsa Oilers nipped Fort Worth Wings 3-2 and Kansas City Blues whipped Omaha Knights 7-3 Wednesday night in the final regular-season games in the Central Hockey League.

Gary Veneruzzo scored three goals and Rejean Richer two as Kansas City clobbered the Knights. Phil Oberndorff and Roger Picard also tallied for Kansas City. Bill Fairbairn, John Gravel and Wayne Hall tallied for Omaha.

NHL Playoffs May Delay Openers!

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League is willing to sanction a delay in the start of the April 6 semi-final playoff game in Montreal if balloting for a new Lateral party leader is still under way in Ottawa at 8 p.m., an NHL spokesman said Wednesday night.

The actual decision to delay the start of the game would have to be made by the Montreal Canadiens, however, the spokesman said in an interview.

A spokesman for the Montreal Canadiens said the club was studying the question and would have no immediate comment.

Handgun Club Was Second

The Belleville Handgun and Rifle Club finished second in the four team Quinte Handgun League competition shooting for the Bata Trophy in Campbellford. The scorers — Louis Kilfoyr 248; Joe Heimbach 243; John Steinbacher 232; Don Wilson 223; Harold Howting 222.

Next competition shooting will take place at April 30th in the Belleville Armories.

Shuffleboard

Following are the results of the home and home playoffs in the Belleville and District Shuffleboard League:

The Crystal Hotel eliminated the Belleville Legion 10 games to 5, ANAF defeated Canadiana Hotel 10 to 9, Paisley Hotel defeated Deseronto Legion 10 to 7, City Hotel over the Actington Hotel 10 to 5 and the Quinte Hotel defeated the Bicheliew Hotel 10 to 6.

Next week begins the final round home and home series with the Crystal at the ANAF, the City against the Quinte and the Paisley against the Napanee Hotel.

Boston, Yanks Duel In Beanball Battle, Williams Gets Gate

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Everybody's been tagging Boston pitching this spring, but the Red Sox won't turn the other cheek. Not by a long shot.

Beanballs flew at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Wednesday as the American League champs bowed to New York Yankees 4-2 for their 12th setback in 19 exhibition games.

Dick Williams, the Red Sox' pilot, and coach Eddie Popowski were ejected in an eighth inning rhubarb with umpire Frank Umont after Boston pitcher Lee Stange clipped the Yanks' Roy White in the back with a fast ball.

Jerry Stephenson, the Red Sox' starter, had hit Bob Cox with a pitch in the sixth and the Yankees' Dale Spier had fired a pitch over Jim Foy's head in the top of the eighth. When White was plunked leading off the bottom of the inning, Umont warned Williams, then tossed him out.

The same clubs staged a free-for-all last June at Yankee Stadium after Boston ace Jim Lonberg and New York's Thad Tillotson took turns low-bridging the hitters.

While the Red Sox' troubles continued, St. Louis' world champions buried Chicago White Sox 8-2 at Sarasota, Fla., for their 12th victory in 18 starts. Lou Brock's second spring homer paced a 11-hit Cardinal attack.

Sam McDowell yielded just one hit in a six-inning stint as Cleveland Indians trimmed California Angels 7-3 at El Paso, Tex. Philadelphia Phillies blanked Los Angeles Dodgers 4-0 at Clearwater, Fla., behind the six-hit pitching of Chris Short and Gary Wagner.

San Francisco Giants shelled Ken Holtzman for eight runs in the first two innings and held off Chicago Cubs 10-6 at Scottsdale, Ariz. Atlanta Braves broke through estean-mate Denny Lemaster for five eighth inning runs and a 5-3 victory over Houston Astros at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Oakland Athletics downed Detroit Tigers 4-2 at Lakeland, Fla., and Cincinnati Reds edged New York Mets 5-4 in a night game at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Braves were stunned by the announcement that outfielder Rico Carty, a .305 lifetime hitter, will undergo extensive tests to determine if he has tuberculosis. Carty, 27, has lost weight and complained of feeling run down in recent weeks.

An eye examination disclosed Ferraro is suffering from glaucoma but a Fort Lauderdale doctor said he should be able to continue playing. Deitz was rushed from Scottsdale, Ariz., to San Francisco for tests after being treated for high blood pressure.

Portland Clinches Top Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Portland Buckaroos clinched first place in the Western Hockey League Wednesday night and surging Phoenix Roadrunners grabbed at least a temporary hold on the playoff spot.

Portland, playing before a home crowd of 9,181, turned back Seattle Totems 4-1 with an outstanding defensive performance.

Phoenix moved one point ahead of Vancouver Canucks in the fight for the fourth and final playoff spot by knocking over San Diego Gulls 4-2 before 7,744 fans in San Diego.

The win, third in a row for Phoenix, gave Roadrunners the inside rail in the run for fourth place. Phoenix has three games remaining. Vancouver two.

Peewee Champions Entertained

TWEED — Peewee Minor Hockey players, Clifford (Tiny) Rivers, the coach and Donald (Spike) Merawa, manager, were entertained March 25 by Mr. and Mrs. John Maracle at a turkey dinner at the Maracle home.

The boys displayed the Eastern Ontario Minor Hockey League championship trophy which they won this year for the second time.

Each team member was presented with a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Maracle. Barry Rivers, captain of the Peewees presented Mr. and Mrs. Maracle with a silver tray in appreciation of their kindness.

Kings Snap Four-Game Loss String

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Jerry Foley scored twice to pace Springfield Kings to a 4-1 victory over the slumping Hershey Bears in an American Hockey league game Wednesday night.

The Kings snapped a four-game losing streak and remained in contention for a Calder Cup playoff position in the Eastern Division.

U.S., Davis Cup

Ashe Raises Hopes!

NEW YORK (AP) — It's nine months until the Davis Cup challenge round, but Uncle Sam is getting his appetite whetted again.

The newest fever is inspired by Arthur Ashe's victory over Spain's Manuel Santana in the Garden Challenge Trophy tennis tournament Wednesday night, the score was 5-7, 6-3, 7-5.

Not only that, but Clark Graebner, Ashe's Davis Cup team-mate, also moved into the men's semi-finals on a 10-8, 7-5 triumph over Yugoslavia's Zeljko Franulovic and there are a pair of other Americans in the wings.

Ashe and Graebner clash in the semi-finals Friday. The other semi-finalists will be decided tonight when Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., plays Herbert FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.Y., in one match and top-seeded Roy Emerson faces Holland's Tom Okker in the other.

Tennis Star Turns Pro

NEW YORK (AP) — Francoise Durr, the No. 1 woman tennis player in France, will turn professional after the Garden Challenge Cup tennis tournament now in progress at Madison Square Garden. The Associated Press learned Wednesday. Close friends of Miss Durr disclosed that the French girl would replace former Wimbledon champion Maria Bueno of Brazil in the four-woman troupe which will begin touring next month under the banner of George MacCall of Los Angeles.

International Skiers

Plan Annual North American Tour

BOSSLAND, B.C. (CP) — A group of international coaches said Wednesday they are pressing for an annual North American tour for junior and B-class skiers from Europe, the U.S. and Canada.

"We'd like it to be in January and February, with a tour for the seniors in spring as usual," said Peter Baumgartner, Swiss ski team head coach. "I think it can work.

"With restrictions on the number of competitors in the present (senior) tour you can only send your best. A tour for the younger ones would help develop them."

Canadian coach John Platt, Norwegian coach Axel Grevstad and assistant coaches Hank Tauber and Jim Barrier of the U.S. said they support the proposal.

Toni Sulpice of France opposed it.

The six spoke in separate interviews while here for a four-day international ski meet, which opens today on 5,280-foot Red Mountain.

Rain fell on Red Mountain Wednesday night, but overnight freezing was expected to leave courses in good shape. Scheduled for today were both runs of the women's slalom.

Miss Greene had a 26-point lead over Isabelle Mir of France going into the race and could secure her second title here or at Heavenly Valley, Calif., April 6-7, after which she retires.

Men's events open Friday with two slalom runs. The men's giant slalom is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday and the women's giant slalom Sunday. World cup downhill has finished for the year.

French star Jean-Claude Killy, en route to his second cup, said he will pass the giant slalom and won't race at Heavenly Valley. He has 186 points, 69 more than Dumeng Giovanoli of Switzerland.

Mirror, Mirror on the Wall... Who Has Pulled the Biggest Boob of All?

LONDON (CP) — London's Daily Mirror keeps up its crusade against St. Lawrence seal hunting today with a front-page editorial calling on the Canadian government to "end the annual horror on the ice."

But as the mass-circulation newspaper stretched its seal campaign into the third day, other commentators spotted a blooper in the form of an incongruous Mirror promotional advertisement that features 14 pretty girls—all wear fur coats.

The tabloid Mirror, which opened its crusade in its Tuesday editions, continues with an editorial headed: "Watching for a Government to Act."

"The Canadian government must search its own conscience and act decisively and quickly to end the annual horror on the ice," the editorial says.

Across two inside pages, the newspaper publishes 14 letters from readers under the headline: "The Protests Grow into a Storm."

It also reports receiving a cable from Northwest Territories Commissioner S. M. Hodgson saying publicity against seal skin is hitting the livelihood of Arctic Eskimos.

While indignant reaction provoked by The Mirror included protest telephone calls to Canada House and comment on a radio news program, others drew attention to the simultaneous Mirror promotion. It informs potential clothing advertisers:

"You'll find plenty of Daily Mirror readers fashionably furred-up these days."

The Mirror's ad, published in the business news section of The Times, is headed by the picture of the fur-clad girls and is addressed to "fur trappers."

The "fashionably furred-up" Mirror readers, the ad says, represent girls who spend large sums on clothing—"so next time you want to set the fur flying, use The Mirror."

The rival tabloid Daily Sketch notes the boob briefly under the headline "Muddled Mirror." The irony also was noted on BBC television's nightly news and comment program with the remark:

"The Mirror's editorial campaign seems sensible, but its advertising department does seem a little out of touch."

Story Unwarranted Pearson Tells House

OTTAWA (CP) — A British newspaper report alleging cruelty in the Gulf of St. Lawrence seal hunt is unwarranted, Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Wednesday.

Replying to a question by former prime minister John Diefenbaker about a London Mirror report that described the hunt as "a macabre death ritual," Mr. Pearson said an investigation is under way and a reply will be made to the charges.

"I believe it is unwarranted," he said of the story, written after a visit to the seal hunting grounds in the gulf by a Daily Mirror reporter and photographers.

Brian Davies of Fredericton, executive secretary of the New Brunswick Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said in London he arranged the trip.

Mr. Davies' allegations of cruelty in the hunt during the last five years have resulted in closely-enforced regulations for hunters, lower prices for pelts and an annual wave of adverse publicity.

Fisheries officials here said there have been no specific charges of cruelty since the hunt for a quota of 50,000 seal pups, valued for their pure white pelts, began March 18.

The season for taking pups ended Wedgesday when the quota was reached by seven ships, 10 or 11 light planes and two helicopters engaged in the hunt.

More than 30 federal inspectors and a number of Quebec fisheries inspectors have been keeping an eye on sealers this season.

A mixed crowd of veterinarians, television crews from the United States and Italy, and news photographers and reporters also has been on the ice.

He Wins and She Loves It

Cobourg Sweeps Winner To Continue Working

WINNIPEG (CP) — Arnold Joseph Connell of Cobourg, Ont., is a 56-year-old "comissionaire who likes his work and has no intention of quitting—even though he won $130,000 Wednesday on an Irish Sweepstakes ticket drawn on the winning horse in the Lincolnshire Handicap.

Mr. Connell, a native of the Greater Winnipeg municipality of Fort Garry, returned here last weekend for the first time in 17 years to visit his in-laws.

Since learning of his good fortune, Mr. Connell has relaxed and made few plans. One of the first things he wants to do with the money is pay off the house he bought in Cobourg seven years ago and fix it up the way he says his wife always wanted it.

His wife and two sons await his return at Cobourg, about eight miles west of Port Hope, to discuss the future.

Four Canadians won top prizes of about $120,000 each in the first Irish Sweepstakes of the year based on Wednesday's running of the Lincolnshire Handicap in Doncaster, England.

More than 250 others in Canada shared in a jackpot of some $3,000,000 in the international lottery held three times yearly to aid hospitals in the Irish Republic.

Two of the top winners, identified by sweepstakes officials in Dublin as Mario Cimaro and Arthur Bates, were from Montreal. The other two were Vic Dixon, a food store owner in Nanaimo suburb of Wellington, B.C., and A. J. Connell, a retired army officer who lives in Cobourg, Ont. The four held tickets on Frankincense, the winning horse.

Nine Canadians won prizes of about $52,000 each with tickets on Waterloo Place, who finished second, and 10 Canadians won about $26,000 each with tickets on third-place Norton Priory.

The rest of the 202 Canadians who drew tickets on 54 horses eligible for the race will collect prizes probably worth more than $1,000 each, whether or not their horses started in the field of 21 at Doncaster. But only holders of tickets on the starters had a chance at the big prizes.

Devaluation of the pound from $3 to $2.65 in Canadian funds since last year's sweeps cut the value of the prizes to Canadian winners. Last year winning tickets were worth $150,000, with prizes of $69,000 and $30,000 on the second and third horses.

The unusually large number of Canadians with tickets on the second and third horses this year kept the total of Canadian winnings up to about normal despite the devaluation.

No estimate can be made of the amount of money contributed to the pool, since sale of sweepstakes tickets is illegal in Canada.

Winners of $52,000 prizes included a 32-year-old Toronto man, Gerry Promstein, who recently had to drop out of law school.

Winners of $26,000 third prizes included Mr. and Mrs. Colin C. Cole of Ottawa, who held a ticket jointly under the nom-de-plume Pensioners. Mrs. Cole is a retired telephone worker and her husband a retired railwayman.

What do you want to know about the Javelin? The facts? The features? The price?

Read on...we tell all.

Javelin is part of the new wave at American Motors. It's the 4-passenger running mate to the new 2-seater AMX. Both were designed by the same group—a young group with bright ideas. Ideas like long hoods and chopped rear decks...sculptured side panels...flow through ventilation without the noisy "no-drafts"...suspensions that keep you glued to the road on a double S-bend...power that gives you the edge when you need it...and styling that's with it.

To go with those goodies, Javelin's got the kind of power you like. At the top: the brand new AMX engine . . . the 390 V8 that'll turn 0 to 60 in 6.2 seconds; the one Craig Breedlove used in the AMX to set 106 new speed and endurance records. If you don't intend to go dragging on the weekends, settle for the 343 V8. It's no slouch either . . . or the 290 V8 . . . or the very gutsy 232 Six.

Javelin sports a list of options and accessories that's as long as your arm . . . so you can play it as hot or as cool as you like. The easy way is to ask for the SST package: mag wheel discs, reclining buckets, woodgrain trim, sports steering wheel and 4-on-the-floor or Shift Command the 3 speed column or console-mounted automatic that lets you muscle through the gears when you want to.

And now to the heart of the matter: the price. Javelin starts at $2972 (fob the factory.) How does that compare with the other sports cars? About $144 less than our leading competitor!

Now that we've saved you the trouble of visiting all those showrooms and talking to all those salesmen, we'll trouble you to do a little something for us. See an American Motors dealer and really find out about a Javelin . . . from behind the wheel. Thank you.

Red Cross Will Hold Blood Clinic

Much of the time was spent discussing the blood donors' clinic to be held in Napanee April 2, in the Memorial Building. Deseronto joins with Napanee for this service.

The difficulty of enlisting donors was discussed and the fact that people do not realize how important their single donation may be. Until the Red Cross Centre is secure the blood by this means and supply it to hospitals free, every transfusion had to be paid for by the patient and it was often a great hardship. The objective set for the Napanee clinic is 175 pints.

Mrs. Dawson heads the work for the clinic again this year. Posters have already been placed in public places and cards have been sent to former and potential donors.

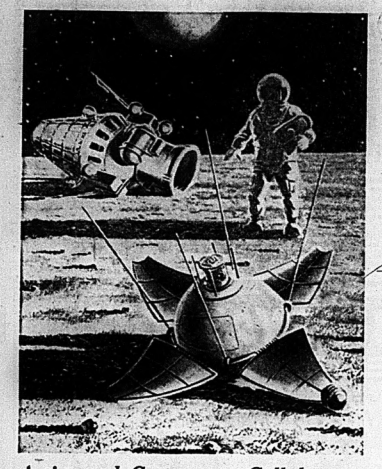
Plans were made for the present assistance which Deseronto will give at the clinic; in addition to enlisting donors. Typists will volunteer their services and members of the Deseronto branch will take charge of food arrangements for the evening. Afternoon hours are 2:30 to 4:30 and from 6:30 to 9:00 in the evening.

At this meeting Mrs. Harold Transue and Mrs. George Robinson were selected as delegates to attend the Red Cross convention in Toronto, April 4 and 5.

The usual routine business was carried out, and committees made reports. Mrs. Stafford Claus, Sr., the president, was in the chair.

With The Trotters

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Roaring Water, five-year-old trotter owned by the H and B Stable of London, Ont., posted its third win in five Batavia Downs starts Wednesday night, winning the 1,100 conditioned trot.



Bill Harvey drove the bay gelding to a 2:09 3-5 effort over odds-on-favorite Floradel in the race to the wire. Marimba Hanover was third.

Roaring Water paid $16.80 for the victory.

INQUIRY WORKS

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A two-month inquiry touching 4,000 pople in seven states to ferret out income tax laggards netted the Brazilian treasury $65,000,000. But that wasn't all. Another $15,600,000 poured in from people impressed but not directly approached by the sleuths.

Artist and Cosmonaut Collaborate

Titled "In the Ocean of Storms," this painting went on display in Moscow as one of the 70 works of art in the "Wait for Us, Stars!" exhibition of mutual works by Soviet cosmonaut Alexei Leonov and painter Andrei Sokolov. Leonov is a Soviet military officer who was the first man to walk in space on March 18, 1965. This photo is from Tass, the Soviet news agency.

House Closes for Liberal Convention

OTTAWA (CP) — NDP Leader T. C. Douglas says his party believes it has a commitment from all Liberal leadership candidates in the cabinet to proceed with the government's drug bill when the Commons goes back to work April 23.

The Commons closed up shop for the Liberal convention and the Easter holidays Wednesday after approving $1,460,000,000 in supplementary estimates for the year ending March 31.

It also approved another $1,-118,302,797 to help the government pay its bill for the first two months of the new fiscal year starting April 1.

Adjournment of the parliamentary session was expected last week. But the NDP stretched out debate on the money bills until Prime Minister Pearson gave an undertaking that the government would go ahead with its drug bill, which would have the effect of lowering drug prices in Canada.

Mr. Douglas said he was glad to have "that categorical assurance from the prime minister."

Mr. Douglas said the assurance was needed because of a strong lobby by drug companies to kill the bill.

Wednesday's session might have been the last one in which Mr. Pearson will attend as prime minister. Mr. Pearson said he expected to leave his front-bench seat and be in a comfortable back-bench when the session resumes.

The Commons made short work of the estimates of the consumer affairs department and treasury board estimates.

Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver-Kingsway) urged the consumer affairs department investigate the field of hearing aids, saying Japanese makes selling for $35 wholesale are retailing in Vancouver and Victoria for $400 and more.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre made another plea for higher pensions for up to 60,000 retired public servants, RCMP and armed forces personnel. He said the government has been promising action on their pensions for more than a year.

Earlier Trade Minister Winters announced a record final wheat payment of $314,958,221 for the 1966-67 crop year.

Warner Jorgenson (PC—Provencher) warned however, that prices for next year's crop would drop because the government had allowed the International Wheat Agreement to run out before a new international agreement came into effect.

Solicitor-General Pennell said a constitutional bill of rights is the only answer to cases like that of Terence Whitfield, the Australian fired by Canadian Marconis for associating with an Eskimo girl.

And Prime Minister Pearson said a British newspaper report alleging cruelty in the Gulf of St. Lawrence seal hunt is unwarranted.

Horticulture Subject of Talk To Men's Club

John Bradshaw, well-known in Horticultural circles as an expert in the field, spoke to a public meeting Tuesday night at the Bridge Street United Church Sunday School Auditorium. He covered many fields of horticulture from flowers to lawns to vegetables.

Mr. Bradshaw mentioned that many people do not read the labels on pesticides and other garden and lawn growing aids.

He explained that many people read the directions and then add more "just to make sure."

"If it says you put a gallon of chemical on so many square feet of land etc. it means just that."

Mr. Bradshaw also warned that people should be careful about putting top-cressing on their lawn, "I use only sterilized soil."

He added, "everytime we take the grass clippings from the lawn it will get progressively poorer and poorer, taking the energy and food from the soil."

Mr. Bradshaw outlined what will be this year's best kind of vegetables and flowers, mentioning specifically tulips, roses and petuniums.

He also included tips designed to help the gardener in growing these plants.

He mentioned the arrival of a new product called "a weed-saver" which combines a fertilizer with an insecticide and a weed-killer. "Apply only until your plants are at least two inches above the ground."

Mr. Bradshaw's address was complemented afterwards by a question and answer period.

He spoke at both Kiwanis Clubs earlier yesterday during his visit to Belleville.

Radio Appeals Issued For Beds for Delegates

OTTAWA (CP) — Radio appeals for rooms in private homes went out Wednesday as Liberal party organizers struggled with the awesome task of accommodating upwards of 7,-000 persons coming to town next week for the Liberal leadership convention.

"The response has been terrific," a harried party worker reported. By early afternoon four girl clerks were needed to handle incoming calls offering rooms.

Gordon McInnes, former director of the RCAF's special visits office who came out of retirement to handle the Liberals' accommodations team, said he expects to have everybody bedded down in the immediate Ottawa area within a 30-minute drive from the convention site at the new Ottawa Civic Centre in midtown Lansdowne Park.

But it's a loosely-kept secret that his field men have been checking the availability of hotel and motel rooms at Smiths Falls, 50 miles southwest, Carleton Place, 30 miles in the same direction, and Plantagenet, 30 miles east down the Ottawa River.

Mr. McInnes, 50, has been working out the accommodation problem since the convention call went out in January.

The original estimate was that 6,500 to 7,000 persons would be coming from out of town for the three-day gathering which starts next Thursday morning. It now appears that the final figure may be closer to 8,000.

In the initial stages Mr. McInnes managed to round up 5,-400 beds in 58 hotels and motels in Ottawa and another 15 across the river in Hull, Que., and has been scrounging additional space since then.

"It's not simply a matter of finding a bed and allocating it to a name," he said in an interview.

Allocation plans, outlined on charts and files spread around a crammed three-room housekeeping suite in an apartment hotel, assign certain hotel or motels to provincial groups in order to facilitate private conferences by delegates.

The city's tourist bureau turned over a list of 400 private homes that offered rooms for Expo 67 visitors last summer and were inspected by the bureau. The Expo overflow to Ottawa didn't materialize but all 400 rooms now have been assigned to Liberal delegates or guests.

A priority system is in effect, assigning rooms first to the 2,-475 voting delegates, then to 792 alternates, about 1,000 special guests, 1,500 news media people, and about 2,000 observers.

Start School Safety Programs

PICTON (Staff) — With first signs of spring in Picton authorities get on the move safety wise and steps are taken to promote safety programs in the area schools. Both pedestrian and traffic safety are emphasized.

Constable George Wright, of the Picton Police Force, is carrying out his program in town schools with lifelike traffic signals and crosswalks in miniature to illustrate to children from kindergarten to grade 3 the safety rules of crossing at intersections. Later in the program he will instruct on bicycle safety and this will wind up with competitions and perhaps a bicycle rodeo as has been held in the past. The rodeo has previously been sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Picton but it is not known definitely if they will again participate this year.

Constable Donald Wait, of the Ontario Provincial Police Detachment in Picton, is the safety officer for the force here and he has said that the OPP will begin a program similar to Picton's in all county central schools this spring. A proposed seminar to include OPP officials from Toronto and OPP representatives from the district will take place in Belleville District Headquarters between the County's central schools and the program should emerge with one winner, who will compete with the winner from Picton. It is understood that Belleville may conduct similar programs and that Prince Edward County or Picton may actually compete with Belleville to come up with a Quinte area winner. Prizes will be awarded for the contest winners, and when children of the schools have passed they will be presented with safety stickers for their bikes as are suitmobiles which have passed road tests.

School Can't Offset Home Influence

Thoughts At Large:

The main trouble with the slum school is the slum, not the school; it is a mirage to believe that formal education can rectify the flaws of family background, or that any piecemeal program can succeed in lifting slum children out of the total morass of their environment.

Speaking of that vexed subject, there is a new verb, "busing," that has come from the noun "bus" — and some readers want to know why it's spelled with one "s" instead of two; the short reason being that "bussing" is an ancient word meaning "kissing."

Sunday Horse Racing with Betting Authorized

TORONTO (CP) — Horse racing with pari-mutuel betting would be permitted on Sundays in Ontario under legislation introduced in the legislature Wednesday.

Municipal councils would be able to pass bylaws permitting Sunday sports, games or movies under the amendment to the Lord's Day Act introduced by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart.

A municipal referendum now is needed to permit Sunday movies and sports other than horse racing.

Initial reaction to the legislation was favorable.

Mayor William Dennison of Toronto predicted the city would pass such a bylaw to permit Sunday racing at Greenwood Raceway "because voters were so decisive on Sunday sports and movies."

In Etobicoke Borough, where Woodbine Raceway is located, Mayor Edward Horton said he would sponsor the bylaw.

"I'm very enthusiastic about what I considdr a very sensible change," Mr. Horton said.

While pari-mutuel betting was not mentioned in the legislation, it would be legal under the present provisions of the Criminal Code, an official of the attorney-general's department said.

The legislation was expected to help the Jockey Club Ltd., whose executive has said it might have to cease operations under the present Sunday restrictions.

Brig. C. F. Wallace of Georgetown, Ont., chairman of the Ontario Racing Commission, said the legislation is "an excellent step forward."

E. P. Taylor, chairman of the Jockey Club, which operates the five major tracks in the province, Wednesday night called a meeting of club executives to discuss the prospects of Sunday racing.

Horsemen had been discouraged by a Jockey Club announcement earlier Wednesday that the 1968 thoroughbred racing season was still in doubt. The club made no plans for the meet beyond races on Saturday and Monday.

Legislature Will Ban Poll Tax in Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature Wednesday gave first reading to a bill repealing the authority of municipalities to levy poll taxes, effective Jan. 1, 1969.

Introduced by Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough the bill accepts a recommendation of the Smith report on taxation that the poll tax "is neither important nor widely used."

Under a present bill, Ontario municipalities may pass bylaws for levying and collecting an annual poll tax of not less than $1 and not more than $10 from most males over 21 and under 60 years of age.

In his report, Lancelot Smith, a Toronto chartered accountant who headed the Ontario committee on taxation, said figures from the municipal affairs department indicated 79 communities imposed on a poll tax in 1963—less than one in 12.

In other legislature business:

—Premier John Robarts told the legislature in a written answer to a question by 7at Lawlor (NDP—Toronto Lakeshore) that the Ontario law reform committee spent $45,989.64 to produce a four-volume report on family law released in January. Salaries for research and administrative personnel accounted for $42,068.15.

—Highways Minister George Gomme told the legislature his department plans to spend $5,-000 during the 1968-69 fiscal year for the bright ideas of its employees. He said more than $3,000 had been paid to employees in 1966-67 for ideas such as work signs that wouldn't blow over and liter-bags distributed by service stations.

—Agriculture Minister William Stewart said officials from his department inspect meat and commercial affairs minister, said in a written reply to a question from Dr. Morton Shulman (N D P—Toronto High Park) that a total of 526 written complaints have been received during the last three years against car insurance companies doing business in the province.

Tariff Cuts Will Help Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Stanley Randall, Ontario economics and development minister, predicted Wednesday that in the long run the Kennedy Round of tariff reductions will help the province's economy.

In a written reply to a question from Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce) the minister told the legislature Ontario's share of total Canadian exports is about $3,000,000,000 and one-third of the total is expected to benefit from the reduced tariffs.

"Since Ontario is the manufacturing centre of Canada . . . the effect of the Kennedy Round will be more accentuated here than in other parts of Canada," said Mr. Randall.

"One of the first industries to be affected by the tariff cuts is our industrial machinery and equipment industry. The new tariff rate of 15 per cent, reduced from 22½ per cent, took effect on Jan. 1 for many of that industry's products."

Tax Increase Rejected

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts Tuesday resisted a suggestion by the Ontario Federation of Labor that the province increase its corporation tax levies.

The premier told a delegation from the federation the province looks to business to create 100,000 new jobs needed in Ontario each year.

"We go around the world—as we do—trying to encourage new industry to locate here and we must look at this taxation with some care", he said.

Baritone to End Concert Series

Simon Estes, bass-baritone will be presented to Belleville on Monday, in the final concert of the season by the Community Concert Association.

Even before he won the Silver medal in the first Tchaikowsky International Vocal Contest in Moscow in 1966, Simon Estes was a busy and popular young singer. He had been singing with the Deutsche Opera in Berlin when he was engaged by the Lubeck Opera (Germany) with which he appeared in the roles of Timur in "Turandot" and Bartolo in "The Marriage of Figaro."

On winning the Silver Medal his engagements doubled. He returned to the United States to sing at Tanglewood. With great acclaim he made his debut with the New York Philharmonic in Handel's "Messiah" under Sir Malcolm Sargent and his American Opera Society debut in Handel's "Julius Caesar".

He sang for the first time with the orchestras of Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, Indianapolis and San Francisco and appeared on national television on one of Leonard Bernstein's "Young People's Concerts", and on the "Tonight Show". With the other Tchaikowsky winners, Estes sang at the White House for President Johnson.

Simon Estes was born in Centreville, Iowa, in 1938 and is a graduate of Centreville High School and the Centreville Junior College. In 1958 he went to the State University of Iowa where he studied pre-medicine sociology, psychology, religion and music. Serious music study began in 1963 with Charles Kellis, at the University, where he remained as a full scholarship student through 1964 and part of 1965.

He has been honored by the mayor of his home town and by Mayor John Lindsay of New York who presented him with a citation and expressed his gratitude that Mr. Estes had brought such honors to his country.

The concert promises to be a highlight of the season and is being offered as a bonus concert to the first one hundred new members in the current membership drive. You are invited to join.

Dream House, Looks, Sounds Like Many TV Time-Killers

NEW YORK (AP)—Dream House, a quiz show that looks, sounds and seems like a carbon copy of the TV time-killers that abound in the day-time network schedules, made its ABC debut Wednesday night.

The half hour is compounded of ingredients—human interest and vicarious greed—that TV producers feel hearts beat and wives to their sets in the daylight hours. The show will be in its logical place next Monday when it makes its debut as an early-afternoon program. It is filling the night time niche—awkwardly—because the network had a 90 hour to fill through August and picked an inexpensive way to do it.

There is the usual quiz show accouterments—buzzers, lights, a hearty master of ceremonies and nice-looking young couples with a chance to show themselves in each other's arms every time one gives a correct answer.

The program, which interminglies entertainment and plugs, is of interest to the student of television. Top prize is a "dream house"—$40,599 worth of real estate. Thus part of the entertainment consists of showing models of one builder's dream houses. Lesser prizes consist of "dream dining room"—including the wares of a furniture manufacturer and makers of china, glassware and hi-fi equipment—and "dream living rooms," with more incidental plugs. In addition, of course, there were the usual sales pitches in show breaks.

Dream House starts next Monday, it will precede another new show, Wedding Party. This seems to be a mixture of past Bride and Groom and part This is Your Life.

The show, it is promised, will let the audience share the joyous days prior to a wedding and hear the happy couple tell of their first meeting. There will also be some film of the wedding itself.

Producer Art Stark, formerly of The Tonight Show and Good Company, believes couples are willing to open up what is usually considered to be a private affair.

"For the rewards—we give them their honeymoon and more—and a lot of them think this will make their wedding something special."

Among the rejected applicants have been couples willing to go through the ceremony a second time on camera, divorced couples willing to try again and a few cases where it developed that the girl would become a mother before she became a bride.

To Your Good Health

Selling Eye No Way to Finance House

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to donate a cornea of the eye while living? I would like someone to lean us money to build a home. — L. M.

Forget the whole idea. In the first place no doctor would ruin a healthy eye to repair another eye. Second, no payments are made for donated eyes or other organs which are used for transplants after the donor's death.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Have you a booklet on the inner ear? My doctor called my trouble labyrinthitis. I was taken ill very suddenly and was in the hospital 12 days. — Mrs. M. M.

Labyrinthitis is one of several ailments which can involve the inner ear, affecting the sense of balance and causing dizzy spells and other disturbances. Loss of balance, in turn, can upset the digestive tract (just as in seasickness) and make the patient very miserable indeed, sometimes enough to require hospitalization.

Making the distinction between labyrinthitis, Meniere's disease and other conditions which affect balance by disrupting the normal action of the inner ear is a rather technical matter, and for a general understanding of what happens and what can be done to correct the trouble, I suggest that you read my a new booklet, "Dizzy Spells," which discusses these problems — including labyrinthitis. For a copy send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, his-stamped envelope, plus six cents postage to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Sun - Times syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I think I may have shingles, although my doctor told me it was something else. I have a terrible itching around my neck with blisters similar to chickenpox. He prescribed some salve but it does not always help. — Mrs. E. D.

Shingles is a virus infection attacking a nerve. It is ordinarily a "one-sided disease," because nerves branching out from the spinal cord spread out to the side. There is no nerve which encircles the neck. There is a nerve on each side.

Hence, itching "around the neck" could not be expected to be shingles. Better rely on your doctor's judgment. Even though the salve doesn't always stop the itch, evidently it sometimes does, and that would indicate that he is on the right track in treatment.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes nosebleeds? My son, in his teens, has had several in recent months. When I was a child, I had many of them, and then they ceased. Is this hereditary? — Mrs. C. B.

There may be some hereditary influence but not very great as a rule. For example, the surface blood vessels may be fragile, or may be very close to the surface.

Or there may be a small ulcer which begins to bleed from time to time. If so, such an ulcer can readily be cauterized.

Of course there are blood disorders causing bleeding of the nose or other areas but an occasional nosebleed would not be reason to suspect anything on that order.

If your son's nosebleeds are frequent enough to be a nuisance, an examination for the cause might be wise.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a water softener and every so often someone will say, "Oh you shouldn't drink that softened water." Is it harmful to drink it? — Mrs. R. F. E.

It's not harmful except in one special case: If sodium is added to the water (to replace the "hard" content) then a person who is on a low-sodium (that is, low-salt) diet should not drink it. For anyone else it is harmless. Some folks install a third pipe for unsoftened water, but that is because they like the taste better. It isn't a matter of health, only a flavor.

Shrinking Markets, High Costs Doom Nova Scotia Coal Mines

HALIFAX (CP) — The double-barreled problem of shrinking markets and rising production costs is the root cause of coal mine closures in Nova Scotia, the latest of which is now threatening the Pictou County village of Thorburn.

With the development of other fuels and with steam locomotives gone from the nation's railways, the Nova Scotia collieries are locked in a battle for their lives. Many of the pits have already lost.

The latest to be tagged with a closure notice by Dominion Steel and Coal Corp., now out of the basic steel business and soon to be out of coal as well, is the McBean Colliery at Thorburn, a community of 1,000 at the eastern end of the once-booming Pictou coalfield.

The 412-man McBean, second colliery of that name in Thorburn, plunges 1¼ miles under the ground 1,000 feet from the highway to New Glasgow, six miles to the west. It's coal is good, but like other Nova Scotia mines—many little more than memories in the coal towns—its "black diamonds" are expensive.

For decades the federal treasury has paid "subventions" to help the producers, principally Dosco, to move the coal from the collieries to markets in central Canada. Without the subventions, coal from the mines of Cape Breton, Pictou County and Springhill would be undersold on the central Canadian market by coal from Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

The subventions are about to end.

Under a federal-provincial agreement, the four surviving Dosco coal mines in Cape Breton and their 5,000 miners are to come under the Cape Breton Development Corp. (Devco) Sunday. At that time, subventions will cease and Devco, a Crown corporation, will be responsible for the production and marketing of Cape Breton coal.

Meanwhile, the provincial government will assist the "independent" mines in Nova Scotia, so labelled through the years because they have been operated by companies other than Dosco—traditional producer of about 90 per cent of the province's coal.

This leaves out McBean, called "an orphan mine" because it does not come under Devco and yet it is not an independent mine.

The McBean, capable of producing 200,000 tons a year, may have hoisted its last coal on the night shift Wednesday. The 60-man "back" or "graveyard" shift was the last scheduled shift in the pit, coming out of the mine at 7 a.m., today.

The McBean has been working a three-day week for the last three weeks because of a slack market and would have been idle today and Friday anyway. But it's not scheduled to resume production Monday. Dosco says it can't afford to operate the mine without subventions.

However, under provincial law the mine must be maintained and pumped of water for 30 days before it can be abandoned.

Robinson Ord, Devco chairman, has said the board will find an answer within that time. But there's no long-term future for the McBean. Dosco officials have said privately for several years that the mine, opened in 1946 in the last of four workable seams at Thorburn, is running out of economic coal.

Dosco has been a household word in the Nova Scotia coalfields, but with Devco due to take over the Cape Breton mines Sunday and with the McBean listed for abandonment, another major link between the once-mighty corporation and the province will be cut. The provincial government took over the Sydney steel mill Jan. 1 after Dosco announced it would be abandoned as uneconomic.

The McBean is the last major coal mine in operation on the Nova Scotia mainland. There are small collieries working at Westville in Pictou County and at Springhill and River Hebert in Cumberland County.

Sydney Omarr's Astrological Forecasts

For March 29

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Extra weight of responsibility is evident. Cycle remains high. But with new contacts come added burdens. More people depend upon your judgment. Today you are tested — and you win.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Past promises come to forefront. You gain greater freedom if you fulfill obligations — that is lesson you learn today. Realize this. Live up to obligations.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): If you expect friends to offer good cheer you may be disappointed. More likely you will be presented with problems. Discuss issues but don't promise more than you can deliver.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Some today may try to hand over last minute assignments. Be gracious — but don't permit others to use you. Remember promises made to family. Extra work load not your own requires negotiation.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Your ability to work out problems is put to test. Not all is easy. But persistence and experience win the day. Means no good for pushing forward without proper training. Prepare.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Health and money may appear linked. Key is balance, moderation. Other individual may have valuable point — listen and learn. You may not move as fast as desired — but steady pace will win.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): If you insist that everyone agree, you run into real opposition. Your suggest ally, today is diplomacy and serenity. Mate, partner may appear absentminded. Don't force issues.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Study Libra message. Remain in background, where possible. Permit others to take initiative. Your turn comes when wise individual takes notice. This is in not too distant future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Responsibility connected with your persons comes to fore. Avoid impulsive, flamboyant action. Keep eye on budget. Don't permit others to run your affairs. Be firm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Fine for measuring potential. You get realistic look at future prospects. Discussion at home adds up to enlightenment. Face facts, pleasant or otherwise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Restriction is evident today in expression of ideas. Some associates, relatives appear cranky. You will have to speak distinctly, lest your meaning be misinterpreted.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Conserve assets. Some changes are necessary. But you need not rush or be extravagant. Friend may make demands which are not reasonable. May be necessary to say no.

If today is your birthday . . . you are intuitive, capable of planning projects which enjoy success. You could excel as a teacher because many are inspired by your enthusiasm for learning.

Loyalist Will Administer Manpower Training Plan

Other Courses Also Assumed

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Loyalist College will assume administration of the government Manpower Retraining scheme in the Quinte District.

This and other upcoming education projects increasing the significance of the new community college were revealed last night by Loyalist president J. K. Bradford.

Other schemes currently being digested into the Loyalist education system are provincial-licensing apprentice courses and a summer upgrading project for vocational teachers.

Announcement of Loyalist's new undertakings in the community was made during a meeting between Loyalist administrators and Bay of Quinte district High School Board officials.

The meeting, at Centennial Secondary School, discussed the effect of Loyalist's new moves—including its own quarters — on leasing arrangements between both education groups.

Loyalist has been renting quarters at Centennial since it began operations last year.

Assumption of the retraining scheme administration will not mean any immediate changes in the manpower project, Mr. Bradford indicated.

Operated jointly by federal and provincial governments, its Quinte area grouping is centred in Belleville and serves Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland and Lennox and Addington Counties.

Much of the retraining courses are held at Quinte Secondary School in Belleville, while other subjects are taught at Bancroft.

"At the moment we will leave it the way it is," said the Loyalist president.

However, both Loyalist and the manpower scheme should benefit mutually from the changeover, he said.

A similar changeover already has taken place in the Ottawa region, added Mr. Bradford.

The apprenticeship training scheme will qualify motor mechanics, electricians and hairdressers.

"Up to now (to qualify) these people have had to go to Toronto," said Mr. Bradford. The course is now being decentralized.

As planned at present, the mechanical and hairdressing courses will be held in leased quarters at Centennial.

The electricians' course will be centred at Loyalist own workshops in its new temporary building, now being readied west of Belleville for next term.

The upgrading course for vocational teachers is planned for this summer. It is aimed at teachers "eager to get additional qualifications", said Mr. Bradford.

"It's an experiment that hasn't been tried anywhere else", he added.

At present, Loyalist administrators are surveying the teaching profession in the district to discover the response to such a course.

Battle Lines Forming

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With the Liberal leadership convention in Ottawa less than a week away, at least three candidates received declarations of support Thursday.

Senator John Connolly, government leader in the Senate, announced he is supporting Finance Minister Sharp.

The campaign committee for Transport Minister Hellyer announced that 19 Liberal backbenchers are supporting Mr. Hellyer.

Senator Maurice Lamontagne announced he is supporting Justice Minister Trudeau in the leadership convention in Ottawa April 4-6.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland, speaking in St. John's, described Mr. Trudeau and Robert Winters as the two "extraordinary" candidates in the field.

Guns of Israelis and Arabs Roar All Along Valley of Jordan River

TEL AVIV (CP) — Israel and Jordanian forces battered each other with machine-guns, mortar, and artillery fire all along the Jordan Valley today. Israel sent its air forces into action against the Jordanian guns.

A Jordanian military spokesman said three Israeli jet fighters were hit and seen falling in flames in Israeli-occupied territory during Jordanian-Israeli clashes today.

Each side blamed the other for starting the firing which rapidly turned into the biggest clash since Israel's punishing raid on guerrilla bases in Jordan March 21. Fighting raged along a 60-mile front from the Sea of Galilee in the north to the Dead Sea in the south.

An army spokesman here said the Jordanian forces extended the fighting, which began in the northern sector of the river.

Israeli planes silenced Jordanian artillery positions which shelled a string of Israeli villages in the Beisan Valley south of the sea of Galilee, the army command here reported.

In Amman, Jordan, military spokesman said Jordanian anti-aircraft guns opened up on Israeli planes strafing Jordanian border positions today.

The Jordanian spokesman accused the Israelis of having started the firing, opening up with machine-guns and then blasting the Jordanian positions with tank and mortar fire.

Both sides used heavier guns as the fight progressed. After the machine-guns, mortars and tank fire, the Israelis opened up with artillery, the spokesman said, and the Jordanians again retaliated.

Tories Win 3 Seats From Labor

LONDON (CP) — The Labor government has been crushed deeper into a trough of troubles by 53,341 soured English voters.

Their stampeding change of political sympathies trampled Labor out of three parliamentary seats and swept a fourth back to the Conservatives in by-elections Thursday.

The 53,341 voters account for the total of ballots lost to Labor Thursday through switched loyalties or abstentions since the general election just two years ago Sunday. Total Labor poll in the three Midlands ridings and one London constituency was sliced by more than half to 49,945 from 103,286.

North Vietnam Bags New Jet

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam said today that its armed forces had shot down an F-111A, the controversial new U.S. airplane which was put into combat for the first time this week. U.S. authorities had reported earlier one of the $6,000,000 planes was overdue after a mission.

The North Vietnamese claim, heard in a Hanoi broadcast monitored in Tokyo, said the supersonic swing-wing aircraft had been "shattered down" Thursday over Ha Tinh province, 100 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone near the Laos border.

The broadcast made no mention of the fate of the two-man crew.

One senior U.S. military official did not rule out the possibility when asked before the Hanoi announcement whether the plane might have been shot down.

Six of the F-111As, capable of speeds of more than twice the speed of sound with bomb loads greater than any other U.S. plane except the B-52 Stratofortress, arrived at Ta Khli air base in Thailand March 17 and a flight of them, presumably four, made their first combat missions Monday.

Policeman Downs Looter

The violence began on historic Beale Street Thursday morning when a march by 6,000 Negroes, led by Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., in support of striking garbage collectors, turned into a riot and continued through the day and night despite a tightly-enforced curfew.

Another possible confrontation between marchers and police was expected today with Negro leaders saying they would stage another march—this one limited to sidewalks as were those held almost daily since the city's sanitation workers struck Feb. 12.

Only police, state trooper and national guard vehicles moved on the major streets during the night, but the alleys and back streets were alive with youths darting forth to set fires and stone firetrucks.

At midnight, a fire department spokesman said 148 fire alarms had been turned in from the downtown area.

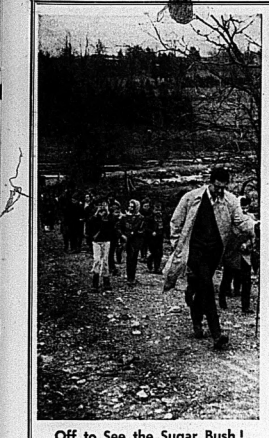
In a sniping incident, five shots were fired at police stationed at the intersection of Beale Street and Hernando Avenue, the day's main trouble spot.

Policemen put on bulletproof vests, and national guardsmen with supercopes moved into the area. No further shots were reported.

Thursday's march began as a peaceful demonstration. Its leaders and police say the violence was the work of a splinter group of Negro youths.

Frank Holloman, Memphis police director, said the trouble started when 200 youths separated from the main group and went on a window breaking and looting binge. Police retaliated with clubs and riot gas.

In the struggle that followed and continued through the night, a 16-year-old Negro, Larry Payne, was shot to death. More than 150 arrests were made and at least 50 persons were injured —including five shot and one stabbed.



Holloman said he was told Payne was shot after charging a policeman with a butcher knife when the youth was caught looting.

The stabbing victim was an unidentified city bus driver, leading the Memphis transit authority to halt all bus service.

Gov. Buford Ellington ordered in 4,000 riot trained national guardsmen and put another 8,000 on alert.

The march broke apart less than half an hour after it started as Negro youths, throwing clubs and rocks, smashed windows in downtown stores and began grabbing out the merchandise on display. Police said five persons were shot when caught looting.

King, assisted by his aides, pushed his way through the milling, shouting mob and was driven away in a car as soon as the violence erupted. In a news conference later he blamed the trouble on youngsters on the sidelines and not part of the march itself.

Off to See the Sugar Bush!

The Pied Piper of Belleville Leads Followers ...Through Sugar Bush Country Near Roslin

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

ROSLIN — An outpost of Canada's oldest industry is daily drawing the district's youngest citizens by the busload here.

It's all centred in the bush just back of Will Collins' place a bit north of here off Highway 37.

It's spring, and the sap is rising — which means it's maple-syrup time in Eastern Canada.

This year, signs are for a poor season—but you couldn't tell that by the moppets scattering hereabouts.

For them — especially the city ones — it's a new, exciting experience.

Each day school buses bundle scores of youngsters up to the Collins' farmyard where Moira Conservation Authority officials meet them.

The next stage is a winding trek nearly a mile deep into the century-old homestead to the big stand of maples where Will presides over the mysteries of his sugar-bush.

The trips are organized for public school students around the Belleville area by the Authority and should continue while the season lasts.

However, that may not be too much longer. The weather's too warm this year and the sap needs the bite of frost to spur it on. Without it, there's a lesser run. The sap won't stop so well and can't be tapped off for refining into the oldest of Canadian farming exports—maple syrup.

"So far, it looks to me as if it's going to be as short a year as any I've seen," says Will, who's probably worked as much syrup as any Canadian homesteader.

Now 65, he started working with the syrup run when he was 12.

It's on the same farm where his grandfather settled in 1850 and started—like most settlers — boiling sap into syrup. It's in those days that the terms sugaring-off and sugar-bush originated.

Sugaring-off then meant evaporating much of the sap in big kettles in the bush until it had thickened to syrup.

The process Will uses is basically the same, with production refinements. Now instead of kettles they use evaporators, huge tanks heated by wood fires, all snugly housed in a huge shed.

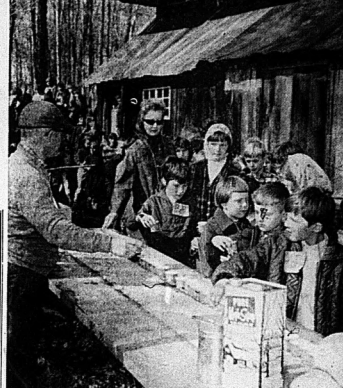
The building itself has seen some vicissitudes. It has been destroyed by fire three times in Will's lifetime — the last blaze about seven years ago.

All occurred at the same time—in Fall—and Will is inclined to believe they were caused by pyromaniac youngsters plus dry weather conditions.

However, nothing happens to mar the excitement of the visiting school students these days. Once the workings of the evaporator is explained they're given free run amid the surrounding maples.

Right now, Will has about 2,000 buckets draining off the sugary syrup. He could have more, but then rural help is at a premium.

Even then, with this year's poor weather it may not make that much difference. By now he should have harvested about 250 gallons, but the 1968 season may halve that.



Most of his production will be sold on farmers' markets in Belleville and Trenton, while the conservation authority is encouraging the public to view the operation this weekend. (There's a tractor transportation to the site and the site is posted off Highway 37).

Maple syrup always meets steady consumer demand so it should disappear mere quickly this year because of the shorter supply.

However, the lacklustre showing this year doesn't discourage him. He'll be back next year, evaporator steaming, two-horse wagon hitched to tour the maple stand, collecting a fresh run-off.

"I like working in the woods," he confesses. "I keep saying is the Fall I'm not doing it again. But when sap time comes around I want to get out there again. Anyway, it's a good place for an appetite."

And he has a sweet tooth!

A Sweet Old Time!

Belleville public school students line up for an added treat at Bill Collins' maple-syrup operation near Roslin yesterday. After viewing men at work they were given samples of the sweet syrup before departing.

Before Broadcasting Meeting

Trenton Councillors Get Trial Run

TRENTON — It's largely a question of manners this business of broadcasting council meetings.

Town councillors last Monday voted in favor of permitting their regular sessions to go over the airwaves, and thought they better have an audition.

So, one afternoon, the town fathers slipped unobtrusively into the town office building for a trial run before Radio CJBQ microphones — a "dummy" meeting, as one councillor referred to it.

Everyone waited in anticipation, and, after some preliminary advice on broadcast etiquette, CJBQ manager Frank Murray gave the councillors their cue.

In the back of everyone's mind was the procedural hybrid which which, as Mr. Murray pointed out, takes on primary importance when anything but an unanimous group gathers.

Procedure is particularly revelant in Trenton council's instance, when meetings will be broadcast live . . . not delayed on tape as is the case with coverage of Belleville council sessions.

In the first place, you can't lounge back in that comfortable, leather-covered chair and banter your position on the Dufferin St. sewer back and forth.

And it's "Councillor so-and-so" instead of "Ed." "Paul," or "Doug".

But things could be worse. After all, councillors were told, their Belleville counterparts have to abide by a "No smoking" rule. Two Trenton councillors inhale their way through an estimated two cigars each per meeting.

And what about sticking to the agenda? Strict adherence to procedure to present some semblance of order to the radio public must preclude the possibility of accepting petitions on an hour's notice.

In this week's trial run, councillors found it difficult to remember to rise while addressing their colleagues, something Belleville councillors have considered essential in their 12-year-plus radio career.

"You get a better sense of discipline by standing, not to mention superior reproduction over the air," Mr. Murray observed. "It also tends to produce more orderly debate."

Musical interludes may provide the occasion for debate of more discreet matters, like personnel, salaries, or purchase of industrial land.

It would be preferable if this type of discussion were held either before or after council sessions to maintain continuity, advised Mr. Murray.

These and other procedural concerns, formerly taken for granted, loomed unusually more important as "B-Day" (broadcast day) for Trenton council draws inevitably closer. It was even suggested a change of scenery — possibly a rearrangement of council chamber decor — might help produce the desired, more formal effect.

Before their debut, councillors decided, they wanted to make sure all three factors were considered — so one councillor wouldn't find himself the only one standing to speak, or a colleague wouldn't speak on a given issue more than proper enforcement of procedural rules permits.

And so, before the microphone becomes a permanent Trenton council fixture, councillors have decided to sit in on a session of seasoned radio performers this Monday's regular meeting of Belleville council.

Vagden Mills Gets Grant, Loan

Vagden Mills Ltd. will employ 65 people in a new plant in Trenton when it goes into operation in May or June.

Company president John Denton said this morning that employment at the Belleville plant would drop from 108 to 50 employees. "Naturally we'll have transfers to Trenton," he said.

Part of the financing for the 12,000 square - foot plant on Sidney Street in Trenton has been provided by the Ontario Development Corporation.

Quinte MPP, Dr. R. T. Potter said today Vagden Mills has received a $60,000 outright grant and another $30,000 in the form of a "forgivable loan." This could be written off over a six - year period if the company fulfills the obligations included in the loan application.

The government recently announced the new program to locate industries in non-metropolitan areas.

Allied Chemical Ltd. received $500,000 to open a plant in Belleville and Quinte Milk Products of Wellington received $62,000 for expansion under the program.

Vagden Mills Ltd. produces men's and boys' ocks under several different brand names.

"We are keeping our knitting operation in Belleville but the dyeing, pressing, packing, storage and administration will be handled in Trenton," Mr. Denton said.

"The extra space will allow both plants to expand. We're planning a new line of Christmas Dior socks and this is one of the reasons for the changeover."

Tax Tables Effective on April 1

OTTAWA (CP) — New income tax deduction tables, reflecting the new three-per-cent surtax on income taxes, have been mailed to all employers and are to take effect April 1, the revenue department said Thursday.

The new tables represent a downward revision in most cases from the five-per-cent surtax which has been collected since Jan. 1. The five-per-cent tax was defeated in the Commons Feb. 19 and replaced by the three-per-cent tax, which also applies to corporate income taxes.

The department said credit will be allowed on 1968 income tax forms, due next spring, for any overpayment of the surtax at the five-per-cent rate.

Soden Is Disappointed Over Recreation Centre

Kenneth Soden, chairman of the board of parks management and the recreation - area committee, expressed disappointment during a meeting of the board yesterday afternoon, that city council couldn't put the new recreation centre in the 1968-69 budget.

Instead it was put in the capital works budget for 1970.

"I think there's going to be devil to pay if they ever try to get it out of there," Mr. Soden said.

Paul Russell, also in attendance at the meeting, explained to the board that there would be $350,000 in the 1970 capital works budget.

The board carried unanimously a motion by Paul Russell, seconded by Richard Ellis, stating that the board trusted that city council would "include a substantial sum in its 1968 and 1969 current budgets" for the proposed arena.

It was brought to the attention of the board as well yesterday that the fair board is investigating ways to finance a building to replace the buildings torn down on the fair grounds a few months ago.

Robert Phillips, who informed the board of the fair board's plans, said that three sites had been suggested for the proposed building.

Teacher Shortage

There is a growing shortage of teachers in Ontario. That is the word from Education Minister William Davis and he has outlined plans to solve the problem.

One step includes acceptance of well-prepared secondary teachers from anywhere in the world providing they meet academic, linguistic and citizenship requirements.

This of couse is already under way with the recent recruitment of about 100 teachers from Australia and New Zealand.

However, robbing other countries (for that is what it amounts to) of teachers they can ill afford to lose themselves is not the real answer. The province should concentrate on training more people at home.

To be sure, teaching is not for everyone. Still, it is a satisfying and rewarding profession for those who embrace it. Frustrating too, but then what occupation is not? For every student troublemaker or dropout there are many more who take their schooling seriously and who co-operate readily with their teachers.

Spring and Litter

This Spring season is a pleasant one as Spring seasons go in Ontario. It is mild and dry and in this respect Belleville is living up to its "banana belt" reputation.

Contrast this with last Sunday in Brockville where there was a fair covering of snow and the St. Lawrence from Gananoque eastwards was still frozen in many areas.

The lingering white carpet in that area afforded something extra of beauty at a time when temperatures may be mild but the earth is still bare and brown and the trees have not yet come to life.

For all the sense it affords of awakening and pleasure at better days to come, Spring paradoxically is the least attractive season of the year in this part of the world. Some of the blame for this attaches to the sloppy habits of people. Yes, the men, women and children of this country are among the world's champion litterbugs.

Litter is not only a blight on city streets, it also clutters area beauty spots. The Sandbanks near Picton is one such area where broken bottles and other rubbish may be found.

Trenton's Mount Pelion is another. Walk across its slopes, or stand on its narrow summit where the cannon stands guard, and there is paper, trash, and the other unsightly evidence of the couldn't-care-less fraternity who throw everything to the winds. And the playground area of the school below has its quota of broken glass.

Anarchy Anyone?

We suppose there isn't a country worth its salt that does not possess a few anarchists.

Ireland has its rebels — somewhat dormant at the moment in a renewed era of better north-south relations, but there just the same. Who has not heard of the Irish Republican Army who down the years have taken up arms against the political division of Ireland? So the border still prevails, and with better economic times has come greater tolerance of the status quo.

Scotland too has its nationalists although they seem to stop short of bloodshed. Scarcely any blood has been spilled in the Stone Chapel — at least not in the name of politics — for many a misty Highland day. Well maybe not since all that nasty sword play in Glencoe a few centuries ago.

So Scotland today is still without a government of its own, though at Westminster there is a gentleman answering to the title of Secretary of State for Scotland. As for the Scots themselves they evidently sublimate their nationalist urges by playing the pipes, tossing the caber, dancing and other activities of the Highland Games' scene.

Not to be outdone but every bit as ineffectual are the Welsh anarchists. The word from Cardiff is that extremists there have been questioned by police following an explosion that blew up part of a tax office — of all places — in the city.

The blast shook buildings half a mile away last Sunday and police say it was caused by a time bomb. What a way to be reminded it is time to make income tax returns! It's enough to make Owen Glendower turn in his grave.

Well Wales is still there, albeit without a government of its own. Still, there is always Prince Charles who also rejoices in the title of Prince of Wales and looks in now and again on his kin over there in that rugged west coast principality. Yes, like Canadians, Ulstermen and Scots, the Welsh remain British subjects.

Anarchy anyone?

Liberal Leadership Campaign

Joe Green's Folksy Image Gives Way to Sophistication

By CARMAN CUMMING

OTTAWA CP — Joe Greene has been so well stamped with the folksy image in his two years as agriculture minister that he may never get out from behind it.

But here and there, even before he mounted his long-shot campaign for the Liberal leadership, the real Joe Greene seemed to be coming out through the caricature.

Mr. Greene was meeting angry farm leaders on the subsidies issue and, according to the script, he should have been soothing and accommodating.

But when a farmer raised his voice in complaint, Mr. Greene lashed back in kind.

"Don't ever think you're going to bull-rear me by shouting," he said. "If you have questions to pose, pose them."

But here and there, even before he mounted his long-shot campaign for the Liberal leadership, the real Joe Greene seemed to be coming out through the caricature.

Mr. Greene was meeting angry farm leaders on the subsidies issue and, according to the script, he should have been soothing and accommodating.

But when a farmer raised his voice in complaint, Mr. Greene lashed back in kind.

"Don't ever think you're going to bull-rear me by shouting," he said. "If you have questions to pose, pose them."

Mr. Greene's appearance also seems to be slipping away from the rural coloring — if it ever was there.

His suits may not be Savile Row, but they hang well enough on his lean frame. And the sheek of iron-grey hair is definitely an asset.

His style in the Commons is in keeping with his background as a 47-year-old Toronto - born lawyer and wartime flying ace who has been close to the political game for most of his career.

His speeches also seem to have lost the rural tone. For example:

"It is obvious that the development of man as a social animal has not kept pace with his technological and electronic development."

He has moved away from milk and wheat to talk of the scarcity of housing and the "usury" of mortgages. He has deplored the growing gap between rich and poor and "skilled Canadian cities "exhaust-fume-filled horrors."

And on an international scale he has said the world has "one monstrous and paramount challenge — to overcome the perpetual struggle for food."

But at the same time Mr. Greene has kept himself centered in the political spectrum with sturdy aphorisms on the virtue of paying your way.

Governments can't delude people into thinking that social services come like stamps at the supermarket, he says.

Men and nations have to live by the fundamental rule that if you spend more than you earn for too long, something is going to give.

"In fiscal terms, there is no black magic."

And in another speech:

"We need greater productivity in Canada. It is no longer a question of merely distributing wealth."

Mr. Greene has pitched much of his leadership campaign to the West, although his closest connection with Western Canada came when he flew with the City of Saskatoon fighter squadron.

His remaining was in Toronto and he worked in the mines at Schumacher in Northern Ontario for a time before joining the RCAF.

He shot down seven German aircraft, damaged 10, won the Distinguished Flying Cross and left the air force as a flight lieutenant to go back to Toronto for law studies.

While still in school he married 19-year-old Corinne Bedore, a student of politics and economics.

And for law practice he picked her home town of Arnprior, Ont., in the Ottawa Valley 40 miles west of the capital, where they still live with their five children.

In Arnprior, Mr. Greene was quickly involved in town politics. He also became involved, in 1956, with a provincial investigation into town dealings with a development company.

Mr. Greene and his law partner had acted for the company in drawing up contracts with the council, on which they both sat. The investigation found they had acted in an "improper" way.

Several years later he was quoted as saying: "I'm just damn glad I learned my lesson before coming to Ottawa."

Despite that experience, Mr. Greene tried for the provincial Liberal leadership in 1959 and lost. He won the Renfrew South seat in 1963, but made slimber unsuccessful bid for the provincial leadership the following year.

His chance for federal stardom came in 1965 when the Liberals were blanked on the prairies and had to pick an eastern agriculture minister for the first time in 54 years.

Mr. Greene went over well on his first-western trip with the casual and folksy approach "I don't know beans about farming" and made the image stick.

Now the image is changing.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 29, 1948.

Margaret and Milda Dandeno from Loretto College, returned today to spend the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Dandeno, Bridge St. E.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Milne, Detroit, are visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. George Lee, Cedar St.

Robert Fluney and "Ted" Boyle are spending the Easter weekend at their respective homes, and will return to St. Michael's University, Toronto, early next week.

Frances Sullivan, of the teaching staff of Queen Alexandra School, is spending the Easter week vacation in New York City Toronto and St. Catharines.

Tea hostesses at the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club last evening were, Mrs. L. D. Tatley, Mrs. G.-F. Smith, Mrs C. Wallbridge and Mrs. F. Sprague.

30 YEARS AGO

March 29, 1938.

Mrs. George Foster spent the weekend with Mrs. Arthur Lelg in Oshawa.

Mrs. Bert Walker spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gummow, in Oshawa.

Isabel Armitage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Armitage, entertained a number of friends the occasion being the celebration of her birthday.

Fifty men were called from the city's relief lists this morning for the removal of ice from the street gutters and for work on rear parking lots.

40 YEARS AGO

March 29, 1928.

Gas Company Pays Dividend

From our file copy at this time in 1936: "At the annual meeting of the Belleville Gas Company the financial statement showed that a dividend of four per cent was paid during the year and that the mortgage debt was reduced by $2600. The following dicrators were elected: J. W. Johnson, Frank Dolan, George Moffatt, Ed. Donald, and J. Lyons Biggar."

50 YEARS AGO

March 29, 1918.

Mr. and Mrs. P.-Bell of Kingston are visiting friends here.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Black at Massassaga was the scene of an enjoyable evening on Wednesday last when about 75 of their neighbors assembled to present them with an address and a handsome combination oak writing desk and book case prior to their departure from the neighborhood to reside oh Hulf's Island.

Rent Is Paid... But

Peking Newsmen's Ottawa Flat Vacant Since October

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Where are Mr. Pu and Mr. Yao?

The two Chinese Communists, employees of Haihua or New China news agency, left their swank apartment here in October, 1966.

They haven't been seen here since. But regularly, every month, a cheque for $185 arrives from Peking to keep up the rent on empty furnished apartment 901 in a building where at least one cabinet minister lives.

Mr. Pu's name is still listed on a mail box in the lobby.

Western counter espionage services describe the New China news agency as a front for a Communist Chinese intelligence service.

Mr. Pu and Mr. Yao used to be shadowed by the RCMP during their days here when they were members of the parliamentary press gallery.

Mr. Pu is—or was—the reporter for the agency and Mr. Yao his interpreter. However, Informants said Mr. Pu spoke perfect English.

The building's management forwards to Haihua, 20 Kuo Huei Chieh, Peking, all mail addressed to Mr. Pu and Mr. Yao which is labelled "please forward."

Most of the mail comprises newspapers and magazines from the U.S. and many other countries and after 18 months there is a fair stack of it in apartment 901.

One source suggested that the apartment management is unwillingly be acting as a mail drop or courier. However, the least of his reasons being to keep Kennedy—otherwise almost certainly the party's nominee barring an unexpected McCarthy miracle—out of the White House.

Those who have observed him for years feel sure that only a strong indication he would lose, that his sense of place in history would be mortally scarred, could persuade Johnson to bow out. Even with a 50-50 chance, they feel, he would make a fight of it.

Those persons, particularly editorial writers and political observers abroad, who have the idea a man with the name of Kennedy has only to ask for the nomination, or that America's era of discontent will shrink Johnson's bid, have much to learn about U.S. politics.

Johnson has not even begun to fight yet and he has behind him monumental resources for any showdown.

Aside from his power of patronage and—barring unprecedented defections—control of the party machine, he also has the unparalelled prestige and strength of the presidential office itself and its strategic ability to manoeuvre events and even create issues in any diversionary play.

The one thing that would certainly deflate peace candidates Kennedy and McCarthy would be some movement toward a Vietnam settlement, but there is no indication that even Johnson has that big an ace up his sleeve.

If his "non political" speeches recently are any indication, Johnson will make his appeal to the bedrock of American patriotism, emphasizing that the country is at war and that the 500,000 men fighting it need the support of their country.

He will be persuasive, as indeed any Kennedy or McCarthy in their more sophisticated ways, but while much of the enthusiasm for these men so far has sprung from pre-voting age America, Johnson will be aiming at the heart of the more mature, tradition-minded electorate.

Several years later he was quoted as saying: "I'm just damn glad I learned my lesson before coming to Ottawa."

Despite that experience, Mr. Greene tried for the provincial Liberal leadership in 1959 and lost. He won the Renfrew South seat in 1963, but made slimber unsuccessful bid for the provincial leadership the following year.

His chance for federal stardom came in 1965 when the Liberals were blanked on the prairies and had to pick an eastern agriculture minister for the first time in 54 years.

Mr. Greene went over well on his first-western trip with the casual and folksy approach "I don't know beans about farming" and made the image stick.

Now the image is changing.

Battle Not Yet Joined

President Johnson Likely Will Seek Renomination

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Amid all the breathless speculation on who will contest, and win, the United States presidential nominations to be decided in summer conventions, the really big question, of course, is whether President Johnson will be in the race. He won't say.

Taking the stance of a wartime commander-in-chief concerned only about the troops in the field, and tending his speeches with quotations from Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill, his posture is that of one above politics.

But from Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey down, assurance comes that Johnson will enter, win the Democratic nomination over Senators Robert Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy and then be re-elected in November over the probable Republican candidate, Richard M. Nixon.

One has to go back to 1884 to find the last case in which an incumbent president—the Chester Alan Arthur—was denied the renomination he sought. But Johnson's highly regarded political antennae cannot have failed to detect the rumblings of fear and discontent within his country that could upset the traditional pattern.

Even aside from the bleak reports from the military and political fronts of Vietnam, a war claiming 500 Americans dead a week, the president has felt before him daily a plasterful of unappetizing election-year news —the budget crisis in Congress.

the run on the dollar, the recent pessimistic report on U.S. race relations and the glowing progress reports from Kennedy and McCarthy handwagons.

Still, the majority of political pundits are confident Johnson will be a candidate, not the Dream and Reality

Artificiality of Urban Life

Orillia Packet and Times

The rapid urbanization of Canada, and of all the civilized nations of the West, has increasingly removed us from an understanding of the realities of life; in the sheltered, artificial existence of the great cities, we lose touch with the elements and forces which govern all existence, and with which our forefathers had such close terms. We tend to think in terms of the abstract, rather than the concrete, such close as to perpetrate acts of criminal folly in the name of the loftiest principles. The millions who died, and are dying, in India, Indonesia, the Congo and Nigeria, perish in the name of liberty, independence and self-determination. The unemployed negroes of Rhodesia are made jobless by sanctions enforced in the name of racial equality, while the tribal tyrants and petty dictators who hold an increasing part of Asia and Africa in thrall are installed and sustained in the name of democracy and anti-imperialism.

So deep is our detestation of South Africa's apartheid experiment that we will part with an air and naval base of priceless importance to our own survival rather than condone it, while we doom thousands of colored immigrants to a life of misery in our slums in the name of a racial brotherhood we profess, but which we know does not exist.

If our civilization is to advance, it must be inspired by ideals worthy of god, but to survive it must also be governed by the realities which affect man. As long as man is born to die, he must inevitably be prey to endless fears and dreads, and the responsible for the meeting of his affairs diffegard them at their peril.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

March 29, 1968 . . .

Royal assent was given to the British North America Act, 101 years ago—in 1867.

The act, which is Canada's constitution, marked the confederation of the eastern provinces under one government. In 1867, Canada comprised Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

1936—Germans voted almost unanimously—98.79 per—cent—to approve Hitler's policies.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—the Germans captured Mezieres, but the offensive in other areas on the Western Front was checked; 75 were killed and 90 injured at a Good Friday service near Paris when a shell from a German long-range gun hit a church.

RCMP apparently has not visited the apartment since the two left.

Informants say Mr. Pu filed reports to Peking while a member of the press gallery.

Most of the reports concerned elements in the U.S. opposed to the war in Vietnam.

Intelligence sources said Haihua has maintained offices in Ottawa and Montreal City to send information from American military and technical journals.

Birdseye Started It

Innovation Keeps Food Corporation in State of Change

MONTREAL (CP)—The word in the giant and competitive food business of North America today is "innovation."

So great is competition, so vast the market, that giant corporations which supply the bulk of an urban society's food needs must operate in a state of continuous change.

It may well have begun with a young Brooklyn-born biologist, Clarence Birdseye, who claims he discovered the principle of fast-frozen food while fishing for salmon at 70 degrees below zero in Labrador.

One way or the other, Mr. Birdseye marketed the first frozen food in 1930, a turning point in the food business.

Today, in a supermarket world, the big food companies are agreed that their success is reflected by their ability to see change coming, prepare for it, jump aboard and try to steer it in the right direction.

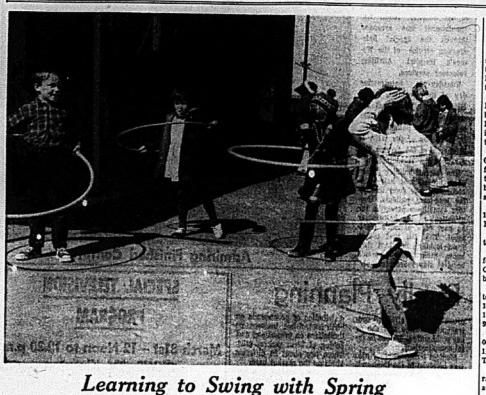
New methods of preservation are under study—radiation preservation, the use of natural environmental gases to prolong the shelf life of fruit and vegetables, the use of ultra-low temperatures, freeze-frying, "explosion puffing" and the "engineering" of foods.

The hermetically-sealed cans that today are the commonplace of grocery stores were used by Antarctic explorers in the late 19th century—some cans have been found in Antarctica in recent years with the food still palatable—but it took many years before some major food manufacturers made use of them.

In recent years, some major food manufacturers have stayed out of the frozen food business, either because of their long-term general commitment in the business or because they have waited for perfected techniques.

One of these has been Kraft Foods Ltd. The U.S. parent company has already decided to enter the field with technology befitting its size and status. For its Canadian counterpart the day may be a little further off.

Other companies have been in the field for years, but Kraft feels this is no handicap because of its name.



T. P. Quinn, marketing director of Canadian Kraft, says:

"The consumer is conditioned to the name Kraft. Our marketing concept is to find out what a customer wants, make it in quality and sell it at a fair price."

The whole Kraft enterprise began with a Canadian. J. L. Kraft, a one-time Fort Erie, Ont., grocery clerk who launched Kraft Foods in Chicago selling cheese to stores from a horse-drawn wagon.

The firm's Montreal plant today turns out 168 products and further diversification is on the way.

Mr. Quinn believes the rapid growth of the frozen food business could come with the development of micro-wave ovens which could be especially useful for institutions. But the new foods could also be a boon to the housewife who still has ordinary equipment.

Learning to Swing with Spring

Younger pupils attending Mildred Corke Public School at Albury, Amelhiasburg Township, were still babies when the hoola-hoop craze swept the country some years ago. From their display of enthusiasm yesterday, however, Peter Whaley, Leslie Berg, Stephanie Manns and Lynn Pépaneau appear to be making up for lost time and enjoying it.

Weeping Relatives Sit in Darkness Beside Ashes of First Man in Space

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Weeping relatives of space pioneer Yuri Gagarin sat in darkness beside his ashes today as thousands of grief-stricken Russians filed past to pay their last respects.

With them sat relatives of fellow air force Col. Vladimir Seryogin, 46, the veteran test pilot killed with Gagarin when their MiG jet trainer crashed north of here Wednesday.

The urns containing the ashes of the two men—one the Soviet Union's most loved hero, the other virtually unknown until Thursday—were placed side by side on a dais in the red banner hall of the Soviet Army House in central Moscow. Both will receive a state funeral Saturday.

Top Soviet leaders, including Leonid Brezhnev, Communist party chief, Premier Alexei Kosygin, and President Nikolai Podgorny, were the first around the dais when the hall was opened. They stayed for about 20 minutes.

The turns were illuminated by spotlights in the otherwise darkened hall where the chandeliers were draped in black. Two huge portraits of the dead men hung side by side over the entrance.

One old woman at one stage knelt before the urns and crossed herself in the style of Orthodox church believers.

An army band played slow funeral music as the mourners were kept filing past. The hall was to stay open for 12 hours.

Following Saturday's state funeral, the two men will be buried in the Kremlin Wall alongside other Soviet heroes.

Details of the crash have not been released, but an official government investigating commission said the two men died when their two-seat jet crashed in Vladimir province near Moscow.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices slipped in active mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, interrupting a two-day rally.

Golds paced the decline as Dome Mines fell 3 to 62, Campbell Red Lake ¾ to 32¾ and Kerr Addison ¼ to 16. Trading in the golds section was relatively quiet.

Industrials also were off. Ocean Cement, up 2¼ Thursday following announcement that International Cement will offer to buy 254,000 shares at $28 a share, slipped ½ to 21½.

Massey-Ferguson fell ⅝ to 14⅛. Bell rallied ⅝ to 44⅛ and Revenue Properties ⅛ to 13½.

Rio Algom Mines advanced ⅛ to 30⅛.

Oils posted modest gains. Jefferson Lake rose ⅛ to 20¼ and Great Plains and Scurry-Rainbow ⅛ each to 17¼ and 27.

On index, golds dropped 4.89 to 211.52 and industrials .31 to 146.07. Western oils gained .57 to 172.97 and base metals, .15 to 97.61.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,087,000 shares compared with 1,174,000 at the same time Thursday.

Thursday the stock exchange rallied in active trading but the advance was modest compared with Wednesday's strong gains. Oils and industrials were up, base metals fractionally down. Golds, off for most of the day, closed on a mixed base following a late rally.

U.C.W. Meetings

EMMANUEL FOXBORO UCW

Mrs. Embury Hough opened her home for the March meeting of Hallaway unit of Emmanuel Foxboro United Church Women, with the leader, Mrs. Harry McMullen, in charge.

Mrs. Fred Wellman conducted the worship service, on the theme of Lent. Mrs. Wellman, Mrs. Enid Silder and Mrs. Eric Emerson gave readings.

Mrs. Ed Emerson presented a discussion of Japan based on the study book.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Coleman Townsend.

QUEENSBORO UCW

QUEENSBORO — The March meeting of unit one of Queensboro United Church Women was held at the home of Mrs. William Holmes Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Harold Tokley, unit leader, was in charge.

Mrs. Gertie Holmes conducted the devotional. A skit on the God is not dead movement was presented by several members. Mrs. William Cassidy and Mrs. John Thompson gave readings.

Mrs. Tokley was in charge of the program and conducted a quiz on the last week in Jesus' life. Mrs. Cassidy read a story.

FRANKFORD UCW

FRANKFORD—The March meeting of the United Church Women was held March 12 at the home of Mrs. Earl Hewlison with 19 members and two visitors present.

Mrs. Hewison, president, opened the meeting with a reading.

A letter from Supply and Welfare reminded members of the need for used clothing and, aylons. In Korea, nylon hosiwork supplies some women with their only income, $25 a month.

Final plans were made for the fashion show March 25.

Mrs. R. Bauer, Mrs. H. Patrick, Mrs. I. Turner and Mrs. B. Chard led the worship service on missions in Japan. A film was shown and a Japanese flower arrangement was presented to Mrs. K. Roote, who conducted an auction.

COLLEGE HILL UCW

The March meeting of College Hill United Church Women was held in the church social hall recently with a large number present. Members and guests were welcomed by president Mrs. A. Greenwood.

During the business session minutes were read and reports given from the various committees. It was announced that the South Hastings U.C.W. workshop will be held April 18, at the church. Funds from the birthday box will be used to purchase materials for the annual bazaar to be held this fall.

Group seven was in charge of devotions with Ruth Daniels, Catherine MacIntosh and Myrtle Bushell taking part.

Rev. Peter Walford-Davis of Consecon was introduced by Catherine MacIntosh and spoke on the origin and good work done by Lifeline. He dealt with its service in this district and stated that there were 35 volunteers at present working at all hours and ready at any time — day or night — to assist those in need of help. There are now 15 more volunteers in training for this type of work and these will soon graduate. All walks of life are represented in this service to mankind.

It was noted that the first lifeline service was organized in Australia and the two active centres for all of Canada are located in Belleville and Sudbury. The most common calls are the result of marital problems, with alcoholics second followed by others who are terribly lonely, so that the main essential of a volunteer is to be a good listener.

An enlightening question and answer period followed.

Olive Williams won a contest and the group in charge served.

Mrs. Douglas Way couldn't get to the hairdresser to keep her appointment. She was admitted to hospital instead.

So the hairdresser went to her — six weeks later and in her hospital room. The appointment was arranged through the special hairdressing service of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary volunteer services.

Tuesday is hairdressing day at the hospital, when Miss Jenny Whitmarsh arrives to do the hair of from one to eight patients. Mrs. F. A. Beeby of the WHA is in charge of the service and arranges the appointments.

The morale-building effect of a professional hair-do is recognized as good therapy for long-term patients. Doctors sometimes prescribe the attentions of the hairdresser as part of a patient's treatment. The lift that comes from looking her best they know, makes any woman's hospital stay more pleasant.

Doctors Discuss Family Planning

MEXICO CITY CP — Family doctors have an inescapable responsibility to give their women patients a chance to determine the size of their family, a Mexican family planner told a scientific meeting of Canadian doctors Tuesday.

Dr. Hector R. Acuna said doctors should be acquiring, as a matter of routine, information on whether their women patients are taking birth control pills and what kind of pill.

Dr. Acuna said that asking such questions during the recording of routine medical histories would invite patients' questions now often withheld through timidity or fear of refusal by the doctor to discuss prescribing the pill on religious or moral grounds.

Acceptability of oral contraceptives had been amply demonstrated in more than 12 years by an estimated 14,000,000 women who use them.

Dr. Acuna addressed the annual scientific meeting of the College of Family Physicians of Canada on behalf of Dr. Edris Rice-Wray, director of the Maternal Health Clinic here which supplies contraceptive pills to more than 19,063 women.

Dr. Acuna suggested it is medical irresponsibility if a mother becomes pregnant because she lacks effective contraception advice and she or her child suffers serious or fatal complications.

Medical irresponsibility also was involved in the thousands of illegal abortions performed yearly on mothers who do not know how to prevent unwanted pregnancies.

In Mexico, the law forbids distribution of propaganda on birth control but imposes no limitations on prescribing and selling of birth control pills. There are about 25 different kinds on the market here.

Mexico's birthrate is booming at 50 per 1,000 population annually compared with between 15 and 20 per 1,000 in Canada and th United States.

Narcotics Topic at Study Guild

"Narcotics Control in Canada" was the program subject at the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Study Guild held March 25, at the home of Mrs. G. E. Adams, Bridge St. E.

As an introductory worship service Mrs. J. R. Reynolds read a modern version of the "Prodigal Son," written by Rev. Allan Lavis.

Mrs. L. N. Fortin, assisted by Mrs. Jerry Cochrane, dealt with the many aspects of narcotics and controlled drugs, as the Drug Act of 1961 is under revision.

Opium has been in use since 7000 B.C. Heroin and morphine are its modern derivatives.

There are some 3000 known addicts in Canada and these require the drug three to five times day.

Importing and distribution cause great price ranges and the strength is cut as the drug passes from hand to hand. Theft and crime result. Various theories of treatment have been tried but at last a humane approach is being made.

Marijuana is not a narcotic, though often classified as such. During the last two years smoking in cigarette form as a pleasant pastime has become a contagious disease with prolonged effects.

Barbiturates and amphetamines are controlled drugs on prescription lists only. New legislation is also regulating control of this type.

L.S.D. was first isolated in 1938.

One of the discoverers experienced the first hallucinatory effects in 1943. Illicit supplies are easily produced, as a white powder, odorless, colorless and tasteless when dissolved in water. Most of its effects are on the mind. These may be pleasant or unpleasant. Therapeutic effects vary widely according to personality, environment and circumstances. In 1963 Canadian law banned it completely.

In resolving such a vast and complex subject the capricious remark was made "that if all medicines were thrown into the sea it might be good for people but bad for the fish."

Mrs. Orr and Mrs. Mayhew served light refreshments and Mrs. Settle presided over the meeting.

ST. JOSEPH'S PARISH COUNCIL OF C.W.L.

The March meeting of St. Joseph's C.W.L. was opened by recitation of the League Prayer led by the president, Mrs. H. Carr-Brainl.

The League conveners were asked to read individual directives issued by the Diocesan Council. Later in the meeting, Mrs. D. Duminie spoke briefly on the Diocesan convention which will be held in Belleville this year on May 25th and 26th.

Mrs. E. Labelle gave her report on the visits made to the Picton and Belleville hospitals during the month.

The members were reminded of the annual communion luncheon to be held at the Parish Hall on Sunday, March 31st.

Mrs. M. Chartrand, bazaar convener and Mrs C. Murphy, convener of the Valentine dessert bridge tabled their final reports on these two projects.

Ideas for a membership party to be held in May were discussed.

Mrs. Carr-Brainl advised the members of the decision made that the present executive would stay in office for the 1963-63 season with the exception of the position of first-vice-president which was open due to the resignation of Mrs. G. Whalen.

At the close of the business meeting, the Council was addressed by Paul Fleming, Separate School Board representative of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board on the topic "Crossroads for Separate Schools".

Mr. Fleming was thanked by Mrs. G. Whalen.

WIDOW IS BENEFICIARY

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — An estate amounting to $45,622 and naming his widow as sole beneficiary was left by Louis Wankkansky, the South African wholesale grocer who became the world's first heart-transplant patient and then died 18 days later of pneumonia.

Baby Due; Husband Hunts with Buddies

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was pregnant with my fourth child due last week and my husband was out hunting with his buddies. He knew very well the baby was due any minute and I asked him please not to leave town, but he went anyway. He told me if the labor pains started to call my brother and ask him to drive me to the hospital and then have my brother call him and he'd head for home immediately. I informed him that I would be too ashamed to call anybody and to just forget about me — that I would probably drive myself to the hospital. He got mad and yelled, "You must be out of your mind. That would be dangerous, but do as you please."

ANN LANDERS

When the pains started they weren't like the ones I had with my other children — they were close together and were unusually sharp. I decided to call an ambulance.

For some reason, the pains stopped when I got to the hospital and the baby wasn't born until the following morning. The ambulance bill was $88 and my husband is burned up. He says I called the ambulance just to spite him. He is deducting the $88 from my allowance. What do you think about this? — HELENA.

DEAR HELENA: Your husband is my personal candidate for Mean Man of the Year (Heel Division). And you can tell him I said so.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I were married for 20 years. We have teen-age children. Lloyd is a prominent man in this community and the news of our divorce rocked the town because no one suspected there was a bit of trouble. (The "trouble" by the way is 14 years younger than I am, is currently trying to get a divorce, and is willing to give up her children.)

There is no chance for reconciliation. I am not writing for that reason. What I want to know is this: What should my attitude be toward former mutual friends of my husband and myself — people we used to see socially? Several of these people are trying to play it cool. They want to remain on good terms with both Lyold and me.

Since Lloyd is clearly in the wrong, I feel that these people are condoning what he did and therefore their morals are as bad as his. Should I stop seeing them? To my way of thinking, they are either on Lloyd's side or mine. They cannot be impartial. Comment please. — FENCE SITTER.

DEAR SITTER: Accept the friendship of those who offer it — and do so unequivocally. You have no right to demand that your friends stop seeing your husband. A woman who adopts this vindictive attitude deserves to end up alone. And she usually does.

Confidential to OUT OF WORDS: A man who brags that he has not had a vacation in seven years has very little to be proud of. He is a compulsive worker and a fool. Tell him you are through begging and next summer you are going to visit your family either with him or without him. Also tell him he's stupid to let all that money pile up — for your next husband to enjoy.

British Travel Bureau Gives Info

Dear Doris: We are happy to try to answer the enquiries put to us about Britain but you may like to know we refer travel and tourist questions to the British Travel Association, 151 Bloor Street West, Toronto 5, Ontario.

That is the local office of a company supported by the United Kingdom Government and in receipt of a Grant-in-Aid from the British Board of Trade, established to increase the number of visitors to Britain and to ensure they are well received and accommodated.

The office does not make reservations for travellers but gladly advise and will supply travel material on request. — British Government Office, Toronto.

Dear British: The very time to tell us about it. In the spring a young man's fancy — and everybody else's — turn to thoughts of travel. Prepare your RTA friends for an onslaught of mail!

Dear Doris: Please send me your leaflet "How to Study". My children are in college and it may be too late for them as one is considered quite bright but I could never get him to study or I should say have regular study habits. — Still Hoping.

Dear Hoping: It's never too late to work on good habits — although having to unlearn bad ones does complicate things.

If Bright Boy will even now follow the instructions — not laughing off a single detail — and add some will power of his own, I promise you he will get somewhere.

You can laugh off anything, smart-aleck style, but where does that get you?

* * *

Dear Doris: I would like to tell you that I've had a lot of heartbreak in 11 years of marriage — mother-in-law trouble. It is still present, but a bit easier.

But my point is that I've found happiness also. I love my family but feel that my concern for others and my busy-ness fills a need for me and without it I'm sure I would have cracked up long ago. — Growing.

Dear Growing: You aren't the only one who has kept on an even keel by reaching out to help others. The minute we lift our sights above our own noses we get a better perspective on our private headaches and heartaches.

* * *

To Married a Decade: There couldn't be a better way of celebrating, to my mind, than by a renewal of the marriage vows, at church. Some couples do it every year.

We need ways to lift ourselves up out of the drabness of routine living into the bright sunlight where the trees are not obstructing our view of the whole blessed forest. Getting back into the mood of that first wedding day is one way.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Request for Chinese Recipes

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: We had Chicken Balls in a lovely sauce at a Chinese restaurant and my husband asked me if I could make it at home. Would you have the recipe? Also one for Chinese Egg Drop Soup? Thanking you. — Bessie T.

ANSWER: Certainly.

CHICKEN BALLS IN SAUCE

2 raw chicken breasts
2 green onions, chopped very finely
1½ teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon corn starch
1 tablespoon sherry or pineapple juice
1 tablespoons water
4 tablespoons oil
¼ cup thinly sliced onions
1 teaspoon minced ginger
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons Chinese oyster sauce (or shrimp paste)
¼ cup chicken broth
½ teaspoon pepper

Discard the skin and bones of the chicken. Chop the chicken and onions very finely. Blend in the salt, corn starch, sherry and water. Shape into walnut-sized balls. Heat the oil in a frying pan; fry the balls until golden brown on all sides. Pour off almost all the oil. Add the sliced onions, ginger, sugar, oyster sauce or shrimp paste and broth. Cook over low heat 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Sprinkle with the pepper.

EGG DROP SOUP

6 cups chicken broth
½ cup minced chicken, cooked
2 chopped water chestnuts
2 teaspoons corn starch
3 tablespoons water
2 eggs, beaten

Bring the broth, chicken and water chestnuts to a boil. Stir the corn starch and water together. Pour into the soup stirring constantly from a height. Drizzle in the eggs until set.

Skin Responds to Proper Care

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

Wake up those 55 muscles of the face! Revive that rosy-cheeked, glowing complexion by incorporating some finger-gymnastics in your daily cleansing program. When washing the face, circle the index and third fingers along chin, cheeks and forehead. Such feather - light action brings the blood closer to the surface. Notice how this mild manoeuvre pops up circulation and helps clear pores of waste. Remember, your skin is a living organ and, like the rest of the body, responds to proper nourishment, cleansing and exercise. Although it looks fragile, it is amazingly resilient. It heals and renews itself daily. That's why dermatologists insist complexions can be improved, for they are continually being renewed by the living cells under the skin.

Surface impurities often wash away via a facial mask. Use long, even strokes to apply, always avoiding the area immediately around the eyes. Check your doctor about this easy-to-mix formula. Make a frothy paste of baking soda and water and smooth on face. Allow to dry. You'll probably feel a slightly taut sensation as the baking soda dries up facial eruptions and cleanses pores. Rinse in cool water. Now, using a gentle finger-tapping motion, note how clean and soft skin feels.

A beautiful complexion is nourished from within. A balanced diet, including meat, fish, green garden vegetables, milk and eggs, feeds the skin as well as the rest of the body. As Cheryl Pratt illustrates, fresh air, regulated doses of sunshine, and exercises, even if it's just a romp with her puppy, helps rev up the complexion. Nature has given each of us a wonderful "acid mantle" to protect skin from weather and external irritations. Be careful not to wash it off with harsh detergents or bury it with clogged pores. Occasionally, go without make-up and enjoy the luxury of letting skin breathe freely.

P.S. Your avalanche of requests prompts us to offer our "7-Day Diet" once more. This 32-page booklet contains a full week's menus of reducing meals, that are nourishing and streamlining. Also, it features recipes, plus photo-illustrated exercises. For your copy enclose 25c and a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Reba and Bonnie Churchill, 7 Day Diet, c/o The Intelligencer, Room 1310, 80 King St. W., Toronto, Ontario.

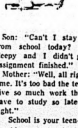
Women Over 30 Resume Education or Careers

TORONTO CP — Twenty-five women over 30 are spending $70 and a morning a week for 15 weeks to find out whether they want to work, where they might find jobs, and how they would go about resuming interrupted education or careers.

Among them they have 51 children, assorted working experience and a lot of doubts. Their husband's attitudes toward their course range from encouraging through skeptical to discouraging.



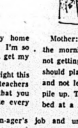
The course, planned by Sylvia Campbell, offers personal counselling, a series of lectures on today's social and economic climate, especially as it affects women, and other series in career areas such as civil service, teaching, business.

Mrs. Campbell is student adviser at Atkinson College, York University. The course is sponsored by York's centre for continuing education.

All women taking the course have had Grade 12 and almost half are 45 to 49 years old, with children 12 to 19.

Most have indicated they are seeking self-confidence as well as practical guidelines.

Mrs. Bruce Johnson says: "When you are thinking about babies and recipes, you lose touch."



Son: "Can't I stay home from school today? I'm so sleepy and I didn't get my assignment finished."

Mother: "Well, all right this time. It's too bad the teachers get so much work that you have to study so late every night."

School is your teen-ager's Job and unless he is sick, he should go whether he feels like it or not. Help him organize his homework time and insist on definite and uninterrupted study hours.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "You are tired in the mornings because you're not getting enough sleep. You should plan a study schedule and not let your assignments pile up. Then you can get to bed at a reasonable hour."

Impressive Developments Started by New Hampshire Primaries

WASHINGTON (CP) — New Hampshire voters opened the U.S. political primary season March 12 with verdicts which transformed the 1968 presidential campaign into the wildest in years.

By the time the last state primary is held June 18 in New York state, the pattern may be clearer about the final presidential candidate choices to be made at the Republican and Democratic nominating conventions in August.

"May" is the right word: nothing is certain in the unique U.S. political device where aberrations are the norm and contractions abound.

The fallout from New Hampshire has been impressive.

Governor George Romney of Michigan, who was seeking the Republican nomination, packed the whole thing up two weeks before the vote and former vice-president Richard Nixon scored a one-sided victory without any real opposition.

It was a different side in the New Hampshire vote, President Johnson suffered two shocks.

Minnesota Senator Eugene McCarthy and his youth-powered crusade came within 230 votes of the president's total. There is debate whether this reflected agreement with McCarthy's anti-war stand or disaffection for the president.

And Senator Robert Kennedy of New York, obviously encouraged by McCarthy's showing, immediately plunged into the Democratic race in a no-holds-barred effort to defeat Johnson.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York, in a surprise move March 21, decided to avoid the primaries entirely but kept the door open for a Republican nomination draft at the convention. That left the primaries field to Nixon.

There are 14 primaries left, including the District of Columbia, but only five shape as really important. The next test is next Tuesday, April 2, in Wisconsin.

What are the primaries all about and why?

The custom began in Wisconsin in 1905 as a way to give the voter a chance to wrest some of the nominating control away from party machines. By 1916 more than half the states had adopted the practice.

But it declined thereafter despite continuing debate on establishing a national primary with uniform rules across the country.

Some primaries, like New Hampshire, are "open." Democrats can vote for Republican candidates or vice versa. Some are "closed" or limited to straight party lines.

Some, like New Hampshire, permit "write-in" votes—names added to the ballot by the voter. Former president Dwight D. Eisenhower won New Hampshire in absentia that way in 1952 and Henry Cabot Lodge did the same in another Republican write-in in 1964 and there faded away.

Some primaries, including Massachusetts, "bind" the delegates to the candidate they vote for at the first vote at the convention. Others restrict voting to a slate of delegates committed to a candidate rather than the candidate himself.

Republican strategists fear the three-cornered Democratic fight, while good from one standpoint, also will bog the headlines.

Nixon is inhibited by another American political device called the "favorite son" candidate. Some states, including California, this year have thrown their Republican delegates behind a favorite son. In California the favorite son is Governor Ronald Reagan. He will control those delegates at the convention.

Sunday School Lesson

A Prayer Men Must Answer

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

One of the big words in the religious world today is the word "ecumenical." Some Christians welcome it, some are afraid of it, but the growth of an ecumenical spirit is one of the major religious trends of our time.

A growing number of Christians are embarrassed by the scandal of their many divisions. If all Christians share the same faith, why are there so many divisions among them?

One answer to this embarrassment is a growing spirit of understanding and co-operation between religious groups that formerly had little or nothing to do with each other. Catholic and Protestant Christians, for example, are now meeting to explore areas of agreement and co-operation, and, at times, to worship together.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for March 31: "For Whom Jesus Prayed," John 17.

The word "ecumenical" is used because it means "universal," or "world - wide." The Greek Word from which it is derived is made up of two short Greek words meaning "to inhabit" and "household", so that "ecumenical" means the inhabited world.

It is related to the word "economy" since both come from the same Greek root. The word "economy" comes from two Greek words that mean "to manage a household." The word "ecumenical" refers to the people who manage the household in this case those who manage a world-wide household. As used in a religious sense, it refers to the whole church — to every branch of the church as it relates to all the other branches.

Christians are faced with a puzzling problem. The problem is how to maintain freedom of worship, and the right of groups to follow their own interpretation of religious truth, and yet bear a united witness to the common faith in Christ as Lord as shared by all Christians.

Some Christians believe that the time has come when Christians should minimize their differences, and emphasize their vast areas of agreement, should express their unity of spirit by uniting in some kind of organic union. Several of the major denominations are exploring this possibility through a committee known as COCU, Consultation on Christian Union.

Others are afraid that organic union would create a superchurch that would tend to smother important convictions held by some of the participating groups. They do not believe the problem of differences will be solved by trading in all denominational boats for one big ecumenical ship. They point out that Peter, James, and John did not all get into the same boat to pull in the miraculous catch of fish. (Luke 5:7) They did, however, have to bring their boats closer together, and lend a hand to the same net.

A major spur to the growing ecumenical spirit comes from Jesus' prayer that His followers may all be "one," even as He and the heavenly Father are one, so that by their very unity Christians may bear witness to the world the divine source of their faith. (John 17:22)

This prayer reveals much of Jesus' intention for His followers. First, they are people who have been called out of the world. (John 17:6) They are no hothouse variety. They are people who live in the world and know its temptations, but have turned from them to find the joy of following Christ.

Before people can preach genuine concern for the world, they must give evidence that they themselves have been reconciled to God and to each other. Before they can talk about love, they must receive the love of God into their hearts, and seek to show it toward their fellow men.

This does not mean withdrawal from the world. Jesus prayed that His followers might be sent back into the world to share their faith. (John 17:15-20) They are like salt. (Matthew 5:13) Before the salt can add flavor to food, it must be gathered from the mine and be refined. Then it must be scattered on the food.

This, it has often been pointed out, is like the Christian church. Its members, too, must be gathered from the world and refined by the indwelling Spirit of Christ. Then they must be scattered back into the world to carry with them the added flavor of their Christian faith and attitudes.

Many Christians today are concerned about the answer to Jesus' prayer They believe it is being answered by the growing ecumenical spirit. They believe it is also being answered by a growing sense of the church's mission. The church does not exist for itself alone. It exists to serve, and to start a chain reaction of faith and commitment that will be felt through all succeeding generations. (John 17:20)

Police Can Cause Trouble

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"Sometimes I think the police make as much trouble as they prevent," said the lady, "and there's very little we can do about it. Like the girls who moved in next door.

"They seemed quite pleasant, ordinary girls," she went on, "but some of the friends who visited them were hippies — at least they looked like hippies.

"Outside of their looks, they were no trouble at all. No loud parties, no rowdy behavior. In fact, they even kept their doors unlocked when they went to work during the day — so certainly they had nothing at all to hide.

"But I guess some of the neighbors were upset because of their hippie friends visiting them, and must have told the police. Well, you would have thought the police were investigating a major narcotics ring, the way they kept surveillance on that apartment.

"They staked out a car in front for two days running, with a plainclothes detective in it — so obvious that my little children knew what it was. And the detective was a pig — he sat there reading a gun catalogue and throwing cigarette packs and candy wrappers onto the sidewalk.

"Police cars were forever cruising by and stopping there. I guess they didn't have a warrant to go in, but they were peering in at the windows and just generally making themselves obnoxious.

"Mind you, these girls had done nothing at all — they weren't even hippies themselves, although there's no crime in that. Just a couple of girls from a small Midwest town, I imagine, who had come to the big city to work and make some new friends of their own choosing.

"Well, this harassment finally got so bad that the owner of the building, who had rented the basement apartment to the girls, was forced to tell them they had to move at the end of the month — because they were attracting too much attention to the building and the block.

"The owner hated to do it. They're the nicest tenants I had in years,' she told me. 'They're clean, pay their rent on time, and have no objectionable habits at all. But I can't have the cops here all the time.' The girls are moving out in a few days.

"This is the kind of thing that embitters young people today — the lack of discrimination on the part of adult society, and especially the police, who look on anybody a little different with deep suspicion. This attitude will only drive them further into the camp of the extremists—and maybe next time the cops will have something to pull in."

Patronage in Highways Jobs Handled by Local Czars, Claim

TORONTO (CP) — The system of handing out jobs to Conservatives—that "stinks to high heaven"—and projects aimed at finding how to remove nutrients from treated sewage were among topics discussed in the legislature Thursday.

James Trotter (L—Toronto Parkdale) told the legislature the highways department has a system of handing out jobs to worthy Conservatives, and it "stinks to high heaven."

He said it is impossible to get a highway job "unless the local czar puts in a good word."

New Democratic Party Leader Donald MacDonald agreed, calling the highways department "the outdoor relief department for the Ontario Tory party."

But Highways Minister George Gomme denied the charge, adding:

"In 1934 when Liberal Mitch Hepburn took office, I was fired from the department in three ways the day after the election."

"I remember when Mitch Hepburn fired every Tory in Middlesex county," interjected Agriculture Minister William Stewart.

The remarks were made during debate on the highways department estimates.

John Simonett, energy and resources management minister, told the legislature the Ontario Water Resources Commission had launched "several" projects aimed at finding how to remove nutrients from treated sewage.

"Biological agents, chemicals and process modifications are being tried," he said in answer to a question from George Bator (L—Niagara Falls).

Mr. Bukator had asked what programs the OWRC had instituted to combat the addition of nutrients to Lake Erie by sewage treatment plants.

In other legislature business Thursday:

—Health Minister Matthew Dymond said he doesn't plan to introduce legislation at the current session of the legislature extending coverage under the government's medical insurance plan to include chiropractic care.

—Highways Minister George Gomme said developers of a new type of car headlight that glows after burning out are confident it will be used on all 1969 model cars.

—The legislature gave first reading to a bill introduced by Fred Young, NDP—Toronto Yorkview, that would require car manufacturers to report defects in their products to the Ontario government.

Gaglardi Backed

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Supporters of Phil Gaglardi, former highways minister of British Columbia, disrupted the B.C. legislature Thursday.

Speaker William Murray ordered the House recessed and the public galleries cleared after a group in the galleries started chanting: "We want Phil."

Mr. Gaglardi resigned as highways minister a week ago in the face of criticism over land deals and the operation of a provincially-leased Lear Jet aircraft.

Michael Latta of Kamloops, spokesman for the demonstrators, said the group wanted Mr. Gaglardi re-instated as minister of highways.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 29, 1968

Item in the Cobourg weekly; — "The 1967-68 Cougars may have attracted more spectators in their games than any of their junior predecessors in town history. Total attendance for 22 home games was 20,145. Of this figure, nearly 9,800 people watched six playoff games. Cougars averaged 645 paid during the regular schedule and 1,571 during playoffs."

Jim "Snipe" Matthews, of the Belleville Junior Bees never stayed up after midnight counting the take from the home games here. He put it in his pocket and going home from the games would count the loot — without removing the hand.

Rod Gilbert of the New York Rangers will stay in the Big Town during the summer instead of coming back to Canada, fish, hunt, make speeches or sell eels. He has a yen for the coin of the realm and is going all out to pile it up in a bank vault. He has a book in the publisher's hands.

He has a yen for the nightclubs or wherever starlets and sweet young things gather. Mushmouth sums him up this way: "Guts, Goals and Gals."

The name of John Emerson was omitted in a minor hockey story Wednesday. Sorry, John m'lad, it was one of those squarkers that creep in occasionally. John is the coach of the Kinsmen Bantams and under his fine direction they have reached the OMHA finals. Moe Hunter coaches the little-boned Smith Fuel peewees and like John has done an outstanding job. I hope both these fine sportsmen quaff the orange juice from the respective championship trophies with their tiddly-winking proteges.

The talk was about bonus baseball players and someone remembered the story about Bob Falk, an ex-major leaguer who had a scouting job. There came the time when he asked for a raise but the club's general manager turned him down. "A raise?," he shrilled, "Why you haven't signed a single player for us all year."

Falk had the answer for that. "Just think of the thousands of dollars I saved you for not wasting your money signing kids who can't make it." He got the raise.

It happened in Brooklyn during the "Daffy" days. A "Bum" was told by friend wife to take their small daughter out so she could get in a spot of shopping. "Take her anywhere — but get her out of here."

That evening when daddy and daughter returned she asked what kind of time they had;

"Great, Mommy, just great" shouted the child. "Daddy took me to the zoo — and one of the animals won and paid $44.50."

"You have to hand it to the Toronto fans for downright sheer loyalty" said the voice on the phone. "I phoned a friend of mine there for two tickets for Saturday night's game with Chicago and was told, the only ones available were scalpers at $40 the pair. And they're selling 'em" he said.

Favored For Second — Flyers Take Lead

Rangers Nip Bruins; Widen Margin

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The late-season jogging for playoff positions makes this year's National Hockey League playoff run one of the most interesting races in recent years.

Montreal Canadiens have first place sewn up in the veteran Eastern Division, but the runner-up spot is still anybody's choice although New York Rangers have the inside track.

The season-long battle between Rangers and Boston reached a climax Thursday night when the New Yorkers claimed a 5-4 victory over the Bruins to move four points up with two games left.

To take second place, on the basis of the season's record between the two clubs, the Beantowners would have to win their remaining games while New York lost both.

FRANK MAHOVLICH

In another Eastern Division game, tail-end Detroit Red Wings converted two goals by newcomer Frank Mahovlich into a 3-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

The expanded Western Division race also shapes up into a rousing finish that could be decided when the season winds up Sunday. Philadelphia Flyers reclaimed first place with a 2-0 win over St. Louis Blues in a game played at Quebec City.

The Flyers, with two games remaining, now have 72 points — two ahead of Los Angeles Kings. The Kings lose chance to nail down the division crown lie with the possibility that the Flyers will lose both their final games while Los Angeles wins its last game.

Should the Kings win their remaining game in the 74-game schedule and the Flyers lose their last two games, then Los Angeles would win with a better season's record.

No games are scheduled today.

Saturday Boston is at Montreal, Chicago at Toronto against the Maple Leafs, Pittsburgh Penguins playing the Flyers in Quebec City, Minnesota North Stars in St. Louis and Los Angeles in Oakland against the Seals.

Sunday the schedule ends with Montreal in New York, Toronto at Boston, Detroit at Chicago, Philadelphia at Pittsburgh and St. Louis in Minnesota.

The Flyers, after leading a nomadic life the last month while politicians decided the fate of their home Spectrum, Thursday announced that they will be able to hold their playoff games at home.

The $12,000,000 arena was closed for repairs after winds blew holes in the roof twice in two weeks.

Donnie Marshall and Reg Fleming scored twice each to pace the New York victory with the other goal going to Phil Goyette.

Eddie Shack, Phil Esposito, Dallas Smith and Derek Sanderson scored for Boston.

Esposito's goal and an assist moved him into a second-place tie in league scoring with Gordie Howe of Detroit, who picked up an assist in the Red Wings victory.

Unfortunately for both, however, Stan Mikita of Chicago also earned an assist in the game and maintained his three-point lead as the league leader with 84 points on 39 goals and 45 assists.

Scoring Leaders

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League scoring championship could go right down to Sunday's final game between Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings.

The race is actually between Stan Mikita of Chicago, Gordie Howe of Detroit and Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins—all three with two games remaining and three points between them.

Mikita added to his total with an assist Thursday as the Hawks lost 3-1 to Detroit, Howe also getting an assist. Mikita now has 39 goals and 45 assists while Howe has the same number of goals but only 42 assists.

Esposito climbed even with Howe on a goal and assist in Boston's 5-3 loss to New York Rangers, giving him 34 goals and 47 assists.

Bobby Hull, the league-leading scorer with 44 goals, sat out the Thursday game although Alex Delvecchio of Detroit remained the assist leader with 48, earning one in Thursday's game.

Wings Stop Rangers

HAMILTON (CP) — Rene LeClerc scored three goals and assisted on another Thursday night to spark Hamilton Red Wings a 6-3 victory over Kitchener Rangers in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-final playoff game.

The victory, watched by 3,343 fans, evened the best-of-seven series at one game each. Third game is in Kitchener tonight.

Mike Flanigan, Danny Lawson and Rich Petit scored the other Hamilton goals. Walt Tkaczuk, Jarmo Lehtoven and Cam Crosby replied for Kitchener.

Hamilton led 2-0 at the end of the first period and 3-2 after the second.

LeClerc scored Hamilton's final goal late in the third period after Kitchener had replaced goaltender Dave Hainsworth with an extra forward in a desperate attempt to tie the game.

Hamilton outshot Kitchener 44-40. The Rangers drew nine of the 17 penalties, including a bench minor to defenseman Mike Robitaille in the second period.

MONTREAL (CP) — Danny Gallivan, for 16 years the voice of Montreal Canadiens on radio and television from coast-to-coast in Canada, was given a testimonial dinner Thursday night to mark his 20th anniversary in the broadcasting field.

Gallivan was presented with a set of aluminium-shafted golf clubs and a set of cuff links to mark the occasion.

Prime Minister Pearson and Robert Stanfield, Conservative Leader, both sent letters of congratulations, while Federal Health Minister MacEachen's telegram was from one Nova Scotian to another.

Will Play Cup Games At Home

PHILADELPHIA (AP-CP) — The National Hockey League's Philadelphia Flyers, without a permanent home since the Spectrum here was damaged March 1, announced Thursday the team will play its Stanley Cup playoff games here.

The team has been playing most of its games at Quebec City since the stadium was closed after its roof was damaged.

A new roof should be finished by Friday night, a city spokesman said, and a temporary operating permit will be issued.

Giants Clobber 4 Cal. Hurlers In 18-3 Frolic

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

California Angels and Baltimore Orioles have had their wings clipped but Jim Kaat's elbow trouble has thrown Minnesota Twins for a bigger loss.

San Francisco unleashed a 22-hit barrage against four California pitchers Thursday and rolled to an 18-3 exhibition baseball triumph over the Angels at Phoenix, Ariz.

Kaat, Minnesota's southpaw pitching ace, flew home from Orlando, Fla., Thursday night to begin a series of x-ray treatments on his ailing left elbow, injured in the next-to-last game of the 1967 season.

Elsewhere on the exhibition schedule, St. Louis Cardinals trimmed Oakland Athletics 3-1, Cincinnati Reds slipped Detroit Tigers 4-3 in 14 innings, Pittsburgh Pirates topped Houston Astros 3-1, Los Angeles Dodgers drubbed Chicago White Sox 11-4, New York Yankees downed New York Mets 5-1, Chicago Cubs edged Cleveland Indians 5-3 and Philadelphia Phillies shaded Atlanta Braves 4-2.

Jim Davenport lashed four hits as the Giants cuffed Ricky Clark for eight runs and 14 hits in five innings and completed the assault against Minnie Rojas, Jack Hamilton and Jim Weaver.

Pascual, who allowed four hits in six innings, and Denehy hurled the Senators to their 12th victory in 17 spring starts.

Another ailing player, Atlanta outfielder Rico Carty, is undergoing tests in a Lantana, Fla., hospital to determine if he has tuberculosis. He was reported "feeling fine and walking around" Thursday but asked that details of his confinement not be released.

Fireballer Bob Veale yielded four hits and struck out seven in a strong six-inning stint as the Pirates stopped the Astros at Cocoa, Fla.

Ron Fairly's three-run double keyed a 14-hit attack that carried the Dodgers past the White Sox in a night game at Vero Beach, Fla.

Frank Fernandez drove in two runs with a homer and single in the Yankees' victory over the Mets at St. Petersburg, Fla.

At Tucson Ariz., the Cubs struck for three first inning runs and held off Cleveland behind right-hander Ferguson Jenkins, the Chatham, Ont., native who scattered nine hits in seven innings.

John Callison's two-run homer and a pair of unearned runs in the seventh inning led the Phillies to victory under the lights at Clearwater, Fla.

Ontario Jockey Club
"They're Off"; Mutuel Clerks, That Is

TORONTO (CP) — It will be post time as usual at Ontario racetracks this year, but not everyone is happy.

The Jockey Club Ltd. announced Thursday that harness and thoroughbred racing will be held on schedule according to dates already approved. The announcement ended fears among horsemen that the Jockey Club's tracks might have to close because of tax pressures.

The purse-hungry horsemen set to open the thoroughbred season March 30 at Greenwood track in Toronto, greeted the announcement with unanimous approval.

But the 220 pari-mutuel workers at the Jockey Club's thoroughbred tracks followed it by an overwhelming 130-to-11 vote to strike before April 15 if wage proposals are not settled.

Main concern of the mutuel employees is the possibility of Sunday racing—a proposal accepted almost unanimously by the horsemen. The workers want double-time for Sundays.

The strike vote left the racing situation up in the air today. The only thing assured is that the runners will go to post Saturday because the mutuel workers have decided to hold off their strike pending further negotiations.

Late Thursday night, directors of the Jockey Club were unavailable for comment on the mutuel clerk's strike vote.

But earlier Thursday, after a closed meeting, they issued a statement.

"The directors agreed that the thoroughbred and standard racing schedules at all five of the company's properties will be in accordance with the dates approved last December by the Ontario Racing Commission.

"The directors took note of the introduction of legislation in the Ontario legislature to permit Sunday racing, subject to municipal bylaw. Should the legislation and the appropriate municipal bylaw be passed the board will then reconsider its schedules for both thoroughbred and standardbred racing. Any revisions to the schedules will be discussed with the associations representing the horse owners."

Five-Pin Bowlers

Plan New Organization

A new era in five pin bowling will begin this Sunday, March 31st. when the "Bay of Quinte Bowlers' Association" will be formed at a meeting to be held at the Recreation Centre in Belleville. The meeting is called for 2.00 p.m.

Representation is expected from all parts of, what is now termed Zone "K". The area, henceforth to be called "Bay of Quinte" zone, extends from Brighton to 'Kingston' and from Picton to Bancroft. It also includes: Belleville, Trenton, Campbellford, Havelock, Marmora, Madoc, Tweed, Deseronto and Napanee.

Purpose of forming a bowlers' association is to give area five pin bowlers a voice in the future direction of Canada's most popular participant sport. The association will be directly affiliated with the Ontario Bowlers Congress and be entitled to send two voting delegates to the O.B.C. annual convention and meeting. This year the convention is scheduled to be held at Haliburton on June 14th, 15th and 16th. .

Rojas Wins Feather Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's Raul Rojas rallied in two violent rounds, the 12th and 15th, and won a unanimous decision over Enrique Higgins of Colombia Thursday night to win the World Boxing Association featherweight championship.

Rojas, 126, San Pedro, Calif., had Higgins, 125½, Bogotá, Colombia, on the verge of a knockout in the two crucial rounds before a capacity crowd of 10,400 at the Olympic Auditorium—a crowd which paid $64,381.

The decision was widely acclaimed by the partisan Rojas following but these were those who felt that Higgins, a master at jabbing and boxing had earned the decision.

Three Years; $750,000

HOUSTON, Texas (AP) — Houston Mavericks, declaring all out war against the National Basketball Association, offered Elvin Hayes $750,000 Thursday to play three years for Houston in the new American Basketball Association.

Hayes, University of Houston all-American and college player of the year, signed Wednesday with San Diego Rockets of the NBA for an estimated $440,000 for four years.

EGG PRODUCERS

We have been repeatedly told the anticipated results are worth the GAMBLE . . . that we should have faith in the EGG BOARD, the Directors, our politicians.

GAMBLE . . . This egg business is very competitive but we are being asked here to gamble with our livelihood . . . we realize that things have not been good, but we all developed under the present system . . . the bulk of us still thrive on it, for we are still here . . . having averaged good RETURNS throughout the years.

FAITH . . . The honest crusading ideas of our present BOARD may not be practical . . . we cannot forget F.A.M.E.' and its crusading, but vigorous leadership, its disastrous end. Individually, the backers and supporters of F.A.M.E. were successful . . . as a group the losses were fantastic. These ideas look good on paper, make a fine speech, may be difficult in practice. STUDY what we have now . . . it may not be so bad.

CHRYSLER

best power for any fishing boat afloat! Meet the 9.9, one of the all new fishing engines by Chrysler. Most powerful 'under 10' on the market. Gets you out there where the big ones are. Our new 9.9 has pushed our 14' test boat and driver 23 mph (has even pulled a full grown skier!), yet she'll troll all day with hardly a murmur. Shallows are no problem, either. Chrysler's exclusive Depth Minder drive lets you operate in a mere 6 inches of water . . . and the spline-drive prop won't pick up weeds, ends shear pin changing forever. And just look at that new low-profile design. It's designed to make your carrying, stowing and operation that much easier . . . lets you fish across the stern, too. When it comes to fishing outboards, Chrysler has the 6.6 and 9.9 to a complete new 4.4, through the 6.6 and 9.9 to a completely new 20, they're all backed by Chrysler engineering excellence and the famous Chrysler warranty.

Unbeaten Saskatchewan Curlers Have Grasp On Senior Crown

EDMONTON (CP) — Saskatchewan ran its unbeaten string to eight games and Manitoba stayed close behind with a 7-2 record going into the final two rounds today in the Canadian seniors curling championships.

The Don Wilson "rink" from Saskatoon edged Bev Snyder of Calgary 9-7 in the ninth round Thursday of the 11-rink round-robin competition, after defeating Harold Jordan of Kimberley, B.C., 10-5 and Jim Duncan of Virden, Man., 10-8 in rounds earlier in the day.

Duncan had 10-8 wins over Dr. Wendell MacDonald of Charlottetown and Don Wright of Hudson, Que. The Quebec rink is third with a 5-3 record. Snyder and Jordan are locked in fourth place with Andy Grant of Unionville, Ont., each with 4-4 marks.

Harold Mabey's foursome from Moncton, N.B., holds the next spot with a 4-3 record, followed by MacDonald, Don MacLean of Sudbury for Northern Ontario, and Lawrence Carter of Amherst, N.S., all at 3-5. The Norman Rockwell rink from St. John's, Nfld., is winless in nine starts.

In the tenth round today, New Brunswick met Northern Ontario, Alberta faced Quebec, P.E.I. against B.C., Saskatchewan played Nova Scotia, and Manitoba met Ontario. Newfoundland had the bye.

"That was a close one—Alberta really put it to us," Wilson said after his victory Thursday. "I was fortunate on that last out-turn in the ninth end."

Wilson's last rock put the game beyond Snyder's reach when he made a clean takeout on Snyder's shot rock resting on the button. Then he drew to the eight-foot circle for shot rock and the win.

In other eighth-round play, P.E.I. opened with a three-ender and ran up a 12-7 upset win over Ontario. New Brunswick beat Alberta 11-5 and Nova Scotia joined the club of Newfoundland-beaters with an 11-5 victory. Northern Ontario had the bye.

Grant, skip of the Ontario entry, is the oldest entrant at 72. All curlers must be at least 55 years of age and the average is 58.

Wilson said after his win Thursday night he received a 14-foot telegram of encouragement from 500 students at Saskatoon's City Park Collegiate, where he is assistant principal.

In seventh-round play, New Brunswick beat B.C. 7-5, Nova Scotia upset Northern Ontario 7-6, Alberta downed Newfoundland 12-5 and Quebec scored six in the ninth end to defeat Ontario 11-8. P.E.I. had that bye.

Cinch For Killy

Nancy Fell; Out Of Slalom

ROSSLAND, B.C. (CP) — With victory virtually assured, Jean-Claude Killy of France can afford to be casual—and was Thursday night—about the race today in which he can clinch his second World Cup ski title.

"I just arrived here," he said. "I don't know who's racing against me. I haven't looked at the course at all yet. . . . I won't practise before the slalom but I don't mind."

Killy has 186 points in cup standings. The only way he could lose would be if Gerhard Nenning of Austria wins his next four races at the Red Mountain meet here or at Heavenly Valley, Calif., April 6-7.

Killy's French ski team coach Honore Bonnet said Nenning's chances dismissed Nenning's chances and named American skier Rick Chaffee, 23, as a threat in the slalom today, second day of the four-day international meet.

Coaches expected fewer die qualifications and falls in the men's event than there were in the women's slalom Thursday, won by Marielle Goitschel of France.

Twenty women were disqualified and 12 others, including Nancy Greene of Rossland, defending world women's champion, fell and did not finish the race over two tough courses.

"The women's course was a catastrophe," said French women's coach Jean Vuarnet. "They are tired so late in the season. But the men's race will be different because they are stronger."

Novices Nip Madoc 2-1 In Opener

Belleville Food City won a tight 2-1 decision in Madoc last night in the opening game of the Zone 4 novice finals.

The second game will be played in Belleville on Thursday, April 4, at 6.45 p.m.

Forward Mike Meeker and goalie Bruce Hamilton shared the starring role for the winners last night. Meeker triggered both goals while Hamilton turned in an outstanding game, stopping several Madoc breakaways along his best saves.

Meeker capped a play with R. Hutchinson and R. Chapman in the first period and that goal stood up until the third when he made it 2-0 on Ernie Powell's assist.

Madoc's goal came at 16.05, an unassisted marker by Forrestol, but Hamilton and his mates turned back the homerettes' efforts for the equalizer.

Oiler Wins Score Title

DETROIT (AP) — Rod Ward, Tulsa's hard-shooting winger, won the Central Professional Hockey League scoring title this year on the strength of 31 goals and a league-high 54 assists.

Ward's 85 points was two up on Jim Lorentz of Oklahoma City and five better than teammates Ken Campbell and Len Haley.

Russ Gillow of Oklahoma City, who had eight shutouts, was the top goalkeeper with a 2.13 goals-against average. Bryan Watson was the league's most-penalized player with 293 minutes in the box.

The league playoffs open this weekend.

Exhibitions For The Birds Says Roberto

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Roberto Clemente, National League batting champion, is struggling through the spring baseball training season with a .125 average, but no one is worried. Least of all Clemente.

"I can't get mad," the four-time batting king said. "I just can't get excited over exhibition games. I try, but I just can't. For me to hit, I must be mad."

Last year, the Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder was mad enough to hit a personal high of .357. He recalls springs when he was mad enough to hit up to 10 homers while this spring he's had only four hits.

Will Seek "C" Basketball Championship

Carm's Cleaners, the basketball tradition combining the best from Trenton and Belleville, will seek the Ontario Basketball Association Intermediate "C" championship tomorrow.

Carm's will participate in the eight - team OBA championship tournament in Athens.

Other clubs in the tournament are from Owen Sound, Toronto, Brantford, Athens, Niagara Falls, Sault Ste. Marie and Ottawa.

First - round losers in the elimination tournament will drop into the consolation division, thus assuring each club of at least two games.

The local club consists of players from the Bay of Quinte Basketball League and, as a team, has taken part in several other tourneys during the winter.

Seal Hunt Defended

LONDON (CP) — A crusade against Canada's annual seal hunt has been challenged after three days of condemnation led by The Daily Mirror.

Prime Minister Pearson's suggestion that the tabloid newspaper's campaign is "unwarranted" was printed in London evening newspapers Thursday, and by today's Mirror.

Robert Jones, Edinburgh University lecturer in veterinary medicine who observed the St. Lawrence hunt last week, said in a radio interview "there was no cruelty."

The killing by clubs was no less humane than other methods of animal slaughter.

Leadership Candidates Head Into Home Stretch

OTTAWA (CP) — The nine leading candidates for the Liberal Party leadership head into the final weekend of serious campaigning today, and then will hole up in their Ottawa and Montreal headquarters to prepare for the convention here next weekend.

Some, such as Transport Minister Hellyer and Agriculture Minister Greene, have completed their cross-country travel-except for possibly some last-minute jaunts. Others, including Finance Minister Sharp, External Affairs Minister Martin, and Health Minister MacEachen, will continue their campaigning through Sunday.

The convention, drawing more than 9,000 to Ottawa's new Civic Centre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will pick Prime Minister Pearson's successor.

Mr. Martin, eldest of the candidates at 64, left Ottawa Wednesday afternoon on his final pre-convention tour, and will touch 18 cities and towns before returning here Monday.

This includes a Saturday night stop-over in Ottawa to attend the Parliamentary Press Gallery's annual off-the-record dinner.

The dinner is an annual function at which reporters, politicians, and civil servants let down their hair for some good-natured jobbing without publicity.

Finance Minister Sharp, whose campaigning was delayed by domestic and international financial crisis, will be in Vancouver and Victoria Saturday, and at the Lakehead and Sudbury Sunday, hoping to pin down delegates' support.

Justice Minister Trudeau, campaigning in Toronto today, will be in Halifax, Trois-Rivieres and Chicoutimi Saturday, and in Montreal Sunday.

The only potential leader with an engagement after this weekend is Mr. Hellyer, who is tentatively scheduled to visit the Reform Club in Montreal next Tuesday.

Trade Minister Winters, a late starter in the campaign, is to be in London and Sarnia today while Postmaster-General Cote campaigns for him in Montreal. Both will be in Ottawa Saturday, and Mr. Winters goes to Northern Ontario Sunday.

Health Minister MacEachen, in Guelph and Toronto today, goes to London, Bothwell and Lindsay, Ont., Saturday, and to Saint John, N.B., Yarmouth, N.S., and Halifax Sunday.

Eric Kierans, former revenue minister of Quebec and the only nationally-known non-cabinet candidate, is at home in Montreal today and will be in Matane and Riviere-du-Loup, Que., Sunday.

Mr. Kierans' headquarters says he will take a three-day holiday next week before arriving here Wednesday.

There are 2,475 voting delegates and 762 alternates to the convention.

The candidates have been seeking not only simple pledges of support from each delegate but they want to be sure that the delegates will stick with them through the half-dozen or more of ballots that could be taken before a leader is picked.

It has been estimated that a candidate could spend up to $200,000—perhaps more—to get elected leader.

The money comes mainly from well-heeled supporters of individual candidates, but not all of it in cash. The executives of some big corporations, have loaned their private aircraft to candidates to help with their travelling.

The candidates themselves are reluctant to talk about such support-in-kind for their campaigns. None of them wants to be publicly identified as having any individual or corporation backing his candidacy fully.

SUGARCANE ONLY CROP

The only staple crop on Mauritius, an Indian Ocean island 370 miles east of Madagascar, is sugarcane.

Unity Top Problem Says PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Wednesday night the most important problem facing his successor will be to cement a new partnership between French- and English-speaking Canadians.

As he prepares to leave office after a new Liberal party leader is chosen at next week's convention, he said he is worried about the task of maintaining Canada's economic expansion.

But the problem of national unity, he said, surpasses the others because "if we can't solve that problem, Canada has no future as a nation."

Mr. Pearson spoke on the CBC's free-time political television broadcast series, The Nation's Business, and said it would be the last time he would appear on the program as prime minister.

He summarized his government's achievements during the five years he has headed it, and warned his successor would be taking over "the most demanding and most difficult job in the country; a job which is always back-breaking, at times almost heart-breaking, seemingly impossible."

But, he added, it is a job "which is always 20th-century and challenging and very rewarding indeed in terms of opportunity to serve Canada."

OFF THE RECORD — BY ED REED

Beginning Saturday....

The Horoscopes and the Predictions Of Jeane Dixon

Jeane Dixon is a world-famous seer who, according to a best selling book, reportedly foretold the assassination of U.S. President John F. Kennedy with uncanny accuracy.

She has also foretold the assassination of Gandhi, the death of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Winston Churchill's defeat in 1945, the red takeover of China, Russia's first sputnik and plane crashes that took the lives of Carole Lombard and Dag Hammarskjold.

We'd like to make our prediction. We foretell you will find this column of absorbing interest. Read it and see if our prophecy isn't correct.

The Predictions of Jeane Dixon for 1968

The most important prediction for 1968 is this: Russia is on the verge of a breakthrough in propellants for space craft, using magnetism or magnetic fields for space travel (repel and attract). Whoever gets there first will control space. The U.S. administration should start immediately on this, or it will be left far behind in the space race.

I see the United States actively engaging in peace negotiations with the Viet Cong via Russia this spring. I do not see them at a conference table. President Johnson will try desperately for peace, but there is no prospect for real peace in Vietnam, even after negotiations. More deaths, more tragedies, more heartaches.

Racial Turmoil

Race riots will ocur in several key cities throughout the country. Chicago, scene of the Democratic convention next summer, will witness the worst race risk of all. The Chicago rioting will be directed and financed by Russia.

Democrats

The Democratic nomination will go to President Johnson. The brilliant Sen. Eugene McCarthy is being used as a ploy by the ultra-liberal forces within the country. Neither he nor Sen. Robert Kennedy will stand a chance of getting the nomination.

I get a dark cloud around Sen. Kennedy with strings that lead backward, which I interpret as a tragic event in which he was an unwilling participant, long before his brother's assassination, and which still haunts him. Seems like the heavens will not allow a shining light to break through at this time. However, I see surprising changes and decisions around him.

Former Alabama governor, George C. Wallace will be a significant and deciding factor in the presidential race in November.

Republicans

Gov. Romney, as I predicted in 1965, will not get the GOP nomination. Gov. Rockefeller would love to get it. Richard Nixon is going to do very well. Sen. Percy is holding a steady second place. Gov. Reagan looms heavily in the political future of the nation because he is a man of destiny.

I am reluctant at this point to be more specific on the Republican nominee and, indeed, on the winner of the presidential election. In 1966 when I predicted Mr. Reagan's victory in California, I was appalled to learn that some people took the prediction as guidance and abandoned Gov. Brown for Ronald Reagan for that reason.

After the conventions are over I will reconsider the advisability of publishing the name of the man who will win the election in November.

Of the four top men who are seeking the presidency, only one would carry the country through on an even keel. The other three, just by being there and through no fault of their own, would cause a tremendous crisis.

But I do get strong vibrations that there will be another Republican surge in Congress. They will pick up a score or more seats, making a balanced power in Congress.

Fourth Force

A fourth political force will become very troublesome to the nation. It will grow out of the racial situation in this country and will be directed and financed by the Russians. I see a dark cloud hanging over last year's convention in Chicago of the New Left.

This fourth force, directed by organizational geniuses from Moscow, will create dissension at the Chicago Democratic Convention. I have seen three top Russian agents riding in a chariot drawn by three horses. I see the initial "S" connected with the name of the leader, and I am quite sure it is Suslov; the other two have the initials of "A" and "P".

These three are planning the destruction of our country and pose a great danger to us.

The Assassination

New Orleans D. A. James Garrison is on the right track in his probe of the Kennedy assassination. Lee Harvey Oswald did not act alone. Two guns were used in the assassination. But there are forces, both within the country and abroad, who are using every effort to discredit the investigation. Garrison's attempt to reveal the actual facts will be suppressed, and we may never know the truth in our lifetime.

Somehow, sometime, however, it will be divulged that Clay Shaw (facing trial in New Orleans in connection with the assassination) had channels to government agencies in Washington.

Also some day, somehow, it will be revealed that President Kennedy was aware of an attempt to assassinate Castro just prior to his own assassination.

Other Predictions

Mideast. There will be great wars in the future, involving our country. The fire and war we have in Vietnam is small to what I see building up in other parts of the world. The next and greatest trouble spot will be in the Middle East.

The arms for this great fight are today moving from the Soviet Union to some European satellites and some of our own allies, to the Middle East, Africa and South America, in addition to the great quantities of arms going to Vietnam. Russian pilots are piloting Arab planes.

Russia. The embers from this fire will eventually devour Russian communism as we now know it. We one day will be allied with Russia against China. Russians will be moving toward greater freedom of self purpose and a better way of life, taking on some ways of our democracy; and, while the U.S. will still be moving forward, we will have more and more restrictions imposed on us.

Communism, in any event, will not win out; neither will our present-day American government. Leadership in the Kremlin will face some important changes this year, starting at the top.

Dean Rusk. Quite soon, long before the 1969 election, Secretary of State Dean Rusk will resign. He will make the change of his own volition to take another position. In another cabinet post, Sec. Fowler will let it be known that he has some change of plan in mind.

Jackie Kennedy. Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy is not now thinking of marriage. She will marry only when time dims the memory of her late husband's assassination and the death of the Kennedy infant, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy. Only at the very end of 1968 may she seriously consider marriage.

Cancer. We are going to have many great breakthroughs in cancer research, but I do not, at this time, see an early overall cure for the dread disease.

Heart Transplants. The heart transplant needs more research. I get the picture of some foreign particle that will do the opposite of what is expected. It will be five years before such an operation can be certain.

The Economy. Domestic economy will continue strong throughout the year. But the stock market is headed for trouble, with fluctuations bringing about dire situations. The English pound will again be devalued, and the U.S. will be in trouble in 1969 and will itself eventually be devalued. There will be numerous assaults on the dollar. This is a Soviet-de Gaull conspiracy.

Latin America. Cuba will figure prominently in the presidential election. Cuba is very dangerous. It holds the dagger aimed at the heart of South America and at us. Latin America countries will be kept in a state of turmoil by subversion from Italy and Cuba.

Fidel Castro, at some future date, will suddenly be removed from the picture, and it will not be through natural death.

Africa. This continent is due for much bloodshed, which will be the work of a joint Soviet-Chinese venture, operating through false neutral channels.

Fashion. Miniskirts will become mini-miniskirts for young er girls; for older women, however, dresses will get longer, possibly as much as an inch below the knee.

Boys will begin to look more and more like girls, and vice-versa.

Ills Due To Drugs Increase

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Drug-induced disease is increasing and will continue to do so, Dr. W. T. W. Clarke, professor of therapeutics at University of Toronto, warned Thursday.

He urged Canadian family doctors holding a scientific meeting here to curb a desire to over-prescribe drugs and mould their patients' attitudes to acceptance of the fact a drug may pose a greater hazard than the disease.

Living in a competitive environment, the doctor liked to feel "we cured him."

The best rule to follow for the doctor was "do no harmful thing" and that included giving a patient who was determined on getting some medicine a "placebo"—an inactive pill or liquid.

And by exercising great care in diagnosis, the doctor might find the condition cured without need for medicine. In chronic diseases, where no cure was possible, the doctor had to balance carefully the possible harmful effects of long-term medication against possible benefits to the patient.

Dr. Clark's paper was given during a panel discussion on drug problems among government, industry and universities which concluded the annual scientific assembly of the College of Family Physicians of Canada.

The drug industry was the target of a doctor in the audience who asked whether firing line "well-dressed, well-paid young men" who explain new drugs to doctors wouldn't "be to the general benefit of the patient."

Dr. W. W. Wigle, president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, replied that a survey of doctors showed 58 per cent preferred to see these "detail men" and counted them a valuable source of information.

"If you feel there is misrepresentation (of drugs) by detail men, you have a responsibility to inform the manufacturer in no uncertain terms."

Kinsmen Club Games Closed

SIMCOE (CP) — Police Chief David Freeman said Thursday he warned the local Kinsmen Club that he would not tolerate any organization breaking the gambling law.

"They didn't listen, so we broke up the game," he said in an interview after he broke up the club's gambling-for-charity operation Wednesday night.

He said the premises could have been raided and all present charged as found-ins, but this was not done. No charges will be laid.

New Crisis
Study By UN Asked

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council was summoned into urgent debate today on the Arab-Israeli crisis after a major air and artillery clash on the Jordanian front Friday.

Today's session comes only six days after the council threatened strong action against the parties to any more "grave violations" of the United Nations-sponsored ceasefire that halted the Arab-Israeli war last June.

The 15-nation council received demands for action late Friday night from Jordan and Israel.

Fighting exploded early Friday in the Beisan Valley along the Jordan River after four Israeli civilians were killed when a landmine blew up their trailer.

By late morning Jordanian and Israeli artillery had opened up on each other across the Jordan River. Soon after, Israel dispatched jet bombers which pounded the Jordanian gun positions for more than five hours.

Correspondents spotted one French-built Israeli jet spinning in flames to the ground. The Jordanian Army claimed seven Israeli jets damaged.

The flareup coincided with reports in Arab newspapers in Cairo, Damascus, Baghdad and Beirut of massive Israeli troop buildups and possible impending military action. Only nine days ago Israeli forces crossed the Jordan River and attacked Arab guerrilla bases. Israel claimed its troops killed 170 Arab commandoes in the raid.

In New York, Ambassadors Muhammad H. El-Farra of Jordan and Yosef Tekoah of Israel filed their written requests for an urgent meeting with the council president, Ousmane Soce Diop of Senegal. The Jordanian request was in about 1½ hours ahead of the Israeli request.

Arson Suspected
Fires Drive Thousands Into Chicago Streets

CHICAGO (AP) — Police stepped up street patrols and an arson investigation continued today after a series of fires that drove thousands of persons from their homes downtown department stores and caused damage in the millions.

Heaviest damage was reported at Carson Pirie Scott and Co. at the busy corner of State and Madison. John T. Pirie Jr., the company's chairman, estimated damage could run to $20,000,000.

An hour after the fire at Carson's, firemen rushed to a blaze a block away at Montgomery Ward and Co. One hour after the second blaze, firemen were sent to Weibolds, Inc., which is across Madison Street from Carson's.

No injuries were reported in the fires but several firemen were treated for smoke inhalation.

The blazes, occurring just before and during the noon hour drove shoppers and clerks into the street.

Fire spread through six floors of the 12-storey Carson building and extensively damaged the drapery, furniture and appliance departments.

Two floors of Ward's suffered heavy smoke and water damage. A stockroom fire at Wiebold's was quickly extinguished and officials said damage was negligible.

A fourth State Street store, Goldblatt's, reported a mattress ignited, but the flames were extinguished by employees.

Fire Commissioner Robert J. Quinn said at the scene of the fire that the series of blazes looked "very suspicious," but he said later he had found no evidence of arson.

Bomb Rocks Manhattan Draft Centre

NEW YORK (AP) — A powerful bomb blast rocked the U.S. armed forces induction centre in lower Manhattan early today, shattering windows in the nine-storey building. There were no reports of injuries.

The bomb, placed at the rear of the 81-year-old building, exploded at about 1:20 a.m. with blast that was heard a mile away, police said. Windows in nearby buildings were also broken.

The centre, focal point of a week-long series of anti-draft demonstrations last December, suffered no structural damage. Police said the FBI had been called in to the investigation.

Viet Cong Plans Mekong Truce

SAIGON (Reuters) — The Viet Cong Liberation Radio said today the guerrillas will halt hostilities in four Mekong Delta provinces of South Vietnam for three days next month during Cambodian New Year's celebrations.

The National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, said in the broadcast the halt would occur April 13-15 in the provinces where a large number of persons of Cambodian origin live.

The front named the provinces as Tra Vinh, Phong Dinh, Rach Gia and An Xuyen.

Magistrates Become Judges

TORONTO (CP) — Magistrates will become judges with more pay and a judge's committee would be set up to study the conduct of the provincial judiciary under legislation introduced in the Ontario legislature Friday.

Attorney-General Arthur Wishart introduced the provincial courts bill for first reading in the house. It would give Ontario the first body in Canada — called the Judical Council — capable of investigating the actions of judges and magistrates.

Mr. Wishart said that minimum salary for the province's magistrates — who automatically became judges — will be increased to $21,500 annually, from the present $16,500, over an extended period.

He said the government's long-term objective will be to see salaries of Ontario's court judges placed at the level of the federally-appointed county and district judges.

The bill also divides the system of lower-court justice in Ontario into two divisions: Magistrates' courts become the criminal division, while the juvenile and family courts become the family division.

All three of the major items in the legislation were recommended in the McRuer commission on civil rights, a three-volume report presented to the legislature this year.

The Judicial Council would be able to hear charges of misbehavior against judges and would be able to order a full investigation into any charges.

The council would consist of the chief justice of Ontario, the chief justice of the High Court, the chief judges of the family and criminal divisions of the provincial courts, the treasurer of the Law Society of Upper Canada, one layman and another person to be appointed by the provincial cabinet.

Only France Balks At Paper Gold Plan

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Ten of the world's richest non-Communist nations were expected to give final agreement today to a "paper gold" role in the international monetary system. Eventually this could free the world from its age-old dependence on real gold as the basis for currency.

Of the 10, only France was still holding back its consent to put the system of Special Drawing Rights—the paper gold—into operation. SDRs were given conditional approval at a meeting of finance ministers in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, last September.

Finance Minister Michel Debre of France failed Friday to convince fellow delegates that SDRs should not be issued until the United States, also a party here, gets its international balance of payments in order.

In agreement with the United States on speedy implementation of the new system were Canada, Sweden, Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Japan. Switzerland has an observer's seat.

Red Alligator Wins National

AINTREE, England (CP) — Red Alligator today won the Grand National Steeplechase—the toughest horse race in the world.

Modore's Token was second and favorite Different Class, owned by movie star Gregory Peck, came third. Rutherfords was fourth in a field of 45.

Red Alligator was a 16-to-1 shot in the 30-obstacle, four-mile, 856-yard race, the world's most famous steeplechase.

Federal Byelection Dates Set

OTTAWA (CP) — The next Liberal administration's first appointment with the voters has been fixed for Monday, June 17, when federal byelections will take place in four ridings.

The date was announced Friday by Prime Minister Pearson, who will hand his job over to a successor, after the April 4-6 Liberal leadership convention.

Two of the vacancies, in seats held by the Liberals, were caused by deaths.

Maurice Rinfret, member for Montreal St. Jacques since 1962, died Dec. 26. Rene Tremblay, former citizenship and immigration minister and member for Matapedia-Matane since 1963, died Jan. 22.

Grey-Bruce has been vacant since last fall when Conservative Eric Winkler resigned to seek and gain a seat in the Ontario legislature.

Independent Maurice Allard resigned the Sherbrooke seat last month, shortly before accepting an appointment to the judiciary in Quebec. He was elected in 1965 as an independent Conservative.

30-day Pause Studied

SAIGON (AP) — The monsoon weather which has protected North Vietnam for six months is beginning to break, leaving the Hanoi-Haiphong area open to massive U.S. attacks unless President Johnson orders a pause.

The pace of U.S. air raids already has quickened and another indication of clearing weather has been the appearance of North Vietnamese MiG interceptors during the last three days.

In Washington, however, Representative Melvin Laird (Rep.-Wis.), told reporters he thinks the administration is considering "at the highest level" a 30-day bombing pause. The White House response was non-committal.

Unless Johnson intervenes, the air force and navy plan heavy strikes on North Vietnam's heartland, possibly including new targets.

Gen. William W. Momyer, commander of the 7th Air Force and deputy commander for all U.S. air operations over Vietnam and Laos, said last month his biggest problem was "getting a stretch of good weather in which I can exploit the target systems that I've got assigned."

Except for a few brief breaks in the monsoon, American pilots have been limited to raids in which they could follow radar to their targets.

The MiGs, which caused fight unless they can see the American bombers, have been relatively inactive during the overcast weather over the Red River Valley around Hanoi.

Friday's dogfights near Hanoi were the first in six weeks.

South of Hanoi, the air force's new F-111A fighter-bombers again attacked targets in the southern panhandle region.

HANOI (AFP) — An 'ultra-modern U.S. F-111A fighter bomber lost over the North Vietnamese region of Ha Thinh Thursday was shot down by anti-aircraft fire, the North Vietnamese radio said Friday night.

The radio—Voice of Vietnam said the F111A was destroyed by "the first salvoes" directed at it.

It was the first time that North Vietnam had said the plane was downed by anti-aircraft fire.

Inspection Team Cuts Its Staff

OTTAWA (CP) — The International Control Commission, rejected in Vietnam, neglected after nearly 14 years of trying to supervise a disregarded truce in Vietnam, is ready to start cutting its staff.

The three countries on the ICC, Canada, Poland and chairman India, have agreed "at the working level" in Vietnam on parallel one-third reductions, sources here said Friday.

But the ICC request has not yet been submitted to the Canadian cabinet, which must give its approval to any withdrawal of Canadians, an internal affairs department spokesman said.

Mortgage Rates Will Stay High

TORONTO (CP) — E. J. Benson, president of the treasury board and the federal minister responsible for housing, says he sees no great easing in the interest situation until the Vietnam war is ended.

Mr. Benson departed from his text to make the comment in an address Friday to the Urban Development Institute.

Direct lending by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. probably will be at 8.75 per cent after the maximum rate for National Housing Act insured mortgages rises to 9.125 per cent Monday, he said.

He doubted that other NHA lenders would go to the maximum.

Cambridge Wins Annual Boat Race

LONDON (Reuters) — Cambridge beat Oxford in their 114th annual boat race from Putney to Mortlake on the River Thames today.

It was Cambridge's 62nd victory in the annual race.

Oxford, with two Americans in the eight-man crew, was seeking its fourth straight win —something neither school has done since 1912.

Bata President: Hopeful on Housing

BATAWA — The proposed expansion for the engineering division of the big Bata Industrial complex here will depend on whether the company can hope to compete with additional Canadian-made machines, the head of the worldwide shoe making empire told employees attending a long service awards dinner last night.

Tom Bata, however, was hopeful that additional modern housing will be available to company workers within a short time.

"I imagine a number of you are wondering about some of the buildings and houses in old and so-called New Batawa he said in referring to the company's awareness of the need for more and better living accommodations.

"For quite some time we have been studying various possibilities, because I am sure you too would prefer to operate and live in a community with the most modern housing and most modern facilities. As you will have gathered from what I have already said, the shoe industry and the shoe machinery industry are in no position to operate an urban renewal program out of their own resources.

"It is my hope that within the next few weeks we will be able to obtain some suggestion of government co-operation in this direction."

Stressing it was the intention of company management to press for improvement in all respects for employees Mr. Bata gave his assurance Batawa and the Bata Shoe organization will overcome obstacles through co-operation.

He said it would be done despite the rising cost of construction and the rising interest rate presenting greater and greater obstacles to achieve results.

Mr. Bata offered a special reason for reminiscing, "since next week it will be 29 years since we decided on the location of Batawa, and thus next year we will be celebrating our 30th anniversary of Canadian operations.

The starting years-is represented here tonight by Mr. Herz (C. K. Herz, vice president of Bata of Canada) and myself, but very soon others started coming from near and far," he recalled.

Mr. Bata continued: "Where nothing had been before, Batawa grew, and grew into a community around a plant which attracted people living even a considerable distance around in the district.

"In fact, you may remember that at one time we were making hardly any shoes at all, and the re-conversion turned out to be extremely difficult. And very soon my other responsibilities were taking me away from where I would have liked to have been in Batawa, to many other places on a variety of missions."

The presence of so many people with long service and the wonderful record of the total average years of service Mr. Bata said confirms that the problems were overcome and the successes achieved through the dedication and enthusiasm as well as friendly co-operation of everyone concerned.

Expanding his recollections Mr. Bata said "there has never been in Batawa any difference between management and anyone else.

All of the difficulties can be overcome by a spirit of friendly co-operation and mutual honesty and integrity."

In conclusion Mr. Bata noted: "As long as the mutual respect and co-operation continue we will continue backing Batawa and the Canadian and other machinery industries and also maintain considerable sacrifices have to be made.

On the contrary, it is my determination that given a continuation of the atmosphere and enthusiastic support, as always existed in Batawa, we will improve and grow and become a model industrial community with many honest and so many 25 year recipients that we will have to introduce a watch division in the engineering plant.

He had this warning for his audience near the end: "In the meantime the number of shoe factories in Canada dropped from close on to 300 to near the 200 mark. Disproportionately rising costs in the United States have resulted even in the largest shoe machinery manufacturing company losing a substantial proportion of its shoe machinery business.

Sylvia Kneisel is happy . . . she's got an assistant to lace her skates. The seven year old was one of the youngest skaters in the annual figure skating show at the arena last night. Peter Bourdeau ties her laces as other participants look on with envy.

Residents Petition

AMELIASBURG— Township residents fighting the province's proposal to set up school boards on a county wide basis intend leaving no stone unturned in the process.

A strong protest by those residents of voting age gets underway in the coming week. Already volunteers have organized a drive to obtain signatures on a petition to be presented to Education Minister William Davis along with a brief outlining Ameliasburg objections.

Recently the Minister of Education agreed to meet representatives of the township council and Ameliasburg area school board along with a legal expert to plead their case.

Trenton Has Third Fatality in Month

TRENTON — Death has struck on Trenton's streets for the third time within a month.

Joseph Van Gemeren, 23, of 228 King Street was killed early today when he was thrown off his motorcycle near the safety islands on Gilmour Hill.

Police said the man, proceeding east on Dundas St., apparently lost control and may have been hurled into a safety light standard. There were no other vehicles involved. The mishap occurred about 5:30 a.m. and police said there were no witnesses.

Wednesday morning, four-year-old Donald Drake died on Byron Street when he apparently chased a cat into the path of an oncoming car.

On Feb. 25, Corporal Jacob Senger, RR 1, Trenton, died in the Tri-Services Hospital from injuries suffered three days earlier in a crash on Dundas St. East.

IN MEMORIAM

LITTLE — In loving memory of our dear husband James Alfred Little, who passed away March 31st, 1965.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just to say we miss you dearest husband,
Often more than words can show.
—Always deeply remembered by wife Lilian, daughter Margaret.

BUTCHER — In loving memory of dear husband, who passed away March 30, 1966.
The morning dawns, no night remains,
But memory lingers on.
Those left behind sad and lonely,
Their hearts are very sore,
Many a silent tear is shed,
The sad years go by,
Still I loved so, very much, the one I can't forget.
—Sadly remembered by wife Margaret.

KROG — In loving memory of a dear daughter and sister Mrs. Dorothy Krog (nee Sharp) of Foxboro, who passed away March 30th, 1966.
We mourn for you dearest,
You were taken so suddenly,
But many a silent tear is shed,
While memories linger on.
—Sadly missed by mother and sister.

McCANN — In sad and loving memory of our dear husband and father, Gerald McCann, who passed away March 31st, 1967.
Gone is the face we loved so dear
Silent is the heart that beat
Too far away for sight or speech,
But too far for us to forget.
—Lovingly remembered by wife and family.

Sweet to remember him who once
Was with us,
And who, though absent, is just as dear
As ever.
Lovingly remembered by wife Madeline and family.

REDDICK — In loving memory of a dear son and brother Charles Reginald Reddick who passed away March 31st, 1964.
He would not wish for sadness,
He never cared for fuss,
But I'll say a few words of love,
And loved by all of us.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by mother, brother Ronald, sister-in-law Dorothy and family.

SHORNER — Treasured memories of our only son and brother, Warren C. Officer 2, Second Frank Shorner, RCAF and all the RCAF Overseas Veterans who died March 31, 1964.
Nothing can ever take away,
The love in a heart that's true,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance of you.
—Lovingly remembered by Mom, Dad and brother Ronald.

SERO — In loving memory of a dear brother and brother-in-law Robert J. Sero who passed away March 31st, 1967.
Gone from our home,
Gone from our sight,
Of a loved one gone to rest,
But memory will linger on today,
Are those who loved him best.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by Helena and Stan.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank my friends and neighbors for cards and visits while I was in the hospital and Belleville General Hospital. Thanks to my doctors, Dr. H. Parkin, Dr. D. Orr and Dr. Tom Hall and Rev. C. OMB Hearing

Five Residents Protest Trenton Sewer Project

TRENTON — Objectors stalling town plans for an extensive sewer program say owners of property through which trunk lines will travel will benefit, at the expense of the majority of local ratepayers.

Five protests were presented to an Ontario Municipal Board hearing in the town office yesterday from the residents who had earlier objected to the Dufferin and Bay sewer programs when advertised.

The $253,000 project was virtually underway and a contract was awarded to Pathani Contractors of Belleville before hard ground was hit prematurely. Re-advertising became necessary after it was decided to delete plans for a Dufferin St. pumping station from the original specifications.

Where there had been no objections from local residents at the initial announcement of the project, five letters of protest were filed upon the re-advertisement. Advertising of similar municipal undertakings is usually a formality although the objections of ratepayers can, as in this case, lead to a municipal board hearing.

In a three-page written submission to yesterday's OMB hearing, Public Utilities Commissioner Charles Hilton directed the brunt of his criticism of the sewer works against a 25 per cent water bill surcharge to all town residents to pay for the projects.

Referring to a 2,860 foot stretch of private property through which the proposed south Dufferin St. sewer will run, Mr. Hilton's statement said: "It is as plain as it can be made to be that this land and its value is going to increase many folds against its present assessment."

Because the private owners are not being asked to pay a local improvement charge, he added, "We can only arrive at the conclusion that the ratepayers of Trenton are being asked to subsidize this land for a great profit for the owners."

For the PUC member, this did not seem consistent with past town policy to make subdividers pay a portion of the cost of installing trunk sewers to subdivisions.

By assessing a share of service costs to developers, Mr. Hilton said "people who have established themselves in the town . . . are not being asked to subsidize new homes to the area, nor to subsidize unserviced land which, when serviced at no cost to the land owner, greatly enhances his profit . . . either by development or sale."

Moreover, he said, while other ratepayers in Trenton have already paid for their sewers on a footage basis, owners of the property over which the two new sewers will extend will even be paid for having their land serviced — the Ontario Water Resources Commission is now bargaining for easement rights over the properties involved.

Mr. Hilton asked that "a reasonable price per foot for the sewers be charged to the lands bordering on, or in the area this service will accommodate — to the fairness of all ratepayers in the corporation."

Representing town councillor Gerald Weaver — one of the five objecting parties — Trenton solicitor Roderick Campbell asked clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry if there was an established town policy for charging property owners on a local improvement basis when their land was crossed by services.

"No," replied Mr. Larry, who agreed it was theoretically possible that a developer could later take advantage of the Dufferin St. sewer installation without ever having been required to pay local improvement costs in addition to a water bill. This despite the fact local subdividers customarily pay towards installation of services they request from the town.

The clerk said about two-thirds of the proposed east town sewer would go through private property, and some 2,000 feet of the west Trenton extension.

He agreed when Mr. Campbell suggested the town would be "bound" to pay whatever easement prices the OWRC could negotiate with the land owners involved.

OMB vice-chairman William Shub, who convened yesterday's proceedings, heard a town-hired consultant describe the background of local sewer planning.

George Crawford of Gore and Storrie Ltd., has been directly involved in laying out future sewage works in Trenton for some 10 years.

In 1957 his firm established an eight-stage program, vital parts of which are the Dufferin and Bay projects now in contention, Mr. Crawford testified.

The southwest (Dufferin) section alone would serve 137 acres of in-town land, and was designed to extend sewage collection to an additional 382 acres of Murray Township, in the event this area were to be annexed by Trenton.

The plan was the most economical and practical step towards the long-range objective of full sewage treatment for the entire town, Mr. Crawford said.

He added that deletion of the Dufferin pumping station from original plans — the move that made re-advertisement necessary and resulted in the ensuing objections — came about because the unit was not deemed immediately important. There was talk of a subdivision being developed in the south Dufferin area, which would call for a pumping station, he said. But, when the development had not taken place, it was decided to proceed without that item.

Mr. Shub adjourned the hearing and reserved his decision on the matter to an unspecified future date.

A footnote: — A new factor was recently introduced when town officials indicated Trenton could lose as much as $12,000 of a winter works grant available between the awarding of the contract for the sewers and the April 30 government deadline for making assistance available.

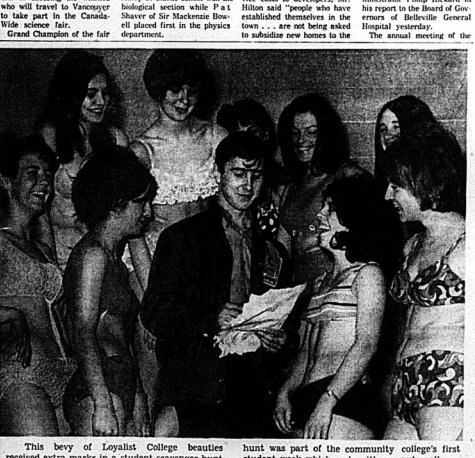
Steven Graham, a grade 11 student of Quinte Secondary, found that the musical output of his "Hi Fi tape recorder" served as quite an attraction to the fairer sex such as Arty Lee Miller. Studenis from Harry J. Clarke visited the Science Fair yesterday.

Williamson Tops Science Fair

The eighth annual Belleville Science Fair and Hobby Show is well underway as was illustrated last night by multitudes of proud parents, hobbyists, and students who invaded Belleville Armories.

Even at closing time when the exhibitors were starting to pack things up for the day, the aisles were thronged with people.

Still, the big excitement yesterday was the judging which lasted an hour and a half over schedule because of "the great calibre of exhibits."



Six judges, Dr. R. E. Bellamy, Dr. T. Burnett, Dr. Paul Foster, C. A. Hunt, J. N. McKibbon and Peter Cassidy, had the task of choosing the best exhibits in their classes and of choosing the winners who will travel to Vancouver to take part in the Canada-Wide science fair.

Three other students won the right to make the trip, Claire Craig of East-Northumberland Secondary School in Brighton who had the best Physics project for grades 11, 12 and 13, Joy Livingston of Quinte Secondary who topped the list in Biology for the same class, and Victor Rabel of Centennial Secondary who took first prize for physics in the grades 9 and 10 class.

In the new elementary school class, Lynn Waldren of Harry J. Clarke school won the biological section while Pat Shaver of Sir Mackenzie Bowell placed first in the physics department.

This bevy of Loyalist College beauties received extra marks in a student scavenger hunt yesterday when they showed up in bikinis. The hunt was part of the community college's first student week which ends with an auto rally on Sunday.

Ends Sunday

Student Week at Loyalist Successful

After the week is over, if Belleville and district still do not know Loyalist College is around don't blame the students.

Tomorrow wraps up the community college's first student week.

Probably the smallest school enrolment in the Quinte district, it has suddenly emerged as a forceful element, with its own clan.

That is, if the tradition of the student scavenger hunt still holds good.

The hunt, which ended yesterday, was part of a series of events marking Student Council Week at Loyalist.

It highlighted a program that began Monday with a formal address from Dr. R. T. Potter, MPP Quinte.

It continued with a swimming pool splash party and ends Sunday with an automobile rally. But throughout the week, the entire series of events has been linked by the scavenger hunt.

Results of the foraging, far and wide through the community, were to be seen yesterday when the Loyalist students revealed their bagging.

The loot ranged from an Holstein calf, through traffic lights to a bust of World War I British army commander Earl Haig "borrowed" from a teacher's residence.

There also were such assortments as a tombstone, a skeleton, a mummified cat.

And, of course, girls.

For good measure, the scavenger organizers threw in marks for any one returning a live, breathing bikini.

Members of the board of Belleville General Hospital reviewed the year's work at their anual meeting yesterday. Here Mrs. W. G. Harvey, Harleigh Hamilton and administrator Phillip Rickard check over a report.

Hospital Board Reviews Changes Made in 1967

"Conditions in the existing hospital remained overcrowded and the patient accommodation that will be demolished in 1968 is very poor," said administrator Philip Rickard in his report to the Board of Governors of Belleville General Hospital yesterday.

The annual meeting of the body was held yesterday afternoon in education hall at the hospital. Chairman Harvey Hamilton presided.

Mr. Hamilton presented the first report as chairman. "It has been a year of many changes at Belleville General Hospital," he began.

Referring to the improvements in working conditions and the staff vacancies that were filled, Mr. Hamilton thanked and congratulated Philip Rickard for his duties as hospital administrator.

Among the changes listed by the chairman were the nearly completed patient tower as well as a laboratory, already in operation.

Notice that the new grant structure of June 1966 under the Ontario Hospital Services Commission would be applicable to the new structure at Belleville was given during the past year and Mr. Hamilton pointed out that it would provide the necessary money to erect administration accommodation. Construction starts later this year.

Also new this year was the Edith Cavell Regional School of Nursing which will phase out the Belleville General Hospital School over the next two years.

The chairman also thanked the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary and especially the volunteer service for the help given during the year. Earlier in 1967 $20,000 was made available to the hospital by the auxiliary.

Administrator Philip Rickard then gave his report to the board.

It was noted that quite a few of the statistics had increased over 1966, including the number of admissions (by 90), the number of surgical operations, xray examinations and the laboratory units of work increased by 14 per cent.

However, the average stay of patients was reduced by almost a full day. The number of new born admissions decreased as did the percentage occupancy of beds.

The senior appointments made during the year were J. Kunetsky, assistant administrator, Miss M. Ruth Gaw, director of nursing service, R.A. Joy as purchasing officer, L. Cormier as laundry manager, D.E. Pratt as SPD Director and Miss M. Connell as personnel officer.

"All of the appointees," Mr. Rickard said, "made a considerable contribution to their organization and generally with that of the building project."

A piece of land acquired from Avon Jewellers said Mr. Rickard, will help solve the parking problem at the hospital.

As of Dec. 31, 1967, there were 534 full time staff, 113 part time staff and 125 students.

A report from the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was given by Mrs. W. G. Harvey who went over the various services conducted by the auxiliary over the past year.

A total of 171 volunteers contributed 2,372 hours of assistance to their hospital - the membership of the organization's membership is 257.

Industry Needs Boost

The advice of Ontario government dairy commissioner J. L. Baker that the dairy industry should promote its products to "the very limit" is timely.

It comes at a time when synthetic products are competing for consumer attention. These include dips, coffee whiteners, desserts and ice creams.

Mr. Baker indicated that while none of the synthetics had broken marketing legislation, the government was keeping an "open mind" and would change the legislation if need be. He was speaking at a conference of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association.

Certainly, any such move by the government would have to be for a good reason. After all synthetics have become an increasingly important factor in the economy, from the manufacture of clothing to the food industry.

No government restrictions can be tolerated so long as the synthetics keep within the law. That being so, the dairy industry must look to its own laurels. It cannot afford to rely entirely on its unquestioned quality.

The relative merits of synthetics and the real thing, in cheese as in other dairy products was summed up well by Hastings dairy princess Gail Thompson. There is really no comparison. Or as Miss Thompson put it, "The consumer must be made aware of the market presence of cheese, its nutritional value and the real meaning of price differences."

"We must make them realize that inferior prices often mean inferior products." As noted earlier however the key word is "promotion."

Minis to Hammocks

It is exhibition time in the Quinte area. There is the Science Fair and Hobby Show at the Armories this weekend. The Rotary-sponsored exhibition succeeds the Quinte Electric Club's fine presentation at the Tiki Club.

One of the attractions at the latter was showing of the film "Ontario" that was featured last year at Expo. And closed circuit television enabled visitors to see themselves as they entered.

Across the Atlantic the inventive British are at it again. Not content with hovercraft, miniskirts et al they have now come up with a rotating hammock. Named appropriately, "The Pirouette," it can be rotated to follow the sun and comes with an adjustable roller blind awning which doubles as an overnight cover.

Tension in U. S.

As the United States pursues a grinding war in Vietnam, there is an air of inevitability about the sombre shadow of domestic strife that is envisaged for the "long hot summer."

In Detroit, which last year became a holocaust of rioting, tension is high as whites and Negroes engage in an arms race.

Canadians may count themselves fortunate they are not living across the border where possession of weapons by private citizens is so commonplace that the reasons behind it are almost obscured.

The so-called "Gun Lobby" of the sporting organizations is a major reason. Another is the fact that law and order in many American cities has broken down.

As things stand something like 17,000 people die of gunshot wounds every year in the United States. That works out at about 50 every day.

More Americans are coming to live in Canada, as recent immigration statistics reveal. It is not surprising. To leave such an environment of violence to be the only certain way of avoiding another fearsome outbreak of violence in America's urban jungles.

Cosmonaut's Death

The death of Yuri Gagarin, the first man to orbit the earth in a space capsule, is being mourned not only in Russia but wherever men have regard for courage, adventure, and the advancement of science.

Gagarin possessed such qualities as he soared above the earth. It seems only yesterday but in fact it was almost seven years ago.

The Soviet cosmonaut and a fellow pilot are reported to have died in the crash of a jet trainer they were flying near Moscow.

Both the Soviet and United States space programs have come a long way since 1961, although both seem to be in a state of temporary quiescence. The ultimate goal of course remains the landing of a manned spacecraft on the moon.

Ottawa Offbeat

No Place to Hide When Convention Hits Bytown

OTTAWA — Maybe it is because the hotels here are small-er—and so the sound and fury of all the fun and games rings out that more mildly—but political conventions in Ottawa always seem more calathumpian than in Toronto.

Here you can't miss them—they take over the town, filling every one of the available 3,295 hotel and motel rooms and spilling over into another 2,200 private homes.

In Toronto, the 7,000 delegates, alternates, news men, party wheeler-dealers and visiting firemen that comprise the average national political convention crowd can get lost in the swarming human anthill of metro.

In "Bigtown" the politicians share the 26 large hotels with the Elks, Kinsmen, Farmers' Union, Steelworkers, Legionnaires, Shriners, the IODE and any other national organization holding conventions.

Here in "Bytown", when the politicians move in—that is it—there is no room for anyone else.

For here, instead of 28 big hotels, there are only three, surrounded on the city's perimeter by clusters of smaller motor-hotels and motels.

So when the politicians hit old "Bytown" with a leadership or even national policy convention, it sort of stays hit.

Like it has been stunned by a higher-than-usual voltage Grey Cup weekend.

Or maybe like they say it used to be after the spring lumber drive and the shantymen from the white pine valleys of the Ottawa, Gatineau, Madawaska and Bonnechere, ripely roaring from a winter in the woods, took the place over — and often apart.

Except that the politicians have all the fun and frolic without any of the vandalism of the turf-of-the-century shanty-men or the wild ones of a football festival.

Like it was the last time, when the Tories took over and turned the customarily stately old-world Chateau Laurier into something of a mad house.

When "Cowboy" MP Jack Horner lassooed George Hees clear across the main dining room at one of the breakfast hoose-ups.

When Jack's big brother, MP "Doc" Horner, and MP "Big Red" Eldon Wadlina, in their out-size white Stetsons, stalked the "ranges" of the Chateau's corridors like a couple of ranchhands straight out of "High Chaparell," gunning for some of them fresh young squirts from McGill."

Had fun, too, did "Big Red" and "Doc," making like they each had a "big iron" on the hip, ready to start blasting with their imaginary "hawg's legs" when any of those "nice Nellies" from McGill came within verbal range.

And that could be from a dozen rooms and more and a couple of corridors' distance.

Fair scrambled Tories, young McGill eggheads, they did.

The campus crowd, "the young intellectuals", they called themselves, had made the convention scene to teach their elders, such as Tory party grandpappies like "Big Red" and "Doc" and "Straw Doonie" MacInnis, the facts of the university avant garde's "new politics".

Almost as many laughs it was as the camel - through - the - needle's-eye caper of another western delegate.

A goodly hunk of he-man topping 220 pounds, he had forgotten his room key when he brought a passel of pals up for a nightcap or three.

So he urged them $100 he could make it through the transom, by wiggle and wriggle.

And by cripes, he did, impossibly squeezing through the 10-inch wide aperture over his door.

Dropped to the floor inside like the dead-weight he was, coloring himself so black and bruisey blue that he had to delay his return home for a few days.

Just couldn't figure out how to explain the wear and tear to his good wife. And wisely, was pretty sure she wouldn't believe any story as cockeyed as his tale of the transom, even if it were, so help him Hannah, true as his black and blue.

So help he, come to next week's fete, even if you have to bunk a lee away at Hartland and commute by plane, train or road.

For this is where the action is—and when you get into it you find it is more, and so You and laugh it up, with bands and balloons, banners, babes and boos.

Ottawa's Boost for Research

Welland Tribune

Government spending on scientific research and development has steadily increased the fiscal axe applied to most other departments in the 1968-69 federal estimates.

The big gainer was the National Research Council of Canada. NRC's budget jumped 19 per cent from $121,693,000 in 1967-68 to $144,900,000 for an increase of $24 million.

The biggest single increase was $20 million for scholarships and grants in aid of research. There has been an increase of almost $22 million to $88 million. This increase reflects NRB's policy of de-emphasizing so-called in-house research and shunting greater resources into university research.

The Medical Research Council will receive an additional $6,902,000 in fiscal 1968-69.

Another gainer has been the atomic energy establishment. Grants from the Atomic Energy Control Board for research will increase by $1,500,000 from the 1967 appropriation of $2,500,000. The research program of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited is increasing $3.5 million from the 1967 allocation of $46.5 million.

The increases are in line with recommendations of the Economic Council of Canada for greater support for research and development.

Terwilliger; secretary-treasurer, John Fenn; managing committee, Ed. Lear, Arthur E. Lewis, J. Brown, and George Brough; leader, W. B. Riggs.

A successful and enjoyable concert was given at Holloway Street Church last evening under the auspices of the Sunday School Orchestra which is composed of the following: conductor, Garn E. Dobbs; violins, Fred Howard, B. Sills, P. Mc-Mullen and G. Brown; saxophones, E. E. Moynes, F. Clarke and J. Lake; cornets, G. G. Gazley and Frank Howard; trombone, W. J. Jordan; bass violin, W. B. Haines; banjo, A. Cole.

The Rev. Charles E. McIntyre, a former pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church in this city, died at his home in Toronto today. He was 70 years of age and retired five years ago.

A tag day was conducted today by the Salvation Army to raise funds for its work among the soldiers overseas.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies Benevolent Society in connection with St. Michael's Church the following officers were elected: honorary president, Mrs. St. Charles; president, Mrs. Hughes; vice-president, Mrs. A. Bernard Collins; second vice - president, Mrs. Cushing; secretary, Miss Hurley; treasurer, Mrs. Daly; hospital visitor, Mrs. Trotter; auditors, Mrs. Foltz and Mrs. Anderson.

A Generation That Has Everything

Prince George (BC) Progress

Every time one picks up a paper these days, it seems that it contains an article on the youngest generation in which they complain of a lack of communication with their parents and then throw up their hands in despair at the messy world situation that the older generation has left them to handle.

If the long-hairs and go-go girls would make the effort to check back, say 25 years, it is possible they might discover that their parents were also left with quite a messy situation. For instance, the large majority of their mothers and fathers were born during, or shortly after the First World War. When the time came for job hunting, work was as scarce as snow in the equator and if one was lucky enough to find a job, the hours were long and the pay meagre.

After this came the Second World War in which millions died to give today's young people the right to sound off on any subject that does not tickle their fancy.

Older people owe these youngsters no apology. Any group of people that has been left a 37½ to 40 hour week with good wages, automobiles and power boats for their enjoyment, leisure hours, paid holidays, penicillin and sulfa drugs, vaccines, open heart surgery, plastic organs to replace worn out ones, educational systems unheard of 20 years ago, television, oil and gas heat and computers cannot really have too much about which to moan.

Put down the crying towel, youngsters, and let's hope that your children find the kind of world that you think should be yours for nothing.

Poor Chap...

He's Got "Kissing" Disease

St. Thomas Times - Journal

British actor Barry Evans is ill. Doctors have gently broken the news to him that he is suffering from mononucleosis.

In lay terms, this is known as the "kissing disease" and Evans might have known he was flirting with it when he worked so hard in filming "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush."

In this film he is forced to spend most of his time chasing and kissing 12 beautiful girls. And since Evans is a conscientious performer — a perfection-ist, apparently — he put himself into the role so diligently that he will have come down with mononucleosis.

Now, no one wants to see anyone sick. But almost all of us have an off day now and then, and many of us would be willing to swap health problems with Evans.

Let's all join in wishing him well. His active recovery, marked by many occupational relapses.

After all, a true artist isn't going to put health ahead of duty. Especially beauty duty.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

March 30, 1968 . . .

The United States bought Alaska from Russia for $7,000,000, 101 years ago—in 1867. Alaska was discovered and exploited by Russian sealers and whalers in the 18th century and in the 1800s many made efforts to settle it. However, the Russian claim that all northern Pacific water was Russian territory brought opposition from the U.S. and Britain. When it became clear to Russia that U.S. miners would flood to any gold discovered in Alaska, Russia decided to sell.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—violent fighting developed in the Lore Valley and on Moreuil Ridge. The enemy was repulsed with heavy losses north of the Somme in Belgium. Boyelles region; the artillery was active in the area around Hill 70 which was held by Canadian troops.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—the British 8th Army advance units passed through the port of Gabes north of the Mareth Line in pursuit of Axis forces withdrawing to northern Tunisia; the British 1st Army recaptured Medjez-el-Bab in northern Tunisia.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—the Allied forces, with the aid of the Canadian cavalry, recaptured Moreuil, Ayencour, Grivesnes, Monchel and Assainvillers; the German retreat was changed in Mesopotamia, British forces advanced 73 miles beyond Amadi.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—Berlin announced four British submarines had sunk six Axis ships and damaged four others on a supply route to Tunisia. American bombers attacked shipping and shipbuilding yards at Rotterdam, losing one bomber.

Russia Shadows Mediterranean While

Israel Faces Growing Guerrilla Threat by Arabs

By ARCH McKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)-The bitter Middle East stalemate following the six-day war last June extends to U.S. relations with key Arab nations.

Despite evidence that both the U.S. government and President Nasser of the United Arab Republic would like to re-establish official relations, the war's residue keeps getting in the way.

An example is Israel's anti-terrorist raid last week into Jordan with 15,000 men.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union is firmly established in the Mediterranean, fulfilling a Russian objective that goes back to the czars.

U.S. concern about the Soviet naval presence, not to mention influence in the oil-rich area, was indicated to Canadian parliamentarians here last week in discussions with congressional colleagues. Heavy U.S. emphasis was laid on the need for NATO to keep its guard up against Soviet pressure on the southern flank of the alliance.

Not that there seems much penetration, gained at heavy expense in arms lost by the Egyptians to Israel and their subsequent substantial replenishment by Russia.

Israel's assault on Jordan last week was the largest since the war. It is further evidence that Israel's lightning-like victory accomplished nothing over the long haul.

The nation of 2,700,000 Jews among a sea of Arabs seems to face bigger terrorist threats than ever before, from more dedicated, better-trained and better-equipped "freedom fighters" drawn from various states.

They have the added motivation of fighting to regain the rich Jordanian territory overrun by Israel. There are signs that King Hussein of Jordan, a moderate Arab leader who seemed likely to want a working accord, lacks effective control over the guerrillas.

U.S. concern about the size of the Israeli thrust was signalled by its statement it was "greatly to be deplored." The United Nations Security Council has rapped Israel's knuckles.

But the U.S. is Israel's ally, as the Arabs insist. That is American policy and it reflects the domestic political fact of an influential Jewish population in the U.S.

Nasser on his record has always preferred working both sides of the street. Strong feelings in both the U.S. and Egypt hinder that objective.

Nasser last week shuffled his cabinet extensively and the 12 ministers dropped included leading supporters of both the Western and Communist camps.

The Egyptian president's desire for a better relationship with the U.S. was signalled in an interview a Look magazine recently in which he withdrew the allegation he made last June that the U.S. directly helped Israel. But his remarks were altered for home consumption.

LSD Has Place In Religion Says Professor

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Psychedelic drugs, rightly used, like automobiles, perform a useful function, says Dr. Walter Houston Clark, professor of psychology of religion at Tufts University, Medford, Mass. Wrongly used or abused, he cautions, they turn into a menace.

Dastingly, perhaps, Ferment '68 gives Dr. Clark's views on lysergic acid diethylamide—popularly known as LSD or, to the initiates, "acid"—prominence in its March issue.

Says Dr. Clark:

"To bring about religious experience through artificial stimuli sounds like trying to play God. Yet those who make such objections see nothing amiss in trying to encourage religious experience by such artificial stimuli as organ music, Gothic architecture, Bible reading, prolonged silence, candles, ritual or fasting; and fasting certainly has an effect on one's chemical composition."

Dr. Clark's views on LSD were expressed in Religion in Life, a United State, publication, and reprinted in Ferment '68, a Toronto-published bimonthly journal which set out last September to provide "vigorous communication between those of different beliefs."

It has done that but has not fared well in the process.

Its circulation of less than 2,400—to ministers and interested laymen of all faiths, by subscription only—is less than the break-even point set by the printer, Ryerson Press. The printer says frankly it is concerned but the magazine, a slick-paper job 36 pages heavy with religious advertising, will be kept going at least another year.

In the magazine's first editorial, Editor Rev. John Burbidge wrote:

"The temptation is strong to listen only to one's associates and cling to an intra-mural dialogue. This is dangerous. Ferment is to be a 'Speakers' Corner' for our far-reachint nation. Firm convictions will be expressed; strong reactions invited."

Now, he said in an interview six months after Ferment's first issue:

"We have got the bugs ironed out. Now we are beginning to move. This magazine is one of the most exciting things to happen in religious journalism in Canada for a long time."

On Ferment's advisory board are a Jew, a Baptist, an Anglican, a Pentecostal minister, a Buddhist, a Roman Catholic, a Unitarian, an Evangelical, a Greek Orthodox, a Muslim. The publisher, Rev. A. C. Forrest, editor of The Observer, is a United Church minister.

Mr. Burbidge added: "The most interesting feature of Ferment is encounter with men of quite different traditions. There is no necessity to agree. As a liberal Protestant, I could not agree less with the associate editor who is a fundamentalist. Since we respect each other as persons, despite our disagreement, we can be forthright and open."

Dr. Clark's article, certainly "forthright and outspoken," is titled Drugs For the Lost Warmth of Religion. He says that "regardless of whether there is a legitimate place for the psychedelic experience in deepening and strengthening the faith of the average Christian, it is hard to see how the church can ig nore them."

The Times, They Are A-changing

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—When a church official recently stopped a group of Roman Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox Jewish college students from celebrating an unconventional, mixed communion service, the six students simply moved to another room and went on with it.

"The times, they are a-changing," they sang, most of them seated on the floor around a makeshift altar table, swaying to a guitar beat.

The incident, at a University Christian Movement conference in Cleveland, Ohio, indicates the approach that American youth today often take toward religion: They go at it in their own fashion or not at all.

"It's part of their rebellion against institutialism of various kinds," said Rev. Dr. H. D. Bollinger of Nashville, Tenn., director of Methodism's department of college and university religious life.

"They're fed up with the system."

Many of them, with that same show of independence, have abandoned formal religious connections.

This anti-traditionalism has thrown many church youth organizations into a nosedive, forcing some out of existence. And it is sharply shrinking rolls of church and Sunday school classes.

Officials widely admit that programmed "youth work," as one hirch bureau commonly call it, is on the downgrade.

"Participation is declining like mad," said Rev. John Wood, head of the department of youth ministry of the National Council of Churches, which includes most major American Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

"Jesus, Yes! Christianity, No!" read a sign carried at a student rally at the University of California in Berkeley.

Never Trust a God Over 30, is the title of a new book by Jesh, Roman Catholic and Protestant chaplains at New York's Columbia University, reflecting the younger generation's attitude.

Paradoxically, however, there is a youthful religious impulse and it is showing up in certain movements more strongly than ever before—in conversational coffee houses, in booming enrolment in college courses in religion, in social action projects and in free-wheeling kinds of worship.

Even that nebulous border zone throbs with intellectual-religious inquiry, experimentation and movements ranging from the hippie "love power" to Zen meditation to war protests to students tutoring in the slums.

"This is the questioning generation," said Dr. Martin Mead, a psychologist at New York's Fordham University and vice-president for student affairs.

"They want answers to hard theological questions and they want an ethics of action."

Commented a young man at a recent meeting in Dallas, Tex., of the National Council's Christian education division:

"We would love to be part of what the church says it should be doing. When we see adults doing those things we will happily join them."

For the last two years, enrolment in Protestant church schools, youth groups and schools in the U.S. has declined, despite rising population.

And a survey of church attendance on an average Sunday shows that attendance by young people between ages 21 and 29 declined seven points to 40 per cent from its 1955 high of 47 per cent.

The Experts Say

Changes Made in Stewardess Requirements

MONTREAL (CP) — It is no longer necessary to be a registered nurse if you want to become an airline stewardess, says Lillian (Billie) Houseman, general supervisor of 1,200 airline hostesses.

"It's true that some of the requirements for becoming a stewardess are extremely demanding," she says, "but several changes have been added to the lure of air travel. We now have more applicants than we can handle."

Where at one time a girl had to have a maximum height of five feet, five inches, today's girl can be as tall as five feet, eight inches.

"We just couldn't hire tall girls in the past because the aircraft was too small. Now the planes are built in such a way as to allow a willowy girl to move gracefully through the flight cabin."

Although a girl must still be single when she applies for a position as stewardess, she may, after her six-month probationary period, marry and even have children.

"We even provide her with a leave of absence if she wants one," says the Air Canada supervisor.

Potential stewardesses must be a minimum of 20 or a maximum of 25 years old when applying for a job.

They must weigh between 105 and 135 pounds, proportionate to their weight. We would hire a girl who weighed 104 pounds if she was in excellent health and suited our requirements."

Bilingualism is not an absolute must for girls stationed at Air Canada bases in Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver or Calgary.

"In Montreal, the girls should be able to converse in French and English," says Miss Houseman.

The stewardesses go through a rigid five-week training period during which time they are thoroughly instructed how to handle emergency equipment, apply first aid, serve food and prepare drinks, attend to mothers and babies and care for blind passengers.

In addition they must be in perfect health, attractive, intelligent and "possess the ability to smile in the face of annoyances or difficulties."

A native of Central Butte, Sask., 69 miles northwest of Moose Jaw, Miss Houseman, a registered nurse and former stewardess, says she wouldn't have traded her job for any other.

"I've been with Air Canada for 24 years and I haven't yet seen a girl quit because she didn't like the job."

At 22, the blue-eyed blonde says she hasn't encountered a marriage proposal from a passenger and dispels the theory that male travellers get fresh with the hostesses.

"Generally, the men are cheerful when they board. They smile and greet us with a good morning and thank us at the end of the trip. That's usually the last we see of them.

"And we're really too busy to fool around. By the time we get the passengers settled, hand out magazines, serve meals, drinks, and attend to minor emergencies, the flight is over."

For Montrealer Nicole Gervais, however, there was one romantic incident.

"A group of men who had been fishing in the Maritimes boarded our flight in Moncton. They were a lively bunch who soon became friendly with all the passengers in the cabin.

"When we landed one of the men wanted to express his gratitude to us for our services so he asked us to come to the baggage area and pick up some lobsters."

The pretty 21-year-old brunette carried the lobster precariously through the airline terminal building accompanied by the passenger.

"We soon discovered we lived close to each other and began to date. That romance lasted for four months. But creating a family atmosphere all the way to Montreal.

usually that kind of thing just doesn't happen."

Do their mothers worry?

"Sure," says Pauline. "At first my mother admitted she was nervous about the idea but now she sees how happy I am and understands."

"I'm the family topic of conversation," says Nicole. "When they get together, all you hear is 'where did Nicole go this month?' "

ONE SASKATCHEWAN SUMMER

* * *

"Shortly after I arrived, three little sisters who walked about four miles to school every day brought an invitation from their mother for the weekend," continues Miss Nell Merry relating her summer teaching experiences in Saskatchewan, (soon after it became a province), while still an undergraduate of Queen's University. "This invitation saved my life, for the rest of the summer I spent my spare time with the Pecks.

There were three families of Pecks: mothers and a sister and her husband.

They had been farming near Belleville (a place I scarcely knew nor had little interest then) and had joined forces to take up land in the West. The Government at hat time was giving each that time was giving each of land. The family had taken their quarter sections along the bank of the Saskatchewan River. The Clindinnens (the sister) had built their house on a bluff and the light from their windows could be seen for miles around. They told me that sometimes when a blizzard blew up suddenly, they would have every inch of their house and barn filled with storm-bound travellers.

One of the Peck brothers found a vein of surface coal on his land, and though it was smoky and crumbled, it provided fuel for the three families.

There were no game laws, and the sloughs or ponds were full of ducks and the fields with prairie chicken. I joined a hunting party every weekend. The duck and prairie chicken offered a pleasing variation from the loathsome salt pork which was the only other alternative. There was only one house rule at the Pecks. You could eat as many ducks as you liked, but you had to pluck them yourself.

The Peck's son had attended Albert College, and the previous year he had returned to Belleville to marry Miss Roblin, a graduate of St. Agnes School. On their honeymoon, they had stopped off in Winnipeg to visit a relative of hers — the Premier of Manitoba.

They were met at the Middle Station by Mr. Peck Senior. As they approached the farm they saw a prairie fire dangerously near their home. They stopped to battle the flames. The poor little bride entered her new life with blackened hands and a completely ruined travelling suit.

The Pecks were extremely kind to me and I kept up a correspondence with them for some time.

The summer passed slowly. The prairies turned from dun to green. The wild rose and scarlet lillies added a note of color. The Prairie Larks with their monotonous song added sound. As you walked along the path, to school the gophers popped out of their holes to greet you. On bright moonlight nights the prairie wolves saluted the moon with long quavering howls. The first night they woke me I thought there must a band of drunken drunk people on the nearby trail.

There was not much romance in the prairies in those days. Many of the nearby farmers had sent for wives through matrimonial advertisements in farmers' journals. Loneliness and hard work were the lot of ad. One of our neighbors had arrived at his farm in the spring. He had built a sod barn for his horses and planted oats and flax. And then winter came early. He dug a hole in the ground and made a roof for it. He made pile of flax straw nearby and holed in for the winter. He got up twice a day to feed his horses. He built a fire of flax straw in ac empty oil can and made himself some porridge.

Five years or so later, he had a fine farm and a good house."

Prattware pollids are the most famous made in the world. The firm also made other color printed wares such as this breadplate made in Fenton, England about the middle of the 19th century.

(Argus Bakers Collection, Port Chester, N.Y.)

Staffordshire Wares by Austin

By Ralph and Terry Kovel

Prattware was made by a factory headed by Felix and Thomas Pratt, but the famous colored printed Staffordshire wares made by the firm after 1845 were really the work of Jesse Austin, an unknown artist. The Pratt brothers inherited their pottery factory from their father. The firm made Staffordshire ware figures with colored decorations.

Jesse Austin was the son of a tailor. Against his father's advice he studied to be an artist and copperplate engraver. Young Jesse eventually became an apprentice at the Davenport China works where he learned engraving.

Fate took part in Prattware. About 1835-1840 the blue and white painted border plates lost popularity. Engravers were not needed because the potters began making ironstone wares with little or no decorations.

Jesse Austin, now a family man, had to stop engraving and go to work in a pottery. He met Felix Pratt and, at the age of 40, became an artist at the plant. While an employee, he developed a process of color printing. Prattware printed pot lids and other pieces became great favorites.

Mr. Austin, the unknown artist, quarreled with Thomas Pratt and was fired. A year later the Pratts decided he was so important to the business they rehired Austin but he still worked for less than $800 per year.

Q. Should I polish my antique furniture with a high sheen that reflects like a mirror or should it have a dull glassy surface?

A. The finish on antique furniture is a matter of your preference. If the original finish was not hard and bright, a dull glossy finish seems to be the most popular today. Most of the new polishes are being made to give that effect. Some of the old furniture had such a shiny original finish it must be kept that way.

Q. Is my "Playing Doctor" by John Rogers of any value?

I bought it 20 years ago and because it was a dirty shade I colored it with a new type of paint.

A. Rogers statues are of great interest but if they are repainted, they are almost worthless to a collector.

* * *

The Bilikens doll has caused comment from many readers. Evidently, the fat bellied round faced imp was first copyrighted in 1908 by the Bilikens Company. The dolls were made of plaster with an ivory finish. Each doll is marked with a brass metal disk saying "The God of Things as They Ought to Be," and also the name of the company.

Book Review

"John Rogers, the People's Sculptor" by David Wallace (Wesleyan University Press, $20) is a book about the once loved, later ignored sculptor of the famous "Rogers Groupings." A full catalogue, well illustrated, of the 208 known figures and a history of the man are included in the book.

U.C.W. Meetings

HOLLOWAY ST. UCW

The United Church Women of Holloway St. United Church met in the new hall for their March general meeting, with the president, Mrs. K. Parks, in charge.

Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. Van-Osten gave the devotional and Mrs. A. Miller provided piano accompaniment.

Mrs. G. Demille introduced the guest speaker, J. Green of the Salvation Army. He discussed his Army experiences and his two meetings with General Booth, the founder of the movement. A bandmaster during most of his life, he led in a hymn, with Mrs. Green at the piano. One of his pupils, Miss Linda Peyton, played a trumpet solo.

Plans were discussed for a Japanese tea and bazaar in the fall. Mrs. H. Dixon said the UCW mite will be packed in May and used clothing and children's pyjamas are needed.

Lack of Communication Results in Family Problems

Last Tuesday night I talked to parents of boys and girls age nine to 19, and they talked back to me. It was a bit about how to get on speaking terms with your kids. A half-hour film entitled "David and Hazel" (National Film Board) got the ball rolling. It featured a husband and wife who efficiently kept all their worries to themselves. Hazel was determined there would be no bickering in her household as there had been in her parents'. David's inherited conviction was that a man ought to keep his worries to himself.

So, when a threatened amalgamation also threatened David's job, Hazel and is hear about it through a neighbor at the supermarket. Only then were her eyes opened to just why he had been so cross with his boy and the girls.

David had been unreasonably sharp with Junior for raising the question of giving up his paper route because of the demands of the track team. He had declared summarily that it was time for David to make up his own mind about things. When Susie asked for her usual allowance, he stormed: "Do you think I'm made of money?"

It all culminated in a loud and distressing argument between David and Hazel, with interspersed shots showing children cowering up their heads in bed in order to shut out the horrible sounds.

Well, Hazel's plea at the end of the film made you feel that perhaps things were going to be better; but this kind of sound barrier takes some kind of breaking down.

In the buzz sessions which followed the film, those present worked on some better ways of handling such a situation, and between us all we thought through a few principles which could help to keep lines of communication open between the generations. Here they are:

1. Try to see the world through Junior's eyes. At nine Johnny of Susie can be heart-broken over a lost ball or cancelled picnic. Don't laugh off a nine-year-old or 14-year-old type tragedy.

2. Let Junior know you believe in him — or her. If you show your firm conviction that your beloved offspring can turn over the moon, he will burst his buttons trying — and he has a chance of making it, too.

3. Don't ever be shocked. A Mom or Dad who paves the way for easy conversation by frank discussions of the facts of life has got the edge on the rest of them.

4. Develop a habit of listening. Be interested in what he thinks. He (and you) can learn a lot through just letting him talk.

5. Resist the impulse to lay down the law. Definitely, you must give him the benefit of your point of view and experience, but: encourage discussion and come to conclusions together.

6. Keep a confidence. If Junior ever picks up a hint — from anyone — that what he has told you secretly has been passed on, the next confidence will be a long time coming.

7. Encourage decision making — not all at once, but gradually. Early decisions may relate to small issues. Later, he has to make choices of behavior, friends, career, marriage

8. Help him work his way through from your discipline to self-discipline and independence. This is what maturity is all about.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Old-fashioned Cookies

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Would you perhaps have a recipe I have been looking for? My mother used to make lemon cookies. They were large and light and I believe had some ingredient in them which had to be got at the drug store. I believe also that they had a filling. I enjoy your column very much and my family have many of your recipes as family favorites. Thank you for all your help. Isobel B.

ANSWER: Occasionally I get requests from other readers who remember this old-fashioned cookie. It will bring back memories to many.

Dinner Menu

Egg Drop Soup (see Friday); Spanish Omelette; Hard Rolls or Bran Muffins; Jellied Waldorf Salad with Orange Cream Dressing (see Thursday); Cherry Upside Down Cake, Coffee.

OLD-FASHIONED ROLLED LEMON COOKIES (with baking ammonia)

1 cup shortening
2¼ cups sugar
7 cups shifted flour (approximately)
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 oz. carbonate ammonia (buy at drug store)
1 teaspoon lemon extract

Cream shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Add flavoring. Add eggs and continue to beat. Pulverize ammonia to a powder and dissolve in milk. Sift flour and salt together and add alternately with the milk. Add only enough flour to make a medium-soft dough. Chill in refrigerator for several hours. Turn dough onto floured board and roll ⅛" thick (very thin). Cut into squares or roll in one piece and mark into squares with back of knife. Prick lightly with a fork before putting into oven. Place 1" apart on a greased baking sheet. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until crisp and pale gold.

Makes 6 to 7 dozen cookies.

Female Gang Known By Butterfly Tattoos

SINGAPORE Reuters — If the girl has butterfly tattoos on her thighs, she probably is a member of an all-women gang currently plaguing Singapore.

Some of the female gangsters — pretty, young and shapely — look as if they have stepped straight out of a Hollywood film.

After 14 girl gangsters were arrested recently, police secretary Loke Foo Yee said crimes committed by women in this island republic presented one of its major headaches.

The rounding up of the 14 girls helped to break up one of the island's most notorious criminal bands — the "butterfly" gang. The all-women gang had been operating for more than a year, mainly as decoys in holdups.

Dressed with underworld male friends, the girls—most-ly bar or carabet dancers — would lure unsuspecting "rogues" to the dark alleys of downtown Singapore.

Police say women were found to be members of smaller gangs rounded up recently after a series of minor holdups and purse snatchings.

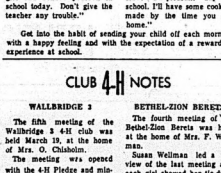
READ C.W.L.

The March meeting of Read Catholic Women's League was held on Thursday evening in St. Mary's School. Rev. W. V. Hamilton opened the meeting with president Mrs. T. V. Corrigan presiding.

A request was read from Sister Cronin which asked for books and clothing for the Indian children whom she is teaching at Peneteanguishine.

Father Hamilton spoke on the League magazine and said in the future the magazine fee would be included in the membership and every member will receive the magazine. Further plans for the tea and bazaar to be held in May were discussed. Conveners are Mrs. T. Callaghan and Mrs. W. Hanley.

Nomination forms were distributed and are to be returned in two weeks' time. The annual meeting will be held in the form of a potluck supper the last week of April. Members are invited to attend a C.W.L. meeting of Marysville parish council on April 22rd at 8.30 p.m.



Guest speakers introduced by Mrs. W. Buckley were A.A. speakers, one from the Belleville group and one from the Moira group.

There was a question box, after which all questions were answered.

Mrs. S. Brennan expressed thanks to the speakers.

Clever Student Wants To Be A Secretary

DEAR ANN: I have an unusual problem. Too many brains. It all started when I was in the 7th grade. The teachers decided I was too smart for the 7th grade so they promoted me to the 8th. I didn't like the kids in the 8th grade because all my friends were in the 7th. I did well academically but I was unhappy emotionally.

ANN LANDERS

When it came time to choose my 8th grade subjects, I wanted to take a business course, but my counselor and my mother decided I had to go to college so they forced me to take the subjects to prepare me.

Now I have to choose 10th grade subjects and we are fighting again. I told them I did not ask to be put in the genius class that I hate algebra and trigonometry. I've already had work that some of the other kids won't get until 11th and 12th grade. Why won't they let me take the business course? I want to be a secretary, not a math professor. Now I know why kids drop out. — RELUCTANT MISS EINSTEIN.

* * *

DEAR MISS E.: For a girl who has all those brains you are plenty dumb. Your mother and your counsellor want you to stretch your mind to reach — to exercise your cerebral muscles, girl! If you want to be a secretary, fine, but don't pass up the chance to have at least a couple of years of college. You will be a better secretary for it — and a better educated woman.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ellen and I were married two years ago after a stormy courtship. My older brother used to date Ellen and when they broke up it was a mess — ugly stories were circulated by both sides.

Then Ellen and I married, my brother was in the service and out of the country, so that solved the problem of whether or not to have him at the wedding. At family get-to-gethers they barely speak.

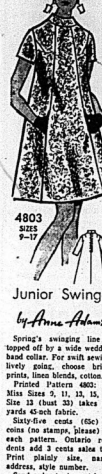
Now my brother has announced that he is going to be married and he wants me to be his best man. Ellen says she will not attend the wedding and that if I had the proper respect for her I wouldn't go either. I don't want to hurt my wife, but if I turn my brother down it will be the end of our friendship and my mother will be heartsick. What is the right thing to do? — NICK.

DEAR NICK: Tell your brother you accept. If Ellen doesn't want to attend the wedding, let her stay home.

A man who would refuse to go to his brother's wedding because his wife insists on nursing an old grudge should take the ring off his finger and put it through his nose.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here's the story: He was married and I knew it. I let him move into my place for days at a time. I absolutely had no money on me that he should have been spending on his children. I encouraged him to take me to public places so we'd be seen. The end came last week when we bumped into his 18-year-old son and a group of his buddies.



That same night my lover said we were through, that he had been a crazy fool and he intended to go back to his family and make up for the grief he had caused. I am heartsick and guilt-ridden. I want to go to his wife and beg her forgiveness. They say confession is good for the soul, and my soul is badly in need of repair. Please say yes. — RIVER OF TEARS.

DEAR RIVER: Sorry, no. This confession might be good for your soul, but it won't do much for the wife who has to listen to it. Spare the ordeal. What seems to you at this moment an act of generosity is in reality selfishness turned inside out.

Will Liberals Still Alternate English and French Leaders?

OTTAWA (CP) — Of all the issues facing the Liberal leadership convention April 4-6, the one that looms as possibly the most critical for the party is whether it will continue to alternate between English-Canadian Protestant and French-Canadian Roman Catholic leaders.

There is conflict on this question at all levels of the party organization.

The pattern was first fixed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier who took over the leadership in 1887 from Edward Blake. Leaders prior to Blake were Alexander Mackenzie and George Brown.

Sir Wilfrid, the first French-Canadian to become prime minister, decreed before his sudden death in 1919 that his successor should be a Protestant from English Canada.

The party's first leadership convention in the summer of 1919 elected William Lyon Mackenzie King, an Ontario Presbyterian. None of his three opponents was a French-Canadian.

When King retired in 1948 his hand-picked successor was Louis St. Laurent, a Quebec Roman Catholic. Two English-speaking candidates opposed him but the convention elected Mr. St. Laurent on the first ballot.

Mr. St. Laurent, in turn, groomed as his heir apparent Lester B. Pearson, Ontario-born son of a Methodist minister.

The 1958 leadership convention overwhelmingly endorsed this choice, electing Mr. Pearson over Paul Martin.

Most observers agree that Mr. Pearson has not followed the King and St. Laurent practice of passing on the leadership mantle to a favorite, although some eyebrows were raised at the sudden upsurge of promotion early this year for Justice Minister Trudeau.

If the leadership pattern is to continue, only two of the major candidates meet the requirements this time.

They are Mr. Martin, born of a French-Canadian mother and an Irish-French father, and Mr. Trudeau, son of a French-Canadian father and a Scottish mother. Both were raised in French-speaking, Roman Catholic homes.

Some leading Liberals argue that the alternating done in the past was due to the special circumstances of the day. Laurier, for example, was concerned about national unity in the party after the 1917 election that gave the Liberals 62 Quebec seats but only 20 outside Quebec.

Mr. Martin himself, who stands this time, spent hours at the 1958 convention arguing that the pattern should be abandoned.

The current English-French confrontation further complicates the problem. Some Liberals in Quebec contend the party must keep to its tradition and select a French-Canadian in order to stem separatism.

Others take the view that a French-Canadian prime minister would be less able than an English - speaking leader to make concessions to French Canada without creating unrest in other provinces.

Some who argue against the tradition say it is discriminatory because it bars an English-speaking Roman Catholic or a French-speaking Protestant from the leadership. It also would work against a Canadian of other than French or British origin ever making it to the top.

The Numbers Game

Trudeau, Martin in Lead, Hellyer Third

OTTAWA (CP) — It's called the numbers game.

Serious candidates for the Liberal leadership keep a running tally on the level of their support among the 2,450 delegates named to attend next week's leadership convention.

Campaign staffs keep constant tab on the state of mind of the delegates through special surveys, word from organizers in the field, information from the camps of other candidates and other devices.

Like any game, the figures are subject to doubt. Delegates can be fickle. Overoptimism obscures the truth. But some conclusions emerge nonetheless.

The samplers tend to agree a first-ballot victory for anybody is out of the question. The first-ballot leader will probably get between 530 and 700 votes, far below the simple majority required to win.

The first-ballot leaders, according to many, will be Transport Minister Hellyer, Justice Minister Trudeau and External Affairs MinisterMartin.

Many put Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Martin neck-and-neck, with Mr. Hellyer third.

Agriculture Minister Greene and Eric Kierans, retired president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, are generally relegated to the bottom rungs. The remaining four contenders of the nine big names will be somewhere in between.

But the samplers are the first to admit it's all unscientific. The situation, as they say, is fluid.

Samplers for some candidates won't play the numbers game in public. Their figures are kept secret. Two in the category are Finance Minister Sharp and Mr. Trudeau.

The Trudeau people insist that their man is running in front, but because they don't think it is politic to release figures to support the claim, they don't.

Mr. Hellyer tallies include a precise breakdown on the preference of the 129 Liberal members of Parliament. The Hellyer camp gives 33 to Mr. Trudeau and claims 39 for their man. The others trail.

When candidates assess first-ballot support, their staff adds the confirmed committals to the leaners for the total. And they might throw in what they feel is their rightful share of the totally uncommitted. At this stage the figures start getting doubtful.

Trudeau Did Not Fight Because of Upbringing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Justice Minister Trudeau, questioned about his record in the Second World War, says he did not fight because of the way Quebec youths were taught.

The candidate for the leadership of the Liberal party said at a Toronto meeting Friday night that "like most Quebecers, I had been taught to keep away from imperialistic wars."

Young people in Quebec gradually came to realize their education was in error and that the war had been started by the Fascist countries, he said.

Hints of things to come filled the speeches of candidates for the Liberal leadership as the majority bid for support in urban areas of Ontario.

—Trade Minister Robert Winters told a London audience he has always favored a second-in-command to the prime minister to take over the reins in any absence of the chief.

He said he has someone in mind for the office but any announcement would have to wait until after the April 4-6 Ottawa convention at which the new prime minister will be chosen.

—Health Minister MacEachen called at Guelph for fundamental reforms to update parliamentary debates.

He said he regarded reforms in the operation of Parliament as "a major objective."

—Consumer Affairs Minister John Turner said in Halifax there should be a review of the transportation system in the Maritimes. He said the federal government should play a role in regional development.

—External Affairs Minister Martin said that although the International Control Commission was forced to cut its staff, it was still the avenue for peace in war-torn Vietnam. He said in London, Ont., that despite the cut-backs by the commission he "still holds hope for a useful role in bringing peace to Vietnam."

—Agriculture Minister Greene said in Ottawa he would explore using direct subsidies to bring down the cost of interest charges on home ownership. He also said he opposes giving Quebec any special status or powers not enjoyed by other provinces.

—In Regina, Finance Minister Sharp said the Liberal Party had too often been looked upon as an eastern-orientated party. He said this attitude was not that of the Liberals and said it would never be if he was chosen to lead the party.

Nineteen Now in Running

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nineteen Liberals have announced their intention to seek the leadership of their party and the office of prime minister that goes with it.

The leader will be chosen in Ottawa April 6.

Leading contenders, to whom prime speaking time has been allocated at the leadership convention, are:

J. J. Greene, 47, minister of agriculture.

Paul Hellyer, 44, transport minister.

Allan MacEachen, 46, health minister.

Mitchell Sharp, 56, finance minister.

Pierre Elliott Trudeau, 46, justice minister.

John Turner, 38, minister of consumer affairs.

Robert Winters, 57, trade minister.

The other candidates, who will not get the floor during periods when TV coverage is in effect, are:

Ronald G. Ball, Toronto.

Howard Cameron, 19, Baddeck, N.S., university student.

Rev. Lloyd Henderson, 60, former mayor of Portage la Prairie, Man.

John Kroker, 38, Ottawa, self-employed actuary.

Leonard Krueger, about 55, Winnipeg, music writer.

Charles G. Reinboldt, 56, Toronto, welfare worker.

Ernest Zoendel, 29, Montreal, commercial artist.

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 30, 1968

Wouldn't it be wonderful to be able to stroll to the Fair Grounds on a sunny Sunday afternoon this summer, take off the coat, open the shirt and sit back to enjoy a spot of senior baseball?

That's not wishful thinking or the pipe-dream of a summer-hungry baseball addict.

Sure, you can stay at home and watch professionals play but after a winter viewing of hockey, skiing, boxing, golf, pinochle, politics, wars and a generous shot of garbage on television, a dash or two of live-in-the-open baseball will help remove some of the cobwebs from the eyeballs.

The groundwork of a senior baseball club here has been laid and if the foundation is a criterion, the 1968 edition of the "Stoira Dodgers" should rate with the best in years.

I'm not talking of the players individually or collectively, it's a bit too early for that. But other action will start on the senior baseball front come April 1st. And that's not fooling.

You don't have to go past the president's chair to realize the club will be headed by the best baseball brains in this part of the Ontario neck-of-the-woods.

He's "Mr. Baseball" himself, Jack Carson, past president of the Ontario Baseball Association and the EOBA and an adviser to many other baseball organizations.

Known for his straightforward outspoken-ness, Jack will not pull any punches if the occasion arises. As I said, he knows baseball and the new club is in the best hands of one of the best brands of the sport.

Backing the new piezy are men who have years of baseball experience behind them. As yet a vice-president and secretary, treasurer have not been named. The position of manager has not been filled as of this writing. Study and selection of candidates for these positions will be made.

The coaching staff leaves little to be desired. The head coach is Al Kelleher, who will forsake umpiring duties to take over the newjob.

Al (like Jack Carson) has been associated with baseball since he was three feet below a mini-skirt line. Both of them I think teethed on a baseball — and never forgot the taste. Kelleher has had plenty of experience as both player and coach and teaming together should bring out the best in each.

Assisting Kelleher is Fiori Goegan, well-known city athlete and mentor. Fiori is an ex-McFarland and his coaching experience ranges even beyond hockey and baseball. He is a valuable asset to the club.

The trainer is the first name that comes to your mind. None other than the popular Fred "Soapy" Smith, whose training ability is a household word in hockey as well as other sports.

"Soapy" has been around sports a long and for a while was known as the "Big M," of the city fire department's puck squad.

The business manager is the well-known city athlete, coach and all-round sportsman, Murray "Mo" Hunter. Mo doesn't need any introduction to baseball fans. He was the backbone of the ill-fated 1967 squad.

Other officials of the club are John Epperson, Ken Lessels and Gord. Campbell. These gentlemen will look after public address, tickets, statistics and publicity.

I understand there is a number of senior players available in the city and district — and these are expected to be signed with the club. Included are such baseball names as Ricky Locke, Bob Duffy Folliwell and Garry Geyer who will be here this summer.

Gymnastic exercises will be held at the Quinte Secondary School gymnasium each Monday night starting April 1st under the direction of Rick Locke.

Potential players, veterans and youngsters are invited to attend the workouts.

Tight Points Race — All Over Sunday

NHL: "The Lost Weekend" For Some!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings could give himself the league scoring title for a 40th birthday present as the National Hockey League winds up its schedule this weekend.

The Red Wings are dead ducks in the NHL's Eastern Division, but Howe could cap his 22nd season with the Wings by having a productive birthday party in Chicago Sunday.

Howe has 39 goals and 42 assists and is only three points behind Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks in the scoring race. Both have two games to play and the final game of the season has Detroit in Chicago—a perfect setting for the windup.

But there's a fly in the ointment for Detroit's perennial scoring leader. Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins also has 81 points and two games to play.

Howe, the only bright point in Detroit's dismal sixth-place finish this year, has won the Art Ross scoring trophy five times while Mikita has won it three times—the last in 1967 with a record-equalling 35 goals and 62 assists for 97 points.

This year, with two games to play, Mikita has 39 goals and 43 assists. But the Black Hawks have been slumping and dropped their last three games.

Tonight, the Hawks and Mikita visit Toronto to take on the Leafs.

Left winger Bobby Hull and goaltender Denis DeJordy will not play for the Hawks. Hull and DeJordy are nursing injuries and are being rested until the Stanley Cup playoffs begin nextweek.

Esposito, meanwhile, has 34 goals and 47 assists, and a chance to add to the total tonight in Montreal against the first-place Canadiens.

Sunday, the Bruins are at home to the fifth-place Maple Leafs.

"But the Leafs have a record of spoilers when they're down and out. And they proved that Wednesday night by lashing the Canadiens 6-0.

The other big contest this weekend is for the Vezina Trophy, but goaltenders Rogatien Vachon and Gump Worsley appear to have that wrapped up. They have allowed only 161 goals against in 72 games compared to 172 by Doug Favell and Bernie Parent of Philadelphia Flyers and 175 by Johnny Bower and Bruce Gamble of Toronto.

In other games today, Pittsburgh Penguins travel to Quebec City to take on the homeless Flyers in a do-or-die effort for the Penguins. They are in fifth place in the League's expansion Western Division with 63 points and two games to play.

St. Louis Blues hold down the fourth and last playoff spot with 65 points and two games to go. A St. Louis victory or a Pittsburgh defeat would mean curtains for the Penguins.

The Blues have home game today against the Minnesota North Stars and travel to Minnesota for a return match Sunday.

In the other game today, Los Angeles Kings visit Oakland to play the Seals in the last game of the season for both teams. But it's a zeal final for the troubled Seals—they are a distant sixth in the Western Division while the Kings have second place wrapped up.

Sunday, Montreal visits New York to take on the Rangers while Philadelphia is in Pittsburgh.

The only thing at stake during the weekend for the Rangers is protection of their second-place lead. They don't want to finish third and play the Canadiens in the first round of the Stanley Cup quarter-finals—last year they were eliminated in four straight games by Montreal.

If the weekend schedule goes as expected it will mean Boston against Montreal in the Stanley Cup quarter-finals while Chicago takes on New York.

Gordie Howe To Receive Four Trophies

DETROIT (AP) — Veteran hockey star Gordie Howe, who will be 40 years old Sunday, will be presented four trophies for his performance this season when Detroit Red Wings play their final home game today.

The Wings will be host to New York Rangers at Olympia Stadium in a National Hockey League contest.

Howe will receive the Bruce Norris trophy as the Wings' top player, the James D. Norris Memorial Trophy as the top goal scorer, the Detroit Hockey Writers Association trophy as the Most Valuable Player and the First Star Trophy as the top performer in home games.

Rochester Americans did what the biggest Toronto Maple Leafs couldn't do and clinched the American Hockey League championship Friday night.

While the Maple Leafs were finishing fifth in the Eastern Division of the National Hockey League, the Americans were clinching the title in the West-ern Division of the AHL with a 6-4 victory over Cleveland Barons.

Baltimore Clippers also downed Hershey Bears 4-2, and Quebec Aces dumped Buffalo Bisons 5-3 in other AHL games.

Who said Picton Merchants couldn't win on the road?

The boys from "Little Spain" needed an overtime period to turn the trick but came through with a 3-1 victory in Whitby last night.

Picton captured the OHA Intermediate "B" series four games to two with the clutch victory.

It was the first road win of the series for either club. The victory was Picton's second succession after Whitby had opened up a 2-1 series lead.

The Merchants will list for another away win Sunday when they open the Ontario semi-finals in Brimale. Game time is 2 p.m.

Last night's game was a hard-fought affair from start to finish with Picton goalie Tom O'Halloran turning in another superb performance. He allowed only two goals in the final three games.

Jacklin combined with Jim Guernsey and "Moe" Hunter for the opening goal around the three minute mark of the middle frame. Whitby's equalizer came in the period's dying minutes. Len Middleton intercepted a Picton pass and sent Tran flying in alone.

O'Halloran and Whitley goalie Bill Braiden turned back everything in the third to send it into overtime tied 1-1.

In the 10-minute overtime period, Reid bagged the winner at 2.15, assisted by Fred James, when his screened point shot nestled in a corner. Jacklin put it in wraps four minutes later with his second tally. Guernsey and Pat Asselstine drew assists on the play.

Angels Trounce Cubs

Mets Twist Tigers' Tail!

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Robinson finally got Baltimore Orioles off the floor and then landed flat on his back — leaving manager Hank Bauer in limbo for several anxious hours.

Robinson, the 1966 triple crown winner who was seriously injured last season in a baseline mishap, ran a collision course with team-mate Chico Fernandez Friday night as the Orioles bowed to Boston Red Sox 5-3 at Miami, Fla., for their fourth straight exhibition setback.

The Baltimore superstar, whose first inning homer ended a string of 30 innings during which the Orioles had scored just one unearned run, collided with shortstop Fernandez under a pop fly in the third and was forced to leave the game.

However, preliminary reports indicated Robinson was not hurt badly. He was treated with ice packs for a strained muscle of the lower back.

Pitcher Jose Santiago was the big man for the Red Sox, going the distance for a six hitter and socking a three-run homer.

Aurelio Rodriguez' triple keyed a nine-run ninth inning explosion as the Angels trounced Chicago Cubs 11-0 at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Homers by Ron Swoboda and Jerry Buchek in a six-run fifth-inning burst carried the Mets past Detroit Tigers 9-1 at Lakeland, Fla.

Ed Spiezio's two-run homer in the ninth capped a 17-hit St. Louis attack and gave Cardinals a 10-9 comeback victory over Atlanta at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Phoenix Makes Playoffs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Phoenix Roadrunners nailed down the Western Hockey League's last playoff berth Friday night by beating San Diego Gulls 4-2 while Vancouver Canucks were dumped 6-4 by Portland Buckaroos.

Smrke centres Danny Medard and Richard Barton. Other forwards are Scott James and Peter Molaski.

John Emerson, who took over when Tom Miller was transferred out of town, coaches the Kinsmen bantams.

The Kinsmen lineup consists of goalies Roger Lamorre and Bruce Clark, defencemen Peter Ackerman, Dale Cook, John Mulvihill and Dennis Cone, Rick Meagher centring for Cliff Jasitsch and Doug Jones, Danny Lupenette for David Smith and Mike Rollins, Phil Sirby for Mike Burley and Jim Richardson. Also available for duty are winger Rob Foster and defencemen John Brunner.

Peewees, Bantams' Big Test Tomorrow

To a couple of fine young hockey teams and their many supporters, Sunday, March 31, is shaping up as the most important day of the year.

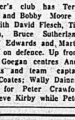
Memorial Arena is the scene of action and a large attendance is assured when the first of two games begins at 2.15.

The peewee game will be played first with the bantam contest to follow immediately.



Belleville minor hockey officials are confident that the Kinsmen and Fuelmen will come up with a championship or two, despite losing the benefit of home ice for second and third games of each series. They will be played in Wallaceburg next Saturday and, if necessary, on Sunday.

"If we can get the jump with a couple of wins here Sunday our clubs will be in good shape for next week-end," says one official, "but even if we should lose at home, these kids just never quit and they can come back to win on the road. Both teams have done it before."

Smith Fuels peewees are coached by "Moe" Hunter, who said earlier this week: "If we're not ready now, we never will be. We have no information on the Wallaceburg club but we expect a real battle!"

Hunter's club has Terry Marek and Bobby Moore in goal with David French, Tim Whelan, Bruce Sutherland, "Joey" Edwards and Martin Thiele on defence. Sky Frost, Grant Goegan centres Andy Ricketts and team captain Mark Coates; Wally Dainard pivots for Peter Crawford and Steve Kirby while Peter

Saskatchewan Senior Curling Champions; Set 10-0 Record

EDMONTON (CP) — Don Wilson of Saskatoon, who skipped his rink to victory in the Canadian seniors curling championships Friday, had to squeak through three close ones to establish a record 10 wins in as many games.

"We should have been beaten three times, but we made it," Wilson said after his Saskatchewan foursome downed Northern Ontario 10-3 in the eleventh and final round. The previous best showing in the four-year history of the event was Ontario's 9-1 record in 1966.

The three close games to which Wilson referred when he received the Seagram Stone at closing ceremonies were a 6-5 second-round win over New Brunswick, a 9-8 decision over Quebec in the fourth round and a 10-8 victory over Manitoba in the seventh round.

The Jim Duncan foursome from Virden, Man., took a bye in the final round to finish in second place with a 7-3 record. Quebec, British Columbia and New Brunswick were locked at third at 6-4.

Wilson and his mates—third Carson Tufts, second Ivan Mc-Millan and lead Reuben Lowe—counted three in the first end of their final match and never looked back.

In other eleventh-round games, Don Wright of Hudson, Que., lost 12-5 to Lawrence Carter of Amherst, N.S., whose 4-6 record left him in a seventh-place tie with Alberta and P.E.I. Sixth place went to Andy Grant of Unionville, Ont., with 5-5 finish.

Harold Mabey of Moncton, N.B., beat the winless Norman Rockwell rink from St. John's, Nfld., 12-10 and Harold Jordan of Kimberley, B.C., got Ontario to concede a 10-5 decision after eight of the regulation 10 ends.

Dr. Wendall MacDonald of Charlottetown beat the Alberta entry skipped by Bev Snyder 10-5. Ron MacLean of Sudbury, representing Northern Ontario, finished in next-to-last position with a 3-7 record.

Nova Scotia won four of its last five games after a disastrous 0-5 record in the first half of the tournament and gave Quebec a sound lacing in the final game, running up a 9-0 lead in the first four ends and capitalizing repeatedly as Wright gambled unsuccessfully in an effort to get back within reach.

In the 10th round Saskatchewan clinched the title by defeating Nova Scotia 12-8. Ontario nipped Manitoba 9-8, New Brunswick edged Northern Ontario 7-6, British Columbia beat P.E.I. 10-8 and Quebec whipped Alberta 9-5. Newfoundland had the bye.

Jacksonville Open
Balding Hugs Leaders With 66

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (CP) — Al Balding of Toronto was two strokes and two rounds away today from one of the biggest paydays in his professional career.

The Toronto golfer carded a six-under-par 66 Friday for a 135 total after 136 holes of the $100,000 Greater Jacksonville Open. New Balding has to hold his game together for the final 36 holes today and Sunday.

British golfers Peter Acklin and Doug Sanders led the pack after Friday's second round with 133 totals, 11 under par. But the two leaders were hard pressed by George Ian Huyot, who was one stroke back at 134.

"Jack helped me square up my stance," Palmer said Friday after shooting 65.

Nicklaus echoed Palmer's story and added his own: "After I showed him what he was doing wrong, he turned around and said I had the same trouble," Nicklaus reported. "I changed and it helped my game too."

Nicklaus had to take another drastic step to avoid elimination from the tourney at the halfway point.

"I decided to change my putting style on the last nine," he said. "It couldn't hurt anything. I did exactly the opposite of what I had been doing on my putting, and suddenly everything started to drop."

He was six-under-par 30 on the nine holes for a 36-hole score of 42. Those with 144 missed the cutoff.

Rangers Grab 2-1 Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Everything went wrong for coach Eddie Bush of Hamilton Red Wings Friday night.

Bush's Red Wings took a quick 2-0 lead against Kitchener Rangers in the first period of their semi-final playoff game in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, then fell completely apart.

The Rangers finished with a 6-2 triumph and took a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series. To make matters worse, Bush was ejected from the game early in the third period.

In the other semi-final, Niagara Falls Flyers downed Montreal Junior Canadiens 3-1 to even that series at one game each.

Goal Judge Admits Costly Goof

BOSTON (CP) — A National Hockey League goal judge admits he made a mistake Thursday night that might cost the Boston Bruins $500 a player — the difference between finishing second and third in the Eastern Division.

The judge, Bernie Bailey, said a newspaper picture shows that a shot taken by Phil Esposito against New York Rangers actually went into the net past goalie Ed Giacomin.

Bailey did not flash the light indicating the goal. He said he figured the puck had hit a post.

Aces Protest Upheld By League Prexy

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Quebec's protest against an ineligible Cleveland player in last Tuesday's 3-2 American Hockey League loss to Cleveland in Quebec City was upheld by league president Jack Butterfield after a lengthy hearing Friday.

Butterfield ordered that the result be wiped off the record and the game replayed in Quebec next Monday—if the outcome could have any effect on the final standings of the Western Division.

The regular schedule ends Sunday night.

Canadians Score Upsets

VICTORIA (CP) — Canadians scored upsets over foreign stars Friday night and moved into today's semi-finals of the Canadian open badminton championship.

Bruce Rollick of Vancouver stunned the most upset, eliminating Takaji Miyanaga of Japan in men's singles competition. Rollick had little trouble downing the leading, Japanese player 15-7, 15-3.

Rollick teamed with his wife Judy to score his second upset of the night by knocking out Helen Tibbets and Larry Saben of Los Angeles 15-9, 15-1. "The Los Angeles pair are rated the top U.S. doubles team while the Rollicks are fourth seeded in Canada.

Saben and partner Stan Hales of Los Angeles were upset in men's doubles play by Montreal's Yves Pare and Calgary's Jamie Paulson, Canadian closed champions, 15-5, 15-11.

Sangob Rattansaron of Thailand meets Rollick in the semifinal today after defeating Canadian closed champion Jamie Paulson 15-6, 15-11.

Famous Trainer Tim Daly Dies At 84

TORONTO (CP) — Tim Daly, 84, former trainer of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, died in hospital early Friday. He collapsed at his home Thursday night.

Daly, who retired as Leafs' trainer in 1960, also spent a season with Detroit Tigers of the American League and trained New York Giants during the 1912 World Series.

He attended Toronto's 6-0 victory over Montreal Canadiens Wednesday night.

Daly trained the baseball Leafs of the International League for 36 years and once held the Toronto boxing championship.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

BY BOB BLAIND

Our winter ice fishing is fast drawing to a close, most lakes being unsafe to travel.

The ice in the Bay of Quinte should be 90 per cent out by this weekend.

The Pike have been spawning for about a week now and Pickerel are the harbinger their annual spawning trip in the Salmon River.

I have been checking the Moira and they have not started running here yet.

I would make a bet that Sunday and Monday the smelt will be starting to run in the Moira.

The Pickerel fishermen then until Sunday evening to have one last fish until May 4th or 11th.

The American fishermen hit the Trent River to the town of Trenton yesterday to have their last try.

They have taken some very nice fish the last couple of days, jigging and fishing with minnows or worms.

Quite a number of stream fishermen have been trying their luck with the speckles but the water is till a little high for much success.

A week will make quite a difference as there is not much surface water on the land for much of a runoff.

The people are against the new fishing licence and the local representative of the people in the Ontario Government is also against this new law as it stands.

If you are against this new licence I would suggest you write a letter no later than this weekend and address it to Hon. Rene Brunell c/o Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario, and officially record your beef.

Have you noticed all the ducks and geese flying north the last few days? This is a couple of weeks early this year and it seems to be about the same, for all birds and fish.

Replace your fishing lines, check the guides on your rods and clean and oil all fishing reels.

Check your lures for broken, bent or dull, replace or sharpen.

Better check the boat and tent while you are at it and make all repairs now while you have the lull before you start fishing seriously.

Milk Support Price Raised to $4.85 on April 1

OTTAWA (CP) — Farmers will receive $4.85 a hundred weight for milk shipped to dairies, creameries and cheese factories, but will lose a bigger share to bolster export prices of skim milk powder.

The federal dairy policy for the 1968-69 year starting April 1 was announced Friday by Agriculture Minister Greene at a news conference.

Farm organization representatives who attended the meeting welcomed the 10-cent increase over the $4.75 support price paid in 1967-68, although their recent briefs to the federal government asked for $5 or more.

The $4.85 represents the manufacturer's-price plus a $1.31 federal subsidy. But the Canadian dairy commission will hold back 15 cents of the subsidy to support the price of skim milk powder exports. A large surplus of milk powder has resulted in low world prices."

Farmers will form separated cream, who do not contribute to the powder surplus, will only have a 3.5 cent holdback.

In the 1967-68 year both milk and cream shippers paid a uniform 11-cent holdback to support exports.

The result is that milk shipers receive an actual increase of six cents a hundredweight over last year while cream ship pers receive a 17.5 cent increase.

Market support prices for butter and skim milk powder remain the same as last year-60 cents a pound for top quality butter and 26 cents a pound for powder.

Mr. Greene announced that starting with the 1969-70 dairy year subsidy payments will be graded according to quality of milk and cream.

Defending the commission's decision to eliminate payments to farmers shipping less than 12,000 pounds of milk, or 420 pounds of butterfat, Mr. Greene noted 12,000 pounds was the production of two good cows.

The goal of the quota system was to eliminate the small producer and help the medium producer to increase his output.

Dairy farmers, who shipped milk for the first time last year, will be eligible for a subsidy quota, but subsidies will not be paid to operators starting in business this year.

The National Dairy Council commended the government for holding the line on butter prices.

Glen Cole, president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, said he was pleased that the government had recognized the principle of compensation to farmers being squeezed out of the dairy business and the recognition of quality as a basis for subsidy differentials.

Canadian Stock Markets Rally Paced by Oils, Banks, Papers

By FRITS ROOS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's stock markets rallied this week, reversing a general decline that brought Toronto's industrial average to its lowest level since early December, 1966.

Oils, banks and pulp and paper issues paced the advance as volume swelled from last week's lowest level so far this year.

Golds, relatively quiet for most of the week, were down fractionally following a steep plunge Friday.

Markets followed the trend in New York where the Dow-Jones industrial average first upswing by a report that financial institutions have plenty of cash waiting to be invested, jumped about 15 points.

Toronto analysts were in doubt whether the advance was the beginning of a hoped-for spring rally.

"We first need a significant breakthrough towards a settlement of the Vietnam war," one of them said.

They preferred to describe the week's gains as a technical rally in which investors moved briefly to snap up bargains created in a general decline.

Oils, which have jumped by an average of more than 26 per cent at Toronto since they hit all-time records in mid-January, were strong most of the week in active buying originating in New York.

Dome Pete headed the list unchanging 6% to 52. Husky gained 3% to 21¼, Canadian Superior and Great Plains 2½ each to 41 and 18, Worldwide Energy 1.25 to 4.00 and Central Del Rio Gas 1.15 to 6.85 on sales of 96,900 shares.

Scurry-Rainbow fell 1¼ to 29¾. During the week, the volatile stock touched a 1968 low of 26—less than half the year's high of 52¼.

Most active issue was American Leduc which picked up 13/16 to 19 cents in a turnover of 229,000 shares.

Pulp and paper stocks, depressed by major profit declines because of increasing U.S. production and hit hard in the markets' recent general slump, put in the best performance among Toronto's industrial groups this week.

MacMillan Bloedel rose 1¼ to 45¾, Abitibi ¾ to 21, Great Lakes Paper, whose annual report forecast lower earnings for this year, ¾ to 15¾. Domtar was the second most active industrial with sales of 76,000 shares.

Banks, showing signs of record high interest rates, also were strong. Royal and Canadian Imperial climbed 1¢ each to 34¼ and 33¼ and Toronto-Dominion ¾ to 23¾.

Premium Iron Ores soared 1.20 to 3.05 at the announcement that American Export Industries will make an offer on a share-exchange basis worth the equivalent of $5 for each Premium share.

Power Corp. was up ¼ to 7¾, and Trans-Canada Corp. Fund 1 point to 9 following the announcement that, subject to shareholders' approval, the two companies plan to merge.

International Utilities, which recently took over General Waterworks Corp. of Philadelphia, gained 2¼ to 37¼ after reporting increased annual earnings.

But CAE Industries, which announced a sharp cut in estimated annual earnings, fell 1¾ to 21¾.

Most active industrial was Revenue Properties which jumped 1¾ to 13¾ on sales of 71,000 shares. A company official said 1967 profits, to be announced next week, will be up.

Golds closed the week at Toronto with a 1.5-per-cent nose dive, bringing their average back since hitting record levels early this month to more than 22 per cent.

Observers felt the closing sell-off was caused by speculators' jitters about peace moves in Stockholm, Sweden, meeting of gold monetary authorities ending this week and the group's uncertainty about the effects of Monday's reopening of the London gold market.

The drop was preceded by slippage in bullion prices in Continental free gold markets.

Volatile Dome Mines again paced the decline, dropping 3½ to 52. Pacific Petroleum was most active stock on trade of 50,000 shares, fell 60 cents to 5.15.

Campbell Red Lake picked up ½ to 31½ in cautious trade totalling only 1,700 shares.

Base metals posted some modest gains. Rio Algom advanced ¼ to 21 and Denison Mines and Hollinger ½ each to 68 and 27. Pine Point was down 2¼ to 39.

Most active mine was Conjo which surged 24 cents to 72 cents on sales of 1,209,000 shares.

On index, Toronto's industrial rose 1.96 to 148.88, oils 9.05 to 175.04 and base metals .65 to 96.56. Golds slipped 7.76 to 1,201.84.

Volume was 15,281,000 shares compared with 10,141,000 the previous week. Advances outnumbered declines 422 to 250.

Montreal's composite index rallied 1.62 to 141.78 while advances outpaced declines 104 to 74 on sales of 4,891,000 shares from 4,464,000 last week.

Employment News

By J. R. Staveley,
Manpower Counsellor

It was encouraging to note that during the past week, no doubt stimulated by the mild spring weather, the labor demand increased in the construction trades. The additional requirements for female workers were light and confined generally to positions open in the services field.

The increase in construction activity appears to be centred around highway improvements, bridge construction, institutional and apartment buildings. The highlight of the week was the initial start by the contractor at the future Loyalist College campus in preparation for the construction of a temporary college building.

During the past few weeks parents of university undergraduates have been inquiring about local employment prospects for their sons and daughters from May to September. Indications are that it will be more difficult this year to obtain suitable local temporary work. These undergraduates would be well advised to explore and exhaust all employment leads at their university placement level prior to returning home.

In the female division there are openings for Grade 13 graduates at the head office of an insurance company. Those successful would be trained in various phases of life insurance head office operations. These positions carry excellent fringe benefits, regular salary increases and progressive training programs, including university extension courses on which the company pays 70 per cent of the tuition.

In a neighboring town there is an opportunity for a key punch operator who has experience in the operation of 029 and 059 machines. A career position is, as yet, unfilled at an industrial plant for a university graduate who has taken sociology courses and who also possesses personnel work experience. Other vacant positions are available as housekeepers and nursemaids. Finally there is a continuing shortage of registered nurses.

In the male division locally, chemical engineers, an electrical and a mechanical engineer are still being sought by local industrial plants. Another industrial plant is looking for 'a qualified plant maintenance mechanic. The requirements call for machine shop and welding experience. Some of the duties would include the repair of pumps and gear drives. Other industrial plants have openings for a wood pattern maker and a production foreman with mechanical experience. A large wholesale organization has a sales trainee position for someone who is interested in this type of business and who possesses some university education.

There are also opportunities to work in Northern Ontario as either surface or underground mine workers. No previous experience is required but the qualifications call for good physical condition with a weight restriction of at least 150 lbs.

If interested in any of these positions, seeking other employment or thinking of entering the labor market, contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 324 Church Street, Belleville.

Thousands of Dollars Unclaimed in Banks

OTTAWA (CP) — Kale King of New Denver, B.C., has until Dec. 31 to claim the $21,000 she has on deposit at the Bank of Montreal there.

After that time, she'll have to unravel some red tape to get her money.

The same goes for the $9,342 Oscar Thuot of St. Jean, Que., has on deposit at the Banque Canadienne Nationale in St. Jean. And for the $4,099 Frederick A. Coplston has in the King and Bay street branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in Toronto.

These sums are included in the hundreds of thousands of dollars lying unclaimed. By the end of this year, all will go to the Bank of Canada. The rightful owners may claim their money there, subject to provisions of the Bank Act.

A special edition for the Canada Gazette for March 30 lists all accounts of $10 or more which have been lying untouched in branches of the chartered banks and the Quebec Savings Bank for the last nine years.

The edition lists roughly 10,000 names of persons who for some reason or another left their money in the banks since 1958.

Newfoundland Economy Has Paused to Breathe

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland's economy, racing to catch up with the rest of Canada since Confederation in 1949, now must pause to catch its breath, Finance Minister James McGrath said Friday in his 1968-69 budget speech.

He hasted to reassure taxpayers a new $20,000,000 tax increase and other austerity measures for the coming year. Payment begins officially Monday but some of it will have to be collected retroactively after the new taxes are approved by the legislature.

Besides increases in the provincial sales tax, corporation tax and taxes on liquor, beer, tobacco, gasoline and insurance premiums, the government is being forced to radically water down its financial aid to the student body of Memorial University, a pet project of Premier Joseph Smallwood.

Students on the young, fast-growing campus of the only degree-granting institution in the province have received government-paid tuition since September, 1966. Many also have received government allowances of $50 and $100 monthly.

These would not be paid from now on unless a means test showed a student essentially had to attend Memorial.

An increase of five cents a gallon in the gasoline tax to 25 cents will bring the per-package price of regular grade gasoline here to 56.9 cents a gallon and raise the premium grade to 61.9 cents.

Federal Deficit Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal treasury ran a $125,300,000 budgetary deficit in February, compared with a deficit of $71,300,000 in February last year, the finance department reported Friday.

For the first 11 months of the fiscal year now closing, there was a deficit of $266,500,000 compared with a surplus of $63,300,000 at the end of the first 11 months of the 1966-67 fiscal year.

The 11-month figure, however, cannot be taken to indicate the size of the deficit at the end of the year. Some bookkeeping entries are made at the year-end which can change the picture, officials said.

Revenues were $637,600,000 in February, bringing the total to $8,116,002,000 for 11 months. Expenditures in February totalled $782,900,000, bringing the total for the fiscal year to date to $8,382,500,000.

Accident Compensation System Said Obsolete

TORONTO (CP) — John White (PC — London South) offered with two opposition members in the legislature Friday that the present compensation system for accident victims in Ontario is obsolete.

"A better system of compensation will have to be found by the industry preferably or failing that, by the government," said the former chief government whip.

Mr. White said two Harvard University professors have put forward a practical system under which limited benefits are paid to all accident victims without the necessity of court action to determine and apportion fault.

He said that under the system all motorists would be required to carry a basic insurance policy which in the event of an accident would immediately compensate victims up to a maximum of perhaps $5,000. If the individual did not feel the amount was enough, he could then launch legal action.

He made the suggestion as the house debated resolutions proposed by James Bullbrook (L—Sarnia) and Fred Young (NDP—Toronto Yorkview) calling for introduction of a system of car insurance "based on the principle of compensation without fault."

Mr. Young cited a case in which a driver was convicted and pany paid out $54 for a claim. The following year the man's insurance fee had gone up to $154 from $93.

"This is not insurance," he said. "It is a loan fund.

Land Speculation May Be Curbed
TORONTO (CP) — The federal government may act to curb land speculation if it seriously hampers housing construction, Treasury Board President Benson said Friday.
He said land developers enjoy monopolies that permit them to increase returns "far beyond what is just."
"I refer specifically to the speculator who buys parcels of land, and without any intention of improving the property, demands the maximum returns the market will bear."
The federal minister responsible for housing policy addressed a meeting of the annual meeting of the Urban Development Institute.
He said both public and private sources of money for urban development, including housing, are being strained close to their limit. Greater economies in methods, time and money are "urgently needed."
Mr. Benson sharply criticized municipalities who are refusing to accept the principles of the national building code.
The code, is a scientifically-based, constantly-revised series of building requirements designed to make construction easier and cheaper without loss of quality.

NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville proposes at its first regular meeting to be held on the 15th day of April, 1968 to pass a By-law to stop up and close up that part of the Road Allowance between Lots 2 and 3 in Concession II of the Township of Thurlow, now in the City of Belleville, more particularly described as follows:

COMMENCING at a survey post planted at the intersection of the limit of the King's Highway Number 401 and the limit of the said northwest limit of University Avenue;

THENCE North 19 degrees 13 minutes West along the said limit of the King's Highway Number 401, a distance of 380.50 feet;

THENCE North 70 degrees 47 minutes East a distance of 66.00 feet to the said limit of University Avenue;

THENCE South 19 degrees 13 minutes East along the said northwest limit of University Avenue, a distance of 107.80 feet to the said point of commencement.

THENCE North 19 degrees 13 minutes West along the said east limit of the Road Allowance between Lots 2 and 3, a distance of 407.56 feet to the intersection of the said limit of the King's Highway Number 401 and the said east limit of the said Registry Office as Number 21;

THENCE South 19 degrees 30 minutes West along the said east limit of the Registry Office as Number 21, a distance of 40.73 feet to a corner;

THENCE North 70 degrees 30 minutes East along the said northwest limit of University Avenue, a distance of 107.80 feet to the said point of commencement.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that the said Council proposes at the same time to pass a By-law authorizing the sale and conveyance of the lands set out in the said Road Allowance to the abutting owners at a price to be fixed by it, or at the option of the owners of the lands abutting the said parcel of purchase within 30 days of the passing of the by-law, to the owner of any other lands or persons at the same or a greater price.

The Council will hear in person, or by counsel, solicitor or agent, or agent, any person who claims his or her lands will be prejudicially affected by the by-law and who applies to be heard.

Any person may within ten days after the first publication hereof, make or may be examined at the office of the Clerk of the City of Belleville, at the City Hall.

Dated at Belleville, Ontario this 13th day of March, 1968.

F. Colin Campbell, Esq., Q.C., Barrister, etc.,
310 Pinnacle Street,

Heavy Drinking Raises Eye Pressure

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: I am told that I have a pre-glaucoma condition but that with the exception of checkups there is nothing I can do to prevent the condition from getting worse.

However, a recent test revealed that something was abnormal after I drank a quart of water.

Is there something like that I can do to help my condition — like drinking very little of any liquids? Would diuretic drugs be of use? — A. R.

One of the tests for glaucoma is to measure the rise in pressure in the eyes after the patient has drunk a quart of water in a few minutes.

This does not mean that you should deprive yourself of fluids, since a healthy body needs fluid. Rather, the implication is that you can help yourself by avoiding any large volume of fluids late in the day and especially in the evening. That is because at that part of the day eye pressure tends to be higher.

While diuretic drugs sometimes are used in glaucoma cases, I would doubt, from what you tell me, that they would be beneficial in your case.

There is little else one can do (by yourself, that is) to forestall glaucoma. However, if ultimately drops are prescribed in your case, they will keep the pressure under control. You should have the eye pressure checked periodically.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: A close relative is diabetic. He persists in using honey instead of saccharine for sweetening, as recommended in his diet, arguing that the bee has done to the nectar all that sugets require the liver to do. Your advice would be greatly appreciated. — T. J. C.

That treatment is very much confused. Regardless of what the bee does to the nectar, the honey contains sugar. His liver has nothing to do with the situation.

Saccharine is used in dietetic diets because it sweetens things but contains no sugar. A diabetic cannot utilize sugar normally, so excess sugar accumulates in the blood. Whether the sugar is eaten in the form of honey, cane sugar or any other form of carbohydrate, the diabetic must limit the amount to prevent too high a sugar level from developing.

In other words, your relative should stop using honey. He is making no sense at all with his argument about the bees.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend claims that milk is a deadly poison for adults, that it is high in cholesterol, and because hear attacks. True?

He also says a link exists between eggs and cancer, because of some commercial food the chickens are fed. Any truth to that? — H. K.

If milk were a "deadly poison," a lot of healthy people would be dead. The story is obviously nonsense.

Same for the eggs. There are many important things that need attention without falling for these pipe dreams.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I am always anemic. Could you list foods high in iron content? Cookbooks don't give many. — Mrs. R. F. N.

Foods rich in iron are meats legumes (beans and peas), green leafy vegetables, eggs, cereals. Highest iron content is in liver; oysters also are very high.

Depending on the type of your anemia, medicinal iron may be needed in addition, but certainly the cause of the anemia should be sought and treated. Excessive menstrual blood loss and steady, although perhaps small, losses from bleeding hemorrhoids are common factors.

• • •

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

National Guard Rifles Enforce Memphis Peace

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — National Guard rifles enforced peace in Memphis today but protests on behalf of the city's striking garbage collectors continue.

Only minor incidents occurred Friday night under a rigid curfew, and the presence of police and guardsmen, on patrol since a protest march turned into a riot Thursday, was the only sign of life on most streets.

The protests continued but on a smaller scale than the march of 6,000 which shattered into violence and brought one death, injury to 60 and 300 arrests.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., civil rights leader who has called the strike a fight for "economic equality" for Negroes, and who led the Thursday demonstration, left Memphis Friday but promised to return and stage another one next week. Ninety-eight per cent of the strikers are Negroes.

Another rally is expected today on the order of a march Friday by 600 strikers and sympathizers.

Because of the rioting and the curfew and anxiety which have followed, business in the normally bustling downtown shopping district of this city of, 700,000 has been curtailed severely.

Soldiers and steel-tracked armored vehicles took the place of what normally would have been

Saturday shoppers, swelled in number by one of year by residents of the surrounding counties.

Liquor sales have been stopped throughout Memphis and Shelby County and in neighboring Desoto County, Miss., and Crittenden County, Ark.

Historic Beale Street, which bore the brunt of the rioting, was a plywood-front wasteland by the blocks, and troopers allowed no traffic through the area. Beale Street was where blues music was born.

The 48-day-old garbage strike over union recognition, higher wages and payroll deduction of union dues remained far from settlement despite four closed-door sessions of the city council.

Pierre Salinger Wants to Be TV Star if He Can Find Time

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The man who has been a presidential press secretary, a senator, vice-president of an airline and co-owner of a Hollywood discotheque says he wants to be a television star—if he can find the time.

Pierre Salinger, a chubby, cigar-chomping, perpetual motion machine who grew up in Toronto, previews his new television series this April with a one-hour special syndicated to independent stations. With Salinger.

The show will not begin regular weekly airing until next September.

That's fine with Salinger who doesn't seem to find enough hours in each day anyway.

On a recent afternoon he did not appear at his office for an interview. Tracked down at the campaign headquarters of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, Salinger was dashing from empty room to empty room supervising the arrangement of furniture.

Phones rang constantly. A woman campaign worker would announce a name, and Salinger would shake his head negatively or affirmatively depending on the caller.

At one point he eagerly grabbed the receiver. "Mr. Namara!" he said. "Sure I'm back in harness. After all, does a dog eat dog food?"

The return to public life began early this year when Salinger took a leave of absence from his vice-presidency at Continental Airlines. His plan was to concentrate on the new television show and to write a political novel.

Then Kennedy decided to seek the Democratic presidential nomination and enlisted the aid of the late President John F. Kennedy's press secretary.

"I'm trying to Washington now to concentrate on the campaign," Salinger said@ "My publisher has given me another year to finish the novel."

The show's format, he explained, will be "a balance of serious discussion of today's issues with Americans and people abroad and a look at the world through satire . . . a serious show laced with entertainment."

The first hour, to be aired on various local channels across the U.S., features interviews with New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, baseball great Jackie Robinson and presidential aide John Roche. There is also satire presented by The Open Position Party, an improvisation al group.

In the future I hope to interview Fidel Castro, Gamal Abdel Nasser, Harold Wilson and other world figures," said Salinger.

He still maintains an interest in the Factory, a members-only Hollywood discotheque.

"I hope that things like the Factory will be making some money while I'm busy in Washington," Salinger said.

Man Is Given Life Sentence In One-minute Closed Hearing

LONDON (CP) — Some British newspapers expressed concern Friday at the way Britain's new law on reporting court evidence prevented publication of material in a case in which a man was sentenced to life for murder after a one-minute court session.

A legal expert said that the law, or court practice, undoubtedly will be changed to prevent a repetition.

The case is that of Valentine Sokol, 43, of Huddersfield, who pleaded guilty to murdering Mrs. Eileen Rawlins, 30, on June 9. He was sentenced at Leeds Assizes Thursday.

Under a new Criminal Justice Act that came into effect Jan. 1, newspapers are restricted about publishing evidence taken at preliminary hearings. Details may be published only: if the defendant asks for, or after his trial in higher court if a trial is ordered.

In Sokol's case, he did not opt for publicity. No evidence was taken at his preliminary hearing because the magistrate exercised an option to send him to the Assizes on the basis of written statements not read in open court.

At the brief higher court sentencing proceedings no facts were brought out because the judge had no alternative but to apply a life sentence.

Experts said the conjunction of guilty plea in murder and the magistrate's option against taking evidence uncovered an anomaly that the drafters of the act had not taken into account.

The Daily Express comments it is "inconceivable" that a man should be sentenced for murder in Britain without evidence being revealed to the public.

The Times said the public interest can hardly be satisfied when a man is convicted of murder without the security of publicity, even though it would not suggest there was a miscarriage of justice.

The Sun said it was "disquieting and unprecedented that anyone can be sentenced to life imprisonment for murder without one word of evidence being available to the public."

Seton Pollock, secretary of the contentious court business committee of Britain's Law Society, said in an interview Wednesday that it had not been intended that the new law would work as it did in the Sokol case.

German Reds Fear Freedom

BERLIN (AP) — The East German government stands to lose more than any other East bloc regime in the liberalization drive sweeping Czechoslovakia.

East Germany's awareness of its dilemma is reflected in the open discord that has erupted between it and the Czech government, unprecedented in Communist bloc relations.

Czech Foreign Minister Vaclav David summoned East Germany's ambassador to relay Prague's objections to a speech by Kurt Hager, a member of the East German Communist party's politburo.

Hager had publicly criticized Prague's drive for "socialistic democratization" as playing into the hands of West Germany attempts to split the Communist camp.

In 20 years in power, the East German government, headed by Walter Ulbricht, has developed full diplomatic relations only with fellow Communist governments.

The East German Communists have staked their political life on absolute solidarity with the Soviet Union. Their economy remains rigidly tied to the Soviet scheme of things.

Czechoslovakia, as East Germany's immediate southern neighbor could rock the East German system.

Should the Czechs, for example, gain a real measure of economic independence that would speed their development, the contrast between Eastern and Western orientation for the East German population would become sharper than ever.

Although the East Germans have the highest living standard in the bloc, they are continually reminded of their shortcomings by comparison to their fellow Germans to the west.

Should the Czechs allow their people liberal travel in the West, East Germans-especially the young and ambitious-would ask, "Why can't we go, too?"

East Berlin informants say the East German Czech feud, dramatic as it is, apparently is the top of an iceberg of difficult relations that has been there for some time.

Asked why attitudes within the bloc now put East Germany now seem to be taking diverse paths, an East European diplomat observed: "We are all concerned with the German problem, some more so, others less, depending in part on how things went in the war and in part on geography. The ones who are most concerned with the German problem, however, are the Germans here in East Berlin."

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For March 31

Your birthday today: Personal power is in store for you. The coming year is one of serious, dedicated effort to improve your skills and status. The most likely direction is into self-taught competence in areas not covered in the schools. Today's natives tend toward industrial power or mass manufacture of consumer goods. At lower levels they direct public services and supervise building projects.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Follow your intuition wherever it leads you today. Understanding is favored. You owe it to yourself to spend some time making sure your finances are in good order.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Quiet self-expression is very satisfying today. Be yourself, without guile or pretense. Go to your church. Share in social activities.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Stay out in the open air where you can see you today and tonight. Do your share of community activities. Any effort at a moment of privacy will surely be misunderstood.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Be a gracious guest today wherever you are invited. If your responsibilities interfere, entertain when your chores are finished. Retire early.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Aspects tend to favor a conservative approach today. Be alert to the needs of other people, attend to your social and community duties. In good order. Accept an invitation or see a good show tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Long journeys and the planning for travel are favored today. Include your mood and see where it leads — you might be surprised, both at what you find yourself doing and what significance it takes on later. Relax.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Today is good for everything except drinking. Attend church. Then get busy with the details of your home and its accounts. Find where you are spending too much, and resolve to economize there.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Draw back a little from the front line and let other people talk and decide. Listen to your mate. Visit with friends in the afternoon and evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22—Dec. 21): Family fun is the great thing for today. Do something that you cannot do during the week. You have everything going for you now, so live it up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): This is not the day to make important decisions on financial matters or family property settlements. Let well enough alone for the time being. New information gained during the day may be important later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Take your part in community activities today. Then stay near home and let your friends and relatives come to you. Constructive changes in family arrangements may have their beginnings today.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Your intuition today is aroused and if you follow it fully, the indications will be constructive. Long-standing relationships may be clarified. Be sociable, give others a chance to meet you halfway.

For April 1

Your birthday today: The year ahead promises you expanded opportunity for self-expression, but at considerable cost in savings and sacrifice of long range security. New sources of income turn out to be significant. The employment situation for the year is probably critical, but business routine and chores that seem never completed. Today's natives include many child prodigies.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your inner peace of mind may not be outwardly visible today. Your work presents an appearance of utter chaos. Avoid any risk with other people's money or property.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Today's storms are centred mainly in your political and group enterprises. Saving your personal life relatively calm. Keep actions to a minimum today and plan tomorrow's deal.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Any political opinion you offer today will get you an argument. You can make real progress today in business and social life. Give Cupid a chance.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Intellectual curiosity may lead you far afield today. New and intriguing facts come to view, along with much doubtful information. Check it out carefully.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Claim everything that is coming to you today. Do something nice for someone who had don't do it on credit. There is no short-cut today in business or society; play it straight.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): If you can take your attention off the newspapers today, you should notice your own personal affairs are doing rather well, and likely to improve a bit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): This is a very good day to tend your own business and credit rating. Give thought to how you are treating your physical body. Resolve to correct bad habits. Stay out of crowds.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Make sure your mate knows what you are doing, and put in a solid push for your own future today. Avoid involvement in crowds and mass activity. When the scene is not so full, you will count for more.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Production tends to suffer today while you and your associates talk over controversial details, politics. The morning is hard to recover. Try to make up for it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Travel tends to be difficult or delayed today. Stay home if possible, and let the world try reaching you for a change. There are details at home that need reorganizing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Any obligation you can settle today should be attended early. The temptation to postpone payment and indulge in further credit is not favored.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Almost any discussion today is likely to deteriorate into bitter argument. Save your political views until you have a more favorable time to speak them. Reschedule your travels to avoid crowds and traffic.
